Another Important Monetary Recommendation Is Made To Congress By U.S. President

Nationalization of Entire Supply of Yellow Metal in Country Urged by Chief Executive—Leaving Silver Alone For Time Being at Least

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 15: (CP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a special message to Congress today, recommended a minimum cut of forty percent in the gold content of the dollar and asked for nationalization of the entire gold supply of the country. Because of "world uncertainties," the president refrained from fixing the exact status for the dollar at this time, but he made it clear that he was holding to his "commodity plan."

WEDDING IS ELABORATE

St. Andrew's Cathedral, Scene of Marriage of Miss Amelia Gurvich and Edward Olsen

One of the prettiest and most elaborate marriage ceremonies to be solemnized in Prince Rupert in some considerable time took place at 3:30 yesterday afternoon in St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral. Very Rev. James B. Gibson, the dean, officiating, when Miss Amelia Marguerite Gurvich, elder daughter of the late Nick Gurvich and Mrs. Christine Gurvich, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Edward Ludvik Olsen, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Olsen of Vestnes, Norway. The congregation assembled was so large as to completely tax the capacity of the spacious cathedral, forcing many to stand in the aisles and elsewhere.

The chancel and church were decorated with chrysanthemums and white satin streamers and the nuptial ceremony was performed under a wedding bell in a beautiful floral arch.

The bride, who entered the church to the strains of the Wedding March from "Lohengrin" played on the pipe organ by Peter Lien, upon the arm of her eldest brother, John Gurvich, by whom she was given in marriage, was graceful and stately in a lovely wedding dress of white crepe back satin, imported and designed by Madame Annette. The gown was made on long Princess lines with draped cowl neckline and wide elbow length sleeves with which were worn white kid gloves. The bride's long flowing white embroidered Chantilla net veil was held in place with a Juliet cap made with tiny orange blossoms. The bride's bouquet consisted of large white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Dorothy Ballinger, as maid of honor, and Miss Nellie Gurvich, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, were lovely indeed in their gowns made identically alike also on long Princess lines with dainty jaquettes to match on which were fashioned the new sleeves of tiny ruffles from shoulder to elbow. The former chose pale blue taffeta and the latter pale yellow, with picture hats, gloves and shoes to match. Their bouquets were of pale pink Laddie carnations.

Boyo Gurvich, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer and carried the ring on a white satin cushion. He wore black knickers and white blouse in Little Lord Fauntleroy style.

The flower girl was little Mary Bill and the veil was carried by little Helen Wicks. They were very sweet indeed in ruffled dresses of white silk flat crepe fashioned alike with silver headdress.

The groomsmen were Fred Wick. During the signing of the register, J. A. Teng sang "Because," accompanied by Peter Lien.

Ushers were Frank Fitzpatrick and Jack Mussallem.

Reception Is Held
After the wedding ceremony a large wedding dinner and reception were held at the home of the bride's mother at 622 Fraser Street where over two hundred guests called to bestow their best wishes on the bride and groom. The couple stood under a huge white wedding bell and floral arch to receive the guests. The bride was showered with flowers and petals as a tape was released.

Art Easson and Wife in Toronto

Tells of Severe Winter Weather in Eastern City In Writing To Local Friend

Writing to a local friend, A. A. Easson, formerly of this city, who, with Mrs. Easson and son, is at present in Toronto, tells of experiencing twenty-six below zero weather recently in the eastern city. Mrs. Easson went downtown to do some shopping and had her fingers "nipped." Wind, rain and all, the Eassons agree that they would much rather have Prince Rupert winters than those of Toronto which has been having the coldest weather in sixty-two years.

Mr. Easson recently met Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stork in Toronto. They were on their way from Buffalo, where they now reside, to Brampton, Ontario, for a visit with Doug's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stork. Doug said that he liked Buffalo but there must prefer to live on the Pacific Coast.

SEES A WORLD UNION

The Marquis of Lothian, writing in the first number of a new magazine section of the Christian Science Monitor on the subject of "Recovery," visions a world union something similar to the union of the United States. He admits that the high hopes of a new era have at least temporarily been disappointed. The fact that thirty million men who are willing to work have been unable to secure employment he blames largely on new and higher tariffs, subsidies, war debts and reparations and unsound financial policies, all of which have hindered the adjustment of supply and demand. But these conditions he sees as by no means unprecedented. Looking back over the long perspective of history he sees the rise and fall of civilizations. Those that went down did so as a result of conquest from without or disillusionment and decay from within. One notable exception has been that of the Jews, whose race has so far proven imperishable because they kept a grasp on the principles taught by Moses. So the Christian world, though it has fallen away from the teaching of a greater than Moses, has also kept some grasp of the still profounder truth which Jesus taught.

The Marquis sees anarchy among the nations of the world which is at the root of the renewed threat of war and the economic depression. The central problem of the world today is fundamentally the same as that which confronted the independent American states in 1781—how to escape the wars and poverty which are the inexorable consequences of anarchy. Reckoned in terms of time and space, the whole world today is smaller than were the thirteen states that first formed the American Union. Nations are jostling each other today just as badly as were the states a century and a half ago. As long as they remained disunited they had to rely upon armaments for security. So as long as there is anarchy among the nations of the world, there is danger of war.

Touching on the economic phase, the writer says that, instead of the nations exchanging things with each other, they are trying to sell the same articles at the same time in the same world market. The appeal of selfishness, greed, fear, hate and dishonesty has prevailed with men and nations, leading over and over again to inevitable downfall. Materialistic propaganda and mass suggestion he blames for the poor progress that has been made and he points to Italy, Germany and Russia as examples. The teaching of the founder of Christianity he sees as visioning a single family of nations, united and serving each other, thus securing unity, prosperity, freedom and peace.

TALES OF TRAPPERS

Strange Stories Are Told By Indians of Kispix

(By Anna May Ullman)

HAZELTON, Jan. 15.—The Kispix Indians have all come out from their trapping grounds with strange tales to tell about each fur of their season's catch. One trapper proudly relates as he exhibits a black bear skin to the fur trader, that he accidentally caught the bear in a trap that was set for a coyote. Another says that the weasel skin which the trader refused had been chewed full of holes by another weasel which found its mate in the trap. Another tells what he did to a raven which got itself caught in one of his traps—maybe he picked all the feathers off the bird and turned it loose, or threw it down so hard that he dashed its brains out. Still another tells of a marten in a trap which had its fur ruined by mice and a wolverine he nearly caught.

An Indian told me about another trapper who was going over his trap-line when a distinctly unpleasant odor came to him on the wind. Around a bend in the trail, he and his dog saw a skunk in the distance in one of the traps. Even the trapper's dog was disgusted. The trapper couldn't get close enough to the skunk to shoot it so he and the dog gave the animal a wide berth and they continued their tour of inspection on the trapline. A few days later they came back on their way south. The skunk was still alive so they went on to the next cabin on their trap-line. When they came up next trip, skunk had starved to death and was frozen stiff. So the trapper took it out of the trap and hoped that he would never catch another such animal.

One Indian, on the way out from his trapping grounds last year, let all his dogs starve to death. He had the reputation of not feeding his dogs from the time he left Kispix until he got up into the caribou country two or three weeks later. Some one said of him, "He's so crooked that he has to screw his sox on."

The bride's table was centered with a five-tier wedding cake a wedding gift of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Biggart and A. Donald and was flanked by candles in silver candleabra and was placed on a large silver mirror.

Later a dance was held, the music being by Robert Reid, William Stuart and Julius Welle. There was a buffet supper at midnight, the servers being Miss Mary Kurolock, Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald and Mrs. James Sim. Mrs. A. C. Bartlett cut the ices. J. A. Teng sang "Sunrise and You" and "For You Alone," accompanied by Miss Dorothy Hogan.

For the occasion, the bride's mother wore a gown of grey and black Salome velvet with hat to match and her corsage bouquet consisted of sweetheart roses and baby chrysanthemums.

Numerous and beautiful wedding gifts testified to the popularity of the bride and groom who will make their home in the Exchange Block, Third Avenue.

The bride has lived here since early girlhood. The groom is a half-breed fisherman.

Church Army, United Church and Salvation Army Held Concerts At Metlakatla

Several delightful concerts and entertainments, as usual, brightened the Yuletide season this year at the neighboring village of Metlakatla, the native population entering fully into the spirit of the occasion. Among the organizations which held such concerts were the Church Army, St. Paul's United Church choir and the Salvation Army. There were large gatherings at each of the entertainments.

William A. Leask was chairman of the Church Army concert and William Leighton leader. The proceedings opened with the singing of the hymn "Blest be the Tie That Binds" after which there was prayer by Mr. Nelson followed by a period of one minute's silence in honor of the memory of departed friends. After singing of the hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past," H. Clifton led in another prayer and a series of magic lantern slides depicting events in connection with the Nativity was shown with descriptions by P. Haldane. Envoy Clifton, W. Louth, H. Prevost, W. J. Robinson, G. S. Leighton, Peter Leighton, W. M. Leighton and E. A. Leighton. Other items on the program included the vocal duet, "Silent Night," by Misses Charlotte Prevost and Clara Leighton; duet by Mrs. Florence Leask and Mrs. Lily Ryan; duet, "Star of the East," by Mrs. E. ### Twenty Years Ago In Prince Rupert

January 15, 1934

A local syndicate headed by N. J. McLeod has secured a granite quarry on Smith Island and is about to put in a plant for the production of crushed granite and sand as well as dimension rock and pressed brick for local building purposes. The product is expected to be available on the local market in the near future.

Frank A. Ellis has returned to the city after conducting an auction sale of a townsite at Prince George. Mr. Ellis reports that the sale was a lively one, resulting in $100,000 being taken in within ten days. Municipal improvements are being made and buildings are already starting to go up on George Street.

Provincial Chief of Police Walter Owen is back in the city after quelling another disturbance at Kitwanooc among Indians who objected at the entry of surveyors into their valley. Last week there was a riot and threats of shooting but, as a result of the efforts of Chief Owen, order was restored and the surveyors are at work. The Indians have never had the boundaries of their village fixed and have been fearful lest the white men encroach upon them.

Broadway Hit, Movie Comedy, Has Big Cast

"Three-Cornered Moon," sensational comedy hit of the New York stage, comes to the Capitol Theatre here the first of this week as a talking picture with Claudette Colbert, Richard Arlen and Mary Boland in the starring roles.

"Three-Cornered Moon" tells all about a typical American family, idle and wealthy, which is suddenly impoverished by the depression. The cavorting of this madcap family keeps the story on a high plane of rollicking comedy.

From the flighty, widowed mother who invested the family fortune in a nice "metal" mine because a pleasant gentleman was very enthusiastic about it, down to her youngest son, the Rimpiegars of Brooklyn are a very odd assortment gathered under one roof.

In addition to the three stars, this picture boasts a supporting cast including Wallace Ford, Lyda Roberti, Joan Marsh, Tom Brown, William Bakewell and Hardie Albright.

A museum has been opened in Berlin to show the implements and methods used by smugglers.
