Roosevelt Signs Gold Bill

Another page was written into history when Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States, sig ea the gold bill (also known as the dollar devaluation bill) on his 52nd birthday. "This is the nicest birthday present I ever had," remarked the president. The law now gives the United States title to $4,029,100,000 in gold. A day later, Roosevelt announced that the United States' dollar had been devaluated to 59.06 cents. All of which is very nice, so far, for Canada, inasmuch as Canadian gold stocks have soared to high levels, holding their gain through profit-taking.

The United States made a "profit" of $2,770,000,000 on the "new deal" while Canada and other nations wonder what to do next.

After a sumptuous lunch we set out with him to see the farm.

Dr. Tolmie knows his farm, his stock and everything The standing of teams to date in bye that grows. He knows how much milk each cow gives and the Prince Rupert Bridge League is why she is a good milker. He can explain the pedigree of as follows: any cow or calf or sheep or pig and tell why it is better than any other. He explains how the non-productive stock are weeded out and replaced not only by well bred stock but by such individual cattle, sheep or pigs as will c pay the owner to keep them.

On the farm Dr. Tolmie was at home. He belonged there rather than in political life. He entertained us for several hours and enlarged our knowledge of farming, temporarily at any rate. He showed us experimental plots of alfalfa, some of which had been treated with inoculated soil from some other fertile plot, the untreated land being almost barren and the other bearing a large crop.

Now the farm is to be cut up into small holdings and sold to suburban gardeners. It seems a pity that the genial owner could not have stayed with the farm instead of being lured away to be buffeted on the wild seas of political life. The difficulties of the farm he knew but the wiles of the politicians he was not fitted by education or by nature to meet. He will now turn over the land to men who know little about it and its possibilities and in a few years it will be as ill-managed as was the provincial cabinet under the former premier. Many regretted to see the Doctor leave his farm for politics and they will regret just as much the passing of the farm into many amateur hands after a long period of scientific cultivation.
