SURVEYS ARE COMPLETED OF GREAT INLAND SEA

Government Steamer Newington and Hydraulic Survey Party do Good Work—Will Mean Opening up of the Lumber and Coal Areas of Graham Island for Commerce.

In a few weeks the great salt lake which runs for nearly forty miles into the heart of Graham Island will be open for navigation. The Government steamer Newington has recently completed a thorough survey of the great lake, and the results of her work are now embodied in a chart. This chart shows that deep water exists practically all over the great inland sea at the Queen Charlottes deep enough at all stages of the tide for great steamships to safely navigate. The charts will soon be issued from the Dominion Government Press. A proof has already been forwarded for final checking and inspection. When the chart is issued it will mean a great deal for that Island. The present vessels are practically forbidden to enter the inland sea owing to the action of Lloyds who refuse to carry insurance on any vessel that passes Masset in the Inlet. Now that the Government charts are completed Lloyds will rescind the order, and now vessels to navigate the Inlet without cancelling their insurance. With vessels navigating the great inland lake, it will be possible to carry supplies to settlers, lum-

BOUGHT BATTLE ON STREET

Italian Killed and One Mortally Wounded on Vancouver Street Last Night.

(Canadian Press Despatch) Vancouver, Aug. 7.—As the result of an exciting revolver duel believed to be the result of a long-standing vendetta, Romeo Rosco was shot dead last night and Antonio Montito now lies in the hospital dangerously wounded with a bullet in his neck near the spinal cord. The shooting took place last night at the corner of Main and Harris streets. Both the dead and wounded men are Italians, and the man who shot them is also an Italian, but he made his escape and has not been captured yet although the police have a good description and a clue to his probable whereabouts. The murderer and his two victims exchanged in all a fusilade of nearly twenty shots. The marvel is that on the crowded street at 7.15 with crowds going to church, no one else was injured. Rosco who was shot in the abdomen was able to get up into the ambulance but died on his way to the hospital. Montito, the survivor, refuses to talk.

WANT THEIR COMRADES RELEASED FROM PRISON

Meeting of P.R.I.A. Members Last Night Passed Resolution to Have Petition Circulated in City and Sent to Minister of Justice—Big Meeting Sunday.

An important resolution was passed by the members of the P.R.I.A. last night to the effect that in view of the nature of the evidence given at the strike trial, and the character of some of the witnesses, a petition should be circulated in the city to have the sentence of the strikers now in jail remitted. Some members want them released at once. A public meeting is planned for Monday and one of the theatres will probably be engaged for it. The meeting is to ascertain the feeling of the citizens regarding the petition which is to be forwarded to the Minister of Justice in Ottawa if put through in the city.

LABOR MEN TO OPPOSE TORIES

Three will Probably be Nominated in Toronto and More may be Entered.

(Canadian Press Despatch) Toronto, Aug. 7.—The Independent Labor Party has called a meeting of labor men for Friday next to consider the advisability of nominating a number of labor candidates for the forthcoming election. No definite programme has been arranged but it is probable that at least three prominent labor men will be put in the field against the Conservative candidates. Much depends upon the financial support the various unions will accord the candidates.

WAS ONCE THE HOME OF FIERCE BAND OF INDIANS

Fertile and Wealthy Graham Island has had Romantic History—Great Work Accomplished by Missionaries in Civilizing the Fierce Hydah Indians.

Within the memory of our oldest inhabitants, comparatively little was known of the islands, standing like gaunt sentinels, between the mainland of the Province of British Columbia and the shores of Asia. The first white visitor, who spent more time than others who merely traded with the Indians, was the Rev. W. Duncan, a former missionary of the Anglican Church. He visited the camps, scattered over the East and West coast of Graham Island, bringing to the natives tidings of a "promised land" where "peace and goodwill" are attainable to all races of men no matter their condition or color. There, on the wave-washed shores, Rev. Mr. Duncan found the remnant of a once powerful nation, a nation feared by all other tribes and still one of the most robust of the fast-disappearing race.

A Fighting Race
It must be conceded that the Hydah's of the Queen Charlotte Islands saved to this country this portion of the Province. Thirty thousand warriors guarded the stretch of land, from Behring Straits to the Fraser River—watching over the waterways, in their large war canoes, and keeping back the hordes of Russia, on the one side, and the Chinese and Japanese, on the other. Every male child was trained in the art of war, and tribute in slaves and treasures of skins of the wild animals were levied on the surrounding Indian tribes. The past history of British Columbia shows that no people were more independent and feared than the Hydah's. Their villages still show the numerical strength of these Norsemen of the North Pacific.

Indian Customs
It was their custom to place the bodies of their dead on the top of spruce trees, which had been sawed off, about ten feet above the ground. There the skeletons of past generations can be seen today, in the grass-grown, deserted camps along the shores. In some places the totem poles, and other marks of habitation, can be seen for many miles, while, in the interior of the islands, no evidence can be found of their leaving the coast line. During the past half-century the noble missionaries induced this warlike nation to assemble in two villages, where they could be taught and brought under

WILL CARRY TOURISTS TO THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

Hudson's Bay Company Embark in a New Enterprise---Will take Tourists into the Land of the Midnight Sun from Athabasca Landing, up the Athabasca and Mackenzie Rivers---Will be a Great Advertisement for Northern B.C.

(Canadian Press Despatch) Edmonton, Alberta, Aug. 7.—Tourist trips through British Columbia to the Arctic Circle—that is the new attraction that will be added to the list of British Columbia's charms, if the Hudson's Bay Company's plans are carried out.

According to District Manager Fighl steamboat accommodation for summer excursions to Arctic Circle is to be provided by the Hudson Bay Company next year. Mr. Fighl, who has just returned from a trip extending over two months in the Peace River and Athabasca districts, stated that when navigation opens next season an improved schedule will be put in force and proper connections established on the boats on the various rivers. The trip to the Arctic Circle and back, about 3600 miles—is to be made easy of accomplishment. Passengers will be conveyed by steamer from Athabasca Landing to Grand Rapids, thence Murray. At this point steamers will again be utilized and the

Mr. Fighl estimates that the round trip from Athabasca Landing to the Land of the Midnight Sun can be made at a cost not exceeding $400.

ANGLICAN SYNOD

Archdeacon Collison and Rev. R. H. O'Malley Preached Yesterday.

Special Synod sermons in the morning and evening were held in the Anglican Church of St. Andrew yesterday. At the morning service Archdeacon Collison preached, and the church was crowded with worshippers. At the evening service a telling sermon was delivered by Rev. R. H. O'Malley formerly of Winnipeg, now of Denver, Colorado. The church was again well filled. Today the Synod opens in the Church Hall.

ment is damaged by the water—lots of provisions were spoiled and the engine requires a lot of attention to fix it. But the Indian owners sunning themselves and their gear on the deck this morning are imperturbable as ever.

They had put in to the Rupert Marine Wharf to renew coils and batteries for the engine. The work done they moored the boat by the grade and after a turn up town came back and went to sleep in the launch. Meanwhile the tide fell and left the "Sandman" aground at a bad angle on the grade. The men never woke until the rising tide had filled the launch. The cold salt water splashing about their sleeping forms gave them the fright of their lives and the appearance they made popping through the broken windows was of the Jack-in-the-Box variety. Most of the boat's inside equip-

ARE PREPARING FOR NEW BIG CONTRACT

Foley, Welch and Stewart Anticipates Getting Contract for Building Next 415 Miles of G.T.P.—Are Rushing the Clearing Work Beyond Aldermere.

While some rumors state that the contracts for the 415 miles of the G. T. P. grading yet to be done beyond Aldermere have been awarded the truth is that nothing definite is yet made public about the contracts for the actual grading. The probability is that Messrs. Foley, Welch & Stewart will secure a good part of the work owing to their experience in estimating for and reputation for carrying out the work.

the clearing of the first fifty miles east of Aldermere has been awarded to M. Shedy & Co. Operations have been started and is being pressed on with all speed. The contract represents about $60,000. Mr. Shedy himself is expected in Prince Rupert on Thursday. With this work in hands it becomes a certainty that the actual grading will be contracted for shortly.

on that 415 mil stretch is a big one. It means horses and more horses all the time. While supplies for a few station gangs clearing ground are easily handled by the men themselves from Telkwa and Sealey the supplying of large gangs is quite another matter. It means that New Hazelton will be a mighty busy centre this fall, and the work of the pack trains out to the camps will be as heavy as the work of train and river boat pouring supplies up river from Prince Rupert.

A HYPOCRITE UNMASKED

On many occasions since the question of reciprocity came before the public, the Daily News has presented editorial articles dealing with the subject. In every instance personalities were avoided. Our object has always been to appeal to the reason of our readers by a logical presentation of facts and figures.

Many of our readers have expressed their appreciation of our handling of the subject. Several of the leading newspapers in the Dominion did us the honor of reprinting some of the articles. It is our intention throughout the present campaign to continue to avoid personalities and let the facts about reciprocity make their own appeal.

But there are times when a newspaper owes it to its readers to deal with personalities. Such an occasion for instance is when a candidate for electoral honors, makes the supposed probity and excellence of his personal character the basis of his appeal to the public. When cant and hypocrisy parade themselves before the public, it is the newspaper's duty to tear the mask away, and let the public see the real character of the person behind the mask.

In Saturday's issue of the Evening Empire a long editorial article appeared, explaining how Alderman Newton, editor of the Empire and writer of the article came to nominate himself for Comox-Atlin.

It represented that the recent Conservative Convention held in the city was packed by "tin horns, blacklegs and gamblers," sixty-two of whom were in the pay of a man whom it says: "if he had his just deserts would be breaking stone down at New Westminster."

Claiming that it was only as a sacrifice on the altar of morality that he offered himself, Alderman Newton explains his remarkable action in nominating himself for Comox-Atlin, and his efforts to secure the party's support.

The News is not authorized to answer the accusations made against Mr. Goodman. Nor has the News any authority to speak on behalf of the local Conservative party.

The News has never professed to speak for the local Conservatives. It has strong differences with them on the question of the Provincial land laws and on the question of reciprocity. But those questions it is prepared to debate in a manner becoming gentlemen. And the News—however strongly it may fight against Conservative political theories—knows the members of the local Conservative party only as gentlemen. So far as we know, Alderman Newton is the only ingrate and political assassin amongst them.

But in the very issue of the newspaper in which Alderman Newton parades his incorruptible virtue, are two clear evidences of Alderman Newton's real character. The public may read for themselves, and decide whether the Incorruptible One is an honest man or not.

On the front page of the Empire are two stories. One is headed "Unfair Tactics by Laurier Government," and the other "Attitude of Premier McBride." Both are despatches from the Canadian Press Corporation, of which the Daily News is a charter-member. The identical despatches came to the News and Empire offices alike.

The first story reads in the original despatch "Laurier Government made strategic move in the interests of reciprocity, etc." In that form it appears in the News.

In the Empire office the story was wilfully altered to read "Laurier Government made unfair move in the interests of reciprocity," and on the lying alteration, the lying headline was built.

The second story was even more artistically treated. The Empire gave the original despatch telling that the Liberals regarded Premier McBride's action in declining to enter the Federal field, as indicating his belief that there was no chance of defeating the Government on the reciprocity issue. But it added a paragraph to the Canadian Press Despatch which was not in the original. It is the paragraph sub-headed "Conservative Explanation." This paragraph is a fake from start to finish. It is not a part of the original despatch, and was never sent out by the Canadian Press Corporation. It probably was concocted in the Empire office.

An individual who lies commits a contemptible enough act, but it is not nearly so contemptible as the newspaper that lies. A newspaper is under a solemn obligation to its readers to print the truth. To alter a despatch is to poison the well of truth at its source. It is an act of treason against its readers.

The crime is the greater because Alderman Newton is a candidate for Comox-Atlin as an opponent of reciprocity. The Incorruptible One has been caught at the game of trying to get into office by subverting the truth about reciprocity in his newspaper. He is a political gambler—playing the game with a stacked pack.

Alderman Newton has presented an ultimatum to the Conservative party. He has threatened that unless they do certain things satisfactory to him, he will continue his candidacy.

The News offers an ultimatum to Alderman Newton. In our office window is pasted a large sheet of paper containing the original Canadian Press Despatches, and the false stories which Alderman Newton's paper concocted out of them. They are there for the public to see and judge.

When Alderman Newton admits that he is a discredited candidate, by withdrawing from the field the News will withdraw the evidence of the manner in which he sought to trick the public of Prince Rupert.

A REMINISCENCE OF SHERLOCK HOLMES

THE ADVENTURE OF THE RED CIRCLE

BY ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1911, by the Century Syndicate

"It was I who called," said Holmes.

"You! How could you call?" "Your cipher was not difficult, madam. Your presence here was desirable. I knew that I had only to flash 'Veni' and you would surely come."

The beautiful Italian looked with awe at my companion.

"I do not understand how you know these things," she said. "Guiseppe Gorgiano—how did he?" She paused and then suddenly her face lit up with pride and delight. "Now I see it! My Gennaro! My splendid, beautiful Gennaro, who has guarded me safe from all harm, he did it, with his own strong hand he killed the monster! Oh, Gennaro, how wonderful you are! What woman could ever be worthy of such a man?"

"Well, Mrs. Lucca," said the prosaic Gregson, laying his hand upon the lady's sleeve with as little sentiment as if she were a Notting Hill hooligan, "I am not very clear yet who you or what you are; but you've said enough to make it very clear that we shall want you at the Yard."

"One moment, Gregson," said Holmes. "I rather fancy this lady may be as anxious to give information as we can be to get it. You understand, madam, that your husband will be arrested and tried for the death of the man who lies before us? What you say may be used in evidence. But if you think that he has acted from motives which are not criminal, and which he would wish to have known, then you cannot serve him better than by telling us the whole story."

"Now that Gorgiano is dead we fear nothing," said the lady. "He was a devil and a monster, and there can be no judge in the world who would punish my husband for having killed him."

"In that case," said Holmes, "my suggestion is that we lock this door, leave things as we found them, go with this lady to her room, and form our opinion after we have heard what it is that she has to say to us."

Half an hour later we were seated, all four, in the small sitting-room of Signora Lucca, listening to her remarkable narrative of those sinister events, the ending of which we had chanced to witness. She spoke in rapid and fluent but very conventional English, which, for the sake of clearness, I will make grammatical.

"I was born in Posilippo, near Naples," said she, "and was the daughter of Augusto Barelli, who was the chief lawyer and once the deputy of that part. Gennaro was in my father's employment, and I came to love him, as any woman must. He had neither money nor position—nothing but his beauty and strength and energy—so my father forbade the match. We fled together, were married at Bari, and sold my jewels to gain the money which would take us to America. This was four years ago, and we have been in New York ever since."

"Fortune was very good to us at first. Gennaro was able to do a service to an Italian gentleman—he saved him from some ruffians in the place called the Bowery, and so made a powerful friend. His name was Tito Castalotte, and he was the senior partner of the great firm of Castalotte and Zamba, who are the chief fruit importers of New York. Signor Zamba is an invalid, and our new friend Castalotte has all power within the firm, which employs more than three hundred men. He took my husband into his employment, and showed his goodwill towards him in every way. Signor Castalotte was a bachelor, and I believe that he felt as if Gennaro was his son, and both my husband and I loved him as if he were our father. We had taken and furnished a little house in Brooklyn, and our whole future seemed assured, when that black cloud appeared which was soon to overspread our sky.

"One night, when Gennaro returned from his work, he brought a fellow countryman back with him. His name was Gorgiano, and he had come also from Posilippo. He was a huge man, as you can testify, for you have looked upon his corpse. Not only was his body that of a giant, but everything about him was grotesque, gigantic, and terrifying. His voice was like thunder in our little house. There was scarce room for the whirl of his great arms as he talked. His thoughts, his emotions, his passions, all were exaggerated and monstrous. He talked, or rather roared, with such energy that others could but sit and listen, cowed with the mighty stream of words. His eyes blazed at you and held you at his mercy. He was a terrible and wonderful man! I thank God that he is dead!

"He came again and again. Yet I was aware that Gennaro was no more happy than I was in his presence. My poor husband would sit pale and listless, listening to the endless ravings upon politics and upon social questions which made up our visitor's conversation. Gennaro said nothing, but I who knew him so well could read in his face some emotion which I had never seen there before. At first I thought it was dislike. And then gradually, I understood that it was more than dislike. It was fear—a deep, secret, shrinking fear. That night—the night that I read his terror—I put my arms round him and I implored him by his love for me and by all that he held dear to hold nothing from me, and to tell me why this huge man overshadowed him so.

THE COSY CORNER

DEVOTED PRINCIPALLY TO THE INTERESTS OF WOMEN

This is a little section of the paper, which from day to day will be devoted to subjects of special interest to women. Any and all of the ladies of Prince Rupert are invited to contribute to its columns, and to take part in its discussions. Suggestions and criticisms are invited by the editor. The hope is expressed that "The Cosy Corner" will fill a social need.

STRIPED VOILE COSTUME

Wide striped black and white and blue and white voiles are among the most fashionable mid-summer fabrics for afternoon gowns. A pretty suggestion for the making of such a gown is shown above. The neck arrangement is particularly fetching with its yoke of plain white linen and double shoulder collar of fine embroidery and black velvet bow as a finishing touch. Girdle is black satin and the sleeve ends are stain and liene effectively combined in all new and unique cuff.

SINGLE SEX CARS

Not Such a Success as They Seemed Likely to Be

New York women did not take kindly to the offer of a traction line to provide separate cars for their use, most of them preferring the society of men with all its drawbacks, to segregation. It will be interesting, therefore, says a writer in Success Magazine, to see how the proposal of a western railroad to install separate parlor cars for women will appeal to the supposed beneficiaries of this arrangement. The railroad promises to fit up the ladies' car with cozy corners, couches and buffets with electric grills. The idea is that women, who are practically barred from smoking cars by reason of their prejudice in favor of air to breathe, will thus secure retaliation, as no man but the harmless necessary conductor will be permitted to enter. If the special car idea takes with the ladies, why not special trains with everything aboard—the reading club meeting in the library car, bridge on the back platform, electric curling irons and automatic back-hookers in every berth, and in the nursery a machine that rocks the baby and points out the sights to the children? Some day the comic weeklies may be poking fun at the old-fashioned, co-educational train in which men, women and children had to put up with each other's society for hours at a time.

HONOR OR BLAME?

Rockefeller Says Wife Made His Great Fortune

"Had it not been for my wife's business sagacity and her clear insight into affairs," said John D. Rockefeller recently, "I would be a poor man. Many times her advice has been counter to my ideas, but her judgment has invariably proved the better."

From the early days when the Standard Oil Company had its beginning, Mrs. Rockefeller has known the details of every transaction of the business. It is said her interest in its activities are unflagging.

She kept the books when the receipts were not large enough to warrant an office force; she studied every business move her husband made, and together they planned to widen the scope of the business. When her services as bookkeeper were no longer required, Mrs. Rockefeller became confidential adviser, and it was through the soundness of this advice that she has won her husband's tribute to her as a great fortune builder.

For lemon pie, line the pie plates with good pastry. For everyday use make a pastry in the proportion of one cup of flour, half a cup of lard and butter mixed, quarter of a teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix with cold water. This will make the shells for two pies. For the filling take one cup of sugar, the grated rind and juice of one large or two small lemons, three yolks of eggs, two heaping tablespoonfuls of corn starch, and water to make a thick custard. Mix the starch with the cold water, add enough boiling water to thicken, allow to boil ten minutes, add egg, sugar, and lemon, boil up once, and pour into the shells. Make a meringue of the whites.

ITEMS OF SPORT

Tom Kenney, the former heavy weight amateur champion of the United States has decided to enter the ranks of the professionals, and is now looked upon as one of the possible "white hopes."

Ray Seymour made two miles on a motor cycle in 1.26 at Salt Lake City recently, being within two-fifths of a second of the world's record made by De Rosier at Los Angeles.

Jimmy Coffroth, the San Francisco boxing impressario, has assurances that he can land Billy Papke and Frankie Klaus for a twenty-round match for the middleweight championship of the world in September or possibly in August.

National League Clubs are certainly having their share of the tough luck this season and Philadelphia seems to be getting a double dose, although the Phillies are fighting gamely to keep their place in the fast race.

The news that C. W. Power has decided to take no further part in automobile racing events will come as a surprise to quite a number of motorists in Western Canada. Power has been entered in practically every event of importance since 1903, when racing in the west with the road race from Winnipeg to Stonewall and return. He is the present holder of the Canadian amateur mile record, having recaptured the title from R. Husk last fall, when he covered a mile on the Kirkfield track in 59 4-5 seconds.

A challenge which may bring the two greatest racing automobiles of the world together in America has been sent by E. A. Moross, manager of the "Bob" Burman and the "Blitzen" Benz, to the Fiat Auto Import company, in New York. The challenge is for a race at any distance from five miles up to one hundred miles between the Benz with which Burman made world's records on the Florida beach last spring and the 300 horse power Fiat driven by Signor P. Bordino at Saltburn by the Sea, England, on July 1.

Information has come to the Manitoba Amateur Athletic Association that Howard Crawford and Stephen Gunnlaugson, of Brandon, who were re-instated to amateur ranks last winter, have again broken the amateur rules by taking part in baseball games for a money consideration. Pending an investigation of the facts, their amateur cards have been cancelled, and they will not be allowed to take part in any amateur sport until this matter is cleared up to the satisfaction of the board of governors of the Manitoba Amateur Athletic Association.

ONCE THE HOME OF INDIANS

the guidance of the government of the country. Prior to that time, it was not safe for traders or others, to visit the camps.

Noble Missionaries

Archdeacon Collison and his family, were instrumental in bringing about many of the conditions that exist today, on the north end of Graham Island. Twenty-eight years ago they were assisted by the Rev. C. Harrison who is still hale and hearty and has made his home on the island for that number of years. The Methodist Church arranged to take the spiritual care of those living on Skidegate Inlet and in the neighborhood of the south end of Graham Island, where the church, schoolhouse and other modern improvements, show the marked progress made in the short time the natives have been under the supervision of the earnest men and women who devoted their lives to the uplifting of the Indian.

Are Peaceable Now

It has been the bane of British Columbia, in the populous cities, to hear the remarks passed on the dangers from the natives of this Province. There are many, even to this day, who fear that their lives will be in jeopardy should they attempt to visit the Province. One argument and one only, need be adduced to prove that the Indians are peaceable, and that is a fact, beyond dispute, that but one police officer can be found on the Queen Charlotte group, and he resides in a settlement of whites.

Progressive Indians

The astonishment of strangers can be better understood, on their visiting the Indian villages, when it is stated that the natives show them their schoolhouses and churches; their town halls and well-kept streets; their co-operative stores and gasoline launches; their well-dressed women and children and the sanitary arrangements to preserve health. In each town can be heard the gramophone and on the streets the uniformed bands play selections, during the summer evenings. It may well be said that the advancement of the Indian, towards civilization, is one of the marvels of the present century.

(In an ensuing special article the great mineral wealth and natural resources of the Queen Charlottes will be dealt with.—Ed.)

Put an eyewinker inside your clothes, wish, and you will have it ranted.

SUN SIMPLY BLAZED DOWN

Dried Muskeg Caught Fire Yesterday Afternoon on Sixth Ave. Panamas and Pretty Light Frocks Everywhere in City.

If the official figures do not prove yesterday's sunshine to have been the hottest on record in Prince Rupert for many a day of even this glorious summer it will be a wonder. All day the sun blazed down on the city. Plankways and the brown-green wastes of muskeg basked and baked in the torrid glow. It was impossible to venture out for even a moment without shady headgear. At all the church services pretty white frocks were very much in evidence, and the men folk went envying the girls in their cool attire. Boats and canoes were in extra demand on the lake-still harbor all afternoon and evening, and the glory of a Prince Rupert golden sunset ended the perfect day.

It may be hard for some people to believe this but it is nevertheless true that on Sixth avenue beyond Hays Creek Bridge at about four o'clock yesterday afternoon a little stretch of dry muskeg actually smoldered and smoked under the fierce sunshine. The fire was creeping steadily over the dry surface of the ground in a little patch when discovered. It had only just begun to burn and there was no sign of match, cigarette end, or cigar butt that might have started it.

THE HONEYMOON TRAIL

Cleveland Comedy Company a Great Bunch of Fun Makers

On the old trail that is ever new the Cleveland Comedy Company had with them at the Empress Theatre on Saturday evening as large a crowd of mushers as ever assembled in that building and it was an evening crowded with merriment from start to finish. Old trail blazers hold the opinion that one can always tell an Indian from a white man's trail, because while the latter bulls through the bush in as direct a line as possible the course of the wild man is as that of a playful current of electricity, following the line of least resistance. "The Honeymoon Trail" is something like that.

The title suggests a general direction but presently you don't know whether you are on the trail of off it, or where it is leading you. It is, in short, as are most musical comedies, merely a string on which to peg a number of stunts, songs, dances, and comicities, but it is from every point of view fresh and bright and as invigorating as a summer morning. It is a good clean, healthy fun from beginning to end, with not a risque line or pose in it.

Also, it is presented by a good company which has the art of seeming to enjoy it to the full, making the funny episodes which follow in rapid succession as apparently spontaneous as they are unexpected. They are all good as character actors and above the average as vocalists, and the octave of chorus girls are as daintily charming as their songs and dances. With every song they appear in a new costume more charming than the last, forming a background of pretty coloring in every scene.

Business Chances

Good money in Moving Pictures. Wanted—A party to start moving picture show in Prince Rupert. Write me for particulars. H. Davis, Watertown, Wis. 137-w1

The songs and part songs of which there are many, "caught on" and you could hear the refrains humming along the streets and on the waterfront last night by many a young couple. "If All the Moons were Honeymoons," and "I'll Get You Yet, Little Girl" were apparently the favorites. Tonight the title of the musical comedy is "A Minister's Son," but at least half of the large audience of Saturday evening hopes the company will give them the pleasure of hearing "The Honeymoon Trail" again during the week.
