The American boat Slaven which was picked up a few weeks ago in Grenville Channel, has been turned over by the underwriters to the Armour Salvage Company who are having her repaired at the dry dock. The boat is sixty feet long and had a 100 horsepower engine. She had been used as a cannery tender.

Success Comes to Chamber of Commerce After Many Years of Pleading—Will Provide Work For Unemployed During Coming Winter

Word has been received in the city that permission has been granted by the provincial government for the export of thirty million feet of hemlock logs from this district. This, it is understood, will go to the Orient, both China and Japan being a market just now for that class of log.

For years past efforts have been made to obtain permission to ship logs from this district in order to provide part cargoes with wheat to the Orient. During the depths of the depression the Tolmie government was importuned to allow shipments to be made but refused. Premier Pattullo was interviewed during his recent visit to the city and the desirability of the permission being granted was pressed upon him but he gave little encouragement even then. The matter has been taken up again with the result that the required permission has been granted.

Already the Chamber of Commerce is taking up with the wheat pool the desirability of providing part cargoes of low grade wheat such as that shipped to the Orient. Definite contracts for supplying the logs will have to be secured also before the men can go into the woods.

The logs will provide considerable shipping out of this port such as has been needed and the cutting and shipping will give employment to a great many people.

RECORD IS VERY GOOD

Alaska Airways Concern Has Had Only One Fatal Accident In Seven Years Operating

JUNEAU, October 16.—Apart from the tragic flight several years ago when Pilot Robin Renahan and two companions were lost in the course of a rescue expedition, the crash on Baronof Island last week of Pilot Gene Meyring's seaplane when Walter Holmquist, Juneau youth, was killed is the first fatal accident the Alaska Southern Airways or its predecessor company, the Alaska-Washington Airways, has had in seven years of commercial flying in southeastern Alaska, it was stated here at the week-end.

Preparations For State Funeral Of Martyred Ruler

Effect of Assassination Has Had Opposite Effect to That Desired by Terrorists

BELGRADE, Oct. 16.—Preparations are being made for the funeral of the late King Alexander who was assassinated in France when on a friendly visit to that country.

Huge crowds gathered with bowed heads yesterday as the funeral train rolled into the city. The body will lie in state here while notables from all over the country gather to pay their last respects to the departed sovereign.

The circumstances of the death of the king are such as to alienate public sympathy from the Communists whose policy of violence is held largely responsible for the tragedy. The effect of the assassination has had just the opposite effect from that desired by the terrorists.

Croatian Liberty Was Aim of Assassin, Says Accomplice of Kalemén

Confession Declares Two Were Sent For Special Purpose Of Killing Alexander at Marseilles

MELUN, France, Oct. 16.—Police here announce today that Mio Kraj, a Croat, confessed that he had been sent to Marseilles with Petrus Kalemén to assassinate King Alexander. While Kalemén actually killed the king and was himself slain by the police, Kraj said he fled before the assassination was consummated, fearing that other persons would be killed in the attempt on the king's life. The crime was to be committed to bring about "Croatian liberty."

POINCARÉ FUNERAL ON SATURDAY

France's Great Statesman Who Died Yesterday Held Many Positions in Government

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Arrangements have been made for the funeral of Raymond Poincaré to take place Saturday.

In the minds of a vast number of his fellow-countrymen, Raymond Poincaré was the most useful and valuable citizen of France of his time. He also attained distinction as one of the world's greatest intellects.

His career, marked as it was by the ups and downs of fortune, taught the infinite value of taking pains and the profit that can be had from making every minute count. It also demonstrated that a straight line of conduct prevails over the vicissitudes of public life.

No French statesman has been criticized more than has been Poincaré, yet few have achieved more that will be universally praised. He enjoyed the adulation of his fellow citizens and suffered their displeasure. After being lifted to the highest post in the government and to the pinnacle of popularity, he lost favor with the public, was even accused of malfeasance in office and was threatened with trial before a high court for what was, in fact, a meritorious act in behalf of his country.

Poincaré endured most of the injustices that can be heaped upon a public man, but his straightforwardness and his unflinching devotion to the welfare of his country prevailed and reversed the prejudiced judgment of his critics.

It was said that nobody suffered more anguish from the outbreak of the World War than Poincaré, yet he was accused of helping to provoke it. None in France was a stouter republican, yet his political adversaries persisted in classing him among the reactionaries. Before ending his public career of nearly two score and ten years, however, he compelled the respect of his political opponents and had outlived most of the legends that had been spread to his detriment. He guided his country in three great emergencies through dangerous passes and in 1920 the French Parliament declared that Poincaré "had deserved well of the fatherland."

NEW TRIAL IS GIVEN

David Lamson of San Jose To Get Another Hearing On Charge Of Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO, October 15 (CP)—The California Supreme Court Saturday granted David Lamson, former Stanford press executive, a new trial for the murder of his wife for which he was convicted a year ago and sentenced to hang.

Lamson was alleged to have beaten his wife to death with a piece of pipe as she bathed in their home at San Jose.

TOM MOORE OVER AIR

President Of Trades & Labor Congress Of Canada Heard Sunday Afternoon

Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, was heard by Prince Rupert radio listeners Sunday afternoon over a Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission hook-up in an appeal for support of the Canadian Council of Welfare Services. He urged his listeners to contribute as freely as possible to the welfare funds in order to bring to less fortunate people, particularly the children, comforts and services which were not permitted by relief allowances which only allowed of the merest requirements of shelter and food. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Moore expressed himself as being in favor of a plan of contributory unemployment insurance.

Next Sunday His Excellency, Lord Bessborough, Governor General of Canada, will be heard in an appeal for the support of the welfare campaign.

Suicide Strike in Hungarian Mine Ended Today and Men Are Taken Out After Being Promised Winter Bonus

Women and Children Welcome Miners Whom They Had Given up as Lost—Dramatic Scenes at Pit Mouth

PECS, Hungary, Oct. 16.—Twelve hundred miners, one hundred of them half conscious, came back from the black depths of the mine today victorious in their "suicide strike." The semi-conscious men were suffering from gas poisoning and exposure after one hundred and ten hours in the pits. The police deny that any perished below.

By an arrangement between the mine operators and the Hungarian government the men are to receive a winter bonus of three dollars each and instead of a wage cut a Christmas bonus of the same amount. There were dramatic scenes at the pit mouth as the men were taken out about a dozen at the time and were welcomed by the women and children who had despaired of ever seeing them again alive.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE IDEA

The monthly magazine, "Canadian Business," published in Montreal and the organ of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has an interesting number for October, something unusual for this periodical which is usually dull as a magazine could be made. In an article, "England Leads the Way," by Harold S. Fisher, here are one or two paragraphs:

"The strength of the British Empire does not depend on trade agreements any more than on political alliances. It depends on an idea, and nothing will strengthen that idea, and fortify the Empire's faith in it, more than the growing realization that Old England has been true to it through all her difficulties.

"Her emergence from these difficulties brings a new hope to a bewildered world. Amidst a welter of Communism, Fascism, Nazi-Socialism and other disruptive political creeds, bred out of text books, enforced by bayonets, and maintained by persecution, the British Empire idea stands out as the golden mean, the practical way to fuller national life.

"Nothing succeeds like success, and the material prosperity now making its appearance within the confines of the Empire will bring more worldly glory than we ever had before; it will convince the doubters and convert the traitors, and we shall hear choruses of praise such as tickled our ears a long time ago."

BEATTY SPEAKS

E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway opens an interesting article with the following striking paragraph:

"At present the whole world is busily engaged in discussing the very foundations of our present system of society. Where a few years ago only the most violent extremists were ready to consider radical alterations in the social and economic structure of the nation, today, impelled by a series of events which have left the lives of but few of us free from stress, almost every thinking man and woman has become accustomed to the daily discussion of new theories of society and economics."

The whole tone of the publication indicates that businessmen are today considering carefully the problem of how to set things right. They are speaking in a much more humane manner than have businessmen in the past. What they have not yet succeeded in doing is making it possible for the working men to subsist without asking for the dole. With too much food and clothing and other articles on the one side and with the need without the power to purchase on the other, there can be no tranquility. There must be a change which makes it possible for business people to sell their goods to those who need them. With the present upward trend toward better times there will be a temporary lessening of the pressure for change but in a few years we shall have another slump unless something is done to prevent it and then the clamor for a change will be greater than ever. What is needed today is for moderate people to evolve a policy that will so rearrange the present system that it will keep pace with the industrial and other changes that have taken place. This is the British method and the one that must be followed if catastrophe is to be averted.

Man in the Moon

Good afternoon. Don't take yourself too seriously. It looks ridiculous.

Most jokes are told on Irishmen. Scotsmen come second with jokes about how they can save a penny. The Englishman is usually jolled because of his inability to see a joke.

There's a legend that an Englishman gets three laughs from a joke. The first when it is told to him, the second when it is explained to him and the third when he understands it.

It was a Scottish master who had a lad working for him named Sixpence. The boy did some excellent work so the Scotchman changed his name to Shilling as a reward.

I know a man who during the depression found some stock in which he invested to be worthless. Now he is trying to save enough money to have the certificate framed to show that he has been through the school of experience.

A local barber was shaving a customer and at the same time telling him one of his oldest stories. He finished the story about the same time he finished the customer's face. "Shall I go over it again?" inquired the barber. "No," was the reply. "That's the fourth time I've heard it and I know it perfectly."

"Is mutton dear?" inquired a young lady of Doug. "No, ma'm, mutton is sheep," was the reply.

Basketball Season Opened With Large Crowd of Fans and Lively Games in Moose Hall Last Night

Intermediates Gave Most of Spice to the Program With High School Winning by Very Narrow Margin

The 1934-35 basketball season opened in the Moose Hall last night before a packed house with the Scythians winning the opener from the High School in a keenly fought match with the former team being the rough boys of the game in having two players sent to the showers. The intermediate game provided the spice of the program with the High School lads just nosing out the Warriors 27-25.

It was a ding-dong battle right from the start. The Warriors took an early lead only to lose it four minutes before half-time, the half ending 16-9 in favor of the Students. The second half started at a fast clip with the Battlers tying the score six minutes before the final gun. From then on it was anybody's game with both baskets having a busy evening but the Warriors just could not get the three points to win.

B. Hunt and C. Smith handled the game in an efficient manner.

Stone and his Annettes put themselves in top place by defeating the Grottoettes 14-9. The Ready-to-Wear femmes had it all their own way the first half with little Miss Rice snaring herself seven points to win the half 10-3, but the Cigarette Girls came back fighting in the second half to outscore the Models by two points but lost out when Mrs. Rice's little girl Terry came back in the quarter to sink a couple of baskets and sent her team mates home winners by five clear points. It might be a different story when these two teams meet again as the Grotto crew have the makings of a good team.

Grotto lost out to the C. N. R. A. lads in a close hard checking game 26-22. The Trainmen were without one of the Morrison brothers who has chucked his lot in with the Cigarettes while they had a new man in the line-up. Bill Ogg by name and a natural as far as basketball is concerned. He made his debut by getting seven points and three personals, in other words he can take it and give it. Steffensrud who was with the Kalens last year was in the guard position with Daniel A. Morrison who has played there so long that he stops them automatically.

The Grotto took the lead a few minutes after the game started but lost it shortly after while the big guns of the C. N. were ringing the hoop frequently to run out at half time with a seven-point lead, 15-8.

In the second half the Tobaccolist started going places and halfway through the second spasm tied the score 17-17 and from then on it was anybody's game with fouls falling fast and furious but very little scoring. In the dying minutes of the game the train crew finally drew ahead and pounded down the track winners, 26-22.

Funeral Yesterday

JOHN A. CRAWFORD

Senior purser of the Canadian National Steamships, who died last week after a long illness. Members of the crew of the steamship Prince George acted as pallbearers.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett to reside at Jasper.

Heavy rains have brought the river up to its June appearance, when the summer freshet brings a raging flood, carrying uprooted trees, stray planks and anything that's loose upon its banks.

Though there has been more rain than necessary, the weather has been very warm during past weeks, with the result that the root crops which a month ago looked like a failure, are now turning out quite well.

Nina Gurvich Victim of Sport He Liked Dies at Prince Rupert General Hospital

The death occurred last night at the Prince Rupert General Hospital of Nick (Nina) Gurvich, son of Mrs. Gurvich and the late Nick Gurvich of this city. He had been a patient in the hospital since last June when he underwent an operation to the kidneys which had been injured in boxing. He died of Addison's disease.

Nina was a native son of Prince Rupert where he was born 22 years ago on September 1. He spent the whole of his life here. Keen on sports and games, particularly boxing, high jumping and pole vaulting in which he particularly excelled, he was a favorite everywhere and his death will be greatly regretted, especially by the young men of the city.

The mother, four brothers, John, D'ido, Spiro and Mike, and two sisters, Amelia and Nellie, all mourn the loss of son and brother. The funeral will probably take place on Thursday from Hayner's chapel.

ADDRESS TO RAILMEN

Olof Hanson M.P. Tells of Work of Past Session—Public Opposed To Rail Amalgamation

At the regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees held last evening, Olof Hanson M.P. for Skeena gave a two-hour resume of the last session of Parliament that was interesting and informative and held his audience in close attention.

As a member of the railway committee of the House, Mr. Hanson's outline of the railway situation, to which it was evident he is keenly alive, proved especially interesting to his railway audience. It was the speaker's view that Canadian public opinion is opposed to railway amalgamation, and for this reason the proposals of the government at the last session with this purpose, were not carried through.

The speaker showed himself to be very keenly aware of the needs of this district and he felt that with the co-operation of the various public bodies of the community much could be accomplished for the constituency. The needs of the district were as varied as its activities, comprising farming, fishing, lumbering and mining in the main, and as its advantages became more evident it would reach its place in the scheme of things providing traffic for the railway with resulting advantage to the railway employees and the community at large.

Mr. Hanson felt that the establishment of Prince Rupert as a port of call for ships contacting foreign ports, sharing the subsidy provided the steamship lines by the Canadian government was a necessity, and was a matter to which the Board of Trade was diligently applying itself.

The balance of the evening was spent in routine business. There was a large turn-out of members. H. Forrest, president, was in the chair.
