The same article, while objecting to the doctrine of "Property is Theft," also sees grave danger in people who think only in "stocks and shares, amalgamations and fusions" and to the piling up of property in the hands of a few people. The writer says: "National Socialism sees in all Marxist-Bolshevist tendencies the gravest menace to the existence and preservation of the nation and indeed to order, right and security in the whole world. 'The new regime' elevates work and merit and not hatred and envy."

The whole publication, which is a pretentious one, is an argument in favor of Hitlerism for the German people. It Baseball Standings aims and objects of the movement and by means of many hundreds of pictures drives the argument home. The magazine is printed in Berlin, Germany, and the postage Chicago alone cost a considerable sum.

and Jules Audy ride C·C·M·'s"

"CURE we do, boys. So do many other 6-Day Do bike riders. Do you boys ride C.C.M.'s too?" inquired Torchy Peden with a grin.

"No, sir. Neither of us has a bike. But we want our dads to buy us C.C.M.'s this Spring," said Joe.

"I wish you luck, boys. I know every boy is keen on owning a bike, especially a C.C.M. If you want to convince your dads how good C.C.M.'s are, bring them down here and show them these two C.C.M.'s that I've pounded away on for 37,500 miles, and they're still going strong. Jules and other riders have ridden their C.C.M.'s just as far as I have ridden mine."

"Gee, that's a great idea. We'll try and get our dads to come.

BOYSI You may not have the chance to show your dads the bikes ridden by Torchy Peden and Jules Audy, but you can surely get your fathers to go with you to a C.C.M. dealer's and see the 1934 C.C.M.'s. There's the same rugged, standup quality in them as in Torchy's and Jules' C.C.M.'s. They've all the extra C.C.M. features that make them extra value for the money.

An ordinary bike would crumple up under Torchy Peden's hard riding and would be a poor investment for him. While a boy isn't as hard on a bike as Torchy, every boy's bike has to stand plenty. The best investment in the long run is in a bicycle of real quality - a C.C.M.

"Nineteen deep-sea and 13 shortdistance trawlers arrived at Hull today, and these may be augmented by late discharges at the Riverside Quay if some boats which are really due tomorrow dash for to-|day's market.

"Twelve trawlers from the Iceandic fishing grounds had reached Hull by mid-day. Hull had four White Sea trawlers with arrivals also from Faroe. Two Norwegian Coast, one Bear Island and four West Coast boats also put into Hull.

"Icelandic cod predominated on the market, but over 1,000 kits of | White Sea jumbo haddocks were also on offer.

"Over 500 ten-ton wagons of coal were shipped yesterday as trawler bunkers, six coaling appliances, including one of the latest type, working throughout the night in order to cope with the requirements of local trawlers which are hurrying out to sea again after landing their fish.

"Coaling proceeded throughout the night and further all night!
