Long in Yukon

The Most Rev. Isaac O. Stringer, B.A., D.D., who died suddenly in Winnipeg yesterday, will go down in history as the indomitable missionary spirit who in the course of his ministry in Canada's extreme northwest endured such hardships that on at least one occasion he was reduced to such straits for food that he chewed his moccasins for the oil they contained.

Archbishop Stringer spent almost all of his active life in the north country. The Diocese of the Yukon over which he had jurisdiction for so many years included the whole of the Northwest Territories west of the Rocky Mountains between British Columbia and the Arctic Ocean.

A man of tremendous spirit and powerful physique he often endured hardships he would not permit his subordinates to share. He felt a great respect for the simple people among whom he labored and his striking and genial personality impressed all those with whom he came in contact.

Archbishop Stringer was born April 10, 1866, in Kincardine Township, Bruce County, Ont. He attended public and high schools. He secured the degree of B.A. from Toronto University and graduated from Wycliffe College in 1892.

Immediately after graduation, Archbishop Stringer went as a missionary to the Eskimos in the Arctic Circle on Herschel Island and the mouth of the Mackenzie River. The following year he was appointed rector of Whitehorse, Weanesday, Oct. 31, 1934 Yukon, where he remained until his consecration as bishop in 1905.
