MASTERLY SPEECH BY CANADIAN PREMIER

LABOR CLAIM UNHOLY ALLIANCE BETWEEN CONSERVATIVES AND LIBERALS

Elevator and Other Matters are Dealt With in Speech of Premier at Big Meeting Here Last Night

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS BY THE PREMIER

"Though some of you feel discouraged, I do not believe you are taking a true view of things when you do not feel assured of a bright future not too far distant."
"This year, yes, within a very few days, excavation will start for an elevator here."
"The building of the elevator will give new heart to the people of this town. I believe it will create a stimulus and that it will be directly followed by the beginning of other developments."
"This part of the country is just on the eve of the greatest advance in its history."

One of the most masterly and brilliant addresses ever heard in Prince Rupert was delivered last evening by Right Honorable W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada. It being the second time in the history of the city that Prince Rupert people had been offered the opportunity of hearing a Premier of the Dominion, the Westholme Theatre was filled to capacity with an audience which, though not too demonstrative, was none the less appreciative and enthusiastic. Fully fifteen minutes before the scheduled opening of the meeting, all the seats in the main body of the house had been filled and, before the curtain went up on the array of statesmen occupying the platform, all accommodation had been taken up.

Mr. King's address consisted of an eloquent exposition of why the present western tour had been arranged, the difficulties that had attended the work of government since the Liberal regime had commenced three years ago and the hopes and desires that still actuated the administration with respect to the development of the Grand Trunk Pacific end of the Canadian National Railways and the port of Prince Rupert.

Other speakers of the evening were Fred Stork, M.P., Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Hon. Hal. McGeever and Hon. J. P. Gardin, Col. S. P. McMorris, president of the Prince Rupert Liberal Association, acted as chairman. Others on the platform were Senator Andrew Haydon, Dr. H. C. Wrench, M.L.A., W. E. Williams, Ald. Theo. Collart, David Thomson, A. R. Mallory, Thomas McClymont and Thomas Trotter. The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada" and closed with the National Anthem. Mr. King spoke for about one hour and fifteen minutes, the remarks of the others being of more brevity with the exception of Hon. J. P. Gardin who, after a discourse in English, took several minutes to address the French in the audience in their native tongue.

Premier's Address

In opening his address, Mr. King reiterated statements that had been made by his colleagues with respect to their appreciation of the warmth of the reception and the kindnesses that had been extended there since they arrived in the city. He thanked the mayor for his courteous greeting and spoke appreciatively of the excellence of the music furnished by the Indian bands. He doubted if anything could have been more acceptable to him than to be greeted in such a manner by the aboriginal peoples of the land.

"So far as the Indians are concerned, this government will remember that they were the first people here, that the French and English people came after them and that they are as wards to us. It is the duty and obligation of the government to see that they receive full justice and right in their relations with our social life. So far as the government is concerned, it will not only be our duty but our pleasure to see that such a policy prevails."

Stork's Good Work

Mr. King referred to the measure of popularity that Mr. Stork, the local member, had gained at Ottawa. The men that might be relied upon and were helpful soon became sorted out from among the 230 or so members of the House of Commons. No representative had been more faithful to his constituency than Mr. Stork. He thanked the people of Prince Rupert and district on behalf of the government for returning Mr. Stork, and took the opportunity, in the presence of his constituents, to thank Mr. Stork for his assistance and support. Any matter that Mr. Stork presented always received the most careful consideration that could be given. Prince Rupert was particularly fortunate in having his effective representation.

The Premier thanked Mr. Pattullo for his welcome on behalf of the province. "He and I have long been friends and our fathers before us. Though, perhaps, the element of personal feeling entered into Mr. Pattullo's remarks, his words are none the less deeply appreciated by me."

"I thank you all for your kindness in coming out in such numbers and hope that you will feel as well repaid as we do. I thank the chairman and the Liberal friends here for arranging this meeting and the Board of Trade for giving me the privilege of addressing their members. I hope their importunities will be turned to good account."

Seeking Information

Explaining the purposes of the present Western tour, Mr. King stated that it was being made so that a more intimate knowledge of affairs might be gained to assist in the work of shaping policies, so that the problems of the West might be better understood, so that some of the difficulties of the government might be imparted.

"We come not as critics but as interpreters—seeking to interpret your problems and our difficulties."
"By coming direct to Prince Rupert (continued on page two)

Human Bones, Guns, Compass and Sledge Found on Beach at Herald Island in Arctic Near Wrangell

NOME, Oct. 14.—Since Russia hoisted the flag over Wrangell Island the American flag has been run up on Herald Island, a smaller body of land 40 miles east. Americans claim the Island was made by Captain Lane, master of the gasoline schooner Herman, which returned here after a vain attempt to reach Wrangell Island.

On the beach of Herald Island was found bones believed to be those of one of two parties of four each lost after the Karluk, the Stefansson's exploration ship, went down in the ice of North Herald Island in 1914. A compass, two guns, and parts of a sledge were found with the bones which are thought to be those of the party headed by Dr. Alister Forbes McKay, a Scotch surgeon, who left the camp established on the ice where the Karluk sank.

FIGHTING FOR ATLIN MINE

Affidavits Being Filed This Week in Vancouver to Show Alexander Married

CLAIM FIFTEEN MILLIONS

Heirs of Beautiful Nurse Will Try to Set Aside Will in Courts

SEATTLE, Oct. 14.—Affidavits that will establish the right of inheritance of the heir of the beautiful young wife of the fifteen million dollar Engineer Gold Mine of Atlin, which are expected to set aside the will of the late Captain James Alexander, the locator and principal owner of the mine, will be filed at Vancouver in the British Columbia courts this week, according to an announcement here by George Hannan.

Revealing for the first time the full romance of Captain Alexander and the beautiful nurse, Miss Abbey Williams, which started in St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, when Miss Williams nursed Alexander, affidavits will prove the wedding of the couple, said Hannan.

The courts held that more proofs of Alexander's marriage to his former nurse must be proved but the record of the wedding was lost with them in the wreck of the steamer Princess Sophia on October 24, 1918. Now Hannan claims they have the affidavits of two living witnesses of the wedding ceremony, one a daughter of the minister who married them.

PASSING OF A FRENCH WRITER

TOURS, France, Oct. 14.—Anatole France the illustrious novelist died here at the week end.

Deceased's real name was Jacques Anatole Thibault, and he was born in Paris on April 16, 1844, the son of a bookseller. He grew up in literary surroundings, and was educated at Stanislaus College. He has been described as a skeptic in religion; metaphysics, politics and science yet in later years some of his ideals underwent a change, for he was interested in Bolshevik experiment in Russia.

In 1920 France, at the age of 76, was married to Mile Emma La Prevotte, more than 40 years his junior, declaring that he was "starting life anew." During the world war he enlisted in the French army as a private soldier, but his years precluded his seeing active service.

The men's competition opens on Thursday night and there will be four games weekly thereafter.

INVOKED RAIN GODS TO SAVE JAP CROPS

OSAKA, Oct. 14.—A summer of unprecedented drought has brought to light strange and primitive customs among the farmers of the countryside around Osaka.

So great has become the menace to crops that there has been supplication to the rain gods, used only in the greatest emergency, and resorted to only twice in the last 70 years. This is the "opening of the sacred well" in the precincts of the famous Oira shrine, near Osaka.

Seven men are chosen by lot from among the people of the village in which the shrine is located. These offer prayers for a week, living apart in the shrine precincts, and purifying themselves by daily rites of absolution. Then a fence of dry grass is built around the sacred well and the opening begins. The well is buried deep in the earth. Before its stone cover can be reached three boxes, each containing a prayer in ancient Sanskrit, relics of the early days of Buddhism in Japan, have to be unearthed. When the stone cover of the well is removed, according to the belief, an inexhaustible flood of cold water gushes over the brim, the sky becomes overcast and rain falls heavily. How efficacious the prayers have been in this instance is not yet known.

Only twice within the memory of man has this ceremony been carried out, in 1884 and again in 1911. On the latter occasion, the farmers say, heavy rain began to fall while prayers were still being offered up.

The natives had an audience with Mr. King yesterday at noon. The Premier stated that the policies of Sir Wilfrid Laurier with respect to the Indians would be followed out.

Interior representatives were: Kitwanooc, Chief Weka, President Williams and Secretary G. Williams; Kispiox, J. G. Brown; Hazelton, Tom Campbell; Kitwanga, Henry Willits; Kitsequekia, Stephen Morgan. They will return to their home on this afternoon's train.

Billiard organization for the season will be completed at the meeting of the City Billiard League called for tonight when entries will be called for and the secretary instructed to draw up the schedule for the winter. There will be first and second divisions constituting practically Senior and Intermediate leagues. The latter is a new departure in local billiard organization which gives promise of proving popular. Players and followers of the game alike are getting impatient for the season to start and will await with interest the announcement of when the opening games will be played.

Canada's Position in the Empire Outlined by W. L. Mackenzie King in Masterly Address at Luncheon

That the discussions that had taken part between the governments of Great Britain and Canada were carried on in the friendliest spirit and each side was actuated by a desire not to weaken the ties which bind the different parts of the Empire together but to make the British Empire prevail and last throughout the centuries to come, was the keynote of the address given by Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King at the luncheon in his honor in the Elks' Hall yesterday. The Empire he likened to a constellation in which there was the central sun and the planets revolving around it and yet each planet complete in itself. He saw no good in trying to organize a constitution for the Empire but stated that he preferred to see each case settled according to the common rights of the different parts of the Empire affected, going on from precedent to precedent ever broadening, the essential being the common understanding of the rights of each part, the responsibility of each government and the predominance of the people through their Parliament.

Premier King interested the audience from the beginning and carried them away with his eloquence as he told step by step of the modern developments in inter-imperial relations and particularly those which affected Canada. He developed the idea of the interdependence of each yet each with individual rights as represented by the arch in the House of Parliament at Ottawa, closing with the statement that the Empire stood for light, truth and justice and the well being of mankind.

J. W. Scott, president of the Board of Trade introduced the speaker and at the close a hearty vote of thanks was proposed in a bright speech by Archdeacon Rix and seconded by L. W. Patmore and carried with applause.

Congratulations
The Premier in opening paid a compliment to the president of the Board and expressed pleasure at the warmth of the welcome he had received here. He congratulated the city on the improvement evident since he was here last, especially in the streets and spoke of the prospect of greater progress in the future. His subject dealt with the Imperial Conference in London and the imperial relations which had been the subject of some debate. His aim he said was to stimulate Canadian unity and sound another note in connection with the place which the Dominion had assumed in the Empire.

Mr. King described graphically the room in which the conference met and the discussions which took place. The history of the room in Number 10 Downing Street was the history of the British Empire in the making. He told of the assembling of the representatives and of the prominent place Canada had taken. The conference opened with a general discussion of foreign affairs and defense. Lord Curzon had discussed in detail the conditions of the whole world and the problems of the Empire at that time. It was the most remarkable utterance he had ever listened to. He had shown that while the war was over the nations were not at peace until Mr. King felt that no part of the world was in as happy a position as this continent and especially the northern part of it.

Defense
Next came a discussion on the matter of defense, led by the Minister of War, the First Lord of the Admiralty and the Minister of Air. The relations with France in regard to the building of airships had been discussed, relations which had since improved. Then the conference went more into detail and also the members were shown the British Navy at Spithead and the flying fleet at Croston.

One of the matters discussed at the conference was the making of treaties with special reference to the halibut treaty between Canada and the United States. This treaty is being finally signed this week. The most important feature of the conference was the fact that it was not a cabinet council but a conference and all its findings has to be submitted to each government concerned and to the Parliament of each country before it became effective. There was a fundamental difference between a council and a conference. Formerly governments had operated from the top downwards and this did not work out well. Today the people chose their representatives, the representatives chose the ministers who kept in close touch with the people all that time.

God Given Right
There are still a few people, the Premier said, who thought they had the God given right to govern and that the people were not to be trusted. An example of this which perhaps was justified was seen in the war cabinet which initiated war policies during the emergency. A group of ministers assumed all authority. That was not a cabinet but an imperial council and was just for an emergency. Some thought that condition should be perpetuated but the people refused to be governed from above but insisted rather on the right to govern from below.

Working Instrument
In the British Empire the speaker said he saw a great working instrument, the means of working out policies of which all approved. Defence of trade routes and territory it was decided should be defended by the territory affected but that it lay with each part to say what any other should do. "Trust me all or not at all" was the policy, with the belief in each community to do the right thing. A common system of trading was suggested so that each would thoroughly understand the other.

Is your wife wiser than you?

IF YOU read only the stock and sporting pages, and your wife is like other women, she is wiser than you. She reads the shopping news.

She likes to hear you jingle money in your pockets. She likes to stretch money to the limit, so she won't have to ask for more. She likes to shop strategically. Know what she does.

Comfortably at home in a cushiony arm-chair, she scans advertising columns. She compares, judges and selects the goods she desires; maps her route; with least effort and minimum time, goes direct to the planned store and buys.

She obtains what she wants at the lowest price it is offered. She is certain of full satisfaction, for she knows advertised goods live up to their claims. She saves time and steps, and returns sufficiently alert to enjoy new advertisements--and to prepare you an appetizing dinner.

These advertisements are written for your benefit too. Read them. Help her help you save.

to that time Canada had not even been asked. The Canadian government took the view that this matter should be dealt with by the representatives of Canada in Parliament. They cabled asking for the fullest possible information so that they might lay the matter before the people's representatives. They had been criticized for their action but later it was discovered that the messages sent from England had never been authorized by the cabinet and they were told that the action of Canada did much to restrain action which might have brought about war. If they were to have government by the people, through their representatives in Parliament.

Lausanne Treaty.
When the Lausanne Treaty was made, Canada was not consulted and she took the position that until the terms of that treaty were ratified by the Canadian parliament it was not binding on this country. Senator Belecourt had finally been admitted to the conference with good results.

Discussion of these matters was a part of the history of our time. In moving a vote of thanks Archdeacon Rix paid a compliment to the speaker, saying it was one of the finest and most eloquent addresses he had ever heard.

FACES HARD WINTER.
ARCHANGEL, Russia. — Great droves of famished bears, emerging from the snowbound woods in search of foods, have killed thousands of sheep and cattle near Archangel. Natives have organized vigilance squads to shoot the marauding animals, which never before have been known to be so numerous at this time of year.

CARVINGS IN NEVADA TRACED TO CHINESE

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev., Oct. 14. —Wired rock writings in caves ten miles northeast of here are to be studied with a view to determining whether they are the work of Indians, as heretofore supposed, or of ancient Chinese. Gee Ding, Chinese student at the University of Nevada, made a visit to the caves recently and expressed belief that the writings are Chinese and depict a story of ancient Buddhist priests an attempt to circumnavigate the globe and of the landing on this continent.

It is legend in China, according to Gee Ding, that long ago, perhaps thousands of years back, five ships under command of Buddhist priests set sail and never returned. Gee Ding believes it may be possible the writings were made by these people.

A CLEANER PRINCE RUPERT

Scientists tell us that there is no such thing as rubbish nowadays. They have turned things that were formerly the most worthless waste into valuable sources of profit and employment.

Many readers will not be in sympathy with these statements as they contemplate the piles of ashes and clinkers, representing much good money all gone up in smoke. They must feel that an unnecessary proportion of their coal bill represents costly rubbish. Fortunately the people of Prince Rupert are becoming more and more acquainted with the fact that there is a coal, guaranteed by the biggest dealers in Prince Rupert, that leaves remarkably little ash, clinker or rock, with the result that fewer trips are being made to the lanes and backyards. This coal is called "NANAIMO-WELLINGTON" and has been proved to be the BEST by the heavy demand that is being made daily upon the local stock.

To be sure that you are getting this same "NANAIMO-WELLINGTON" coal you should order direct from Albert & McCaffery Ltd., who are sole agents here. Their phone numbers are 116 and 564.

is to our natural resources that we must go and no part of the Dominion has more latent wealth than British Columbia."

After advocating the adoption of policies that would make for the cheapest production possible so that Canada's exports might reach all parts of the globe, Mr. King announced that a treaty had just been concluded between Canada and Australia, whereby reciprocal preferential tariff on certain commodities would be provided. There would be free entry to Australia of paper products and fish from Canada and in return certain food products from Australia not competing with Canada's own. An intermediate rate was also provided for other commodities. Only a few details remained before the treaty would be put into effect. Sympathy With Pioneers.

"I want you to go away with the impression that this government has at heart the welfare of the people of the new parts of the Dominion," concluded Mr. King. "My sympathy is with the pioneers. They should receive the first consideration of the government. We do not want to injure that which has already been established, but, in the interests of all Canada, our efforts should be devoted to those who have withstood the difficulties of pioneering. In that desire, all the administration is with me. As I go through this country and see your difficulties my heart goes out to you in your efforts. There will be no higher honor, pleasure or satisfaction than to contribute to your assistance."

Other Speakers

In opening S. P. McMordie, president of the Liberal Association who presided spoke of how pleased and proud they were to have a prime minister with them for the second time.

Fred Stork spoke of it as a happy occasion. They had present four first class friends of Prince Rupert who would be sure to go back filled with enthusiasm for British Columbia. Men at Ottawa insisted on legislating for the country without having seen it and without understanding their problems. He felt sure the present visit would be productive of great results. The names of Andrew Hayden and Hal McGiverin were household names and these men needed no prodding to make them interested here. Mr. Gardin was a new minister of marine and fisheries and as such he took great pleasure in introducing him to the greatest halibut port in the world.

Premier King he thanked for giving the delegations a sympathetic hearing. The elevator was an assured and accomplished fact and the work on it was proceeding as fast as possible. One thing he urged and in doing so got the acclaim of the audience. It was that the absolute control of the fisheries should be transferred to Prince Rupert. He suggested that the Vancouver office be closed and that if a head office were necessary it should be established here.

Mon T. D. Pattullo

Hon. T. D. Pattullo said it was with pleasure he joined his fellow citizens of Prince Rupert in welcoming the prominent visitors. His father had prophesied that Mr. King would be premier of Canada and the prophecy had come true. He was pre-eminently fitted for the high office he held and the confidence of the people of the Dominion in him was increasing.

Prince Rupert had been called into being by the Liberal administration. A work well begun should be well finished. He was not here guessing as to the possibilities. There was everything here which would make for a big city. If nature had been more prodigal she would have done injustice to the rest of the world. Under these circumstances if he was a little exuberant as to the prospects he must be forgiven. In Mr. King there was a man from whom they had reason to expect such treatment as would bring about the prosperity they expected. He extended a hearty welcome to him on behalf of the Government of British Columbia.

at the table but was not given a plate, spoke humorously and effectively. He said he had been associated with Charles M. Hays and Wainwright. He had also been with Laurier enough to enable him to carry the vision of that great statesman and he had come to get acquainted at first hand with the railway and port that had then been planned. Mr. McGiverin also spoke of the valuable work being done by Fred Stork. No one in his experience had won the respect and confidence of the ministers and members of the House as had the member for Skeena.

Mr. McGiverin said they had in Mr. King a great leader. He had made a great record in the old country, when representing Canada there, and had won their hearts by his magnificent speeches. He had fought for Liberal principles, an autonomous nation under the British flag. Time was when a person who advocated such a thing was looked upon as a traitor to Britain. At the conference last year the old Liberal battlecry had been unanimously adopted by the mother country and the other nations of the Empire.

Hon. J. A. Gardin

J. A. Gardin, thanked the people for their generous welcome and said they had been much impressed with what they had seen and especially with the generous hospitality of the people of Prince Rupert. Since the Government had come into power they had been able to balance the budget and reduce taxes. Trade had improved so that the country was now selling more than she was buying. Now the affairs of the country were in a more satisfactory condition and they were ready to go ahead and take up the work where Laurier left it. In Prince Rupert they had many problems to solve, but the Government had not been in a position to do anything. Now they hoped to do their best to solve the problems in which Prince Rupert people were interested.

Mr. Gardin spoke of the good feeling existing between the French speaking people of Quebec and the rest of the country. He said he would have a message to take back with him that French Canadians in Prince Rupert were succeeding and were receiving the consideration of the rest of the community. There was no race or religious problems here. He said his people had no other country to think of but Canada. Their fathers were buried on the banks of the St. Lawrence and they were Canadians who would do their best to live happily and get the favorable consideration of the English speaking people.

SHEEP RAISING ON ISLAND SUCCESSFUL

Small Shipment Arrives in Town The First of Series

Two sheep arrived in the city yesterday from V. Grinson's ranch, situated at Oslund, Smith Island, consigned to the H.B. Butchers & Grocers Ltd. The shipment is the forerunner of regular shipments of mutton from Smith Island to the city. According to Mr. Grinson, while the raising of sheep in the surrounding district is at present the experimental stage considerable success has been attained already and both the climatic and fodder conditions existing on the island have been found particularly suitable to this end. There is a good demand in the north for local mutton and the raising of sheep is already proving profitable.
