well-equipped hospital, with one or more nurses constantly in attendance, and a doctor either in attendance or on call. In adopting these precautions to safeguard and conserve the health of its workers, the Company confesses to a personal interest in the well-being of every one of them. At the same time, it has the additional satisfaction of knowing that its course is strictly in line with sound business practice. Time lost through sickness means earnings lost to the worker and production lost to the Company. Because there is a mutual advantage in reducing such lost time to a minimum, at the first sign of sickness or of undue fatigue the worker is expected to report immediately to the hospital for examination, treatment, and rest if need be. Hours or even minutes spent in checking incipient trouble may easily mean days, possibly weeks, saved in fighting serious

A complete case history card is kept for every employee, based upon a thorough medical examination that is repeated at varying intervals, depending upon the facts and conditions revealed. Minor conditions needing correction which can be effected without absence from work, are treated in the Company's hospital.

To the hospital, of course, come all emergency cases. Fortunately, accidents are so few that on the average less than one day's work per year is lost for every nine employees. But even the occasional scratch or cut is immediately brought in for dressing, as a precaution against infection. To the hospital too, at mid-morning and mid-afternoon every day, come all underweight cases for their free ration of milk. And to the physician in charge, any employee may come at any time, for free diagnosis, free medical advice.

Any absence from work of more than three days' duration is promptly investigated by a Company nurse, who calls at the employee's home, taking with her any wages earned but unpaid. It sickness of a serious character is found to be the cause, she sees to it that competent medical supervision is provided at once.

It affords the Company real pleasure to serve the interests of its workers in these ways, and none the less so since experience has proven it is mutually beneficial.

Jubilee Tea By Girl Guides Was Pleasant Affair

The Jubilee tea and sale of home cooking held in the St. Andrew's Cathedral Hall on Saturday afternoon by the members of the Prince Rupert Girl Guide Association was a very pleasant and enjoyable affair. The hall, appropriately decorated for the occasion with flowers and flags, was very pretty.

Mrs. Ernest Anderson was general convener, Mrs. Shelford Darton, Mrs. D. Orchard McLeod, Mrs. J. B. Gibson and Mrs. M. P. McCaffery presided at the tea tables while Mrs. R. L. McIntosh, president of the association, received the guests. In charge of the home cooking table was Mrs. F. A. MacCallum, assisted by Guide Helen Brown. Those serving included Patrol Leaders Hazel Lear and Hazel Mastin, Patrol Second Edna McLean and Guides Geraldine Cade, Flora Leslie, Betty Borland, Kay Nickerson, Eleanor Clapp, Marian McLachlan and Ruth Scherk.

Patrol Second Joan Baker was cashier.

During the afternoon the girls of the Junior Auxiliary danced very prettily. Those taking part were Helen Doctor, Marian Sheppard, Millicent Anderson, Arlene Fitzgerald, Joyce Kielback, Marie Norton, Jean Finn, Lillian Hill, Margaret Smith and Helen Gamula.

There were also piano solos by Guide Betty Wilkinson. The proceeds of the affair will go to the Girl Guide camp fund.

MRS. ETHEL DUFF

To benefit others Mrs. Duff, 135 Wellington Street E., Chatham, Ontario, swears to the facts before notary of how Fruit-a-tives rid her of sick-headaches and stomach trouble in less than a month. Mrs. Duff generously made her statement in this fashion so everyone can be sure of its truth. She states,-"I was bothered with stomach trouble which brought on sick-headaches. Nothing I took did any good. Then I started taking Fruit-a-tives. In less than a month my stomach trouble had gone and I had no more headaches. Fruit-a-tives also helped my husband who suffered from stomach trouble too."
