SENDING A FOE TO COURT

While every other city in Canada, and indeed all over the world has had something good to say about Prince Rupert, one city has never missed an opportunity to knock our rising metropolis of Northern B. C. That knocker city is, of course, Vancouver. Everybody in Prince Rupert knows that Vancouver persistently knocks Prince Rupert, knocks her climate (though it is at least as good as Vancouver's) knocks her enterprise, knocks her prospects, knocks her progress. Everybody in Prince Rupert knows why.

Cities are referred to as feminine perhaps because they are always a little jealous of one another's attractions even when they aren't actually rivals in any other direction. But Vancouver is intensely carry. Many of them have purjealous of Prince Rupert because she looks on Prince Rupert as a really dangerous rival. Vancouver is afraid of Rupert with that shorter route from her splendid unobstructed sea gate-ways to the riches of the Orient. Vancouver is afraid of Rupert with her splendid easiest-grade-in-the-world railway route to the markets of the East.

Vancouver is jealous of Rupert, and so Vancouver and those whose interests are wrapped up in Vancouver's never fail to knock Prince Rupert at every possible opportunity. It need not be so, for Vancouver has had a long start of Rupert, and has enough resources at her gates and around her to ensure for her a rich and glorious future. But Vancouver is not a very old city yet, and has not yet learned to be generous to a rival. Vancouver is girlishly jealous, and you won't find a Vancouver man ever doing anything to boost Rupert when he can boost Vancouver instead. Quite on the contrary.

And yet the Conservative party have the superb effrontery to Specials for Friday and foist one of the most out and out Vancouverites who ever trod Granville street-Mr. H. S. Clements, no less-upon Prince Rupert voters as candidate for Comox-Atlin! No doubt they thought the fact that Mr. Clements had once stayed for a little while in Prince Rupert $30.00 Ladies' Hand Bags $18.00 was not prepared to risk the safety of the brute," cried Kitty, almost in tears, West Coast of Graham Island. Commencing at a post play into his arms. But as that sturdy champion of Prince Rupert-Mr. Tom Dunn, pointed out unmistakably, the very fact that Mr. Clements once stayed in Rupert is his worst recommendation to the Prince Rupert electorate. Mr. Clements didn't stay here long enough. He didn't want to. He didn't like Prince Rupert. He couldn't find words bad enough to knock Prince Rupert with when he got back to his beloved Vancouver. It rather looks as if he didn't make good here; but let us spare Mr. Clements that.

And this is the man the Conservative party would like to see represent the interests of Comox-Atlin-the interests of Prince Rupertat Ottawa. A man whose interests are those of Vancouver which is not in Comox-Atlin at all—to represent Comox-Atlin! A Vancouver man to stand up for the interests of Prince Rupert when Vancouver considers herself Rupert's natural foe and natural knocker amongst cities! An enemy at court, in fact, for Prince Rupert if Mr. Clements were by chance returned! Well, really! What do they take the Prince Rupert voters for?

THE IMPOSSIBLE ACHIEVED

One of the Conservative members who is now raising his voice against the acceptance of the reciprocity agreement expressed, in the phrase "it is too good to be true," the general feeling of his colleagues in January when Mr. Fielding announced that such terms would never pass the United States Senate. All former negotiations for reciprocity had gone to establish the theory that the policy of the United States was to require a considerable reduction in the duties on manufactured goods entering Canada from the United States as the price for the free entry of Canadian natural products into the Just the thing for Wedding Gifts. markets of the United States.

It was believed that it would be impossible to bring about reci- Sterling Silver, is being sold at procity except by the making of a treaty rendering its continuance about HALF PRICE. obligatory for a considerable term of years. Against the making of such a treaty not a few men prominent in the public and commercial life of Canada and the United States protested on the ground that political conditions in both countries might so change that the treaty going at cost. would be an obstacle to the working out of large fiscal policies. The Canadian advocates of mutual trade preference within the British | Empire were especially insistent on the unwisdom of entering into Do you intend buying a diaa trade treaty with the United States that would prevent Canada from taking full advantage of the launching of a scheme of Imperial preference.

It was believed also that as a condition of a wide measure of reciprocity, involving the free entry into the United States of the products of Canadian farms, forests, and fisheries, the United States would endeavor to secure the removal from the Canadian tariff of One the British preference and the acceptance of the imports of the United States at the same rates of duty as those of the Motherland. These three things—a definite treaty for ten or twenty years, material One Second-Hand Bell Piano, for a day's siesta after a long night's that! No! leave them rifles there. reductions in our duties on United States manufactures, and the repeal of the British preference-were conditions that Washington was expected to propose.

It was quite certain that no Government of which Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the head and Mr. Fielding, the Finance Mimister, would consent to the abolition of the British preference as a condition of reciprocity or of any other fiscal arrangement with the United States. The granting of better terms in the Canadian market to the products of the British peoples than to those of any country outside the Empire is the cardinal principle of the Liberal fiscal policy and will so remain. But the issue was never raised in the negotiations, nor was it found necessary on the part of Canada to make any material changes in the tariff on manufactured goods or to agree to a treaty for a fixed period. Thus what was believed to be "too good to be true" is now within reach. Canada and the United States put practically all natural products of importance on the free list. There are a few reductions in the duties on manufactures, chiefly farm implements, but they have been made by mutual agreement. There is no treaty, and either nation may change its tariff and restore the duties now to be removed without even consulting the other. The impossiblehas been achieved.

CHAPTER V.

If Anstruther had not been your and reckless, and the ladies accustomed for years to look upon all Indians as inoffensive, there would have been but little sleep in the white people's camp that night.

Th Indians did not sleep. Through all that long night the hunters of the Chilcotens sat round their fire, smoking and muttering among themselves, casting now and again evil glances toward the spot where the white people lay.

Constant contact with men, armed with weapons of precision, has taken the courage out of the grizzly; it has had the same effect upon a tribe which is naturally one of the boldest and flercest in Western Canada, but the instincts of the savage remain, and anyone with half an eye would have recognized that dull glow in the forest gloom an a storm centre.

An hour or two passed by, the night deepened, the drone of growling voices itself from the gloom and slipped with out a sound into the firelit circle.

One of the bright and shining lights in the Eastern league this year is Johnny Dubuc, the Waterbury boy now pitching for Montreal. The former Notre Dame star, after a trial by Cincinnati, failed to come up to standard. Up to August 8 he had won 10 straight games and at the last big game he pitched, no less than 15 major league gumshoe workers observed his work. Montreal wants $10,000 for Dubuc.
