SAD SCENES AT ANYOX

Visitors returning to the city from Anyox during the past few days say that these are sad times at the old smelter town. Following the decision of the Granby Co. to close out its operations there after practically a quarter of a century's bustling activity, the people are moving out in the hundreds. Some have new jobs to go to elsewhere. Many have not and for a great number the future is uncertain. The only ones who seem happy about the prospect of moving, they say, are the children who were either singles of the Canadian Nationa born there or had lived in Anyox so long that they remember no other place. For them the big outside world has many attractions to excite their curiosity.

Many of the people, more especially the family folk, who are now leaving Anyox have lived there for upwards were played last night, this event of twenty years. In that period of time, many friendships sets had been played. Horton and have been made. With the general exodus comes a parting | McIntosh defeating Morrison and of the ways for close friends. other.

There is indeed something pathetic about it all. Anyox. duled for 6:30 this evening, all the it now seems certain, is about to join the ranks of the remaining events are now in the "ghost towns," going the way of all mining camps. The finals to be played off on Sunday, big dance halls, the recreation centres, the reoming and as follows: boarding houses, the centres of industry, the shops, etc. will soon be quiet. Trees and vegetation will in time flour ish again where people have labored and played these past two decades or more. New timber will grow up with ne fumes from the smelter to bother it. As a contemporary has observed, the graves in the cemetery row on row will remain as mute witness in memory of a once great and flourishing centre of population and industry.

ABOUT MR. WINCH

Our good friends of the C. C. F., who have ever done much to keep the Daily News in the limelight and oil whose recognition and free advertising we are much ap preciative, have been often wont to accuse this journa of being a unit of the terrible "capitalistic press." They have said things about us which, had we not been pretty certain about their sincerity, we would have been tempted to believe constituted sheer deception or misrepresentation rather than a plain case of not knowing what they were talking about. Now our contemporary, the Interior News, comes out in a critical way of the C. C. F., charging it with exploiting the present distress to keep already hard-pressed citizens in a state of unrest without offering anything whatever of a definite nature to improve conditions.

The Interior News included the following comment in an editorial inspired by the recent address in Smithers of H. E. Winch, youthful member for Vancouver East, who spoke in Prince Rupert last night:

"Mr. Winch was interesting in his anecdotes and vitrio- lic expletives; he was terse in ridicule and all that, but sion fare offered by the Canadian days of terms a least the canadian days after he closed his meeting the very same people who National Railways to go to the inlaughed at his comparisons and mildly applauded his very terior town and attend a big sports trenchant criticisms began asking themselves: 'What did meet or visit with friends. C. F. intended to do and how. It is all very well and very easy to attack and criticize. It is not so easy to offer a constructive solution. None of us need to be told that there is something wrong. What we all want to hear more about is the plan to right the situation. From what we have observed of him, we would say that Mr. Winch should be competent to present the C. C. F. plan, whatever it may be, if he would not fall into the error, so typical of the public speakers of his party, of wearying himself and his audience beating the chaff in futile criticism and neglecting the real grain of detailing constructive policy.
