BEST ROSS MEETING OF ALL TO-NIGHT--BE THERE

ROUSING SPEECHES AND SONGS AT ROSS SMOKER

W. J. McKenzie Gave a Fine Address With Interesting Political Reminiscences—Ernest Flexman and G. H. Morgan Were Among the Able Speakers

One whole evening of bubbling and roaring enthusiasm for Ross and Reciprocity. That is a fair description of the smoker at the Liberal committee rooms last evening. There were a number of excellent speeches further elucidating the merits of the question of the hour, and a couple of campaign songs that were given a rousing reception.

William E. Williams presided, making an address at the opening which was a clever resume of the best arguments favoring reciprocity, interspersed with interesting facts and figures that have not before been brought forward. Then came Mr. Ross, who spoke briefly but very much to the point and was cheered to the echo. His words will be found in another column.

Cowan Absolutely Cultus
Mr. Slide sang "The Banner of Labor," after which Fred Stork made another of his telling addresses. He closed in these words: "We have a man coming into our midst—a man who branded our brilliant leader as a white-livered coward. He is a man who is absolutely cultus in the City of Vancouver, which has chucked him on to Prince Rupert. We have two of them now. To hear Mr. Clements criticizing Sir Wilfrid Laurier—to hear a man of Clements' known character and temperament and ability talking as he does of the greatest political leader of the age, cuts on to the raw. On Thursday Mr. Clements will receive his quietus. Mr. Powell and he will pack their grips together and put them on the Henriette." (Roars of laughter.)

Rattling Campaign Song
There followed a piano solo by Mr. Adams and Ernest Flexman gave his impressions of reciprocity from the view point of the consumer. "In my household," he said, "the consumption is increasing (hearty laughter) and anything that tends to make food cheaper is to me very interesting." He followed with an excellent argument punctuated by a couple of humorous stories.

G. H. Morgan gave both a speech and song, the latter containing advice to Clements to "Always burn a night light by his bed." Then followed the rollicking campaign song of "Ross and Reciprocity," sung by "Deacon" Fletcher, everyone joining in the chorus. The words of the song will be found in another column.

An old warhorse in politics, the sturdy W. J. McKenzie, of Foley-Welch & Stewart, was the next speaker. He started out by saying that when Canada had reciprocity before the country prospered during those twelve years as never before. He was well primed with facts and figures and put up a convincing argument. He said that since we lost reciprocity Conservatives had been advocating getting it back, and when Minister Fielding reported the result of his visit to Washington the Conservative members of parliament joined in the cheers of the Liberals at the prospect of once more obtaining reciprocity at an early date.

A VOTE FOR CLEMENTS IS A VOTE FOR VANCOUVER

"Vote for Vancouver!" would make a fine battlecry for the Conservative forces tomorrow. Not content with foisting a Vancouver man upon the Comox-Atlin electorate, and having the audacity to place him right here in Prince Rupert the city he persistently knocked, for the balance of the campaign, these brilliant strategists proceed now to call to their candidate's aid another Vancouverite, Mr. George H. Cowan, who is billed as principal speaker for their final rally tonight.

If Vancouver were in Comox-Atlin Mr. Clements' candidature would not be so absurd. If Vancouver had ever shown the generous spirit of a "booster" big-sister city towards Prince Rupert, it would not have been so insulting to Prince Rupert citizens. If Mr. Clements had not been such a quitter when he was here for a few months, or such an incorrigible knocker of Prince Rupert after he left, it would not have been so disloyal for Prince Rupert to listen to him.

Vancouver is not in Comox-Atlin. Vancouver has never by any chance boosted Prince Rupert. Mr. Clements himself has been known beyond question, as a man whose epithet applied to our city when he left it for Vancouver, is an insult as unforgettable as the term is unprintable.

For the Conservatives now to bring in a Vancouver man to bolster up their "quitter," candidate from Vancouver is adding insult to the insult of Mr. Clements' appeal for Prince Rupert support.

VANCOUVERITE WHO CALLED SIR WILFRED WHITE-LIVERED COWARD

Duncan Ross Shows up Cowan For What he is and Crowded Audience Heaps Contumely Upon the Name in Groans, Hoots and Hisses—Duty Prince Rupert People Paid For Fruit Wednesday a Point to Remember Tomorrow

Duncan Ross, the Liberal candidate, gave but a brief address at the smoker last night, prefacing his remarks with the statement that the arguments pro and con reciprocity had been well threshed out during the campaign to the great satisfaction of those most directly interested, the wage earners and the merchants who supplied them, and he purposed saving his voice for the last meeting of the campaign this evening.

"Our good friend Tom Dunn," he began, "has told me there are seventeen Conservatives in this city who are still on the fence. I am going after three of them this evening, and I believe I shall get them." (Cheers.)

Message for Voters
"I have just one thing to leave with you tonight. You remember that about two sessions ago Sir Wilfrid Laurier, carrying out a constitutional practice introduced a measure for the purpose of starting the nucleus of a Canadian navy. Such a navy in time of peace is for policing our shores; not for the purpose of interfering with those who keep within the law but as a protection and to see that all do keep within the law just as your city police are doing."

"This policy introduced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier was unanimously adopted by parliament without regard to party politics. Every member voted for it just as every member was in favor of reciprocity as soon as Sir Wilfrid advocated it." (Cheers.)

Representative Government
"Just so long as the people of Canada have control of their own affairs just so long will they insist that the people in control shall be responsible for the money expended. If we took the advice of our Conservative friends we should be saying: You pay the money without representation and we will spend the money for you. This doctrine led to the Mother Country losing one of her richest colonies. The colonists of America said—We will pay no taxation unless we have our own representatives in parliament to see how the money is expended. The colonists failed to obtain this representation and they secured their independence."

Hot Shot for Mr. Cowan
"A man will be with you tomorrow night who represented Vancouver in your parliament. He is generally in a state of inebriety at the time he gets up to speak and in one of these occasions he used the term 'tin pot navy' in referring to this policy which had been so generally agreed to by all the members of the House irrespective of party. He forgot everything due to a gentleman and referred to Sir Wilfrid Laurier in these words: 'This is the white-livered coward who refused to send a man to South Africa until the people forced him to do so.' (Cries of "Shame and hisses.")

Here to Boost Clements
"That gentleman was very properly retired to private life by the Vancouver people, and yet a Vancouver real estate man brings him here to tell you how you

CONSERVATIVES CONCEDE BIG MAJORITY FOR ROSS

Alex. Manson's Able Address at the Ross Smoker—Tells What Kind of Man the Vancouver Booster of the Vancouver Candidate Really Is Probably the ablest political address of the whole campaign was the one with which Alex. Manson closed the Liberal smoker last night. He came on the platform to say a few words, prefacing them with the remark that the audience must be tired of hearing arguments as the issue had already been so well threshed out. This was no doubt his intention, but when he got started he piled argument upon argument, fact upon fact in convincing sequence, and it was all so new and original that he absorbed and held the close attention of the audience from start to finish. No such complete and brilliantly illuminating address upon the present political situation and the circumstances that led to it has before been given in the campaign.

There is only space for a few of the local points he made at its close. Speaking of Sir Wilfrid's genius in the selection of members of his cabinet he said that the premier had had his eye on Duncan Ross as available cabinet timber when the time should come and—"it was no small compliment Sir Wilfrid paid to this constituency when he asked you to send back Duncan Ross to the House." This was received with roars of applause.

"Clements is dodging the issue," he went on, "and he will be dodging the electors on Thursday. As Mr. Stork has said, he will be packing his little grip early. Mr. Clements will go back on the Venture." (Laughter.)

"Another man is coming here from Vancouver. I see no reason why George H. Cowan should get a warm reception here. (A Voice: We'll make it warm enough). Cowan is the man who a few years ago had the whole of his ranch cleared by Japanese and Chinese labor. Yet he will come up here and explode on the Asiatic question." (Laughter.)

"He is the man who is coming up here to boost for Clements. He has been sent for because the Conservatives of Prince Rupert are in a panic. They concede that Duncan Ross will have a majority in Prince Rupert of 135. (Cheers). If it is not 435 majority I shall be very much mistaken in my calculations. (Renewed cheers.)

"Vote early, and as soon as you have done so come to these committee rooms and help our committee to gain others to swell the majority for Ross." (Cheers and shouts "We'll do that all right, all right.")

SWEEPING SUCCESS SURE ALL FOR ROSS UP RIVER

Conservative Resistance to Reciprocity Fails in Face of Convincing Arguments in Favor of the Great Prosperity Bringing Measure—Many Converts

(Special Wire to The News)
Kitselas, Sept. 20.—A triumph for Duncan Ross and Reciprocity aptly describes the result of vigorous work on behalf of the Liberal candidate for Comox-Atlin. Everywhere meetings have been swayed by convincing arguments convincingly put before the electors, to enthusiastic support of reciprocity, and rousing cheers for Duncan Ross. Even the most pronounced Conservatives in the Prince Rupert district are found in support of reciprocity because it will so develop the district and Prince Rupert its centre.

Copper City Crowd
At Copper City on Monday a large meeting of ranchers was held at which Mr. J. S. Cowper spoke and answered questions for two hours. The meeting which was doubtfully disposed at first ended up enthusiastically in favor of Ross and reciprocity. A cordial vote of thanks to the speaker proposed by Mr. Walker, one of the most prominent local Conservatives, was given with a will and the meeting ended with cheers for Ross and reciprocity redoubled.

Clements Couldn't
At Kitselas last night Mr. Clements did not turn up to resume the debate with Mr. Cowper as challenged. Local Conservatives in alarm put on their smoking concert previously planned and advertised for Wednesday. Many of them came to the Liberal meeting, however, and became converted to reciprocity. An enthusiastic meeting closed with repeated cheers for speakers for Ross and reciprocity.

Conservative Conspiracy
Details just brought to light show that certain provincial employees had entered into a conspiracy to save Clements from getting the drubbing at Kitsumkalum on Saturday in debate with Mr. Cowper. They had agreed to bombard Mr. Cowper with foolish questions and break up the meeting. The plan mis-carried however, owing to Mr. Cowper's insisting that all questions should come through Mr. Clements and that he should take the responsibility for asking them. A substantial majority is predicted for Ross all along the line.

Jail Breaker Gets Clear

Nelson, Sept. 20.—(Special)—Henry Forget, son of Senator Forget of Quebec, who was sentenced at Spokane after being arrested here, has broken jail and disappeared. He was arrested for stealing diamonds and jewelry.

Reciprocity is the one and only issue in this election campaign. And reciprocity is a straight business issue and must be discussed as such.

TWO MEN HURT BY SHOT IN TUNNEL AT MILE 44

Charles Ericson and Henry Hansen Victims of First Serious Accident on This Work—Ericson in Hospital—Hansen May Not be Moved

This morning a Swedish workman named Charles Ericson was brought down river from the new tunnel being driven at Mile 44 suffering from injuries to the nose, forehead, and face caused by an explosion in the tunnel. Ericson was taken to the General Hospital. It is thought that his eye-sight will not be lost.

Another workman named Henry Hansen lies more critically hurt at the scene of the accident. He was injured severely about the chest and abdomen, and the doctor thought it too dangerous to have him moved until his condition improves. Efforts will be made to bring him in if possible tonight.

The accident occurred at the rock face inside the tunnel which is being carried in a curve to avoid the snowslides at this point. A shot had been fired successfully, but on examination it was found that one boring remained undischarged. In the attempt to clear this boring the charge became ignited, and the men were hurled down by the explosion. It was at first thought that both had been killed, but Ericson was able to crawl up. His injuries are cuts and contusions caused by fragments of rock. Hansen is heavily bruised, and suffering from

LOOK OUT FOR TORY BOGIES

Tomorrow is election day. Don't forget that. You have got it straight what reciprocity will do for you and your personal interests; what it will do to cheapen living; what it will do to build up Prince Rupert industries, and make labor in demand at higher rates. Don't be scared off by any Tory bogies. Vote straight for Ross and reciprocity.

It might be worth while to catalogue some of the Tory bogies that Clements has been trying to scare you with, so as to have them for handy reference.

Bogey No. 1.—Reciprocity will mean ruin to Canadian prosperity, home markets and farm industry, and make the tie with the Motherland till more imperceptible. That is a peculiarly comprehensive bogey, disposing of a quartette of subjects at one fell swoop. In some senses it is the deadliest of all, and that is saying much.

Bogey No. 2.—Reciprocity is going to turn the Grand Trunk Pacific into two streaks of rust instead of lines of steel. This is an awful specter by itself, and enough to chase sleep away. What would become of Prince Rupert then? It would please Clements, of course, because he has always been a knocker of Prince Rupert in behalf of "my beloved Vancouver."

Bogey No. 3.—Reciprocity is going to destroy Montreal's export shipping trade, close the factories of Ontario, wipe the twin cities at the head of Lake Superior off the face of the map, and make Winnipeg a backyard suburb of St. Paul. The exact kind of dire results that will surely overtake the halibut fisheries of Prince Rupert, Vancouver, and Victoria await the prophecy of Tory orators. But Clements has nothing but good to prophecy for his beloved Vancouver.

Bogey No. 4.—Reciprocity is going to undo the Empire work of the Victorian and Edwardian eras and throw us back to the pre-Corn Law days. This again is a fine line of hogobolin, and when uttered is accompanied by moving references to the flag and to the fact that it belongs to one party which is responsible for its safety.

Bogey No. 5.—"Any trade at all with the United States is dangerous," by a frightened man by the name of Dick McBride, down Victoria way. Isn't that delicious, if a bogey may be so described, and what a lively time this funny politician must have in dodging in his own life and practice "trading or trucking at all with the United States!"

Bogey No. 6.—Canada's nationhood and independence are going to be sacrificed. Now isn't that dreadful, too! No more "O Canada" or "Maple Leaf Forever." They will be gone forever. No more Dominion Days—no more nothing. Eternal eclipse! Frightful bowwows! Everlasting smash!!!

These bogies comprise the whole stock in trade of the Tory party. They are the whole lock, stock and barrel of the Tory campaign platform. Do they scare you real bad? It is to laugh. Common sense will walk with you to the ballot box tomorrow and see that you vote straight for Ross and reciprocity.

THE MARKET IS READY

The United States market is ready and all that Canadians have to do is to pass the reciprocity agreement, walk in and take advantage of it. If the market conditions are not satisfactory after a trial of a year or so, or any time, Canada has merely to make a change in its tariff and conditions are changed.

And the question is whether or not we shall walk in and take advantage of this great market. It will be of the greatest advantage to all to accept it. If we reject it, we shall not have another opportunity for many years to come.

The United States has given us this opportunity because it is rapidly becoming an importing nation, and it is anxious about its food supply. If it does not make arrangements with us, it will look for its market in other places. Do we want these advantages?

WHY THEY WANT RECIPROCITY

Is it because the politicians of the United States have entered into a conspiracy with the Government of Canada to compass annexation that the United States offers to let Canadian wheat, barley, butter, cream, milk, cheese, cattle, sheep, hogs, vegetables, fruit, and many other food products into that country duty free?

What started the cry in the United States for reciprocity? It was the high cost of living, and the fact that the meat trade and the canning business and the supply of prepared foodstuffs generally had fallen into the hands of rings and trusts. Here is an illustration from a Cleveland paper of the way in which food taxation was hammered in the United States during the elections of last November:

"When ma has the Sunday dinner ready and rings the good old dinner bell, tariff-taxed 45 per cent, the hungry 'tribe' hustles for the dining-room.
"You and Willie and Lucy are

5 cents a gallon in the tariff bill because two or three monster dairy concerns in the United States needed protection against the pauper cows of Canada.

"Maybe ma and you will take buttermilk, and there's a tariff on that, too—2 cents a gallon.

"Then the real business of the hour begins in earnest.

"Scattered in tempting display over the laden table, your roving eye finds bread, taxed 26 per cent, through the flour in it; butter, taxed 6 cents a pound;

beets, 25 per cent, beans, 2 1-2 cents a pound; pickles and sauce, 40 per cent; cabbage, 2 cents a head; honey, 20 per cent; potatoes, 25 cents a bushel; onions, 40 per cent, and cranberries, 25 per cent.

"Between bites Willie tries to decide whether to take a double helping of the rice pudding, tariff-taxed 2 cents a pound for the rice; sugar, taxed 1 9-10 cents a pound, and raisins, 2 1-2 cents a pound, or one helping of the pudding and a piece of peach cobbler—peaches tariff-taxed 25 per cent.

"When hunger is finally appeased time can be taken, while chewing the toothpick, taxed 2 cents per 1,000 and an added 15 per cent on their wholesale value, to gaze at the flowers, taxed 25 per cent, which ma bought at the corner florist's, to make this Sunday dinner a little different from the weekday affairs.

"While Willie and Lucy are calmly munching their candy, taxed all the way up to 50 per cent, Pa makes for his briar pipe, taxed 35 per cent, and fills it with scrap tobacco, taxed 55 cents a pound, and ma cleans up the table.

"Oh, yes; to go back to the beginning of this Sunday dinner, the blessing that Pa asked on the tariff-taxed food was not taxed in the Payne-Aldrich bill."

That article shows why Uncle Sam is now offering to throw off the duties on Canadian foodstuffs, but Mr. Clements wants high tariffs to raise the cost of food.

The men who are opposing reciprocity have no argument other than annexation. That argument is a sad reflection on the quality of Canadian citizenship.

Will Not Buy Launch

Ald. Douglas reported to the council last night that the committee to which was referred the question of purchasing a launch to tow the sniff yacht out to sea, had figured it out that about a couple of trips a week would be sufficient for the present, and that for this amount of work it would be cheaper for the city to hire a launch. The report was adopted.

If the farmers are to be benefited all sections of the community will be benefited, because agriculture is the foundation of Canada's prosperity.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

TURN THEM OUT

All over the Comox-Atlin district the provincial authorities are swearing in special constables at act at the polling booths on election day. This action is illegal and uncalled for. It may be an attempt at intimidation or an effort to get party workers at the expense of the people of the province.

The Dominion Elections Act, Clause 137, says that only candidates, their agents, the deputy returning officer, and the poll clerk, and no others, are to be allowed in the polling booths.

All deputy returning officers in fulfilment of their duty must turn out any provincial constables who attempt to force their way into the polling booths.

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOING

By Clive Phillips Corley
(AUTHOR OF GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO, ETC.)

It was a "one man's show," to Jim's mind, when he did enter that dainty room in which Mrs. Rolt had gathered round her all her treasures, a room almost startlingly in contrast to the rest of the house, and its surroundings; one of those rooms which speak so plainly of the past which many up-country people have left behind them.

It was not only the photographs, framed and otherwise, with which the room was littered, which called to you, nor the two or three exquisite landscapes of Old Country scenery; nor even the little cabinet with its collection of miniatures, Rolts and Vernons bewigged and unformed, but the bed and powdered, after the various fashions of their sex and of the days in which they had lived; not these, nor even the great bowls of flowers which it was Mary Rolt's labor of love to raise with infinite trouble in her greenhouse in spite of the elements; rather was it the pervading atmosphere of the room, the visible expression of a loyal loving heart, which, whilst it would tolerate no word against the new house, sweetened all things with its memories of the old.

It has been the work of such women as Mrs. Rolt to keep alive the spirit of England on the wildest and most ragged edges of the earth, and it may even be that for those who love the England of their childhood, to whom find more of it in the distant colonial homes than they would today within the sound of Bow Bells.

Conditions change, but memory is faithful.

When he entered it, that room was almost too full of English memories for poor Jim Combe. The women were tired, and a little rift had appeared within the lute which had temporarily marred the harmony of their friendship, and Anstruther, seeing this, was busy charming them back to their most sweet natural selves.

Unasked and without any preface, he had seated himself down to the piano, and sometimes playing, sometimes singing softly to himself, he led them from gay to grave, from Sullivan to Beethoven, from "Little Yum-Yum" to "Douglas, tender and true, but never once away from that holy of holies, which the English call Home.

And as he played or sang, he talked to his lady, not in the foolish modern phrases, but in the music of the masters, and the words of love's great poets, until Jim, hating him the more, the more he recognized his mastery, felt hope fading very far away.

"What a fool I have been," thought Jim. "I have been angry, I do not know. I have been talking to her like a man with hawks, and what possible use is my brute strength and woodcraft against this man's magic."

Such skill as Jim had might have made a ranch wife happy, might lighten the labors of a working woman; but the dainty thing upon whom he had set his heart was never meant for the stress of hard living.

The voice of her own world was calling to her, and of course she would go back to it, and he could not blame her; but how he hated the other fellow.

"Thank you, Mr. Anstruther," said Mrs. Rolt, at last, as he paused for a moment. "You have been to use what David was to Saul, I think. But we must not make you do all the work. Won't you give us one song, Jim? Sing 'Somebody's a-calling' for Mr. Anstruther has called me all off to England, I think, and I want somebody to call me home again."

Her hand was lying on the little Japanese table by the side of her chair, and in the firelight the Boss's great fist closed over it.

He appreciated his mate's loyalty to himself and his chosen profession. Before the advent of Mr. Anstruther, Jim had whittled away many a long evening for the ranch folk with his mellow baritone, untrained it is true, but full and sweet as a thrush's voice, so that he could hardly refuse Mrs. Rolt's request.

"The herds are gathered in from plain and hill.
"Who's that a-calling?"
The boys are sleeping and the ranch is still.
"Who's that a-calling so sweet?"

he sang, and the old days came back to him. In spite of herself Kitty's face softened, and beneath her closed lids she saw pictures in which the stranger had no part.

"Yes, that is pretty," said Anstruther critically, when the song had come to a close, "especially the air and that one verse, but the rest of it is a bit weak, isn't? It seems to me that fellows don't think the words matter nowadays."

"Especially in your favorite comic opera? There is not much poetry about the 'Colonel on his little tin legs,' or your 'Singularly deep young man,' is there?" asked Mrs. Rolt.

"I did not think that people went to the comic operas for poetry?" "Those seem to be about the only things they do go to."

"Perhaps, and yet you know we have some songs in the Old Country which hardly need the music to make them beautiful."

"Yes, and modern songs, too. Is there no dignity in this?" and rising, he went again to the piano and sang Pollock's noble song, in which a modern has for once caught the chivalrous spirit of the past.

"It is not mine to sing the stately grace,
The great soul beaming in my lady's face.
But mine it is to follow in her train,
Do her labors in the measure or the strain,
Burn at her altar love's sweet frank-incense,
And worship her with distant reverence."

Nature had been kind to Frank Anstruther. There was no startling beauty in his face, but he had in an altogether uncommon degree that highly-bred grace, without which no man should dare to sing those courtly words. When his song closed, even Mrs. Rolt could not help admitting, "Yes, that is best."

Whatever Kitty thought, it was left unsaid, but there was no reassurance for Jim Combe in the cold bow with which she had him good-night.

It was "another victory for the Old Country."

CHAPTER VII.
The Storm

Kitty called out of the ranch drawing-room with her hand in the air, only to find that Anstruther she was in the sweetest of smiles. She came down next morning white-faced, the sparkle of her dimmed, and all the self-confidence gone; her spirit only returning when Anstruther made an bring that beast in. He simply dared not face those two women without it, so, with a glance at the damage he had done, he plunged recklessly into the storm bareheaded, dragging the great door to behind him.

It required all Anstruther's strength to shut the door, and for a moment he had to cling to the handle of it for support before he could make good his footing against the wind. Like most newly-arrived Englishmen he was still peculiarly about his attire, but in less time than it takes to write it, the glory of his boiled shirt and smart collar had gone, his riding breeches, built wide in the latest fashion, were clinging to him like the skin of a fish, his long coat-tails were performing like a giddy wind-mill, and his whole appearance was such as to justify his belief that the ladies at the window were convulsed with laughter. As he crossed the paddock it occurred to him that Mrs. Rolt was signaling to him to come back, but he was uncertain, and in any case he did not mean to go back without that infernal little beast which tempted him yard by yard across the corral, and towards the patch of shrieking and groaning timber.

Surely, he thought, the ladies were signaling to him, but he could not understand what they meant. They were calling, but the window was closed, which in itself would have been enough to drown their voices, without the deafening din all around him.

BOUNDARY WORK BEYOND RUPERT

First Rough Division Line Between Alaska and Canada Laid Out for Entire Length.

Dawson, Sept. 19.—The advance party of the international boundary survey expedition has reached the Arctic coast, completing all heli-scope work between Alaska and Canada. The members did not expect to finish this part of the work until late next season.

Next season's work will be greatly reduced from what was previously calculated.

It is believed that there will not be need for more than half the estimated force.

Such a quantity of supplies has been landed already at the distributing center on the Porcupine river that very little more will be needed next year. Dr. Cairnes, the Canadian geologist, who is attached to the party, has arrived here with advices. Others are expected here soon on their way out for the winter.

Conservative Policy

(Calgary Herald, Jan. 21, 1909)

The reciprocity treaty proposed by the present Liberal government in its careful regard for the integrity of Canadian industry within fair limits is a vindication of the wisdom of the national policy inaugurated by Sir John A. Macdonald that believed it wise to contemplate a reasonable reciprocity.

YUKON RIVER TRAFFIC STOPS

Last Steamer of Year from Dawson to Fairbanks Sails September 25.

Dawson, Sept. 20.—The last steamer of the year from Dawson for Fairbanks will sail September 25. The last steamer from Fairbanks for Dawson this season possibly will leave there by September 21.

So far ideal summer weather has prevailed, but the fall is so late advanced that a sharp drop of the temperature within two weeks may put a stop to navigation in the lower river. However, the river is sometimes open to the middle of October.

The last boats from Dawson for White Horse probably will leave October 10. The last boat down from White Horse also is likely to leave about that time. Thirty-five hundred tons of fall freight for Dawson is now starting from Vancouver and Seattle. The White Pass company is increasing its river fleet to handle the business.

The usual fall exodus from Fairbanks and Iditarod to Dawson via the Upper Yukon is now well under way. Thousands of Yukoners and Alaskans will pour into Seattle with hundreds of thousands of gold in the next six weeks.

A man named O. H. Hell asked a New York court to change his name. Probably he was tired of hearing people repeat his name.

Vote for Duncan Ross and a bigger market basket.

SONG WHICH MADE THE WELKIN RING FOR ROSS

Composed for the Ross Campaign by Ernest Flexman and Cleverly Sung at Liberal Smoker by "Deacon" Fletcher

Among the enjoyable features of the smoker at the Durcan Ross committee rooms last night was the introduction of a new campaign jingle, composed by Ernest Flexman. It was well sung by "Deacon" H. G. Fletcher and "caught on" almost from the start.

The following are the inspiring words of the ditty. Cut them out and paste them in your hat for use at the great Ross meeting this evening.

ROSS AND RECIPROCITY In fifty-four there were some men Who wanted annexation then, Lord Elgin stopped their little game By getting Reciprocity.

Vote for Reciprocity, Increase our trade's velocity, T'will bring us all prosperity, Ross and Reciprocity. The time passed by, and things were changed. We lost the trade concessions made, And Whigs and Tories all combined To try for Reciprocity.

Our Grand Old Man, advised that we, Should if we would successful be, "A waiting game must play" said He And we'll get Reciprocity.

Prince Rupert's place upon the map Would give so much advantage that Alaska's trade we're bound to tap If we get Reciprocity. So voters all it's up to you— There's just one thing for us to do— To cast our ballot, mark it true For Ross and Reciprocity.

High Cost of Living STRIKE IN IRELAND Six People Killed in Vienna Bread Riots Railways Tied Up and Troops Held in Readiness

(Canadian Press Despatch) Vienna, Sept. 19.—The city is quiet today after a turbulent Sunday, when scores of people were injured in riots fanned by the Socialists against the higher cost of living.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—(Special)—For the first time in the history of the city no tenders have been received for a civic loan. The city called for tenders for a loan of seven millions and no one responded.

Tanks of Blazing Oil Los Angeles, Sept. 19.—(Special)—Immense tanks of oil have been destroyed and firemen are fighting desperately to save the plant of the Hercules Oil Company here. The loss is already over half a million.

CALLED LAURIER A COWARD

should vote in this election. To my mind there is a proper spirit among Prince Rupert men which expects and demands decency in public men. For my part until Mr. George H. Cowan withdraws that gross insinuation against the character of our revered leader I do not propose to treat him as a man. (Loud applause and groans for Cowan).

Duty We Pay on Fruit

"I give you another little item to remember. You all eat fruit but not so much of it as you would like because it is so expensive. Now I find that last Wednesday you paid a little over $1200 in taxes, or duty, on the fruit that came in that day. If you had paid this $1200 taxes at the city hall there would have been something doing. If reciprocity goes into effect you will pay no duty on your fruit."

"This is one of many things I would ask you to remember when you go up to vote early Thursday morning. I know, however, that this is one you are not likely to forget, and on the saving that reciprocity means in general to the home maker you are well informed. Vote for reciprocity by all means."

The crowded audience cheered again and again as Mr. Ross closed, waving banners and hats and behaving with as much enthusiasm as if the battle had already been won.

ROSS AND RECIPROCITY

Clever Parody of Well-known Scottish Ballad by Popular Rupert Pioneer.

"Ross and Reciprocity" forms a popular theme for the poetic talent of Prince Rupert. Following excellent parody, in true ballad style, of a famous Scottish song was written right off the reel by a popular printing pioneer of Prince Rupert, your old friend "Scotty" Dennis. The song even apart from its immensely popular sentiment, would attract attention from its clever turns of wit and appropriate play on names of persons and places.

Ha, ha, the Woin' o't

Duncan Ross cam' here to woo,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't,
A winsome lass wha's name was
Ru-
Ha, ha, the woin' o't,
Pert and proud wi' tocher fair
O' acres plenty, rich and rare,
Which only need a guidman's care,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.

Duncan wasna' a' his lane,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't,
As the lassie's only swain,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.
A carpet-bagger from below
Travelling for McBride & Co.
Was the lassie's other jo,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.

Duncan swore that he'd be true,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't,
He'd no other lass in view,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.
The carpet-bagger wadna' swear
That he'd love no other fair.
She'd be second of a pair.
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.

The lassie had no use ava,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't,
For being Bertie's Numbuh Twa,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.
"Dare ye ask o' me," quo' she,
"That I your light-o'-love should be.

Ye may go to—Van—for me,"
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.

"Duncan's built upon my plan,"
Ha, ha, the woin' o't,
"He will do for my guidman,"
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.
"A brawny laddie o' the west,
He's the lad that I love best,
Well I know he'll stand the test,
Ha, ha, the woin' o't.

Grand Election DANCE

Don't forget the grand dance in the McIntyre Hall on Thursday evening. Dancing from 9.30 to 12.30. Gray's Orchestra.

SPEECHS & SONGS AT ROSS SMOKER

There were other songs and speeches, including a strong one by Mr. Manson a brief outline of which will be found in another column, and the meeting then adjourned to this evening with rousing cheers for the candidate and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

POLLS CLOSE AT 5 P.M.

In all Dominion elections the doors of polling booths open at 9 o'clock a. m. and close at 5 p. m. All votes must be cast between these hours. In provincial and municipal elections the polling stations remain open until 7 o'clock in the evening, a fact which sometimes creates confusion in the mind of the elector. Do not forget that on September 21 the doors of the polling booths will be closed sharply on the hour of 5.

ELECTION CLASH IN EAST

Bourassa Cnag Comes to Blows With Laurier's Supporters

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Montreal, Sept. 20.—For a time last night the city feared a riot when the rival factions of Bourassa and Laurier clashed after speechnifying by the two leaders. The Premier while on the way to the station to take train for Quebec ran foul of Bourassa's supporters who hissed and jeered him. Several fights occurred. The police were called out and order was restored.

MANGLED BODY FOUND

Ghastly Freight of C. P. R. Box Car at Revelstoke

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Revelstoke, Sept. 20.—The body of a man was found in a C. P. R. box car last night upon its arrival from Field. Remains were badly mangled and indications point to murder. From a contract made with a Winnipeg firm to work on a C. P. R. gang the man's name was found to be J. Bailey.

Three to One for Govt.

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—(Special)—Wagers are being made in the elections at prevailing odds of three to one that the Government will be sustained and even money that the Government will have a majority of over thirty.

THE "BOOSTER" CAME

What Lots of Fun We'll Have with Cowan

The man who branded Sir Wilfrid Laurier as "a white-livered coward," Geo.
S. Cowan, stepped off the Prince Rupert this morning, and he had with him
the little grip that Fred Stork says he will put on the Venture tomorrow night. He is a "cultus" Vancouverite sent for to boost for another Vancouverite. There was no brass band to meet him. But there was Mayor Manson awaiting, ready to hand over the freedom of the city; M. M. Stephens to give him the glad hand and welcome him as "the savior of the situation," and—Candidate Clements
in the background.

Free Telephone Debate

Dr. Reddie, the health officer, is to have a free telephone. That is to say, he is to have a telephone in his house at the expense of the city. But this boon was not obtained without a warm discussion at the council Monday night. Ald. Kerr was against a free telephone being given to anybody, but Alderman Smith said he thought a telephone for the official business of the health officer was a necessity, and until that official had an office in the new city hall, and while he was using his home as an office, a phone should be placed in his home. Alderman Hilditch and Alderman Kirkpatrick took a similar view of the situation and the telephone was accordingly ordered.

Charles D. Newton got in on the Prince Rupert this morning. He had purposed a long trip outside but cut it short to be here to vote for reciprocity.

A wireless reports that they were having a heavy hailstorm at Skidegate this afternoon. Tomorrow, probably, it will be hailing votes for Ross and Reciprocity there.

New Settler Arrives

At 4.30 this morning a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Muller of Lakelse Valley, residing at present on Eighth avenue. Mother and son are both doing well. Lakelse Valley will be pleased to welcome the new settler in a few weeks when Mr. and Mrs. Muller return to their ranch.
