BANK HELP FOR FREEZING OF FISH JURY CONVICTS CELONA, BANCROFT AND JOYCE WOMAN

Seattle Fleet Still Negotiating For Aid In Financing Halibut

Alaska and Southern Money Interests Looked to in Latest Plan—Meantime Boats Are Still Remaining in Port Awaiting Settlement of Minimum Price

KETCHIKAN, April 2: (CP)—Alaska halibutters are considering a plan whereby Alaska and Seattle banks might finance the freezing of surplus catches this season, the object being to distribute the extra fish according to market conditions with a view to stabilizing prices. Negotiations with the banks were opened by the halibutters following the recent refusal of the federal government to advance money to be used in financing the holding of the fish.

Boat owners and fishermen here believe that Alaska banks can finance the freezing of four million pounds and Seattle and other banks in Washington might finance the freezing of the surpluses of the Puget Sound fleet.

Meantime all halibutters remain in port awaiting settlement of minimum price negotiations with the buyers.

There was no change in the local halibut situation today. The local fleet is still awaiting word from Seattle as to the moving of the American fleet.

The Prince of Wales Composes Pipe Music; To Take Lessons

The Prince of Wales, who has recently taken lessons in bagpipe-playing from Pipe-Major Forsyth, piper to the King, has composed a slow march for the pipes called "Mallorca" (Spanish for Majorca), after the Balearic island which he has more than once visited. Both Pipe-Major Forsyth and Pipe-Major Robertson, of the Scots Guards, to whom it was offered, were enthusiastic over it, and the pipers' band of the Scots Guards rehearsed it with a view to playing it at the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace. They gave it for the first time at the Tower of London. It has been described as a very fine march with a beautiful melody and a stirring lilt. Now the news comes that Piper Fletcher of the Scots Guards, has been appointed to teach His Royal Highness the advanced technique of playing the bagpipes.

LADEN SCOW GOES DOWN

Entire Outfit of Pacific Machine Works Lost in Fifty Fathoms Of Water Off North Of Graham Island

Cause Uncertain

Heavy Loss Occasioned But Insurance Carried—Accident Occurred on Way to Langara Island

Armour Salvage Co.'s power tug Pachena, Capt. Ralph Green, returned to port this morning after having lost Arne Solheim's Pacific Machine Works outfit on the way to Langara Island where it was to be stationed for the season.

The Pachena and her tow left here Saturday afternoon for Langara. The outfit was about seven miles off the north coast of Graham Island not far beyond Tow Hill when the scow suddenly started to leak, sinking rapidly and going down in fifty fathoms of water. Ole Rollog and Thor Sole, who were aboard the scow, were taken off by the Pachena.

The cause of the sinking of the scow has not been definitely ascertained but it is thought that it might have struck some obstruction. The sea was calm at the time.

On the scow was the complete machine shop outfit of the Pacific Machine Works, which was to have been operated at Langara Island this summer, machine shop supplies, commissary and household effects of Mr. and Mrs. Solheim who were to have lived on board. Insurance was carried.

Mr. and Mrs. Solheim were aboard the Pachena and not on the scow at the time of the sinking. The entire party was brought back to the city aboard the Pachena on her arrival this morning.

EVANGELICAL CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESSFUL

Very favorable results in tangible form have been attending the Lenton Campaign of Evangelism which is being conducted in the city by the Protestant churches and clergy and much gratification over same was expressed yesterday at the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Ministerial Association. Reports were presented on the mass meeting in the Capitol Theatre with which the campaign was opened and on the weekly prayer meetings. Ways and means of keeping up the interest and enthusiasm were discussed. A financial report showed that, with the collection and voluntary donations, the expenses in connection with the theatre meeting had been met.

Rev. C. D. Clarke, president of the association, was in the chair and others present were Rev. Canon W. F. Rushbrook, Very Rev. James B. Gibson, Rev. W. D. Grant Hollingworth and Adjutant Eva Laycock.

James Redpath, port steward for the Yukon & White Pass Route, and Mrs. Redpath were passengers aboard the Princess Norah Sunday going north to Whitehorse for the season after having spent the winter in Victoria.

HEALTH OF THE KING

There will be great disappointment in some circles in Canada at the action of the Russian Commissar of Foreign Affairs in drinking the health of King George at the banquet in Moscow. For a Canadian communist to do such a thing would mean that he would be quickly kicked out of his party.

Evidently Commissar Litvinoff has come to a conclusion which is arrived at by practically all thinking men. That conclusion is that the crown of England signifies the greatest freedom which has been yet attained among men. It may be a remnant of feudal times. Doubtless it is. Men of understanding realize that. They also realize that there has evolved from that remnant of feudalism a freedom which is cherished wherever the British flag flies and by many even where the flag flies only over a consulate or a British ship. It has been the proud boast of the British people for generations past that their flag signifies freedom. That is why they refuse to allow communism to run riot but at the same time give communists a measure of licence, knowing that time and education will bring them to see things in a different light.

If a security pact is arranged between Russia and Great Britain, each country endeavoring in this way to protect its own kind of liberty against aggression by militarists, it should have a good effect generally throughout the world in allaying that irritation which has often been generated through the self-satisfied composure of the British people. We welcome the meeting of the British and Russian statesmen as the beginning of a new era of understanding and understanding is the basis of all progress.

It will probably come as a shock to some Canadians who have taken an anti-Russian attitude to suddenly find themselves, as members of the British Empire, lined up with the Soviet in the protection of the right of self-expression by nations as against military domination.

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

In saying that the crown of Great Britain signifies the greatest possible freedom, there is no intimation that the conduct of the internal affairs of this or any other British country is carried out in the best possible manner. We must make progress. Unfortunately, no country in any part of the world has solved the art of self-government. Because of the failure of the former democratic method, Italy is now experimenting with a new method and the outcome of the experiment will doubtless have a great influence on other nations. If it succeeds, others will follow. If it fails when the present dominating leader is gone, it will go into the discard along with other system that have passed away. Possibly that system may suit the Latins but not the Anglo-Saxons.

Practically every country in the world is finding its present system has failed to provide against financial depressions such as that through which we are now passing. Each country is trying in its own way to improve its system so that it will, while giving the greatest possible amount of freedom, protect those who have in the past and are now the victims of the system and its administration. The consensus of opinion is that, while administrations are often defective, there is also something wrong with the systems. The general opinion is also general that the human brain is capable of planning a system which, while not perfect, will be a great improvement over the present. In this lies our hope. It is all possible under the freedom guaranteed by the British crown.

The Letter Box

HALIBUT BOAT OWNERS' VIEW ON LIVER SHARING

Editor, Daily News:—

It is not our desire to take advantage of your good nature in order to air this dispute between the Fishermen's Union and ourselves through the press. We would, however, appreciate an opportunity to reply to the letter appearing in Saturday's paper.

To our mind the negotiations in connection with a minimum price do not enter into the point under dispute.

There is an agreement between the two organizations specifying that the boats shall get one-fifth of the gross stock. This agreement was entered into about 1928 when this union was a branch of the American organization. When the local organization came into existence about 1932, the existing agreement was renewed by exchange of letters. At that time livers were being saved but at a price much below that being paid today. Consequently, with the exception of one boat, no attempt was made to claim a share for the boat as the majority of the owners considered the amount too small to bother with, particularly as the average share at that time from halibut was hardly enough to keep body and soul together. Some members of the American fleet, from the start, insisted on the boat getting a share of the livers or not saving them. This feeling grew until it became generally recognized by the fishermen that the boat should get a share all through. So far as we know the U. S. Union has not officially authorized the deduction but in practice this has been general for the past two seasons.

This year the Vancouver fleet has gone out with the crew knowing that the livers would be included in the gross stock. Why Prince Rupert should be an exception is not understandable by our members.

Whether the fact that the liver money was not put into the general stock at the time the agreement was signed legally under the agreement precludes the boat's participation is a point not defined but our members claim the deduction is legal. They base their right on a clause in the contract specifying a fifth of the gross stock to the boat. The argument in the third paragraph of the union letter is equally applicable to the fishermen. It is hardly right for our local union to take all the credit for the creation of the valuable liver market. Our understanding of the English situation is that the fishermen are hired and the livers are considered as part of their pay. Boats in England operating on a share basis, we are told, sell their fish as caught. Consequently the only livers sold are from the fish cut up for bait and the money goes to the fishermen and others working for wages who in turn cut the fish into bait. The fishing crew get no money from livers.

Re fifth paragraph of the union's letter. The money is not lost to the community by the boat getting its share. As a matter of fact the community stands to lose more by the boats not getting a share as, at present through lack of funds, over fifty percent of the boats are running without insurance and, if lost, could not be replaced which means less opportunity for the men to go fishing.

As to the sixth paragraph, permit us to point out that there are a few boats in the fleet owing more than the present market value but their owners have their life savings in these boats and the union's statement would seem to conclusively prove that the return on the investment is not adequate to protect same which should support the owner's contention that the share of the livers is imperative if the fleet is to be kept up. No sane man would invest money in a halibut boat today.

This last paragraph of the union's letter hardly tells the whole story. The boat owners and union unanimously agreed to go into a marketing scheme with the understanding that a certain price would be advanced as the fish were landed and, when the final results were known, they would receive the net amount over this advance or pay back any loss. The captain turned the cheques into the outfitting houses, who accepted them as they would any other cheque, and, when they were not paid, charged them back to the account carried for owners and crew. As the recognized head

WHIFFLETS

From the Waterfront

The snagboat Eslington, having completed annual overhaul at the local dry dock preparatory to starting on the season's work, left this morning for the Skeena River where she will spend ten days before proceeding to the Naas River where she will remain until about the middle of May.

C. N. R. steamer Prince George was taken on the pontoons at the local dry dock yesterday morning for hull work in the course of her annual overhaul.

Capt. Paul Armour and party consisting of Mrs. Armour, Miss June Armour, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Fulton and Mrs. Max Asmussen are expected back on Thursday or Friday of this week following a trip to Vancouver aboard the Armour Salvage Co.'s service boat Daly which towed Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bremner's houseboat to Vancouver Island for the summer.

Having been delayed by tidal conditions in making a call at Mill Bay on the Naas River, Union steamer Catala, Capt. James Findlay, returned to port at 1 o'clock this afternoon from Anyox, Stewart and other northern points and sailed half an hour later for Vancouver and waypoints.

While official confirmation is not available from local representatives of the line, it is reported here that the Danish Asiatic Shipping Co., which is now carrying pulp and paper from Ocean Falls to the Orient, is prepared to bring its ships to Prince Rupert to take deckloads of hemlock or other timber at $9 per thousand. This is understood to be the lowest rate that has so far been quoted on this business.

A notice posted at the Government Agent's office announces that halibut fishermen will be cut off relief as from April 15. A similar notice at the City Hall states there will be no further relief for halibut fishermen after April 1.

If the partnership, the captain was legally entitled to debit this back to his crew and the fishermen and boat owners were in turn morally, at least, bound to reimburse the men unfortunate enough to get bad cheques.

A resume of the dispute is as follows: Our association had a meeting in December at which the advisability of asking for a boat's share of the livers was discussed but, as the meeting was small, no action was taken. On March 14 it was again brought up and it was decided to ask the union to grant this right. (Mind, we made no demand.) To this the union replied that they unanimously decided that they could not comply with our wishes. On March 25 we advised them that we had decided to deduct a boat's share but that, if they did not care to save the livers, it was up to them. We asked them to bring the matter up again. To this they replied, "We unanimously decide to stay by our action of last meeting." They further advised that they were prepared to go fishing on any boat signing an agreement with the union to not deduct a boat's share from the livers. Our members consider that they are presenting a new agreement to us without first giving the necessary thirty days' notice of cancelling the old one.

While the right of the boat to share in the livers might be a debatable legal point, it would seem that the owner should have the right to refuse to permit his equipment to be used for the saving of same. Yet the union refuses to permit their men to go out unless the livers are saved, and this is undoubtedly a clear violation of the agreement.

We regret occupying so much of your spare for the use of which please accept our thanks.

Put Men To Work Gainfully

The people of Prince Rupert are asked to co-operate for the purpose of providing gainful employment for as many people as possible during the next six months. A group of canvassers will undertake to call on all local citizens asking for pledges from them that they will undertake to spend as much as possible and stating how much they plan to spend on gainful employment.

It is not the intention to interfere with the private concerns of our neighbors but to try to secure as much employment as possible as a means of improving local conditions.

We have set as our objective the sum of $50,000

If every person will undertake to spend some money in such a way as to make conditions better, we shall easily attain our object.

The pledge cards will be kept private in order to prevent solicitation on the part of those who may be trying to secure advantage from the campaign.

We are not an employment agency and have nothing to say as to who shall be employed or what they shall be paid. That is between the employer and employee. All we ask is that the money be expended. The provincial employment officer can supply men if required.

Things in the home, outside the home, in office buildings and factories are beginning to look the worse for wear. And there are hundreds of unemployed hands wanting and willing to do those jobs. You need the work done—they need the money for the necessities of life.

Help make these idle hands earning hands, for the good of the community and the happiness and self-respect work brings to an idle man or woman.

Moose Hall

TUESDAY
Rupert Legion No. 45 meets at 8 o'clock

WEDNESDAY
Moose Lodge meets at 8 o'clock

Tonight's train, due from the East at 10:15, was reported this morning to be on time.

Tom Barton of the Post Office staff sailed this afternoon on the Catala for a vacation trip to Vancouver.

H. S. Parker left on last evening's train for one of his periodical business trips to various interior points as far east as Vanderhoof.

W. M. Blackstock, local manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, is expected to return to the city on the Prince Rupert tomorrow morning from Medicine Hat, Alberta, where he was called recently on account of the serious illness of his mother.

RELIEVE PERIODIC PAIN

If you suffer periodic pain and discomfort, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. In most cases they bring welcome relief. As Mrs. Caroline Newman says, "They ease the pain."

Mrs. Raymond Chaput, Route 4, Tilbury, Ont., says, "I suffered something terrible. Had such backaches and headaches I was worn out. Your Tablets helped me." Let them help you, too. Ask your druggist.

Friends of Peter Black of this city, who expects to graduate next month from McGill University as a Doctor of Biochemistry, will be interested to learn that he has been recommended by Prof. David L. Thomson of the Department of Biochemistry at McGill for a fellowship in the Royal Society of Canada which would involve a three-year scholarship at Cambridge University in England. Pete, as he is familiarly known here, is expected in Prince Rupert in June for a visit.

Advertisements

Are a Guide to Value

Experts can roughly estimate the value of a product by looking at it. More accurately, by handling and examining it. Its appearance, its texture, the "feel" and balance of it all mean something to their trained eyes and fingers.

But no-one person can be an expert on steel, brass, wood, leather, foodstuffs, fabrics, and all of the materials that make up a list of personal purchases. And even experts are fooled, sometimes, by concealed flaws and imperfections.

There is a surer index of value than the senses of sight and touch . . . knowledge of the maker's name and for what it stands. Here is the most certain method, except that of actual use, for judging the value of any manufactured goods. Here is the only guarantee against careless workmanship, or the use of shoddy materials. This is one important reason why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. The product that is advertised is worthy of your confidence.

Merchandise Must be Good or it Could Not be Consistently Advertised. Buy advertised Goods.

What price SPACE

MR. ADVERTISER?

Space in a daily newspaper possesses a power that is lacking in the lineage of other advertising media.

It is not only more economical . . . which is a matter of easy computation . . . it is not only more flexible, it is not only more timely and rapid, but also it is the advertiser's unflinching point of contact with the mass market and every spot market of the Dominion of Canada.

The Daily Newspaper possesses a power by means of which an advertiser, who knows how to use it, can reach and move to action all or any part of the Canadian consuming public.

In this North American continent there was spent during 1934 in the columns of the daily newspapers more than $500,000,000. The strongest of all supplementary media was used to the extent of $114,000,000. Why?

Because for prompt action on sales plans . . . for quick consumer influence at minimum cost . . . for willing co-operation from the retail trade, the daily newspaper is today, as it always has been, the outstanding and most economical basic advertising medium.

WELL KNOWN STORY HERE

"What Every Woman Knows," By Sir James Barrie, On Capitol Theatre Screen

Voted highly delightful by all who saw it last night, the picture version of Sir James Barrie's whimsical romance, "What Every Woman Knows," which has been a great success as a stage play for a decade, is being featured on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here at the first of this week. Headed by Helen Hayes who does a splendid piece of acting as Maggie Wylie, the cast is a notable one. Brian Aherne, English stage star, is effective as the leading man in the part of John Shand. Madge Evans plays the role of a charming titled English "siren" while Lucille Watson, New York stage star, makes a highly favorable moving picture debut as a kindly if designing countess. Dudley Digges, Donald Crisp, David Torrence and Henry Stephenson have important supporting roles.

Close attention has been paid to transferring the original story and stage play accurately to the screen with particular reference to human and pictorial values. Scenes and dialogue follow the story closely. Authenticity of Scottish accents and backgrounds was insured by the engaging of Harry Lauder II, nephew of the famous Scotch singer and comedian, as technical advisor. Exteriors were reproduced from photographs of villages in the neighborhood of Glasgow and Edinburgh and provide realistic background for the sparkling action.

"What Every Woman Knows" is decidedly different from the usual talkie humdrum.
