A UNITED STATES VIEW OF THE ELECTION

The New York Herald speaking of the recent election says:

"The voters of Canada have spoken, and the result is as surprising man, used to riding. as it is emphatic. This landslide means that, for the present at least, reciprocity between the United States and the Dominion is an impossibility. The large majority of the victors makes them independent of the Nationalist members, and will enable them to carry out any programme they may decide upon. And the chief article on any programme will be the rejection of the agreements for freer trade relations between the two nations.

"The result is a triumph for the protected interests of Canada, and is made possible by the failure of the agricultural element to one. It's got to be that cherry patch," forward in life (and probably rally to the cause that would have bettered their condition through opening the great markets of the United States to their products. The effect of the election on the future of Canada must be watched with interest.

"As for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, he may well feel that he met defeat fighting for the best interests of the Canada he has served so long and faithfully. To him, as to President Taft, the result must be disappointment. But time will vindicate his position. Canada needs our markets more than we need hers."

There is no doubt about the goodness of Prince Rupert weather, despite the fables to the contrary. Every month the weather report of the Dominion Government meteorological observer proves it. The report for September is to hand. It shows that it was neither very hot nor very cold at any time, but a sensible mean temperature for the month of 54.2. There is nothing mean about 54.2 except the name.

The total precipitation for the month was 4.23 inches. Vancouver papers please copy.
