SHOOTING TRIAL ON

Court Hears About Altercation Over Operation of Placer Property in Dease Country

Trial of George Adsit, charged with shooting at Julius Gibson with intent to murder at Mosquito Creek in the Dease River country on August 27, opened before Mr. Justice A. I. Fisher and a jury at the Supreme Court Assizes here yesterday afternoon and is proceeding today. One witness, Julius Gibson, had completed giving his evidence when the trial was adjourned yesterday afternoon until this morning. L. W. Patmore is prosecuting and R. L. McLennan is defence counsel. It is expected the case will be concluded this afternoon. The evidence for the crown had been completed when the trial adjourned at noon until 2:30 p.m. Accused then went on the stand to testify in his own defence.

At the opening of the trial the following jury was sworn in: Frank Dockrill, foreman, Duncan Kennedy, Fred Johnson, Charles Bibeau, Ernest Haan, Gordon Thomas Moore, Malcolm McLeod, John Harold Macey, John Munro, Hugh Killin, Neil Lang and Oscar Larsen.

Following the reading of the charge to the prisoner, it was explained by L. W. Patmore, counsel for the crown, that the accused was the owner of a placer lease on Mosquito Creek and that he became dissatisfied with the manner in which the lessees were carrying on the work. He was to receive one-fifth of the gold taken out which on August 26, when the clean-up was made, amounted to three ounces. Accused ordered the lessees off when they started to work next morning and fired a shot as would be shown by the witnesses.

Julius R. Gibson took the stand and told of the location of the claim which was the last one on Mosquito Creek off the Dease River, 115 miles from Telegraph Creek. They had a lease from Adsit under which they were to work the creek and pay him one-fifth of the clean-up. It was a hydraulic operation.

Ordered Off Ground

On August 2, Gibson said, they notified Adsit that they would be ready to clean-up on September 1. They were ready on August 26 and Mr. Adsit agreed to the clean-up on that date. He was present and his share was turned over to him. Gibson was asked by Adsit to call at his cabin which he did the next morning and was then told to get off the creek. He told Adsit that only the gold commissioner could give an order of that kind. They went to work and soon Adsit appeared on the river bank with a revolver. He yelled at them to clear out and then, without any further notice, accused fired.

In answer to Mr. Patmore, witness said Adsit's hand was shaking. The gun was pointed at him. It was only 25 or 30 feet away at the time when the shot was fired from a small hill about fifteen feet above. Witness could see straight into the barrel. Witness could hear the bullet whiz past his head, at a distance of possibly a foot, and ricochet from a rockpile behind him. Witness was dumfounded when the shot was fired and ran for shelter under the hill. Searfoss, another man who was with him, shouted: "Don't shoot. Don't shoot. We'll get off." Witness raised his arms and came out, saying: "Don't shoot. We'll get off." Accused followed, saying repeatedly: "Get off. Get off this property." Witness and Searfoss then proceeded to their own property. On the way witness got a rifle out of the blacksmith.

FINELLA RELEASED

Was Not Fishing at Time Of Seizure—No Gear Out

Announcement was made at the fisheries offices here today that the Prince Rupert halibut boat Finella, which was seized at 4 o'clock Monday morning in Area No. 2 halibut fishing waters for alleged illegal fishing therein, had been released on the undertaking of the owner, Capt. David Ritchie, that the vessel will be available should the department decide to proceed with prosecution.

It has been explained that the Finella was not actually fishing nor did she have any gear out at the time of her seizure by the United States coastguard cutter Cyane. In fact, the vessel was holed to and drifting and all on board were asleep. Halibut on board the vessel at the time was taken incidental to black cod fishing. The halibut amounted to between three hundred and five hundred pounds and has been turned over to the fisheries authorities in the usual way.

MESSAGE OF CHIEF

S. J. Hungerford, Head of C.N.R. Urges Goodwill and Co-operation

MONTREAL, Oct. 1:—With staff and management working together in a spirit of goodwill and co-operation the Canadian National Railways can be made of greater use and value to the nation and to every community which it serves. This was declared by S. J. Hungerford, chairman of the board of directors, in a statement which he issued to all officers and employees on assuming the office of chairman of the board today. Mr. Hungerford paid high tribute to the loyalty and spirit of service of the men and women of the national system throughout the years of reduced earnings and declared that all those in the organization would work in unity toward the goal of making the Canadian National the great national asset that its potentialities indicate it to be. The statement follows:

"I know from many years of association the fine sense of loyalty which permeates the entire personnel, and I say I am confident that through the joint efforts of the management and staff this railway system can be made of greater use and value to the nation and to every community which it serves. The management will endeavor to do those things which are calculated to promote the welfare of the enterprise, and I know that we will have the sustained and enthusiastic support of all officers and employees. Working together in a spirit of goodwill and co-operation, we will strive with all the means at our command to improve still further the service of the railway in all of its activities.

"I would add a personal word: Service in any capacity with the Canadian National Railways should bring to those who accept it a deep sense of responsibility. The activities of the system, by reason of its size and its history, produce problems every day that call for concentrated and co-ordinated effort. The responsibility attaching to those tasks is deepened by the important factor that the well-being of the country and that of the Canadian National Railways are so closely related as to be inseparable. If this circumstance makes greater the opportunity to render important public service, I had a full realization of this fact in accepting new duties and responsibilities at this time.

Message for Future

"I realize that through the lean years of reduced earnings, as well as through the peak years, Canadian National officers and employees have worked cheerfully and untiringly, each making his or her contribution towards efficient transportation service. We have felt the full downward force of the depression and it will not be an easy ascent from low operating revenues and small net income, but the climb will be faced the better in the light of lessons learned and the knowledge that all in the organization are working in unity toward the goal of making the Canadian National system the great national asset that its potentialities indicate it to be. Retaining the concept of public service, let us therefore meet the problems of the week, the month and the year resolutely and industriously giving the best that is in us."

Threatened Tie-up Of Pacific Shipping Is Temporarily Averted

Proposal of Companies is Accepted by Unions—Negotiations to be Carried on in Meantime

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1: (CP)—The threatened tie-up of United States coast shipping through expiration of agreements between shippers and unions representing 37,000 workers was announced as averted today through the unions' acceptance of a fifteen-day truce proposed by the employers. During the period union committees will decide whether the disputed issues shall be submitted to arbitration during an additional forty-five days of proposed negotiations. So far the unions have rejected employers' overtures for arbitration, claiming that terms were unsuitable.

The shipowners at first suggested a sixty-day truce with the understanding that, if an agreement was not reached during that time, the dispute would go to arbitration. This plan was approved by the new Federal Maritime Commission, under chairmanship of Rear Admiral Henry D. Wylie, which has been active in connection with efforts to settle the dispute.

The truce was at first proposed by Edward F. McGready, assistant Secretary of Labor, who is at present here conducting negotiations looking to a settlement of the whole dispute.

LIFE IN RUSSIA

Writer Finds Silks and White Collars No Longer Barred To Good Bolsheviks

NEW YORK, Sept. 30: (CP)—Writing his observations of progress in Russia, in connection with the proposed new constitution, an Associated Press correspondent says the family life has come back into its own as a recognized basic unit of society.

Parents are held increasingly responsible for maintenance and education of their children and "fireside influence" is stressed as one of the most important factors in bringing up new Bolsheviks.

Free and easy divorce is gone. Divorces are now taxed and both parties must appear before the deeree is granted. Divorced parents must support their children or go to prison.

Simplicity of dress is no longer considered essential to the good Bolshevik. Silks for the women, white collars and ties for the men have long since won public favor. Titles have been restored in the army, the office of housewife is held in high esteem and there are dozens of other developments tending to make life in the Soviet Union similar to that in "bourgeois" countries.

ESTABLISHING MUSEUM

It is now many years since the museum board was first appointed at a public meeting in the City Hall, the idea being that it would act as a collecting agency for several years, getting together the nucleus of a museum exhibit. Very soon a loan of the Large collection was secured but the owners wanted to sell it and the local organization had no money so the collection was sold to outsiders and removed. Then came the depression and nothing was done for several years until recently when arrangements were made for a room over the public library and the Hyde collection was secured. Since that time great interest has been taken in the collection of exhibits and many additions thereto have been made. During the past month more articles than ever before in a given time were donated and the exhibit is steadily being improved by this means. The institution has become a permanent one and is being recognized as a valuable asset to the city.

DICTATOR APPOINTED

The little group of leaders of the Spanish rebellion have become so certain of success that they have appointed their leader as head of the Spanish state. This means he becomes dictator of Spain or will do so as soon as his armies have suppressed all opposition, killed off or driven from the country all other leaders or prominent people opposed to the Fascist method.

Possibly Spain will be better under a dictatorship just as Italy and Germany have been vastly improved. In each case the country was almost going Communist when the dictator came along and rescued it from such a fate. In British countries there is no need of such a movement because the Communist pressure has not been seriously felt.

ANOTHER DICTATOR

A dictator was needed in China where chaos has reigned since the early days of the republic and the country seemed likely to break up. If China comes back under Chiang Kai Shek, it will be largely because of the pressure of Japan in seeking to disintegrate the northern part of the country, extend her sphere of influence there and detach chunks of territory from time to time. This has aroused the Chinese people and made them turn for salvation to the strongest leader, and evidently Chiang Kai Shek is the man.

No World Series Play Today On Account of Wet Grounds—Odds on Yanks Drop

NEW YORK, Oct. 1: (CP)—As a result of the decisive victory of New York Giants over New York Yankees in the opener of the World Series here betting odds dropped from 8 to 5 to 6 to 5 in favor of the American Leaguers. Carl Hubbell, who distinguished himself in the rain and mud yesterday despite the fact that it was said that he was a fine weather pitcher, will hurl at least one more game in the series and possibly two, observers point out.

Despite the uncomfortable weather conditions, forty thousand fans watched yesterday's game. The second game of the series, scheduled for today, was postponed on account of wet grounds and will be played tomorrow, weather permitting.

Lefty Gomez is expected to be the Yankee hurler tomorrow with Hal Schumacher taking the mound for the Giants.

SPORT CHAT

The eastern Canadian football public has become convinced that all the east's touchdown eggs are in one basket. That is the basket being toted so carefully in Montreal by John Ferraro, the Buffalo bear-cat. So established on paper is the strength of Ferraro's Montreal Indians, so certain is their superiority on paper, that it seems almost inevitable the Indians will win the Big Four championship away from Hamilton and represent the east in the Canadian final, Toronto Argonauts are young and inexperienced, the Tigers have lost the mighty Ferraro and Frank Turville, Ottawa, is without the great Abe Ellowitz and Samia's O.R.F.U. champions can expect no help from the flashing Norman Peery or the nimble curler and golfer, Alex Hayes.

Winslow's Tigers Defeat Brown's Cubs 13 to 7

The third game of the softball season, a finely contested match, was played on Tuesday, Winslow's Tigers defeating Brown's Cubs by a score of 13 to 7, both teams playing good ball. The innings were very close and fast. In the last of the fifth inning Winslow walked six batters but in spite of this his team, in the seventh, made up for him and obtained six runs, making their score 13. In the last half of the seventh the Cubs were held down and the game ended 13-7.

Where eastern football races have been traditionally open nearly always, at least in the advance conjecturing, this time the Indians get a unanimous call from all corners. They have been built as champions in advance. A half-dozen outstanding stars are in the lineup. What eastern team has a chance? The answer is they all have a chance. A backfield that includes two such triple-threaters as Ferraro and Ellowitz may not click for several seasons. They're both field leaders and only one can lead this season. Oke Olsen, brought east from Regina Roughriders to play quarterback, is also a field general. Olsen, however, will figure more as a ball-handler and passer than a thinker under Ferraro.

But the array of backfield talent is startling, to say the least, and the line can't be anything but powerful with Pete Jotkus, Tommy Burns and George Pigeon in it. Jotkus and Burns are only slightly less efficient defensively than in grinding holes through opposing windmills. Anyway, dark-visaged Johnny Ferraro has the known talent at his command and the Buffalo boy from Cornell is batting 1,000 to date in the Big Four. He piloted Tigers to the title in 1934, his first season in the Canadian game, and inspired the Hamilton forces to win again last season when he played under Fred Veale. In the early-season book Ferraro's Indians stack up as the only eastern team with any chance of taking the Canadian championship from Winnipeg. Fortunately for the paying customers advance books count for little in football.

Discover Crystals Believed Diamonds

Convinced Edmonton City Property Will Produce Diamonds And Rubies

EDMONTON, Oct. 1: (CP)—Diamonds and rubies can be mined within Edmonton's city limits. This is the belief of Ferdinand Pomahac, a contractor, who claims to have found rough crystals he believes to be precious stones.

Mr. Pomahac, who has visited diamond fields in South Africa, said the crystals would cut glass in the same manner as a diamond. He displayed a stone which he contends is a genuine ruby and so appraised by an Edmonton jeweler.

Location of the find is withheld by the "city prospector" who declares he has a valuable find. He intends to acquire rights to the property and develop the field.

Pomahac made a study of geology in Germany and is convinced he will produce diamonds and rubies in commercial quantity. Part of any financial benefits accruing from the venture will be used to care for sick children in Edmonton hospitals, he says.

shop. Accused shouted: "Put down that gun. Put down that gun." Witness replied: "I'm not crazy. I'm getting off." Later witness proceeded to Telegraph Creek and made his complaint against Adsit.

Cross Examination

Under cross-examination, Gibson denied that accused had some years previous complained about the way the property was being worked. Nor had accused said not to pick up any gold. There had been an agreement whereby accused was notified of all clean-ups so that he could be present. Witness admitted that it had been the practice to pick up gold and take it to the house. This had been all accounted for, however, in the clean-ups. Witness had understood accused was familiar with the use of guns. Considerable importance seemed to be attached by Mr. McLennan, defence counsel, on the point whether accused had said: "Get away from here" or "Get away from him." Witness insisted that the latter expression had been used.

Today's Evidence

When the court reassembled this morning John William Storey, laborer employed by Gibson, took the stand. His evidence differed somewhat from Gibson's. He told of Adsit coming to the creek shortly after Gibson arrived on the morning of August 27 and ordering them off the property. His hand was shaking as he waved the gun in their direction. All were standing together within a yard or so of each other. After the shooting all except Gibson started to walk off. Gibson went in a different direction with his hands up and remarked: "That's just what I've been waiting for" and told the accused he would be sorry for what he had done. The reply of the accused was that he did not care "a damn." He had been robbed too long.

When they came to the blacksmith shop Gibson went inside and brought out a rifle. Accused said he'd better put it down but Gibson replied: "Don't worry. I won't shoot."

Cross-examined by Mr. McLennan in regard to his evidence given at the preliminary hearing, witness said Adsit was not pointing the gun at them. The gun appeared to be aimed high and they did not hear the bullet strike.

Leonard Adamson also told of the shooting. He was deaf and did not hear the conversations. He saw accused gesturing.

Joe Searfoss, who described himself as a mining engineer, also told of the event. His interpretation of what was said by accused was: "Get away from here. I'll kill you." He insisted that the gun was pointed at them moving from one side to the other and covering the group.

Cross-examined witness said he had not heard complaints of the manner in which the claim was being worked. He was in the habit of taking out nuggets or specimens instead of putting them in the flume as was customary on work of that kind. Asked where the bullet struck, witness said he did not know. It might have struck the board flume or hit the rock wall. He had no opportunity to examine. He distinctly heard the bullet whiz through the air. His hearing was extremely good.

Accused Popular

Claude Ambrose Irvine, who was cooking for Gibson, told of going to see Adsit a day or two after the shooting. He asked him who he was shooting at and the reply was that he was shooting at Gibson. He said that Adsit was a friend of his. He was generally liked in Telegraph Creek. So far as he knew he did not have an enemy in the country. Sometimes he acted as guide to hunting parties.

J. Vincent Boys, who told of arresting accused, also told of fetching the revolver from a trunk in Adsit's cabin. Accused had given himself up and had told him where to find the revolver. It was loaded in five chambers, the other chamber being empty. While he (witness) was gold commissioner accused had written him complaining of the way the lease was being worked but he (Boys) did not think he had any jurisdiction in regard to the matter. Accused had a good reputation in the country. This concluded the case for the crown.

IRAQ LIFE DESCRIBED

Rev. Henry Flores Tells Gyros Of Missionary Work in Far Land

Telling interestingly of experiences during fifteen years of missionary work in Iraq, including the period of the Great War when he was the only British subject in Basra who was not taken prisoner by the Turks, Rev. Henry Flores, for some years Anglican missionary at Kitwanga and now being moved to Australia, was the speaker at the regular weekly luncheon yesterday of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club.

The Arabs, Mr. Flores declared, were not a treacherous people as many people thought. They were a noble nation and he for one loved them. They had been great friends of the British during the war. Through them his own life had been spared.

Mr. Flores told how he had started missionary work in Malta. At first a Roman Catholic, he declared that he believed in the right to freedom of worship and the brotherhood of man which did not exist in the world today as it should. His idea of religion was to try to help others. Such a spirit would do more than the League of Nations ever could.

In 1907, Mr. Flores left Malta and journeyed to Bagdad. That city once had a million people but some centuries ago it had been decimated by plague. Now its population was about 600,000 in addition to Mohammedans here were 60,000 Jews and 25,000 Christians including many Roman Catholics. He had remained in Iraq for fifteen years.

For the last nine years, Mr. Flores stated, he had labored among the Indians of Northern British Columbia.

Dr. R. G. Large, president of the club, was in the chair and thanked Mr. Flores for his address. Guests at the luncheon, besides Mr. Flores, were F. A. Macallum, W. D. Vance, W. F. Stone, F. W. Nickerson and William Bellino (Seattle).

Too Much Asked Of Young Folks

Y.W.C.A. Secretary Thinks Youth Asked to Carry Heavy Burdens

MONTREAL, Oct. 1: (CP)—Young people today are marvelous, but the older generation tends to ask too much of them, in the opinion of Miss Catherine Louise Gates, newly appointed general secretary of the Montreal Young Women's Christian Association. Miss Gates has had varied experience with young people, having worked with the Y.W.C.A. in Allentown, Pa., Toledo, Ohio, and, in an advisory capacity, in Brazil. She also spent some time in Russia in 1926 making a survey of conditions under the Soviet.

Miss Gates told reporters here she believed the older generation a little tired and disappointed about the world were throwing responsibilities on shoulders too young to carry them.

"It seems to me we have a tendency to sit back and say, 'Here is this marvelous younger generation to set the world right.' I feel that we have no right to put such responsibility on young people," she continued. Miss Gates saw a need for youth's courage, vision and undauntedness but felt these were lost unless guided by the experience of maturity.
