SPAIN HAS MANY DEAD

Insurrection Out of Control of Government and Toll Has Been Large

Varying Reports

Peasants Required to Assist Government in Putting Down Revolt

MADRID, Spain, July 21:—The Spanish government was stated officially last night to be completely in control of the situation throughout the country with the exception of two southern cities—Barcelona and Malaga—following the country-wide insurrection over the week-end.

Estimates of dead and injured ranged from several hundred to several thousand. Malaga was reported in flames with nationals of other countries evacuating. Soldiers were patrolling the streets of Madrid with the populace being kept indoors. Rebels were reported still in control of Spanish Morocco.

Situation Today

Armed masses of peasants and workers marched toward rebel strongholds today while thousands of civilian militiamen formed a ring around Madrid. Loyal masses marched on Valladolid, Zaragoza, Burgos and Toledo, rebel strongholds in the mountainous Guadarrama region near the capital which was patrolled by hundreds of militiamen who dominated all points against insurgent attack. Five thousand militiamen concentrated on the outskirts of the capital.

Everywhere in the country the government has insisted on peasant workers coming to the aid of federal forces.

Vera, Spain, and all Navarre and Guipuzcoa provinces in Northern Spain, including the city of San Sebastian, were reported tonight to be in the hands of the rebels. From Czecho-Slovakia, Former King Alfonso denies any knowledge of the present revolt being Royalist, inspired with a view to restoring the monarchy to Spain.

DIES TODAY

Hon. Robert Rogers

PASSING OF BOB ROGERS

For Almost a Generation He Was Dominating Figure in Canadian Public Life

Was Minister

Held Numerous Important Portfolios Both in Provincial And Federal Fields

GUELPH, Ont., July 21: (CP)—Hon. Robert Rogers, who filled a number of important cabinet posts in several Conservative federal administrations, died at Homewood Sanitarium here today. He was 72 years of age. For years before the rise of Premier R. B. Bennett, the late Mr. Rogers, whose home was in Winnipeg, was the dominating figure of the Conservative party on the prairies.

For almost a generation recognized as one of the most astute political strategists in the Dominion, Hon. Robert Rogers' career was a picturesque one. In both the federal and the Manitoba arenas he filled important cabinet posts, but his fame rested largely upon his ability as an organizer and his success as a Conservative tactician. In the latter respect he was perhaps the foremost stalwart of his party, and even when political vicissitudes found him with the small end of the vote he continued to exert a potent influence in legislative realms. In the hectic controversies of his time he was always one of the chief combatants, but he had in a high degree the gift of personal friendship, which extended to some of his bitterest political foes.

Born at Lakeside, Que., of Irish parentage on March 2, 1864, Mr. Rogers spent his boyhood years amid the rural peace of that locality. His father, George Rogers, was a merchant who also held the position of Lieutenant-Colonel of the Argenteuil Rangers, a well known militia regiment. The young Robert was educated in the public schools at Lakeside and Berthier, later attending business college in Montreal.

When less than 20 years of age he was induced by Sir J. C. Abbott, the man who had drawn up the Canadian Pacific Railway contract and who succeeded Sir John Macdonald as premier of Canada, to try his fortunes in the west. Intending at the outset to buy land in the Brandon district he finally chose to go into business at Clearwater, Man., where he remained for some years. His earliest activity in a public way was when he was selected by the settlers of his area to go east in an effort to induce the authorities at Ottawa and the Canadian Pacific railway to protect the line proposed south-western Manitoba line as far as Clearwater, the terminus having been at that time de-

Fewer Fishermen Go To Labrador

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 21: (CP)—The number of fishermen travelling to Labrador up to the end of June was greatly reduced from last year, according to figures issued here.

The railway steamers carried 2,216 to the fisheries in 1935 compared with 1,502 this year. The railway's own steamers were able to accommodate the fishermen but last year it was necessary to charter the steamers Imogene and Beothic, of the Newfoundland sealing fleet.

Message of Felicitations Sent By City Commissioner to Head Of Canadian National

The following telegram was dispatched today by City Commissioner W. J. Alder to S. J. Hungerford, president of the Canadian National Railways, in connection with the observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the running of the first train on the system which now comprises the great Canadian National:

"The City of Prince Rupert extends to you and the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways its congratulations and felicitations on the one hundredth anniversary of the beginning of the present railway system and wishes you a speedy return to profitable operation."

Commerce Chamber Wires The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce today sent a wire to S. J. Hungerford, president of the Canadian National Railways, as follows:

"On this, the one-hundredth anniversary of the railway in Canada we extend congratulations on past achievements and best wishes for the future."

A fitting reply was received by the Chamber of Commerce from Mr. Hungerford this afternoon, expressing appreciation of the good wishes.

The anniversary was heralded here by a one-minute sounding at 12 noon of whistles of local shops and locomotives. There was a specially arranged window display in the show windows of the city ticket office for the occasion.

One hundred years ago today the first passenger train ran between LaPrairie and St. John's, Quebec.

Wish to Fish At Inlet Must be Given to Do So, Says Gov't

VICTORIA, July 21: (CP)—Fishermen in the strike area of Rivers Inlet and Smith's Inlet who want to go fishing must be given an opportunity to do so if the strike committee refuses to accept arbitration of their demands, according to a telegram sent by Hon. George S. Pearson, commissioner of fisheries, yesterday to J. Mavin, secretary of the strike committee at Dawson's Landing. Mr. Pearson's wife was in answer to the fishermen's reply to an earlier message from him. The striking fishermen had refused Mr. Pearson's offer of arbitration.

COMING HERE

Hon. J. E. MICHAUD, P.C., K.C., M.P., Minister of Fisheries for Canada

Mr. Pearson said: "If the fishermen think their case will not stand arbitration, how can I believe the present fishermen's stand is justifiable? A serious responsibility rests upon your shoulders as these fishermen may be without means of support for the balance of the year. If arbitration under the Fisheries Act is not accepted, I cannot support the strike and must help make it possible for the men to fish who desire to fish. I am awaiting your early advice whether the fishermen are prepared to return to fishing at once subject to arbitration or whether the strike is called off."

OLD TIMERS TAKE FIELD

Legion Beats Dairy Two to One In Last Game of Gilhuly Cup Football Series

The final game of the Gilhuly Cup football series was played last night with Canadian Legion defeating Dominion Dairy 2 to 1. It was a well contested match, one of the features of which was the presence on the Legion line-up of old-timers in the persons of Fred Cameron, at left back; Jimmy Johnston, outside left, and George Dawes in goal.

One goal was made in the first half—Henry Dickens scoring for the Legion. Russell Cameron put the Legion up two in the second and Carroll made the sole counter for the Dairy. Henry Dickens missed a penalty shot which was saved by Krause who did a good job of goal tending for the Dairy.

British Have High Hopes of Capturing America's Cup

LONDON, July 21: (CP)—British hopes of finally capturing the America's Cup, held by the United States since the first race in 1851, rocketed sharply here following a sensational display of speed by T. O. M. Sopwith's new challenger, Endeavour II.

In one of her first performances the new "mystery" craft, equipped with numerous secret gadgets and expected to challenge for the cup in 1937, trilled on the first lap of a triangular course against Astra, Endeavour I and Velsheda. Then she shot ahead to win by six minutes over Astra. The original Endeavour I, Sopwith's 1934 challenger, finished nearly eleven minutes behind the new Endeavour II.

NORTH ISLAND IMPORTANT

North Island officially known as Langara Island is becoming increasingly important. Hitherto its chief importance has lain in the fact that it is a rendezvous for salmon fishermen who troll in the adjacent waters. It has a lighthouse and direction finding station and now it is to have a complete meteorological bureau which will be valuable to fishermen and also to airplanes and navigation generally. Scientists have also been keenly interested in Langara because of its peculiarities of bird and marine life.

ELIMINATION OF RELIEF

When it was found that men receiving relief money were refusing to accept employment, the relief authorities decided to withdraw it altogether for able-bodied men. The result was that a number of men who have been living on public money most of the time for years and who have been using their leisure to spread subversive propaganda, have left the city to look for a softer spot. This condition is likely to be continued, at least well into the winter. Relief, except for the physically unfit, will be unknown in this district. In Atlin there has been no relief given throughout the depression and it is confidently expected that a similar condition will exist in this district very soon.

SPORT CHAT

Max Schmeling's out-bombing of the famous Brown Bomber and the dramatic death of Tom O'Rourke, old-time fight manager fatally stricken in Schmeling's dressing room, set the tongues of veteran sportsmen at Saint John, N.B., wagging about the "good old" ring days. John L. Sullivan, Joe Walcott and George Dixon of Nova Scotia were managed by O'Rourke and had been in Saint John at different times. Thomas Sullivan, now a police inspector there, was the sparring partner and trainer of Lewiston Dick O'Brien, a celebrated middleweight. Sullivan seconded O'Brien in one of his fights with Walcott.

John O'Neill, police desk sergeant of Saint John, told a story about another battle by the pair and about the chagrin of the late Michael Higgins, who joined an excursion to Boston. Although not interested in boxing Higgins was induced to see the fight. He reluctantly paid $10 for a ringside seat, a big price in those days. Higgins heard all the preliminary remarks of the seconds. The bell rang. Just then a Saint John friend tapped him on the shoulder. When Higgins turned his eyes back to the ring O'Brien was on the canvas. He had been knocked out in less than half a round. "O'Brien had a brother, Jack, who played baseball here with the old Shamrock baseball team and later made good in the National League," Inspector Sullivan recalled.

"Be It Ever So Humble"

IT is to the "humble homes" of Canada that the great majority of Life Insurance payments find their way.

Many such homes today would lack the necessities of life—were it not for the "little savings" which thrifty parents have set aside periodically in Life Insurance.

To the family which loses its breadwinner, Life Insurance means money to buy food and clothing—money to pay the rent—money to pay household bills—money to educate the children. Life Insurance also means, in many cases, independence of private charity or public relief.

In your own community, as well as in hundreds of cities and towns across Canada, "little savings" in Life Insurance are doing "big jobs". During the past six years, policyholders and beneficiaries in Canada have received, daily, half a million dollars from Life Insurance.

"Be it ever so humble"—there's no home which cannot have the much-needed protection of Life Insurance.

Senora is Dry Town; Gardening Very Difficult

Gardens are difficult to make in Senora, Ont., as water has to be pumped from a well continuously to produce anything like a green space, says Fred Riffou who is back from a visit to that city.

The people, Mr. Riffou found, are anxious not to let any visitors see their town with any money, however, it is easy to get in and out of the town.

Two new highways have just been completed this year, the Senora-Cornwall and the Fort Francis Highways. There was a great change since he was there before. The old timers' celebration which he attended was a great event featured chiefly by water sports.

This side of Winnipeg Mr. Riffou met D. E. Murphy, the railway contractor, who now lives in Winnipeg. In Winnipeg, Mr. Riffou said, business seemed to be done chiefly with the big departmental stores. The little businesses are being slowly crowded to the wall. Eaton's is situated right across from the bus depot and the busses run in and out packed with people and all seem to make for the big store as soon as they arrive. Bargain sales were often the scene of wild scrambles for goods. Four thousand men had to be fed daily by the city and they paraded at eight every morning singing. The temperature of 100 in the shade did not seem to worry them.

Walter McLaurin, against whom a charge of supplying liquor to Indians was dismissed in provincial police court last night by Justices of the Peace G. H. Munro and S. D. Macdonald, pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of having unsealed liquor in his possession and was fined $50, with option of one month's imprisonment. A charge of supplying against Charles Duffy was dismissed. Joseph Bolton, Indian, for drunkenness, was fined $10 and costs, with option of ten days' imprisonment. All these cases originated at Butedale.

The annual staff picnic of Watts' Grocery and Thrift Cash and Carry took place on the sandy shores of Lucy Island on Sunday, about thirty persons enjoying a very happy outing. Using the boat F. H. Phippen, Capt. Jim Morrison, the picnicers left about 9 a.m. and were safe home at 10:30 p.m. after a fine day in the open. The sports program included softball in which the single men demonstrated their superiority over the benedicts. The married ladies displayed their prowess in the tug-of-war by winning from their gentler unmarried sisters. Refreshments were provided in abundance.

CARS OR BABIES

Conference Told Motherhood Safer In Britain Than in Many Other Countries

LIVERPOOL, July 21: (CP) — "Cynics say that the modern girl would rather have a motor-car than a baby. Perhaps the car in some cases is safer for the community," said Edward Fuller, of the Save the Children Fund, at the National Conference on Maternity and Child Welfare here recently.

"At least," he added, "you get a book of instructions with a new car, and you have to pass a Ministry of Transport test before you can get a driving licence."

"No book of instructions is issued with a new baby, and no test or licence is required before undertaking the responsibility of parenthood. I will not discuss the advantages of tests for parenthood, but there is much to be said for the book of instructions."

Delivering the presidential address, Geoffrey Shakespeare, Parliamentary Secretary of the Ministry of Health, said motherhood was safer in this country than in any other, with the possible exception of Holland. The rate of maternal mortality in England and Wales for 1935 was 4.10 per 1,000 live births, the lowest figure recorded since 1925.

Welfare Work
 There had been a steady development in welfare work, and all expectant mothers, he said, should regard it as normal to take advantage of the medical facilities for examination and advice provided by the public authorities.

Mr. Shakespeare said 1935 had witnessed establishment of a new low record in the rate of deaths of infants under the age of one, the figure for England and Wales being 57 deaths per 1,000 live births as against 130 in the year 1911.

Speaking of the care of the newly-born child, Dr. A. Leyland Robinson, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynaecology at Liverpool University, said: "It is a startling thought that the first month is the most dangerous period of life, and that the first half hour of our existence is probably the most critical part of this crucial period."

H. Cross, Central Union of Fathers' Councils, said: "It is for the father to realize that the care and management of the family is a joint affair that cannot be relegated to the mother alone without unpleasant consequences all round."

signed as Manitoba, 40 miles away. He interviewed Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Richard Cartwright and Sir William Van Horne in addition to the Hon. John Norquay, then premier of Manitoba, and after persistent efforts his mission was crowned with success. His return to southern Manitoba was a triumphant one.

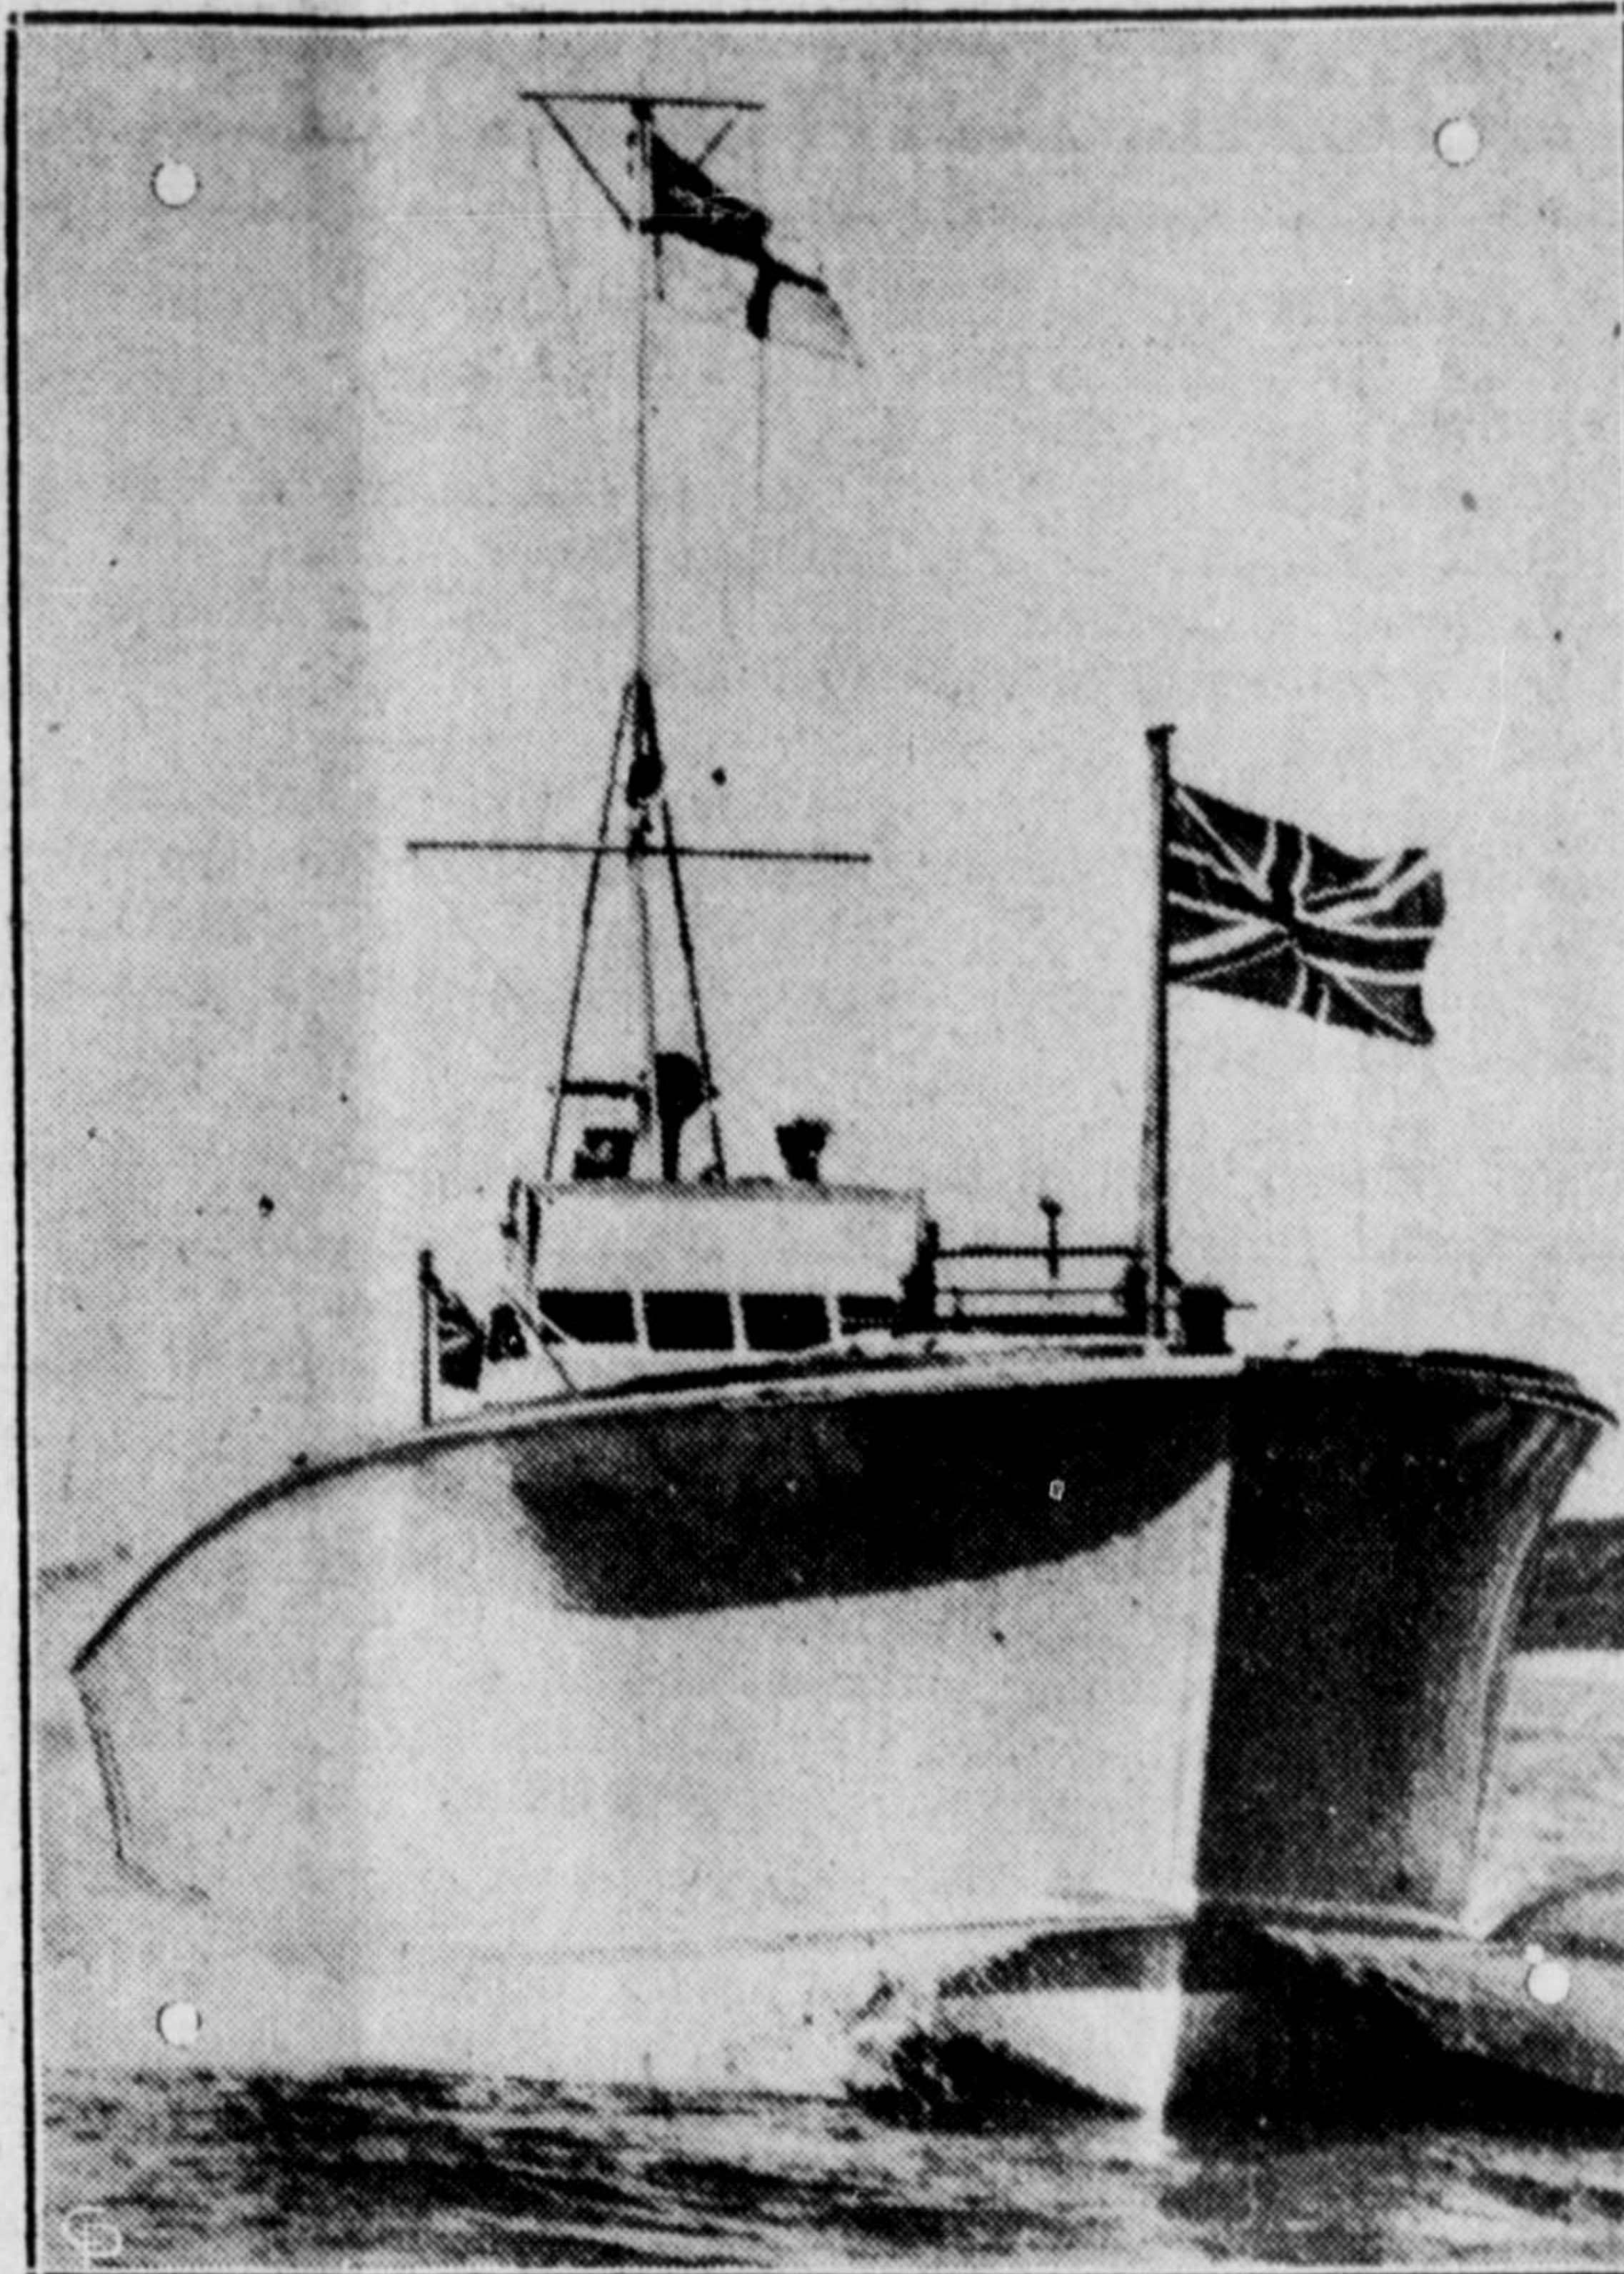

In 1886, when only 23 years of age, Rogers was given the Conservative nomination for the provincial constituency of Mountain, his opponent on that occasion being no less a celebrity than the Hon. Thomas Greenway, leader of the Liberal opposition. At the outset the youthful Bob was not considered to have a chance, but he injected so much enthusiasm into the campaign that he very soon had his opponents worrying. The government of the Hon. Thomas Norquay, the Conservative leader, was returned, but Rogers was defeated by 13 votes only.

How Rogers lost this contest was a story often told in Manitoba's early political gossip. In those days the section law prevailed which permitted a man to vote in any constituency in which he held property. Early on election day Rogers had sent a number of his supporters to Morden to vote for Dr. Wilson, the Norquay candidate running against R. P. Roblin, then a supporter of the Liberal party under Greenway. They were to return to cast their second vote, but it is alleged that a Liberal supporter was able to arrange with the conductor to delay the train until the polls had closed. Thus three times the number of Conservative electors necessary to insure Mr. Rogers' election were delayed in transit. Mr. Rogers' expenses for this hectic campaign were just ten dollars.

Shortly after this election dissonance developed in the Conservative party and a number of Norquay's colleagues deserted him as a result of differences of opinion over railway issues. Norquay resigned and one of his supporters, Dr. D. H. Harrison, failed to form a government with the result that Hon. J. C. Aikins, the lieutenant governor and father of Sir James Aikins, called upon Mr. Greenway to form an administration. In the election of 1892 Mr. Rogers again found himself opposing Mr. Greenway. Again he met defeat owing, his supporters claimed, to the rearrangement of the constituency boundaries.

Despite his lack of success at the polls "Fighting Bob" gained great prestige in the ranks of his party. From 1891 to 1898 he served a president of the Conservative Association of Manitoba, and was looked upon as virtually the party leader in the province. In 1896 he made his first excursion into federal politics when he contested the constituency of Lisgar against the late R. L. Richardson, formerly owner of the Winnipeg Tribune. After another hard-fought contest,

King Rides in Speed Destroyer

It might be hard to visualize this sleek 60-footer as a sea weapon so lethal that it might revolutionize naval warfare. The motor torpedo boat was designed by Hubert Scott-Payne, and was only recently handed over to the British admiralty. It is of 500 horsepower, and can attain a speed of about 65 miles an hour. The craft is the first of six new high-powered torpedo boats. It was inspected at Portsmouth by King Edward himself, and His Majesty was taken for a spin at top speed. Carrying a crew of ten, the vessel is equipped with two torpedoes, which may be fired by radio. It also carries light gun armament. Eighteen of the boats, it is said, can be built at the cost of one destroyer.

he found himself defeated by 54 votes.

In 1899 Rogers again contested the constituency of Manitoba. In the sweep which put the Conservatives in power under Sir Hugh John Macdonald he was elected and a year or so later when Roblin succeeded his colleague Macdonald as premier he was appointed commissioner of public works. While he displayed unusual capacity as an administrator, politics continued to be his primary occupation, and during the 11 years which he served with the Roblin administration he had complete charge of the organization of every campaign. During Mr. Roblin's absence he served as acting premier of the province, while his utterances on public platforms and in interviews were usually regarded as authoritative so far as party policy was concerned.

In 1911 he resigned from his post in the Manitoba house to accept the portfolio of minister of the interior in the cabinet of Sir Robert Borden at Ottawa, and was elected by acclamation by the constituency of Winnipeg. Under his direction an aggressive immigration policy was pursued and during the years immediately prior to the war the tide of incomers reached its peak, the total immigration for this period, including 1914 having been 1,141,552. The outbreak of hostilities, however, saw a virtual cessation of these activities. During the war he successfully conducted negotiations with England's Royal Wheat Commission for the sale of Canada's "no grade" wheat, after the commission had shown a distinct disinclination to purchase the great stores of this grain which were awaiting shipment. In October 1912, he relinquished his portfolio to become Minister of Public Works.

Although all his life a stout fighter in the political arena, Mr. Rogers was of a kindly and tolerable disposition. His personal friends included not only public men but newspapermen on both sides of the political fence. Indeed he enjoyed few things so much as to entertain members of the press gallery at Ottawa.

He had quite a flair for newspaper work and in 1917 he was a stalwart supporter of Sir Robert Borden's decision as a wartime measure to make possible through an annual grant of $50,000 a truly national news association in Canada. At that time there were several news associations, one in the Maritime provinces, two in Ontario and Quebec and one in western Canada, each drawing its basic news service from the United States but unable freely to exchange Canadian news because of the impossibility of bridging by leased telegraph wires the gaps separating them.

Opposed Union
 On the inception of the union government in 1917 Mr. Rogers resigned his portfolio, and he was not a candidate in the elections of that year. He was opposed to the union idea. He reappeared in the elections of 1921 in the constituency of Lisgar, in which he met with defeat. In 1925 he staged a political "come back" in the constituency of South Winnipeg when he defeated Hon. T. E. Norris, former premier of Manitoba by a majority of 1617. In 1926 he was again a candidate in South Winnipeg, but was defeated. However, in the general elections of July 28, 1930, he captured the seat.

Mr. Rogers was an Anglican, being a brother to Rev. Canon George Rogers. He was also a prominent Mason. In 1888 he married Aurelia Regina Widmeyer of Ontario and had a son, Robert George. Mrs. Rogers died July 4, 1934, in Winnipeg.
