CONSERVATIVE PARTY LEADER LAYS HIS CASE BEFORE PEOPLE OF PRINCE RUPERT IN ADDRESS

Sees no Hope of Third Party Progress—Not Think Pattullo Government Will Offer Economical and Practical Administration

Predicting that the C. C. F., with its impractical and visionary creed, would disappear as all third party movements did when general conditions improved and declaring that the Pattullo government would meet defeat as a result of its unfulfilled promises, autocracy and extravagance, Dr. Frank P. Patterson, of Vancouver, leader of the British Columbia Conservative party, speaking here last night in the Moose Hall, held out the offer of an economical, practical and honest Conservative government based, not on promises which were impossible of fulfillment, but on an appreciation of the needs and problems of the people and a spirit of co-operation for all interests. By this means, he expressed confidence that progress could be made in bringing back prosperity to this province.

Speeches at Dinner

a man was selling "The Black Shirt" and orating on Fascism. He was interrupted by an old woman with an umbrella who objected to the proceedings. Every time the vendor mentioned the name of Moseley she brought down her umbrella on his head with a resounding whack. This was repeated a number of times until a policeman came along and saved the man from further assault. Reverting again to France the speaker told of the wonderful reception given them and also spoke of the war graves. Canadians were buried in British cemeteries in France and these were in charge of the British War Graves Commission and at the entrance to each was a simple cross of sacrifice. Each of the crosses faced the British Isles.

Commissioner Alder

City Commissioner Alder complimented the Junior Chamber of Commerce on their three years of active service to the city. He said they had been a great help to him. They had done a great deal of work which would be of permanent value to the city.

The members included some of the best young men in the city. If this continued they were bound to meet with success. There had been hard times but he saw light ahead. When the Junior Chamber was organized the city was in a different position from what it was today. Its bills were not being paid, the interest was in arrears and everything looked bad. Today they were paying their way and if there was no money it was not spent. They were going to pay their bills.

The commissioner said he would like to be able to build a new hospital. It was needed badly but they would have to carry on until the city had a larger population. He spoke of the vision of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Charles M. Hays and others who had faith in this part of the country and then quoted a recent visitor, Mr. McCandless who came here with Mr. Buckley, as saying that this part of the country had the largest stand of virgin timber outside of Russia.

Mr. Blackstock and Mr. Tobey

Mr. Blackstock said one of the things all had to learn was not to be impatient. They had found by experience that it was necessary to fight for everything they got. He urged his hearers to keep their ears out and their chins in so that they might learn. The files of the Senior Chamber were filled with subjects some of which seemed dead. He hoped that training the young men received in their own organization would make them more efficient and useful in the community. He urged them to study all subjects that came before them. To insure success they must support their president-elect.

Mr. Tobey suggested that the Junior Chamber might show the Senior Chamber how to carry on. The Senior Chamber, of which he was a member, had been losing ground of late. In time of stress he suggested it was necessary to gird our loins and make a determined effort to carry on. We were all prone to follow the lines of least resistance. He suggested that the juniors might assist Prince Rupert in coming into her own. Geographically the city was well situated. However, it was difficult to divert the regularly established channels of trade but eventually it would come this way.

President-elect George Rorie spoke facetiously of what had been done and of what they planned to do.

Vice-president-elect Gilker mentioned that they had a realization of the great task on hand. The Junior Chamber must take a hand in upholding the best things in Canada and the Empire.

After brief remarks by several other members the gathering adjourned.

HOW SIXTH GAME WENT

Details of Scoring Play in Closing Encounter of 1936 World Series

NEW ORK, Oct. 7: (CP)—Winning the deciding game in the World Series by a score of 13 to 5 over the New York Giants yesterday, the battering New York Yankees took the twentieth series for their circuit against thirteen for the National League. They climaxed the day and World Series by scoring seven runs in the ninth, breaking their own record for ninth inning rallies set at six in the second game.

The Yankees used two pitchers—Lefty Gomez and John Murphy—while the Giants used four moundsmen—Fred Fitzsimmons, Clydel Castleman, Dick Coffman and Harry Gumbert—and two catchers—Gus Mancuso and Harry Danning—in the desperate but vain effort to keep in the running.

The Giants took a two run lead in the first when Ott's double scored Moore and Bartell but the Yankees evened it up in the second on Powell's homer scoring Selkirk and went ahead in the third when Rolfe scored.

Fitzsimmons was replaced by Clydel Castleman in the Giants' box in the fourth after Powell and Lazzeri scored.

Mel Ott hit a homer for the Giants in the fifth and Bartell scored in the seventh. Johnny Murphy replaced Gomez in the Yankee box after Bartell scored. The Giants' last run came in the eighth, again by Bartell.

Entering the ninth inning with the bare one-run lead, the Yankees made sure of the series before the ever-threatening Giants could get a chance to even it up or win. DiMaggio opened the inning with a single off Dick Coffman who came into the box to replace Castleman who had given way to a pinch-hitter in the eighth. DiMaggio went to third on Gehrig's single. Dickey grounded to Terry and DiMaggio was trapped between third and the plate. Gehrig went to third and Dickey to second. Danning, now behind the bat, was charged with an error. Selkirk, the Yankees' hitting star of the series, was passed. Powell drove the ball through Bartell's legs, scoring Gehrig and Dickey and sending Selkirk to third. Powell reached second on the throw to the plate. There was no error. Coffman was replaced by Harry Gumbert. Lazzeri was passed. Murphy singled, scoring Selkirk. Crosetti walked, forcing in Powell. Rolfe grounded to Bartell and Crosetti was forced at second as Lazzeri scored and Murphy went to third. DiMaggio beat out a hit to deep short, scoring Murphy and putting Rolfe on second. Gehrig walked. Dickey fanned out. Selkirk flied out, retiring the side.

Against almost hopeless odds, the Giants made but a feeble attempt to equalize in their end of the ninth—and thus the 1936 World Series went into history.

Almost Attendance Record Total attendance for the six games of the series was 302,900 with an aggregate gate of $1,205,000, second only to the previous record of the 1926 series between St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees when 328,051 fans attended seven games and paid a total gate of $1,207,864.

It is the fifth time the Yankees have been world champions.

Lieut. Col. J. G. Wright, secretary of the British Israel Association of Greater Vancouver, is expected to visit Prince Rupert next week. It is planned for him to address public meetings on Wednesday and Thursday evenings and he will probably speak at the Rotary luncheon on Thursday of that week.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just stays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink. A normal bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of catalyst but have no calories or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. See.

WILSON IS PRESIDENT

Elected Head of Teachers—Special Meeting Reported Upon

The annual meeting of the Prince Rupert Teachers' Association was held last evening in Booth School with President W. W. C. O'Neill in the chair.

The chairman referred at length to the special general meeting of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation held on September 19 when the professional draft bill was discussed. With some minor alterations the bill was approved by a large majority. It will now be submitted to all the teachers of the province and, on their endorsement, will be presented to the fall session of the provincial legislature. Before declaring all offices vacant Mr. O'Neill gave a brief resume of the year's activities. Education Week had been very successfully observed and a more general interest in and appreciation of the problems affecting education were the results. A letter of congratulation will be sent to James Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mitchell, who was elected to the presidency of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, the Dominion federation of teacher associations.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, J. S. Wilson. Vice-president, Miss Marjorie Shiell. Executive—Miss E. A. Mercer, Mrs. B. Walker, Miss K. McKay. Secretary-treasurer, W. W. C. O'Neill.

Plans for the year's activities were also discussed and a hearty welcome was given by the president to new teachers to the city.

this he was ready to admit. There had been a depression but this country had not suffered like others had. People had starved to death in Russia and other countries.

Where democracies had been interfered with the common people had always suffered. Socialists and group governments had been followed by ruthless dictatorships such as British countries did not want. To support a Socialistic party in British Columbia, already split within itself, would be to follow in the footsteps of European countries where the result had been the disappearance of individual freedom and liberties. The C.C.F. was unable to conduct its own organization. How could it be expected to carry on the affairs of government? No party could succeed which had denied the right of personal freedom and made the individual the serf of the state. As for the C.C.F., Dr. Patterson believed that the present majority of the members would choose to follow Mr. Connell rather than the Communist-inclined executive. Personally, Dr. Patterson said he was unalterably opposed to any party whose federal members advocated giving the franchise to the Orientals with whom whites could not compete in business or industry without lowering the standard of living and who would not assimilate. To give Orientals the franchise would lead to turning over to them control of the country.

As for the C. C. F. socialized finance, it would mean the ruining of the credit of Canada which was vital to the trade of the country, bringing real unemployment and distress. He was opposed to Mr. Woodsworth's idea of breaking off from the rest of the empire. This connection he considered of vital importance to Canada.

What the people wanted today Dr. Patterson thought, was common sense talk about methods of government. They did not want to be trifled with by talk of Utopias and getting something for nothing. How were all private holdings going to be transferred? Would there be compensation or would there be confiscation. The former would be impossible and the latter intolerable. Where were to be found the giants of business and industry who would take charge? Dr. Telford had even refused to turn over his "Plenty For All" campaign to the C.C.F. executive because he said it was a business enterprise and had to be carried on along business lines. But he would turn over the entire business of the province to the same executive. Did a change of ownership, after all, ever add one man to the payroll or increase human consumption by one dollar. In other countries prosperity had been brought back without a change of system. Australia was an example. The C. C. F. was a negligible factor in every part of Canada except British Columbia and the speaker believed it would disappear here due to internal defection.

Turns to Pattullo

Dr. Patterson then turned his attention to the Pattullo government which he accused of broken promises, unfulfilled pledges, weakness and autocratic control. A government, he felt, should be honest, courageous and sincere. "Work and Wages," the Conservative leader believed, had been but a scheme to catch votes. Mr. Pattullo had no plan, he declared. At first he blamed the Bennett federal government. Now he blamed the King government. But Mr. Pattullo had suggested that, falling federal aid, British Columbia could and would "go it alone" utilizing the resources of the province to provide food, shelter and fair work and wages for all. The speaker did not believe in making promises to raise false hopes in the breasts of the people. He would never stoop to bribe the electorate in this way.

Nothing had been done about the highway commission because it would have interfered with the greatest spending department. When public money was used for political purposes, there was always bad government and slow progress.

Mr. Pattullo's government had proven an autocracy such as one might expect under Fascist rule. The Special Powers Act, while not used it was true, was a menace to liberty and left the threat of dictatorship.

Continuing, Dr. Patterson charged the Pattullo government with extravagance. Was it fair to build an unnecessary bridge at New Westminster costing millions of dollars against the wishes of the large majority of the people while pioneer parts of the country such as Prince Rupert were neglected in their road requirements?

Dr. Patterson declared that the present government had squandered money on travelling expenses, bureaucracies and commissions. It was piling up debts for the future, putting on coming generations a burden that it did not have the spine to carry itself. It was unfair to give high salaries to bureaucracies and commissions when so many people were having a hard time to eke out a living. The two sessions of the Legislature this year with two separate salaries aggregating $3200 for each member was another example of using public funds for political expediency, making "willy-nillies" of the members.

What Should be Done

The cost of government should be reduced, Dr. Patterson declared and things should be done to really help the industries and the people. Secondary industries should be encouraged with departmental officials cooperating by investigat-

CANADA TO BE HELPED

Tariff Changes in Italy and France Expected to Increase Trade Of Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 7: (CP)—Canadian trade officials, while not having full details as yet, expressed confidence last night that Canada would benefit materially from the cut of more than fifty percent in customs duties on grains, cereals, cattle and meat orders, by Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy. The action of France in lowering tariff on butter and apples is also expected to benefit Canada.

ing possibilities. Practical men not only university graduates with fancy salaries, should be consulted. There should be a spirit of co-operation and service to assist industries, business and the ordinary people. Thus, the speaker believed, better times could be brought about. Something should be done especially for the young people to provide them with opportunities Adult and technical education were desirable.

"My career," said Dr. Patterson in conclusion, "has been devoted in the humble work of endeavoring to alleviate the troubles of humanity. I have seen people at their best and at their worst, in prosperity and in adversity. If asked to take over the reins of government, it would be my aim to champion the cause of those in need."

PASSING OF MRS. KEITH

Well Known Former Local Woman Died While Crossing Atlantic After Visit Here

Word was received by cable this morning of the death of Mrs. Rebecca Keith, well known former resident of Prince Rupert, who passed away October 4 aboard the steamer Leitia while crossing the Atlantic Ocean on her return to her home in Belfast, Ireland, after a visit of several weeks in Prince Rupert. Mrs. Keith's death occurred two days following embarkation at Montreal. It was very sudden and many local friends will be deeply shocked to hear of her passing. She had appeared to be in quite good health on leaving here. She had been the guest for several weeks of Mrs. Peter Black at the Central Hotel.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, Mrs. Keith was seventy years of age. She was predeceased ten years ago by her husband, William Keith. For years they resided on Fifth Avenue East. Following Mr. Keith's death, Mrs. Keith left for Belfast to reside. She had come back to revisit here on two occasions. There are brothers and sisters in Belfast, the remains having been taken on their for their funeral. Mrs. Keith was a member of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association and was also active in other women's organizations here.

BRITISH PICTURES

"Passing of Third Floor Back" And "Jack of All Trades" At Capitol Theatre

A British double bill is being presented on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here for the middle of this week. Conrad Veidt is starred in "The Passing of Third Floor Back," Jerome K. Jerome's famous classic of the English speaking dramatic stage. The second picture of the bill is another jolly comedy starring Jack Hulbert in "Jack of All Trades."

As "The Stranger" in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," Veidt has the support of such British screen stars as Rene Ray, Frank Cellier, Anna Lee, Beatrix Lehmann and John Turnbull. Laid in the novel surroundings of a Bloomsbury boarding house, the story is that of a stranger who came quietly to live among the boarders who represented almost every type of human sin. All are affected for the better by the stranger except one who defies his influence by heaping new evil on old, bringing about a climax of death and murder. "Jack of All Trades" is a song and dance show which should provide light but diverting entertainment. It is typically English and will find favor with those who like other women's organizations here.
