Big Run of Sockeye at Rivers Inlet—Local Rivers Holding

There were two hundred and fifty gill net boats fishing for sockeye salmon in Rivers Inlet on Sunday night, according to reports received at the Dominion fisheries office here today. A big run was on and the general average of the boats was 125 fish. The most of the fishermen there were from the Bella Coola and Fitzhugh Sound districts. Namu cannery is taking all the fish. This will be the last week of sockeye fishing at Rivers Inlet.

The sockeye run is still holding up as well as can be expected on the Skeena and Naas Rivers with the boats averaging about thirty-seven fish in both areas yesterday.

Heligoland, Which May Get New Nazi Guns

The British House of Commons was told by a foreign affairs representative that Heligoland was being re-fortified by Germany without the consent of England. This strategic island, shown on the map above, was ceded to Germany by Great Britain in 1890. The air view below shows the fortifications (indicated by crosses) which Germany was forced to dismantle after the world war. Top is one of the big guns being taken from its emplacement.

CIVIL WAR IS VICIOUS

Fierce Fighting in Spain—Refugees Evacuating—King Edward Cancels Trip

Rebels Confident

Say They Will Reach Madrid in Three Days—British Ship Shelled

MADRID, July 28: (CP)—Vicious fighting broke out anew yesterday on distant fronts of the Spanish civil war while British and American refugees were being evacuated from their crowded embassies in Madrid. The government provided a special train to take British and United States refugees to Alicante where they will presumably board a British destroyer. Toledo reported a fierce battle in progress.

Leftist Spain struck at the stubborn eleven-day rebellion with fleets of bombing planes to blast out insurgent garrisons and explode ammunition dumps in the Guadarrama Mountains which guard this beleaguered capital. In the Guadarramas, however, rebels predicted they would reach Madrid in three days.

Bracken Government Is Back in Office With Slim Majority

Ascendency is Not comparable With That it Enjoyed Before Dissolution—Conservatives Form Chief Opposition

WINNIPEG, July 28: (CP)—Returns received up to late this morning in the Manitoba general provincial election indicated the return to power of Premier John Bracken's Liberal Progressive government with a small majority nothing like the standing at dissolution when it held thirty-six out of fifty-five seats. Of fifteen seats which had definitely reported up to midnight, the government had taken eleven, Conservatives four and Independent one. Up to that time the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, which had five members in the last House, had failed to elect a single member nor had Social Credit fared any better although it was expected rural ridings, returns from which were delayed, would probably elect some of these groups.

Different Picture Today The government of Premier John Bracken, however, seemed to be losing seats today to Conservative and Social Credit candidates, the Progressive total of members elected up to a late hour this morning being only eighteen. Majorities for government candidates in practically all constituencies they held previously were cut down and Premier Bracken saw his majority of twenty in the last Legislature slipping away. There was a possibility that no party would have a clear majority.

Hon. W. R. Clubb, minister of public works, and Hon. I. B. Griffiths, minister of health, were re-elected. Hon. J. S. McDiarmid, minister of natural resources, and Hon. W. J. Major, attorney general, seemed likely to be elected in Winnipeg but Minister of Education Hoey appeared likely to lose in St. Clements. Premier John Bracken and Provincial Treasurer E. A. McPherson are candidates in the deferred elections on August 21.

The runaway of L. St. George Stubbs, Independent, in the voting in Winnipeg was a highlight of the voting. Removed three years ago from the County Court bench, he topped the Winnipeg poll to set a record of 24,571 first choices. Winnipeg (Continued on Page Four)

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 28:—The Federal Reserve Board and American Federation of Labor, in separate reports find the forces of recovery are resulting in improved business conditions. Industrial production, employment and trade, working against a usual seasonal decline at this time, maintained May levels during June, the Federal Reserve Board reported.

The American Federation of Labor says the "force of recovery" has now gained enough strength to prevent any serious setback from political uncertainties next fall. Business news, it said, points towards a stronger fall pick-up than expected.

ROUTE FOR HIGHWAY

The route to be taken by the highway is one of the big problems agitating the public mind in Prince Rupert. So far as can be gathered, the engineers favor the route at present being followed which, they say, is the shortest and best route to Terrace. It leads to a ferry across the river some miles the other side of Haysport with the rest of the highway on the south side of the river.

Premier Pattullo, when in the city recently, made a casual remark in regard to his impression when flying down the valley, that a road to the canneries was practicable and very desirable. This set the advocates of the canneries route going and as a result the question is being generally discussed on the street and wherever men congregate. Evidently there is considerable difference of opinion and much lack of information.

In the meantime a joint committee of the Senior and Junior Chamber of Commerce is discussing the subject and securing all possible information and doubtless they will bring their report before their organizations or before a joint meeting.

The chief arguments of the advocates of the interior route is that they want to get to Terrace at the nearest possible date and are not interested in the river route. For the river route it is argued that the canneries would provide business for the city and that most of the people now living will not get to Terrace over the road anyway, therefore it is best to take the business that is offering and let the main object take care of itself.

Seldom have the Prince Rupert gardens looked as well as they do today. The roses are in bloom and there is a good deal of color almost everywhere. We have a real city of roses for a few days. There should be plenty of exhibits at the show on August 10 but roses will be off by that time. The setting of a later date this year was an experiment which will be a guide as to what to do in future.

More than a year ago I was given two or three little pen-stemon seedlings which I kept through the winter indoors. They grew very slowly until this summer when one of them developed into a large bushy plant of which I was proud and expected to get some fine bloom in August or September.

The other morning I went out to the front door. Peter, the old black cat, was sleeping on a mat and near him was a dead bird. In a corner of the porch was my fine penstemon plant upside down on the floor with several of the branches broken off. It was a sad mess and simply illustrates how in gardening our hopes are often frustrated. We must keep a cat to keep down mice and rats and a good ratter is usually keen after birds and occasionally birds will venture into the porch, so what is one to do?

This has been a good year for begonias. Frank Dibb has some beauties but unhappily the best of them cannot be seen from the road. Last week while I was at the office an American tourist was seen photographing my begonias with a movie camera. Questioned by my wife, it seems that he was from the Chicago Tribune and that the photos were being taken in color. He also took some of the delphiniums which happen to be at their best just now. I hope he gets something by which to remember Prince Rupert.

This year there have been no gales to injure the delphiniums. Even those grown in exposed places have come through safely. For several years past there have been serious injuries to these plants just as they were about to bloom. Some gardeners stopped growing delphiniums altogether because they lost them every year just at the critical time.—H. F. P

Great Britain Defeats Australia in World's Amateur Tennis Championship Play

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 28: (CP)—Australia remained in the running for the Davis Cup yesterday when Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist defeated Pat Hughes and Charles Tuckey in the doubles 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 10-8. Australia needed to win both singles today to capture the cup but Fred Perry swept through Jack Crawford 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 in the final match of the challenge round, enabling Great Britain to retain the trophy. Adrian Quist had earlier in the day tied the series at two all by defeating H. W. (Bunny) Austin in the first of the singles 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3. Perry was unbeatable in his game.

SPORT CHAT

Heavy hitting featured several of Saturday's Big League games. In the National League Chicago Cubs smothered the Phillies at Philadelphia by a score of 17 to 4 and further increased their lead over the St. Louis Cardinals who were dropping a close decision to the Boston Bees at Boston. The New York Giants went into third place ahead of Pittsburgh Pirates who dropped both games of a double-header to Brooklyn Dodgers Sunday.

In the American League the Boston Red Sox overwhelmed the world champion Detroit Tigers 18 to 4 at Navin Field Saturday. The Red Sox made 12 runs in the fifth inning. The Cleveland Indians, playing at home, were downed 15 to 12 by the Philadelphia Athletics in a slugfest and the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox at Chicago 5 to 3 to increase their margin of leadership to eight and a half games. This was further increased to nine and a half games Sunday when the Yankees took both ends of a double-header from Chicago White Sox while the Indians and Athletics were splitting a double-header.

The Red Sox won again over the Tigers Sunday and advanced from fifth to third place, the Tigers dropping to fourth place and the White Sox to sixth with Washington in fifth position. The St. Louis Browns are back in exclusive possession of the cellar again as a result of week-end play with the Philadelphia Athletics in seventh place.

Stonegate Sails With Logs—Minister of Fisheries Leaves—Catala Is Very Late.

Having loaded some 600,000 feet of cottonwood timber here for delivery to China, the British freighter Stonegate sails from here this afternoon for Vancouver where she will complete. The vessel is being piloted out to Triple Island by Capt. J. R. Elfert and will go south by way of Dixon's Entrance and outside to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Taking Hon. J. E. Michaud, federal minister of fisheries, and party in continuation of their coast tour, the hydrographic survey steamer William J. Stewart left at 3 o'clock this morning for the Naas River. From there the party will proceed to the Queen Charlotte Islands and thence to the west coast of Vancouver Island and into Victoria and Vancouver.

A Ketchikan seaplane piloted by Herb Munter made a brief call here Saturday afternoon, having brought in a passenger, Mrs. Williams, who caught the steamer Princess Charlotte for Seattle.

Running very late this trip, Union steamer Catala, Capt. James Findlay, is not expected back here before about 2 o'clock tomorrow morning at the earliest from Stewart, Anyox and other northern points. The vessel wirelessed this morning that it was expected to leave Mill Bay about 8 o'clock tonight.

Harry Scott, high mogul of the Grenville Channel handloggers who has been in town for the past ten days or so recuperating from his hard labors, took time out from his holiday at the week-end to take three of his friends of the Forest Branch office here—Ernest Wilding, Bill Murray and Bryan Parsons—on an angling expedition to a stream south of Salmon River known as Mangy Creek. The fifth member of the party was Harry's second in command—his Patagonian retriever "Spud" whose assistance was invaluable. The expedition, as far as can be learned from Harry, was a great success. It was eminently successful, too, as far as the angling results were concerned. Only the fact that the boys forgot to take along an adding machine prevented them from keeping count. Weather was beautiful and one of the features of the outing was a slap-dash fish banquet served on board before returning. Harry is getting restless to be back in the woods and the next few days will probably see him heading southward again. He is contemplating moving his operations soon to a location somewhat further down the coast than at present.

MINISTER OF FISHERIES, GUEST AT DINNER, GIVES ADDRESS.

knew little of the place and, when so large a vote for a public building was asked, one of the members asked how large a place was this Prince Rupert, what was its population? Mr. Hanson had replied pointing out that the city was the centre for a huge district and that in any case it was not so much the number people as the calibre of the people that counted. The vote was then passed without further discussion, everyone recognizing that the argument was unassailable.

Mr. Michaud said that now he had visited Prince Rupert he found that he was quite satisfied a public building of the character suggested should be erected. He admired the splendid harbor and the possibilities. The facilities for trade here surprised him. This was the extreme west. Coming from the older centres of the east they found a young city in a territory varied and interesting. This factor had to be considered and it was one that was often forgotten.

Canada was in the position of a person whose growth had been arrested in youth through unfortunate circumstances. The more that was seen and known of Canada, the more was learned of her wonderful and varied resources. All that was needed was a larger population to maintain the structure which had been built for fifty million people. There were countries that provided a type of settlers which could be easily assimilated and made the best colonizers in the world. Having seen the Pacific he was more than ever convinced of the kind of citizenship needed, east and west had their own separate problems. The east was older and he felt that the older members of the Canadian family should always be willing to help out the younger.

In regard to the fisheries, the minister said he was on an educational tour. What he had already seen had been a revelation to him. He urged that team work applied to this problem would be necessary. Co-operation of all in the solution of their problems was desirable. The question of foreign markets was one of these problems. Many countries were closed to Canadian products. The government was already dealing with this problem and with some success already, but much more had to be done. A campaign of education was necessary in connection with the development of foreign markets and also to develop to the full the home market. It had to be demonstrated to the people of Canada that fish was a desirable food. However, it was up to the industry to co-operate with the government to help increase the demand and to put up the best quality goods. The British market demanded quality. The people there were particular what food they ate. If they were to keep and develop this market they must satisfy its conditions. He would take back with him the messages that had been given him here and he felt sure it was only a matter of team work, co-operation of the fishermen, the industry and the government to make the country more prosperous.

Olof Hanson
Olof Hanson M.P. paid a warm tribute to the minister. He reminded them that the agitation for a separate minister started here and that the new government had been the first to see the taking north a party of Premier visitors who had spent the week-end here. Pilot Elliott will probably be at Stewart for the next few days, having some freighting work to carry out from there.

Canadian Prairies Drought-Stricken

Swept by heat-laden winds, burned by scorching suns and untouched by rain, Canada's wheat growing prairies, often referred to as the "granary of the empire," have been turned this year into scorched wastes. Wheat and other grain crops have been irreparably damaged by continued drought which has lowered the possible crop from one-half to one hundred percent., although the largest yield in years had been forecast in early season surveys. Here is a field of corn, a half-mile long, burned to a stunted ruin, the few remaining leaves stripped by grasshoppers.

value of the fisheries and appoint a minister who would have it uppermost in his mind. He also paid a compliment to Mr. Reid and was glad he was also acquiring information in regard to the fishing industry. He thanked Col. Nicholls for the opportunity of meeting them at dinner. The fishermen's organizations had done good work. Now they had an opportunity of presenting their views direct to the minister and good results should follow.

Mr. Reid doubted if he had ever attended as unique a gathering as this before. Here were representatives of all the fishing interests and with them also Mr. Parizeau who had surveyed their waters and made the work of fishing and navigation easier. He was glad to say that he found no jealousies of east against west. The people of the east had readily voted for Prince Rupert's post office.

Expanding his views Mr. Reid saw across the Pacific a people numbering about 120,000,000 who were just beginning to awake. In contact with this vast population whose living at present meant only a handful of rice, there were great possibilities. He saw a great future for British Columbia.

Musical Service Was Interesting

An interesting musical service was held at the end of the week in St. Paul's Lutheran Church with Rev. L. C. Jensen presiding and giving an address on the subject of "David the Musician." Other items on the program included organ selections by Peter Lien; vocal solos by Inge Valen and Mr. Jensen, readings by Mrs. Gunnar Selvig and piano solos by Miss Theima Skog. There was congregational singing at the opening and closing of the program.

Terrace Hospital Fire on Thursday

Roof Blaze Speedily Extinguished Without Serious Consequences

TERRACE, July 28.—An alarming fire started in the roof of Terrace Emergency Hospital at about one o'clock noon Thursday last. Patients noticed sparks coming through the ceiling and at once it was seen that serious danger threatened. The three ladies who are in charge there, Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Willson, at once got the patients out of danger and, the fire alarm having been sounded in the village, many volunteers were quickly at the scene to extinguish the blaze. The roof was considerably damaged but, fortunately, there was nothing worse than that to report.
