Sentenced Today

Dramatic Incidents of Frontier Life Revealed in Evidence

GETS SIX MONTHS

Mr. Justice A. I. Fisher this morning sentenced George Adsit to six months without hard labor at Okalla prison farm. In doing so he took into consideration the recommendation of the jury for leniency, a plea on behalf of the prisoner by his counsel, Reid McLennan, who drew attention to his age, the fact that he had no previous criminal record and also that he had been in custody since September 9. Mr. McLennan suggested suspended sentence. Mr. Patmore, for the crown, pointed out that sentences were designed not only for the punishment of criminals but as a deterrent to crime. It would have a bad effect on the community if the prisoner were allowed to go home on suspended sentence. It was a serious offence to draw a gun and, if allowed to go unpunished, it was hard to know where it might lead.

Japanese Continue to Make Active Preparation For Direct Armed Action

TOKYO, Oct. 2: (CP)—Reports to Japanese newspapers yesterday said that Army leaders felt that Japan would proceed with direct armed action if General Chiang Kai Shek, China's dictator, refuses Japanese demands. Meantime Japanese marines resumed patrols in China's Hong-kew district as officials declined to discuss the reasons, emphasizing later, however, that it was strictly a "measure of precaution." With reinforcements being steadily moved ashore, Shanghai is now virtually bristling with armed Japanese forces.

SALMON AT THIS PORT

Would be of Great Advantage if More of Canned Product Was Handled Here

All citizens of Prince Rupert look to see the city become a receiving and shipping centre for canned salmon, something which would be of great advantage to the port, according to R. M. Winslow, assistant manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company, in an address to the Prince Rupert Rotary Club at its regular weekly luncheon yesterday at the Commodore Cafe.

Japan, flushed with success of the deep sea salmon fishing off the Siberian coast, would make the marketing of salmon difficult unless something were done. In the revision of the British Empire treaties, provision should be made for an increased protection for Canadian canned salmon in the British market. This would help solve the problem.

Mr. Winslow spoke of the annual fish week observance and mentioned that the Dominion Government was to spend $100,000 in an advertising campaign to try to induce increased consumption of fish in Canada. While heartily in accord with this policy he did not think one short campaign was sufficient. It should be continued for several years. The object of the campaign was stated to be primarily to help the fisherman market their catches. The fishermen had suffered as a result of the depression. The difficulty was that a large percentage of the fish caught was not marketed in this country and he doubted if the campaign would materially increase the price of fish. Britain and the United States were the chief markets for Canadian fish.

The Empire trade treaties were to be revised next year and an effort was being made to secure better protection for Canadian fish in Empire markets.

Good Fishing This Year

There were a number of surprises in the fishing this year. The recuperation of the Fraser River was one of the outstanding features of the season. The run of sockeye this year was the greatest in that river since 1913.

The Skeena River had been slated for a small pack this year but it had proved to be one of the largest.

At Rivers Inlet there had been a good run but the unfortunate strike had made it impossible to estimate just how good the run had been. After this the fishermen and cannery men get together so as to enable them to handle the fish at prices which may compete with the Japanese and with the Alaskan reds.

Pinks were in demand in England and the Japanese had been exploiting that market. However, Canada was getting some of the business. The Queen Charlotte Islands run had not been good this year. It was difficult to understand the conditions there and all had something to learn yet about the fisheries around the Islands.

At the close Mr. Winslow was thanked by President C. V. Eviitt for his interesting and instructive address.

Visitors at the luncheon included Olof Hanson M.P., James Lee, Shelford Darton and Mr. Robinson.

Lefty Gomez yielded seven passes but was effective throughout. Lazzetti's homer with the bases full was the first time the feat had been done since 1920 in World Series play.

A new World Series record was set for runs scored in a single game. Ideal weather prevailed for the game and the Polo Grounds were packed with 43,543 fans. The most important personage in attendance was President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

New York Yankees Take Second Game Of World Series With 18 To 4 Score

Tony Lazzeri's home run with the bases full in the third.

How Scoring Was Done

The Yankees went after their win from the start as Crosetti, first man up, singled. Rolfe walked and DiMaggio bunted safely to fill the bases. Gehrig hoisted a high fly to Ott and Crosetti crossed the plate. Dickey hit a high fly to Leiber, scoring Rolfe, and opened the lead the Yankees never lost.

Giants squeezed home their first run in the second when Mancuso had advanced on Jackson's fly after walking and then came home on a wild pitch through Dickey's legs.

Giants yanked Schumacher in the third and put in left handed Al Smith after the Yankees had filled the bases. Gehrig singled, sending home two runs, and Dickey sent another home with a single. Selkirk flied out and Powell walked, filling the bases again. Smith gave way to Dick Coffman, the Giants' big righthander, but Lazzeri, the first man up, smashed a homer into the right field stands.

In a desperate effort to overcome the American Leaguers' lead the Giants bunched singles with a walk to send over three runs in the fourth.

Yankees big guns again boomed out in the ninth against the Giants' fifth pitcher after they had yanked Coffman for a pinch-hitter in the fourth to use Frank Gabler.

Harry Gumbert was the victim as the Yankees bunched hits to score three more runs before Bill Dickey smashed a homer into lower right field stands, scoring two men before him.

Lefty Gomez yielded seven passes but was effective throughout.

Lazzetti's homer with the bases full was the first time the feat had been done since 1920 in World Series play.

ARGUMENT AT HIGH SCHOOL

Veterans and Youngsters Unable To Settle Differences On Football Field

An argument arose at the beginning of this week as to the relative merits of this year's High School team compared with last year's team. It was decided to settle this argument on the football field instead of in the boy's basement.

The veterans were Ritchie (captain), Clark, Bolton, Brown, Christian, Houston, Smith, P. Knutson, L. Knutson, Holkestad.
The youngsters were, Sheehan, McKay, Long, Cook, Scherk, McLean, Kihara, Judge, Ritchie (captain), and Blake.

The score was one goal each, so that the question of supremacy has still to be settled.

Hazelton Golf Players Lose At Smithers

SMITHERS, Oct. 2.—The golfing fraternity of Hazelton visited Smithers a few days ago and had the vengeance of the Smithers sharpshooters visited upon them in return for the beating which they had handed to the Smithers golfers at Hazelton a short time before.

The Hazelton players were quite lost in the wide open spaces of the Smithers golf course and without having the narrow alleys of their own course to shoot through they could not get the pill onto the green and into the cup as readily as the Smithereens. The consequence was a loss for the Hazeltonians.

Ladies and gentlemen participated for both sides in large numbers and both varieties were successful for Smithers.

BONDING OF MINE

Silver Pick Property on Babine Mountain Leased by Grand Forks Men

SMITHERS, Oct. 2.—The Silver Pick mining property on Babine Mountain was recently given over on a working bond and lease by the owners, Thos. King and Martin Cain of Smithers, to J. J. Herman and associates of Grand Forks.

Mr. Herman and his partners lost no time in getting on to the property and they are now busily engaged with a small crew producing high grade ore for shipment to the smelter.

A small amount of work is being done on the Cronin Mine road over which the ore will be transported in order to put the road in good shape for the winter, this work being done by the Department of Public Works and being greatly appreciated by the mine operators.

The government is showing willingness to co-operate with small producers and in assisting them by keeping the roads and trails open as it means a very great deal to those undertaking work in a small way and who are developing properties that might easily turn into big producers at some future date.

A small shipment of ore was made from this property in 1935 by the owners which netted them over $150 per ton after paying charges of transportation and smelting of over $60 per ton.

DR. WRINCH IS LEAVING

Veteran Medical Man of Hazelton Expects to Reside in Victoria

SMITHERS, Oct. 2.—Dr. H. C. Wrinch paid a short visit to Smithers on Monday afternoon on business and his many friends here were very sorry to learn that he is retiring from active life and expects to leave the district permanently.

Being one of the oldest old timers in the district Dr. Wrinch's departure will leave a big gap in the whole northern area as he was well known to both the white people and the Indians throughout the country.

Dr. Wrinch came to Hazelton 36 years ago and has labored among the people of the district as a Doctor-Missionary, all through these years. He established the hospital at Hazelton which has now grown to the large, modern, concrete institution so well known throughout the North.

When the electoral constituency of Skeena was brought into being Dr. Wrinch received the nomination as the Liberal candidate and was easily elected to serve that constituency at Victoria. He served in this capacity for eight years when he retired from the political arena.

He plans to leave next week for Toronto where he will spend the winter with relatives and may later return to Victoria to establish his permanent residence.

Dr. and Mrs. Wrinch will be greatly missed throughout the district but more particularly in Hazelton itself where they have taken such an active part in the life of the town.

Dr. Leonard Wrinch, son of Dr. H. C. Wrinch, will continue in charge of the Hazelton Hospital to carry out the work so well begun and thoroughly established by his father.

Adsit Is Convicted

Accused on Stand

A feature of the trial yesterday afternoon was the evidence of the accused, who took the stand in his own defence. He told that he was seventy years of age and had never been in trouble before. He came to the Telegraph Creek country in 1898 and had five children born in Canada. He said he was perfectly familiar with revolvers, having been taught to shoot by his father. He had punched cows in Montana and in Alberta, having followed the life of the cowboy for 18 years. When he was 13 years of age he had diptheria and since that time his hand shook. This, however, did not affect his shooting. He illustrated exactly how he took a bead on anything he wished to hit.

Adsit said he had a claim on Mosquito Creek which he leased in 1925 to Henry Gibson. This claim was worked by Julius Gibson and associates. Information came to him from time to time that Gibson was picking up gold without letting it go into the sluice boxes. He spoke to him about it but Gibson got mad. At one time, returning from a hunting trip, Gibson showed him 33 ounces which he offered to divide.

In 1933 and 1934 there had been clean-ups without notifying him and he had written to his lawyer about it and also reported to the gold commissioner but did not get much satisfaction. He also took the matter up with the mines department at Victoria but was told it was a matter for the courts. In 1935 there was a clean-up, he heard about August 1 but he heard about it only four days later. However, he said nothing to Gibson about it. There was a clean-up this year on August 26 at which he was present and Gibson produced 4 1/2 oz. of gold from a bottle in the cabin.

At accused's request Gibson visited him at his tent after the clean-up and he (accused) told him to get off the property. There was a clause in the agreement which gave him the right to put them off the property if they broke their agreement. At that time he asked Gibson what became of the gold picked up and panned. He also asked about the clean-up in August at which he was not present. He then ordered Gibson did not go back to the pit. He figured he could bluff them as he had often done in poker and the bluff worked.

The Incident

Next morning he went to the pit and the men were there so he ordered them off. Two of the men started to move but Gibson and his partner remained so he "cut her loose." He fired his gun about two feet to the right of Gibson and about two feet above. He could have shot the man if he had wanted to do so. As soon as he shot they cut under the bank and ran. Later Gibson came up the trail with his hands up. He was told to "hit the trail." All the men went up the trail to the blacksmith shop with him (accused) behind. Gibson fetched out his slicker and rifle with the barrel turned in his direction. He told Gibson to turn the barrel the other way, which was done.

The next day Irvine came to see him and asked who he was after. He said he was after Gibson. He certainly did not shoot at Gibson. He then went to Telegraph Creek and gave himself up.

Cross-examined by Mr. Patmore, Adsit said he had punched cows in Montana for four years. Sometimes quarrels were settled in that country by the use of guns. He had been advised that this matter should have been settled in the courts. He thought he was protecting his rights and did not consider he was doing wrong in using his gun.

Adsit denied that he was a member of the Wolf Clan. He had been admitted as a member of the Crow Tribe of natives but his wife was a Wolf. A Wolf did not marry a Wolf.

Addresses of Counsel

In addressing the jury Mr. McLennan dwelt on the age of the accused and the fact that he had never been in trouble before. His reputation was good. The question was why did the accused take the action he did. It was because he thought he was protecting his rights. He thought he had a right to put them off, as stated in the agreement. He analyzed the evidence finally, asking the jury to believe the story told by the accused as the reasonable one.

For the crown, L. W. Patmore did not press the charge of attempted murder. It was something for the jury to decide. If he did not shoot to kill, then he was guilty of a technical assault. The facts were admitted.

The Judge's Charge

In his charge, lasting just a little over an hour, the judge referred to and dilated on the two counts against accused—first, shooting at Gibson with intent to murder; second, assault by pointing and shooting a loaded revolver at or in the general direction of Gibson within shooting distance. The jurors were the sole judges of the facts. It was the duty of the judge to instruct the jury on the law as applied to the facts. It was for the jury to determine from such factors as demeanor of witnesses and probability of acceptability of evidence. It might be helpful in coming to a conclusion to determine what, through general agreement in testimony, was common ground, and then to consider what was contradictory. It appeared to be common ground that accused had a loaded revolver and shot it. There seemed to be some disagreement among crown witnesses as to exactly what accused had said prior to the incident. Only one (Sear-foss) had testified that accused said: "I'll kill you." It was up to the jury to use common sense in deciding as to what was said and its bearing on intent, if any, to murder. Was accused's intent to kill? Accused himself said it was merely his intention to bluff. Would it have been difficult for him to murder Gibson if he had intended to do so?

Dealing with the second count, His Lordship pointed out that assault was constituted either by an act of applying force or threatening or attempting to apply force. In this country a person could not take the law into one's own hands. It was unlawful to take a loaded gun into one's own hands and point or shoot at or in the general direction of a person within shooting distance.

Elderly Pioneer

Adsit is a man probably almost seventy years of age. He was born in Michigan and came west in 1882 and was engaged in cattle ranching in Montana and Alberta until 1898 when he went into the Dease Lake country overland from Edmonton. For five years he was engaged in trading for the Hudson Bay Company in that country and was employed on the Government Telegraphs for a couple of years. The rest of the time he has been engaged in mining and guiding. During all the time he has been in the north this is only the second time he has been outside. In 1911, as census enumerator, he visited Prince Rupert. He has never been further down the coast.

Adsit was married to a full-
