Of Germany and Austria; Italy May Join Alliance

multaneously in Berlin and Vienna Saturday night of a new agreement which once again binds the nations of Germany and Austria in an alliance such as

Under the agreement the two nations undertake not to interfere with the internal and domestic affairs of each other. Germany pledges to respect Austrian independence and will not endeavor to foment Nazism therein. Austria's sovereignty is recognized and there will be no attempt to prevent the return of the Hapsburg monarchy if Austria desires it.

Full Home Economics and Manual Training Instruction To Be Given Here Again

Under new requirements of the Public School Act, home economics and manual training instruction must henceforth be given in the schools to pupils of Grade VII and upward, thus restoring the instruction in these departments in the schools of this city to as complete a scale as ever before.

City Commissioner W. J. Alder this morning announced the appointment of Miss Yvonne Love of Victoria, who received her training in the University of Manitoha, as assistant instructress to Miss Tracy Curry.

Appointment of a manual training instructor has not yet been made.

The mandatory requirement involves the addition of two teachers to the local schools.

AN EPIC STORY OF THE SEA IS ENDED BY POLICE

The British trawler Girl Pat is pictured alongside the British Guiana government transport Pomeroon, after being captured following a two-hour battle of manoeuvres. The Girl Pat was taken from her home port, Grimsby, Eng., by her captain and crew, who led her owners and Lloyds underwriters a merry chase across thousands of miles of sea. She was finally recognized at the mouth of the Demerara River in the harbor at Georgetown, and police boats sent after her. In the chase that followed, Girl Pat was damaged. In the above photo the damage, as well as some of the crew, can be seen. A picture of the boat in full flight is also seen. The owners of the boat will not prosecute, it is reported.

Squirrels Suffering From Bubonic Malady-May Not Spread To Humans

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13: -State health officials announced Saturday they had closed down some 6000 acres of grazing and farm land in the Mount Madonna in southern Santa Cruz County following discovery that ground squirrels in the region were suffering from bubonic plague.

Officials, however, pointed out that these were transitions and the disease had to go through from the rodent stage to become epidemic among human beings and that the probability that any humans might become infected was extremely remote.

LEACOCK AND RAILWAYS

In an article in the Financial Post last spring Stephen Leacock said: "For a 100-mile run by day I'd have a train as light as a basket, airy as a garden, and run at one cent a mile per passenger. That would kill the motor car. A passenger car is fifty times more comfortable. Five people at one cent bring more than one person at three cents."

RECOGNIZES THE WEST

R. C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, gave the opinion that the interests of east and west should be co-ordinated. "High tariff policies in the manufacturing ATHLETES areas with the additional policy of exporting manufactured goods without limit to other countries will eventually make the position of Western Canada, which is a primary producer, quite impossible. It has to be realized outside of political issues that protection of Canadian industries must be maintained at the lowest possible figure for the sake of Western Canada which is unprotected in the sale of its products."

"Three Musketeers" Presented On Screen of Capitol Theatre At First of Week

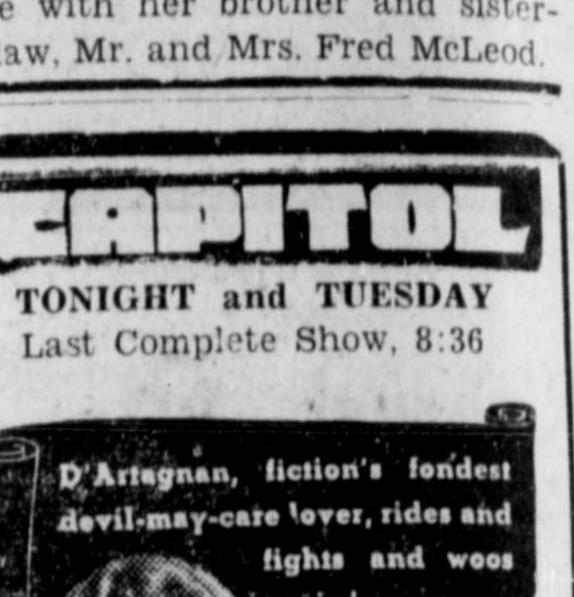

The dangerous romantic triangle of the Seventeenth Century which involved Loius XIII of France, his alluring queen, Anne, the audacious Duke of Bunckingham and the sinister Cardinal Richelieu again presented on the screen the latest picturization of the immortal classic of Alexandre Dumas "The Three Musketeers," coming to the Capitol Theatre at the first of this week. Although it is ninety years since the world first thrilled to this romantic and stirring story, time has been unable to tarnish its lure for both old and young Gallantry and devotion vie with political intrigue in the story of plot and counter-plot to save the honor of a queen. Superb cast and lavish settings feature the production.
