OLD CHAOS FOR CHINA

This Seen as Possibility Following Removal of General Chiang Kai Shek

Unrest Spreads

State of General Civil Warfare Appears to be Likely With Japanese Intervention

SHANGHAI, Dec. 16.—Unrest spread throughout China last night as news of the slaying of General Chiang Kai Shek, dictator of the Nationalist government and "strong man" of the republic spread.

At several points government troops circled the rebels in order to avenge Chiang's death and the immediate result appeared to be civil war between forces of Marshal Chang Tsoeh-Liang and Chiang's followers with probable eventual intervention by Japan.

Nationalist troops had placed a complete cordon around Sianfu, where Chiang Kai Shek was slain, and fighting was already reported last night to have broken out along the borders of Honan and Changsi Provinces.

There seems to be probability that the old chaos which prevailed ten years ago before Chiang Kai Shek took hold of the country and welded it together may return.

Japanese authorities yesterday confirmed Chiang Kai Shek's execution despite the assertion of an Australian newspaperman who reported that he was still alive and he had been in touch with him.

Chiang Kai Shek is said to have been put to death because he declined to declare immediate war against Japan.

'WALLY' ON PROMENADE

Crowds Gather Round When She Makes Appearance—Dolling Up Chateau For Her

CANNES, France, Dec. 16: (CP)—Defectives were summoned late yesterday to escort Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, lady friend of the former King Edward VIII, through a curious crowd which gathered about her after she had started a shopping trip along Cannes fashionable waterfront promenade.

It was the first time Mrs. Simpson had left the seclusion of the villa where she is a guest since her arrival during the British monarchical crisis.

Mrs. Simpson visited the American consulate presumably to arrange for delivery of affidavits concerning her divorce from her first husband, Earl Spencer, at Warrington, Virginia, December 10, 1927, on grounds of desertion. These affidavits are necessary in connection with the obtaining of the absolute decree from Ernest Simpson in England.

Mrs. Simpson denies any intention of returning to United States.

Spendid Decorations

ENZFELD, Austria, Dec. 16: (CP)—Medals were ordered hurriedly for the former King Edward VIII when he awoke yesterday with a severe headache at the chateau where he is spending his self-imposed exile. Edward spent a miserable day suffering also from an earache and what his physician termed an emotional breakdown. He was furious at the rebuke which had been delivered by the Archbishop of Canterbury on himself and Mrs. Simpson.

Meanwhile a spacious suite in the chateau of Baron Eugene de Rothschild, Edward's host, is being decorated in yellow, blue and gold. An attendant hinted that Mrs. Simpson, for love of whom Edward renounced his throne, might soon occupy it.

INTERIOR LOOKS UP

Even Benefits From Shipping Tie-Up—Lumbering and Mining

The lumber mills along the line of the railway, especially those around Prince George, have been busy this year and there is going to be a lot of logging this winter in preparation for another busy season, according to Alderman W. L. Armstrong of Prince George, who is making a brief visit to the city. He says that the tie-up of shipping on the eastern seaboard is helping Northern British Columbia business. There are also a good many inquiries for lumber from prairie points which indicates the likelihood of improved business.

Speaking of mining, Mr. Armstrong said the country north of Vanderhoof was developing rapidly. Material and supplies for the Cariboo also go through Prince George in large quantities.

Another thing that is an indication of progress, says the visitor, is the fact that new settlers are coming into the country. A number of Swiss settlers have located in and around Smithers and the lakes and prairie people have also been moving into the rich valleys between here and Prince George.

Mr. Armstrong goes south tomorrow night and plans to be back in Prince George before Christmas.

Hard Work For Pope is Ended

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 16: (CP)—Vatican sources reported yesterday, following another relapse in the condition of His Holiness who is partially paralyzed, that the Pontiff will probably have to give up henceforth anything but the lightest of his responsibilities. The heart attack yesterday afternoon followed the most laborious day the Pope had spent since he became ill recently. His condition is now admitted to be serious.

Our Open Port

With the Great Lakes closing for traffic again, most of the grain remaining in the elevators at Port Arthur will have to stay there until the lakes reopen for navigation in the spring. At the same time Prince Rupert has an open harbor and there is no danger of it ever freezing. Shipments of grain can be made from the local elevator at any time of summer or winter. And yet we have not been placed in a position where we can do business regularly at the local terminal elevator.

All Eyes on the East

The eyes of the world are off the Duke of Windsor and the petty politics of Great Britain to the alarming situation in China where a number of Chinese leaders who seemed to be the hope of the nation have been slain and the forces of the left are making a tremendous bid for control of the country.

While we are used to critical situations almost daily, we have to admit that the present condition in the Orient is more than usually critical and may prove a danger to the peace of the whole world.

Fifty Years of Achievement

A trade journal carried this month as the headline of an article "Fifty Years of Achievement." That is a better line than most of us could write over the story of our lives. Any person who can look back and feel that fifty years of his life has been fifty years of achievement should be a proud person for, after all, the only achievement worth while is a life of service to the community in which a person lives or to the country of which he is a citizen.

Achievement does not always take fifty years. The work of half a century may be condensed into much less time. With some people it is a year or ten years or a quarter of a century. The great thing is achievement, whether it is spread over a long or short period. To live a life which is a succession of achievements is perhaps the greatest thing of all in this world.

Japanese Activity in North Pacific Fisheries; Surveys Are Made Off Alaska and B.C. Coast

Fears that the Japanese fishing trade is planning to invade the British Columbia and Alaska salmon industry continue to be expressed following upon reports of intensive research operations on and off the coast. The eventual aim, it is claimed, is to establish elaborate fishing facilities in deep sea waters to harvest the salmon crop as it returns to its spawning grounds in British Columbia rivers. The effect would be to deplete the supply available to Canadian canneries.

Significance is attached by fishing interests in B. C. to a request from Japan that the United States enter into a treaty by which the rights and interests of either nations in the salmon fisheries off the Aleutian Islands and Bristol Bay will be determined.

This year a score of Japanese have been engaged in the offshore waters of Alaska making extensive investigations of the fisheries of the North Pacific. Several have been carrying on research in coastal and offshore regions of British Columbia.

Two prominent officials of one of the largest companies in Japan, one a fishing production manager and the other a canned salmon production manager, have been for some weeks making observations on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

They spent three months in Alaska, and several weeks in British Columbia at the Skeena River, central area of Rivers Inlet and Gardiner Channel, Fraser River and latterly the west coast of Vancouver Island, whence they proceeded to California and Mexico.

Data from field books has been recorded on admiralty charts of the British Columbia coast, showing varying temperatures, salinity, oxygen content, prevailing currents and microscopic sea life in waters reaching from shore beyond the three mile limit.

This highly scientific study would be of less significance if it were not for the fact that all these factors form the basis upon which guesswork is minimized in locating fish in the high seas.

When a floating cannery lies offshore ten, twenty-five or forty miles, it becomes easier, according to tried practice of Japanese "floaters," to arrive at the probable location of fish schools by eliminating the vast area of sea where they are unlikely to be found.

Even in Hecate Straits If floating canneries can be profitably operated in the offshore waters of the North Pacific from Bering Sea to Cape Flattery, it will mean that such floating "robots" would be able to steam into Hecate Straits, release a flotilla of fishing craft, harvest salmon homing to British Columbia lakes and rivers, then process the fish by canning, freezing and salting. They may proceed from area to area in unrestricted international waters until their appetites are appeased, then proceed homeward to place the proceeds in competition on world markets with Canadian products.

Having mobility and diversified operations it means that salmon will be canned, salted, frozen, herring and pilchard will be reduced to oil and meal; halibut will be frozen, and generally the livelihood of 30,000 persons directly engaged in the fishing industry and an investment of $50,000,000 in British Columbia canneries, salteries, cold storage plants and boats, to say nothing of the numerous industries which participate in the dollar expended by the fishing industry, will face eclipse.

Thirty-five years ago the Japanese first entered the sealion fishing industry of the Fraser River in large numbers. Previous to that time, the business of catching fish by nets and boats had been in the hands of native Indians and Caucasians. But in 1900, the Japanese appeared at Steveston and a year later were on hand in thousands. In 1901, white fishermen went on strike for an increase from 10 to 12 cents a fish, but the Japanese, anxious to get a footing in the industry, continued to turn in fish at the 10 cent rate. The militia was called out to quell incipient rioting and the strike failed, but not until there had been hot encounters between whites and Japanese.

Events of the Russo-Japanese War, Treaty of Portsmouth and the rise of the U.S.S.R. through given to Canada under the Empire agreement.

More than half of Japan's salmon pack originates in Russian territory, where Japanese operate the industry under leases which have been in force since the termination of the Russo-Japanese War. Today these leases are put up for auction annually.

The salmon pack of the Soviet is not accurately known, but reliable statisticians claim that it is between 70,000 and 100,000 cases a year. Indications are that the U.S.S.R. may wish to retain the salmon fisheries which Japan has come to depend upon to support her established export market of canned salmon.

Searches Farther Afield Japanese exploration of fisheries in waters off Alaska and other parts of the Pacific may indicate search farther afield for fishing grounds to substitute the loss that would be sustained if the Russian leases were to be withheld in the future.

In addition to the Hakuyo Maru, two vessels, Toten Maru of 6000 tons, and Taihoku Maru of 8235 tons, have been engaged in canning crabmeat, fish reduction and miscellaneous operations off the coast of Alaska this year, according to Pacific Fisherman. The Tenyo Maru, a 756-ton vessel of trawler type, with an accompanying auxiliary motor vessel of sixty-one tons, was assigned to the work of investigating the abundance of salmon and other fish and studying the meteorological conditions in the same waters.

Already at It In July this year, the Hakuyo Maru, a modern steel, oil-powered vessel, owned by the Tokio Fishing Institute, spent several weeks off Bristol Bay, Alaska, later put in to Seattle on July 24, and proceeded to Monterey, Cal., and the Hawaiian Islands.

The vessel was equipped with machinery and gear for commercial fishing and processing on a small scale. It had a small but complete cannery line, hand-filling tables, vacuum closing machines, and retort with a daily capacity of 150 full cases of halves, which is the equivalent of 14,000 half-pound tins, suitable for packing salmon, tuna, crab meat and other fish.

The reduction plant had a capacity for handling five tons of fish daily, and in addition, the vessel was equipped with small freezer, cold storage room, and facilities for salting salmon in Japanese style.

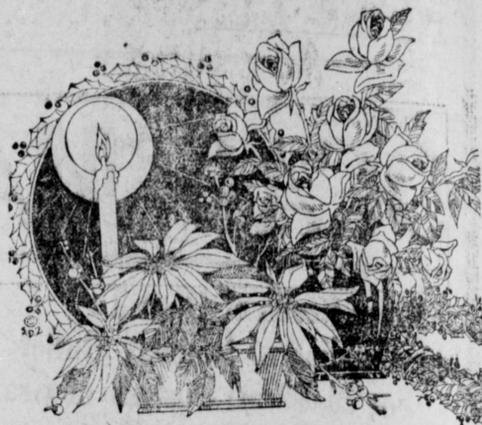

The ship's complement consisted of seventy, including officers, crew, professors and thirty students. The fishing equipment consisted of a number of small boats tendered by two 32-foot, 45-h.p. gasoline powered launches-fitted with radio direction finders, and manned by crews of eight men each. It carried large mesh gill nets for catching spider crabs, halibut gear of the Canadian type, and tuna gear of the Japanese type.

While off the coast of Alaska at Bristol Bay the vessel released its fishing craft, as bees from a hive, and had no difficulty in catching by gillnets sufficient "red" or sockeye salmon to pack 600 full cases of halves or 57,600 half-pound tins.

For some years past Japanese floating canneries have operated off Kamchatka. In 1935, out of a total Japanese pack in Russian territory of 1,355,642 cases, floating canneries packed 313,977 cases.

The rapid increase in Japanese salmon pack during recent years, from 27,849 cases in 1916 to 1,487,752 cases in 1935, exclusive of the pack in Russian territory, has brought about keen competition for British Columbia salmon in foreign markets. In the United Kingdom Japanese "pink" salmon has sold for less than the cost of production in British Columbia, notwithstanding the preference

Coronation Issue Undecided But There is Flurry in Georges And Edwards

LONDON, Dec. 16: (CP)—The Postmaster-General is pondering two knotty stamp problems. First, is there to be a Coronation issue of postage stamps? Much pressure has been brought to bear on the authorities for a special issue in May and many suggestions have been made, but no decision is likely for several weeks.

Now there is the photographic design of the new King George to consider. At the moment there is a world boom in British stamps, due to the gradual change-over from those of George V to those of Edward VIII. With the abdication of King Edward VIII this will be intensified. Already more than half of the letters posted daily bear the new stamps, and now the appearance of the 1 1/2d. "George" are comparatively rare.

In an average year the Post Office issues 7,000,000,000 single stamps, but during the Jubilee year the number jumped to 7,200,000,000. Sales this year show an even greater increase. Thirty million books of stamps are made up every year, while more than 800,000 rolls of stamps are turned out.

"There is a keen demand at present for the 'Morocco' overprint of King Edward," he said. "Dealers are buying in big quantities, and are not making the mistake they did with the 'Morocco' overprint Silver Jubilee issue, which they did not purchase so readily. As a result, these stamps are now comparatively rare."

Another point of interest to collectors is that the watermark of the "Postage Due" stamps is gradually being changed from "G.V.R." to "E.B.R." Now it will be changed to "G.G.R."

"As tho' there were a tie
"And obligation to Posterity!
"We get them, bear them, breed

"What has Posterity done for us?"

Here is a question often quoted, chiefly as a joke. The old play in which it appears is today forgotten. The playwright too, is forgotten. And it is this one line which will carry the author's name down to Posterity.

Today's generation is the posterity of yesterday's and of course, there is a tie—many ties—between them. Twenty years ago, the parents burned Albert & McCaffery's coal. Today the repeat orders come from the children, now grown up. The firm of Albert & McCaffery is one of the few remaining business ties in this north country between the generations.

The big reason is, of course, that Albert & McCaffery's coal has been the best available for all those twenty years. It is still the best available today and gives you most heat for the least money. And that's what you want.

Next time you need coal, just—

PLANE IS MISSING

Fears Entertained For Safety Of Machine Between Las Vegas And Salt Lake With Seven Aboard

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 16:—Widespread search was under way today for a twin-motored Boeing Transport commercial airplane which has been lost for well over twenty-four hours between Las Vegas, Nevada, and Salt Lake City, a distance of 350 miles, with four passengers, two pilots and a stewardess on board.

The plane yesterday sent a message that it was flying at an altitude of 10,000 feet and that all was well. Since then nothing has been heard from it.

It is a mountainous and difficult country in which to make a forced landing and, as time passes, anxiety increases.

From Pleasant Grove, forty miles south of Salt Lake City, which would be in the plane's course, came a report last night that people had heard a plane overhead to be followed soon after by the sound of what they believed might have been a crash.

BECOMES PRO AT HOYLAKE

ROMFORD, Eng., Dec. 16. (CP)—J. Adams, runner-up in the British Open Golf championship this year, is leaving Romford Golf Club, Essex, to take up new duties at the Royal Liverpool Club, Hoylake.

MATCHES HER NERVE AND SKILL AGAINST MEN

Pictured in her racing car just a few minutes before the whistle blew to start her on her way on the Mountain Handicap at Brooklands, Mrs. A. C. Dobson, British woman auto race driver, proves that women have invaded even the speedway to compete with men. Mrs. Dobson drives regularly in the races at Brooklands, taking her place on an equal plane with men even in this hazardous sport.

SWISS ARE AMBITIOUS

Will Seek Hockey Clean-up in Old Country

LONDON, Dec. 16. (CP)—The International Ice Hockey Federation, with a motion before it to declare professional all Canadians playing in England, will come to this newest hotbed of the sport in February for its annual meeting. The world's amateur championship tournament will be in progress.

Germany and Switzerland have motions on file demanding a "clean-up" of so-called national teams in Europe, referring specifically to England which won the 1936 Olympic championship with a team composed largely of Canadians. Switzerland, in particular, wants something done about it.

The Swiss will ask that all Canadian players living in Great Britain be declared professionals. Should the move succeed, England would have outright professional hockey where now she has possibly superior amateur talent to that remaining in Canada.

Lineups of English teams read like a "Who's Who" of Canadian hockey. A good part of Canada's last Olympic team, beaten by the British team at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, is here now. These stars include Hughie Farquharson of Montreal and Jimmy Haggerty, Jackie Nash, Alex Sinclair and Bobby McCranor of Port Arthur.

Kimberley Dynamiters, Allan Cup champions from British Columbia, will represent Canada in the world tournament and Percy Nicklin, one-time coach of the famous Moncton Hawks, will handle England's team of Canadians. Nicklin, No. 1 coach here, has scored his greatest success.

After building Richmond Hawks into one of the strongest teams of last season, he left to take charge of the newly-formed Harringay Racers who moved into a new London rink. The Racers have become a popular team and the new rink has become chief rival for famous Wembley.

While the Richmond club is getting nowhere, the Racers stand third in the National League standing with seven wins in 12 starts. Harringay seats more than 10,000 but when the Racers play hundreds are unable to buy tickets.

Nicklin also is responsible for the newest hockey wrinkle—the oxygen room. Harringay has one which the players visit between periods to freshen up. It enables them to get the smoke out of their lungs which is inhaled when the crowd smokes during the game.

Andy Goldie, formerly of Toronto, plays goal for the Racers behind a defence composed of Len Burrage, one-time star of Moncton Hawks and Curly Kerr, formerly of Regina and Prince Albert. Albert Mitros, Paris and Prince Albert Mitros, there aren't many defence trios as good in England.

Forwards include Bill Peer, Oakville, Ont.; Walton Monson and Archie Creighton, Winnipeg; and Pan Heximer, Niagara Falls, Ont. Only team definitely stronger than the Racers is Wembley Lions, featuring goalie Roy Musgrove of Winnipeg; Defencemen Lou Bates of Ottawa and Cam Shewan, Winnipeg; Forwards Albert and Tony Lemay and Alex Archer of Winnipeg, Jo Jo Grabowski of Oshawa and Gordon Dailley.

With the season not quite half over, England is showing more interest in hockey than ever before. More than 50,000 persons watch games each week.

HAS ILL-TIMED WINDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16. (CP)—People often complain about the stiff breeze sweeping in through the Golden Gate but complaints took another tack on the occasion of the Pacific Coast championship regatta when of 50 yachts that started only two could catch enough wind to finish.

GIVEN CIVIC RECEPTION

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Dec. 16. (CP)—James McMullin, former Scottish international and Aston Villa halfback, new manager of Notts County football team, was accorded a civic reception here.

Fielding was kept at a high standard of excellence during the 1935 American League season, the difficult as a whole fielding at a .977 clip, only a point below the 1935 figure, and only two under the all-time major league high. Detroit 1935 leader, held its place at the top of the list, though dropping from .978 to .975. The calibre of the league's performance is further exemplified by a survey of departmental figures, which reveal the fact that one major league record and five American League marks were broken during the year, three major league standards being equaled in addition. There was also one noteworthy performance in a department for which no record appear to exist: 24 unassisted double plays were turned in by first basemen. It was in this department that the major league mark fell—which indicates that the league total may well be a peak accomplishment. Jim Bottomley, of St. Louis, topped by one the old record when he completed the season with eight unassisted double plays at first. He was co-holder with three others of the old mark of seven.

The American's total of seven triple plays ties the all-time standard set by the junior loop in 1927 and equalled by the National in 1929. Zeke Bonura of Chicago participated in 150 double plays from his first base post, tying the major league record set in 1935 by Joe Kuhel. The third major league record was tied by Billy Rogell, who went without a chance at shortstop for the ten innings of a game with Washington on June 16. Double plays offered the opportunity to set two new league marks, the circuit as a whole turning in 1250 double killings to top the old record of 1229, set in 1925, and Luke Appling of Chicago going three over Rogell's old record for double plays participated in by a shortstop, 119 against Billy's 1933 total of 116.

Sam West of St. Louis created a new standard by making 460 putouts, this being the fourth time he had topped the 400-mark. He and Johnny Mostil had jointly shared the old record of three times over the quadruple-century mark. Charley George of Cleveland broke the league mark for the most putouts credited to a catcher in a single game, and later equalled his own record. He retired 14 in the second game of a double-header on September 7 and again in the opening on September 13. The old record of 16 had been shared by three players. The other record shattered was in league assists, only 14,215 assists having been scored last season against the former league mark of 14,247, posted in 1930.

Among individual leaders, Simmons took major honors by topping the outfielders with a percentage of .986. He also led in 1935 and 1930 and now needs but two more annual titles to equal the league record for domination by a single player. Bonura topped his first basemen with a percentage of .996, with only seven errors against him in 1614 chances. Charley Gevinger of Detroit led the second basemen with a mark of .974. Oscar Bluege, taking part in only 10 games for Washington, turned in brilliant string by going 37 games at second base without an error, handling 91 putouts and 114 assists, a total of 205 chances, perfectly from June 4 through July 1. Red Rolfe of New York paced the third basemen with a mark of .955 and Rogell topped the shortstops with a figure of .965.

Seventeen pitchers, all working 13 or more games, turned in perfect records afield, with Ted Lyons of Chicago leading. He appeared in 26 games and handled 50 chances. Catchers were led by Rick Ferrell of Boston, whose average was .927. Gehring, Rolfe and Rogell are repeaters, but the crowns in all other departments changed hands. Foxx led the first basemen in 1936. West the outfielders, Auker the pitchers and Dickey the catchers.

GADGET BY EINSTEIN

Apostle of Celestial Theory Comes To Earth With Invention For Camera

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (CP)—Dr. Albert Einstein, proponent of the theories of relativity and of the elastic uncertainty of the universe, has invented a "gadget." It will enable any amateur to use a camera without knowing how to time an exposure.

He did it in collaboration with Dr. Gustav Eucky, as notable in his own field of development of the curative use of X-rays, border-line rays and other rays up and down the electrical spectrum.

Both learned scientists seemed a little embarrassed at being caught doing such a thing. Dr. Einstein kept it a dark secret at Princeton. Dr. Bucky was apologetic in New York, but equally firm in his refusal to tell how it came about. "A man must have some private corner in his life," he said. "You will excuse me, please."

Their embarrassment seems to arise from the fact that the invention works on a very simple principle. It is nothing more than the photoelectric eye—the device that counts visitors at museum gates and opens kitchen doors automatically for waiters with full trays.

According to Science Service, which uncovered the invention in Washington as Patent No. 2,053,532, filed in December by Dr. Einstein and Bucky, an open photoelectric eye in the front of the camera takes in the object to be photographed as the camera is pointed and automatically moves a screen of varying transparency in front of the main camera lens.

All the amateur need do is press the button, secure in the knowledge that the screen will let in the proper light. Patent experts predict the invention will be practically and commercially important in the next few years.

Finds Greenwich Dress Conscious

Research of Gotham's Cleaning Shows Error of Popular Ideas

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 (CP)—The lives of Manhattan residents are revealed in the things they send to the dry cleaners. A dry cleaning expert, Miss Miriam Cooper, has conducted a survey which has upset several popular beliefs regarding the principal occupations of the various sections of the city.

The idea that Park Avenue and the expensive area of the East Side house fewer babies than does is all wrong, Miss Cooper said, and the conception of Greenwich Village as a section of paint-smudged smock wearers is equally mistaken.

Of all baby garments cleaned, 69 percent come from the Park Avenue-East Side territory, she said, while the same neighborhood supplies from 60 to 70 percent of all baby carriage covers and pflows and 92 percent of all bassinets cleaned. The greatest number of dog sweaters and blankets are collected from West End Avenue and Riverside Drive.

Instead of being besmoked and besmeared, the young man of Greenwich Village emerges as something of a Beau Brummel. He provides 57 percent of neckties cleaned and from 55 to 72 percent of lounging robes, pyjamas and spats, and, surprisingly, more raccoon coats than any other part of town. Another revelation, which will ruin the village if it gets about, is that the Bohemian section sends the greatest number of shower curtains and bath mats.

Park Avenue sends 73 percent of the hats and most of the dinner jackets, top hats and tails, but most evening gowns and women's wraps come from the Riverside area.

FINE BILL PRESENTED

Outstanding Program Arranged For Capitol Theatre This Mid-Week

"Dancing Lady," headlining Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, and "The Big House," with Wallace Beery and Robert Montgomery, both outstanding feature pictures of recent years, are being brought back to the Capitol Theatre here at the middle of this week together with another presentation on the stage of the Capitoliens under direction of Dr. H. N. Brocklesby.

Most of local theatregoers have probably seen "Dancing Lady" and "The Big House" before. It is likely that the majority of them will wish to see them again. As is well known, both are great pictures with real stories and splendid cast performances.

A splendid program by the Capitoliens will include a musical novelty presentation being offered for the first time on the local stage and entitled "Four Pair of Hands and Two Grand Pianos."

The whole program is unusual and the management of the theatre is anticipating large crowds. There will be only one complete show each night.

Food Matinee To Be Held Monday

Admission Will Be Donations To Be Used by Salvation Army In Christmas Distribution

D. G. Borland, manager of the Capitol Theatre, has arranged to hold the annual food matinee for the Salvation Army Christmas campaign next Monday afternoon. Admission will be by the usual means of donations of food for the use of the Army in its Christmas distributions. The program will include a feature picture, "The Circus," a Charlie Chaplin comedy, and cartoons including a Silly Symphony.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 5c.
