Two Men Lose Lives When Motor Cars Are Buried in Snowslide

One Other Person Missing and One Injured in Snoqualmie Pass—Bodies of Victims Recovered and Others Taken Out Alive

SEATTLE, Feb. 22: (CP)—Two unidentified men were asphyxiated in a truck cab when two automobiles were buried in a snowslide on Snoqualmie Pass this morning. One other person is missing and one is injured, reports said. Several automobiles and trucks are also reported trapped by a slide which roared down a steep mountainside. The bodies of the victims have been recovered and others are being taken out alive, it is said.

THIS DEER, FROZEN STIFF, WAS HARDER TO KEEP LIVING THAN TO KILL; PORT ESSINGTON TALE

When such seasoned hunters as Stewart Donaldson, Eddie Letnes, Henry Reid, Jimmy Flewin, Matt Wesley and Johnny Brown of Port Essington kill a deer there is not much news to that. But when they labor frantically for eight hours through the night, being reduced almost to the point of tears in the course of the task, to save the life of a deer that is different. However, so goes the story that is brought to town by Doug Frizzell from Port Essington. The sequel is that Game Warden Ed Martin is making arrangements for the transfer of a fine big five year old bobtail buck now in captivity in the cooler of the butcher shop at Port Essington to Porcher Island where the deer stock has been deteriorating of late.

PLANNING HOSPITAL

First Unit of New Three-Storey Structure Being Recommended By Dr. A. S. Lamb

Dr. A. S. Lamb, provincial hospital inspector, is recommending, as a start on new hospital construction in Prince Rupert, the building of the first unit of a three storey structure, it was revealed at last night's hospital board meeting in a report from the executive committee on the new hospital project. This first unit would have a capacity of fifty beds and, upon its completion, the second floor of the present hospital would be abandoned, with the main floor continued in use. For the present, Dr. Lamb is of the opinion, it is reported, that there is no necessity for more hospital accommodation than that provided by the present building, the necessity of replacement of which as soon as possible is admitted.

Amount of $720 Involved in Action Adjudged Until Next Month

The County Court case of W. Ciszek vs. Emil Gildner, originally set for hearing yesterday, has been adjourned until March 6. The action arises from a claim of $720 by plaintiff against defendant, this amount having allegedly been turned over for the purchase of land in the vicinity of Copper City near Terrace. Patmore & Fulton are acting as counsel for the plaintiff and Williams, Manson, Brown & Harvey for defendant.

Some hundred students in all saw themselves in action. Much amusement was occasioned when the "screen tests" were shown. The actual projection of the pictures was in charge of Miss Vivian Wrathall.

KING IN TRENCHES

Prince of Wales Was Cheerful Even in Trench Mire During War

Dr. Manion's Story

Canadian Surgeon Much Impressed With Present Monarch in Time of Conflict

OTTAWA, Feb. 22: (CP)—A picture of King Edward VIII, then Prince of Wales, slogging along through Flanders mud in the dark days of the war, is drawn by Hon. R. J. Manion, former Minister of Railways and Canals in his book "A Surgeon in Arms," published in 1918.

In 1916 Dr. Manion was an officer in the Canadian Army Medical Corps. He tells of the arrival of three staff officers at his dugout, one of whom was the then Prince of Wales. Capt. Manion did not recognize the prince at the time, but admitted his determination and bravery in making the trip into the danger zone.

"A Prince with as much red blood in his veins as he displayed in making that journey should not have enough blue blood to prevent his being some day a strong and righteous monarch," the author commented.

His description of the meeting follows:

"On the day of which I speak I was standing in the creamy mud half way to my knees listening to the sharp crack made by bullets whizzing overhead, and to the singing of shells, by way of a change from the rather poisonous atmosphere in the dugout, made offensive by the carbon monoxide from a charcoal fire, when I heard someone splashing along through the mud.

"Looking up, I saw three staff officers with the distinguished red bands on their caps, for they were not wearing helmets. Two of them wore raincoats, so that their rank could not be seen; the third wore no overcoat, but an ordinary officer's uniform with ankle boots and puttees. He strode doggedly behind the others, apparently caring nothing for mud or rain, and to my surprise he had upon his breast, though he looked no more than 20 years of age, the ribbons of a number of decorations.

Did Not Know Him

"They stopped just before they came to where I was. Taking out a map of these trenches they and their guide, or runner, began studying it, while I stood wondering how a boy of 20 could have won these coveted decorations, finally deciding that he must be in the air service.

"While I was still wondering he turned to me, and, though he was of my own rank, he saluted and, with a pleasant smile, asked me if I could give them any information as to this front. I joined them, and for some time I answered their questions, which, rather strangely, were in regard to a cemetery to which Guillemot trench—the one in which we stood—led on its way to the firing line 500 yards away.

"After we go there," asked one of the older officers, "what is the easiest way out?"

"I explained that the easiest way was overland to Neuville St. Vaast, and then down the road, but as we

ANNIVERSARY OF HOSPITAL

Twenty-Five Years Ago Monday Since Institution Was Officially Opened

G. V. Wilkinson, chairman of the executive committee of the Prince Rupert General Hospital, informed the hospital board at its meeting last night that, in the course of preparing for a radio address this week on hospital matters, he had had occasion to delve into the history of the institution and had found that next Monday would be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the official opening of the first unit of the present hospital building. He wondered if there should not be some special observance of the occasion.

So greatly taxed was the capacity of the first unit of the hospital, Mr. Wilkinson recalled, that it had been necessary the same year to proceed with the building of a second wing—that which is known as the Connaught Wing.

Mr. Wilkinson told of the initial hospital organization meeting in Prince Rupert twenty-seven years ago at which J. A. Kirkpatrick had presided with M. M. Stephens as secretary. Mr. Kirkpatrick had been chairman of the hospital board which numbered many prominent citizens of pioneer days including Premier T. D. Pattullo, Mr. Justice A. M. Manson, William Manson, D. G. Stewart, J. H. Thompson, Dr. W. T. Kergin and the late Dr. J. O. Reddie. Mr. Stewart had served for fifteen years as a member of the board, many of those as chairman. He had done a great deal of valuable work for the hospital here. Mr. Thompson was another who had served the hospital long and faithfully.

As far as those in attendance at last night's meeting were concerned, Mr. Wilkinson mentioned in passing that the "pioneers" were to be found not among the members of the present board but rather at the press table.

Mr. Wilkinson was complimented by other members of the board on the effectiveness and timely interest of his radio address on hospital matters.

EDUCATION WEEK HERE

Prince Rupert, Like Rest of Canada, To Mark Occasion

Plans have now been completed for a full observance here of Education Week which is being marked throughout the Dominion the week of February 23 to 29.

In the various churches the subject of education will be discussed at the regular services tomorrow while the evening service from the First United Church will be broadcast.

Monday evening at First Presbyterian Church Hall a very interesting meeting will take place. There will be a debate by two teams from King Edward High School on the subject, "The High School Curriculum Adequately Prepares For Citizenship." In any community a discussion of this subject should be a live issue and, when it is carried out by pupils on the verge of their entry into public life, it has an additional appeal. J. T. Harvey, barrister, will discuss the subject from the layman's point of view while W. W. C. O'Neill will speak on "Development of Education in a Changing Civilization."

Dr. Harry Warren of the University of British Columbia will be a speaker during the week.

Open day will be observed in the schools on Wednesday from 2 p.m. till 3:30 p.m. This was a very popular feature last year.

In the weekly broadcast the Junior Chamber of Commerce will feature education next Thursday evening.

SALMON CANNING INDUSTRY

Almost next door to Prince Rupert are located twenty or more salmon canneries most of which are operated with a total disregard to the presence of this city close to them and also without regard to the fact that this is an industry that might give employment to a great many Canadian young people. The chief benefit to the district from these canneries is that they give employment to a great many resident native people—men, women and children—and to a few white fishermen living in the neighborhood. Most of the canners bring in all their supplies from the south, ship their product south to be labelled and distributed and act in every way as if they had a natural right to the fish without owing anything to the district where they are caught.

For years the businessmen of Prince Rupert tried to induce the canners to do the right thing by this city. At one time the Sunnyside cannery bought a good deal of supplies in the city and for one season only the B. C. Packers established a purchasing agent in Prince Rupert. Last fall the Canadian Fishing Company decided to distribute a large part of its catch from Prince Rupert and the Inverness cannery does much of its labelling and distributing direct from the cannery at the mouth of the Skeena. This all shows a little progress.

The Skeena and Naas fisheries belong to this district. They are a natural heritage of the people and no canneries should be allowed to bring in their crews in the spring, put up their pack and then carry away the product without so much as a "by your leave." No other city but a subservient community like Prince Rupert would stand for it.

It is understood that the canners are now asking the government to compel the canning of the fish in the district in which they are caught. If they require privileges of this kind, Prince Rupert, as one of the interested parties should take a hand and oppose all privileges until the canners recognize the fact that the fish they catch belong to this district, that northern fishermen get the first chance in the matter of employment and that the fish be finally labelled and distributed in the district.

The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce should be consulted by the government and so should the fishermen's association before any changes are made affecting this port. The fisheries have too long been controlled from Vancouver and it is time the north coast was consulted in all matters pertaining thereto.

City Billiard Championship

Competition is to be Held Again This Winter

The city billiard championship is being got under way and, as advertised in another part of this issue, entries are to be handed in at the Canadian Legion Clubrooms by next Saturday.

The handsome cup donated by the Canadian Legion will again be at stake. A meeting of the club billiard championship committee took place yesterday with Jack Prece, C. L. Youngman, Jack Judge and G. Dawes in attendance.

While there has been no city league run this year it was felt that the city championship should be conducted. The club has run several club handicaps and these have been very interesting. It is hoped that there will be a good entry list for the city championship. The present holder is Neil Cameron.

Following receipt of entries a meeting of the committee will be held and rules drawn up.

still heard bullets passing a few feet above the parapet it might not be the safest. He smiled whimsically, and said he would personally rather take the risk than plow through this dreadful mud, but perhaps they'd better stick to the trenches. We chatted a few moments more, and they put their feet once again to the task of getting them through the trenches, the rather thin legs of the young officer pushing him determinedly along behind the others.

"That evening the colonel informed me that he had learned at brigade that my questioner of the afternoon was the Prince of Wales, who is honorary chairman of a commission in charge of British cemeteries in France. And this removes, for me at least, the idea which many of us had that, while the Prince is in France, he is kept well out of the danger zone. For on this day he was well up toward the front lines and under filthy trench conditions at that."

Cold Snap Holds Up Preparatory Work of Halibut Fleet—News of Experimental Station—Co-operative Marketing of Salmon

The protracted cold snap, making it nigh impossible to carry on such work as painting and caulking, is holding up preparatory work here prior to the opening of the 1936 halibut fishing season on March 16, the date as set by the International Fisheries Commission. A break in the cold weather will, it is expected, see work on the fleet get fully under way at once. Meanwhile, considerable work in the way of engine overhaul is proceeding and machine shops are being kept busy. That the Prince Rupert fleet will start fishing immediately at the legal opening date of the season is generally anticipated, subject to possible, although improbable, change in plans at a conference of representatives of the various fleets of the coast at Seattle this week.

Capt Merrill Sollows, owner and skipper of the Prince Rupert halibut boat Relief, and Mrs. Sollows, after having spent the winter in Nova Scotia, were to leave Yarmouth on Thursday of this week on their return to the Pacific Coast.

In the course of a general overhauling at the Matsumoto boat yard in Cow Bay, the Prince Rupert halibut boat Joe Baker, Capt. Clarence Campbell, is having her stern lengthened by three feet. The vessel will be ready for sea in good time for the opening of the season. Guy Campbell, partner of Clarence on the Joe Baker, is due back in Prince Rupert early in March via Vancouver after having spent the winter at his home in Freport, Nova Scotia.

Capt. Richard Giske, owner and skipper of the Prince Rupert halibut boat Cape Spencer, and Mrs. Giske, with Mrs. Charles Giske, are due back in Prince Rupert early in March after having spent the winter at Aalesund, Norway.

Well-Known Figure

William Putnam, for many years winchman for the Pacific Fisheries at Prince Rupert and a well known figure along the waterfront of the port, died early in the week in the Prince Rupert General Hospital following a brief illness. He had reached the advanced age of seventy-eight years but, in spite of this, had been able to keep on with his work until within a short time of his death. Before coming to Prince Rupert he had been identified with the grain business in the Middle States. He is survived by three sons and two daughters all living in the United States. There was a good representation from the waterfront at the funeral on Thursday afternoon.

Appointment of Dr. W. A. Riddell of Regina College as scientific assistant in chemistry at the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station in succession to Frank Charnley, who resigned to join the canned salmon inspection board, has been confirmed and accepted by Dr. Riddell who will arrive in Prince Rupert about May 1 to assume his duties. Dr. Riddell is a married man.

The Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, it is expected, will have to take its share of a cut of $11,000 made for the fiscal year 1936-37 in the appropriation of the Biological Board of Canada. The total grant this year for the Biological Board is $175,000, the same as for the fiscal year of 1933-34.

The equipment of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental station has been added to with the purchase of a vitameter, an English instrument used for ascertaining by optical means the amount of Vitamin A in fish oils. The instrument will assist in the program of vitamin research in fish oils in which field the local station has become prominent.

The Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station is also arranging for the purchase and installation of semi-commercial canning equipment to assist in investigations into the canning of marine products.

Co-operative Marketing

An important move in connection with the marketing of troll-caught salmon in Prince Rupert district was made on Thursday night of this week when salmon trollers, at a largely attended meeting, decided to sign up with Sigmund Einstoss of New York for the co-operative marketing of their fish this season. Mr. Einstoss, who has been a frequent visitor in Prince Rupert during the past year, has been in negotiation with the Prince Rupert fishermen's co-operative marketing organization for some time and has already made a start on organization of the machinery for the handling of the fish. During the past year he has been marketing salmon of the Southeastern Alaska trollers co-operatively. The move of the Prince Rupert district fishermen will be followed with much interest by the industry. The hope of the fishermen is, of course, to obtain greater proceeds for their product.

Chief Petty Officer Instructor J. Anslow, formerly in charge at local headquarters of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and since leaving here located at Esquimalt, returned to Prince Rupert on the Princess Adelaide yesterday afternoon to resume his former duties at this point. He is accompanied by Mrs. Anslow and son. Mr. Anslow takes over the duties of Petty Officer Instructor Robert Ross who has been carrying on for the past year or so with marked success as instructor of the local naval reserve as well as the Sea Cadets Corps and who is being transferred to Montreal. He will leave here towards the end of the month.

At the monthly colloquium of the staff of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station on Thursday afternoon B. E. Bailey read a paper on the subject of "Statistical Treatment of Data." The paper was followed by a general discussion.

Three weeks hence C. P. R. steamer Princess Adelaide will be withdrawn from service on the Vancouver-Prince Rupert run for annual overhaul. She will be off for three weeks and will be relieved by the steamer Princess Louise.

Union steamer Cardena will be here tomorrow from Vancouver on the regular run of the steamer Catala which has been withdrawn for two weeks at Vancouver for annual overhaul.

Much Ice in Skeena River

Ice conditions around the mouth of the Skeena River as a result of the present cold snap have been such as have not been experienced for many years. In fact, many of the old timers say they cannot recall worse. Considerable damage has been done to wharves and floats and navigation from Port Essington to the neighboring cannery points has been carried on only with the greatest difficulty. Clear across the main channel of the river from Point Lambert to De Horsey Island there is a great ice barrier, possibly a mile across and three or four feet in height, which completely blocks steamers from getting into the river. The steamer Venture attempted to break through last week but failed. She did not try yesterday. Above this, the ice is loose and drifting in huge floes back and forth with the tides. Further up the river at Telegraph Point it is possible to cross the river on the ice. Five miles above Port Essington the Ecstall River is frozen from shore to shore. The slough is completely choked up with drift ice. Big tides due soon, it is expected, will effectively break up the ice in the lower Skeena, even should the weather fall to moderate. On account of the damage done by the ice, considerable repair work to cannery wharves and floats will be necessary in the spring.

Railway Dance Very Enjoyable

Crowd Not as Large as Usual But Happy Time Was Nevertheless Spent

While there was not as large a crowd as usual at the annual dance last night in the Elks' Home of the Canadian National Recreation Association, the event was, however, most enjoyable for all in attendance and proved to be a very jolly party. Music was by the Premier Orchestra which donned the uniforms of railwaymen for the occasion. G. E. Phillipson was master of ceremonies and used an engine bell effectively in connection with the making of his announcements. Dancing was in progress from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. and delicious refreshments were served at midnight.

A. R. Nichols was chairman of the committee in charge, other members of which were Peter Lakie, J. H. Horton and T. J. Fortune.

Mrs. Rudolf Braun and five children, who have been spending the past three months in the city, sailed by the Venture last night on their return to their home at Kitimaat.
