Streets Filled With Dead and Dying Last Night After Day of Heavy Bombardment

Civilians Die

Non-Combatants Suffer Equally With Actual Fighters in Fierce Struggle

MADRID, Nov. 18: (CP)—The capital of Spain was a scene of horror as night fell Tuesday after the most bloody and heaviest death-dealing day so far in the civil war. Streets were filled with dead, dying and wounded. Thousands of civilians were huddling in basements.

At least two hundred non-combatants were believed to have been killed by the bombardment both from land and air as the city was kept under almost continuous fire. Five hundred or more were wounded.

Fighting was continuing by the light of burning buildings and homes in the heart of the city last night as the rebels continued to penetrate further into the city. There was machine gun, bayonet and rifle combat throughout the day in the city.

The Duke of Alba's famous palace was a fiery furnace last night after a direct hit by a calcium bomb from an aircraft. The Savoy Hotel, once great hostelry, was but a blackened shell. The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. building, nerve centre of Madrid's communication system, was being made the target of aerial bombardment.

It is estimated that 200,000 persons have been killed since the civil war commenced.

Italy Alarmed

MILAN, Nov. 18.—The newspaper Vox Popolo expressed fear yesterday that general war was inevitable in Europe if Russia continued to send arms and assistance to the Spanish government in the civil war. It charged that the aim of Moscow was to set up a new Soviet Republic in Catalonia so that it might more readily disseminate communist doctrine and propaganda in Europe.

Post Office Site to Face Third Avenue Announces Olof Hanson Here Today

The new federal building here will be facing on Third Avenue, the federal government having taken the half of the old Court House block facing on that avenue with an option on the other half should it be desired to make an extension within a reasonable time, according to Olof Hanson M.P., who returned today on the Prince Rupert from a trip east and south. He did not know exactly how the building would be placed, that being a matter for the architect after getting the results of the survey of the property.

The building will be of modern fire-proof material but it had not been definitely decided whether it would be faced with rock, with brick or simply with concrete.

Mr. Hanson also said he expected to hear any day that the contract for the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve building was let. There were a few minor details to be settled in connection with it which had to be taken up with Ottawa.

The member for Skeena seemed quite pleased with the result of his recent visit to Ottawa in company with G. W. Nickerson. He had nothing to add to what had already been said in regard to port development as he thought the less publicity given the matter the better until some definite announcement was made. He expects to be in Ottawa again early in the new year, possibly getting away during the holidays for an early session of Parliament. This was for the purpose of allowing the Prime Minister an opportunity to go to England for the coronation.

Become Leaders of Men

At the celebration of the nineteenth anniversary of the formation of the Russian Soviet government the guests of honor were those men and women who had been outstanding in setting up new standards of rapid and efficient labor. These are known as Stakhanovists or super-shock workers and were hailed as the "workers of the future." It was declared at the gathering that they were leading the Soviet Union to unprecedented heights of labor productivity.

This is very different from the practice of some labor unions in Britain and America who seek to hold back production for fear of throwing others out of employment. Evidently the Russian leaders of today would have no use for the men who demand two men on a street car which could very well be operated by one. They would not agree with others who make it impossible to speed up work of any kind.

The tendency of the movement to slow down is to make the worker less capable and less efficient. This was being felt in Russia until the leaders hit upon the idea of speeding up as a national virtue. Newspapers and radio, all controlled by the state, were used in putting over the campaign until today it is gradually spreading and workers are, rather unwillingly, falling in line and increasing production and improving their work.

Military Might

Another feature of the Soviet celebration was the military display so thoroughly condemned in other lands by socialists as being one of the big features of capitalism. There were military parades, marches of the workers, civilian auxiliaries, all setting forth the greatness and power of the military machine which has been created by the Soviets as a protective measure.

It is seen from the features of the celebration that Russia is not far removed from capitalist countries in its methods and that, judging from their experiment, it would seem as if the world were moving in circles and that in the end all come back to the same viewpoint sooner or later.

SCHUMANN-HEINK DIES

Famous Diva Died Last Night At Hollywood—Several Blood Transfusions

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18.—Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, famous operatic singer, died last night. She was suffering from recurrence of an old complaint. There had been several blood transfusions.

Ernestine Schumann-Heink, who passed away at her home at the age of 75, acclaimed as probably the world's greatest Wagnerian contralto, achieved riches as an operatic and concert prima donna and, in the twilight of life, won a huge popular following in vaudeville, radio and moving picture theatres as a singer of simple German "lieder."

In the hey-day of her career she was reputed to earn $135,000 a year from concert work alone while royalties on phonograph records of her voice brought in additional $50,000. Thrifty investments mostly in Chicago and California real estate, were made and managed by her with a skill that brought steadily increasing values and she became one of the wealthiest singers of her day.

But her own generosity to numerous friends and relatives and the world's turn from high prosperity to acute economic depression shrank her fortune to the vanishing point. When she was past 70 she was glad to take engagements which paid for a week less than half what she had received earlier for single performances. In 1933 she said she had been wearing the same hat and coat for two years.

Her voice by then had become compressed to little more than half its former range and she was limited to such numbers as Brahms' "Lullaby," the traditional Christmas hymn "Holy Night" and similar songs of short range and brief phrases. But the artistry of the singer, plus the maternal character of her personality and undimmed stage presence, overcame the effects of obvious shortcomings and she remained a drawing card.

Also in these late years she took a few pupils, but this work was limited more to coaching than to vocal training.

She was a star in her own right, backed by 20 years' experience on German operatic stages when she made her first appearance in America on November 7, 1898, singing "Ortrud" in a presentation of Wagner's "Lohengrin" at the Auditorium theatre in Chicago. Her impresario was Maurice Grau of the firm of Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau, predecessors of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York.

She had just signed a 10-year contract with the Berlin opera and was on a four-year leave of absence from the German capital, but her success was so great that she bought her way out of the home contract, paying first 10,000 marks (then $2,500) for an extension of two years in her leave and finally 25,000 marks to cancel the Berlin agreement.

In 1903-4 she made a concert tour of the United States, travelling 40,000 miles. In the latter year she also appeared in an American comic opera, "Love's Lottery." Her health broke in 1905 and her voice was reported ruined, but she went back to Germany for a "rest," accepted engagements there and came back to the United States for 129 appearances in opera and concert in 1906-7.

Becomes American Citizen
The next season she gave 113 concerts and then went to Europe for a year, where she created one of the principal parts in Strauss' new opera "Electra." Her return for a 1909-10 concert tour proved the most profitable of her American career.

Thereafter she tapered off her strenuous work, but continued briefer annual tours and limited operatic engagements. One of her last stage appearances took place February 25, 1926, when she emerged from "retirement" to sing "Erda" in "Das Rheingold" with the Metropolitan company.

Her most famous roles were "Frides" in "Le Prophete," "Ortrud" in "Lohengrin," "Erda," "Fricka" in "Die Walkure" and "Orpheus" in Gluck's opera of that name. But she mastered 150 other parts and in her youth was a famous "Carmen." For many successive years, beginning in 1896, she sang at the

Twenty-Five Years Ago

November 18, 1911

With Constable Forsyth in charge, the provincial police this morning dispatched the launch Rover for Porcher Island to search for a party of land seekers consisting of Donald McRae, Jack McRae and Angus McKenzie which is overdue. The recent stormy weather is believed to have held the young men up. A survey party of thirty-five, which had been missing for some time up the Naas River, arrived here today on the steamer Venture.

Some seventy-five men have been paid off for the winter at the Goose Bay mine.

Hugh and W. S. (Duke) Harris, well known Hazelton mining men, passed through the city yesterday enroute from Hazelton to spend the winter in Vancouver. They are planning extensive development of the American Boy property on Nine Mile Mountain and expect to ship four hundred tons of picked ore by next fall.

GEESE HOE GARDEN

CANTON, Texas, Nov. 18: (CP)—Geese have been put to work by East Texas farmers who report them "capable hard working farm hands." Five geese do the work of one farm hand. The fowls—an estimated 25,000 are employed in Van Zandt county alone—pluck weeds and grass from about the cotton plants. Experience has convinced farmers the feathered farm hands are worth the little care they need.

Wagnerian festivals in Bayreuth and from 1891 to 1900 inclusive sang every season in Covent Garden, London.

She took out American citizenship papers at Cincinnati in 1905.

Married three times, she was the mother of eight children. She lost her voice temporarily after her first confinement, but later regained it with a note added to her register and in later years she said that each of her eight experiences in motherhood had added a note to her range.

She was born June 15, 1861, near what is now Praha, capital of Czechoslovakia, and then was Prague, Austria. Her father was Major Roessler, an Austrian army officer, and her mother was an Italian.

The world war years were difficult for Mme. Schumann-Heink. She had sons in both the American and German armies and another was aboard a German submarine. But she held loyally to the land of her adoption, touring the training camps, singing for the soldiers and begging indulgence for her boys in the German army because they were doing their duty as they saw it. She was widely popular among war veterans and was an honorary officer of the American Legion.

ROOSEVELT SUCCESSOR

Some Two-Term Presidents Named Successors While Others Had No Choice

REAL QUESTION

Who'll Carry on New Deal Gospel When "F. D." Quits

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18: (AP)—Will President Roosevelt, like four of the most famous two-term presidents of the United States, "pick" his successor in the White House?

So far no one apparently has been singled out in such fashion as to suggest that Mr. Roosevelt was attempting to develop a New Deal "crown prince" and to build him up in public opinion for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination. What might happen in the next four years, however, promises to be a matter of considerable speculation.

The two men hailed as the patron saints of the Democratic party, Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson, openly designated their choice of "heir." Theodore Roosevelt virtually dictated Republic selection of William H. Taft. James Madison, "timid little husband" of the famed Dolley Madison, put on pressure for James Monroe as his successor.

Many members of Jefferson's Republican-Democratic party were opposed to Madison. Several Republican congressmen joined in issuing a formal protest against his selection of the party's standard-bearer, but the prestige of the "sage of Monticello" (Jefferson) prevailed.

Andrew Jackson, idol of the "plain people," has been rated by some historians as the most brazen dictator of the White House succession. Besides naming Martin Van Buren of New York as his heir apparent, "Old Hickory" was reported to have laid down a program of succession for 24 years—Jackson himself, eight years; Van Buren, eight years, and Thomas Benton, eight years. That report was never verified, however, and the Jackson "dynasty" lasted only 12 years, Van Buren falling of re-election.

The next president to be re-elected was Abraham Lincoln, assassinated less than six weeks after his second inauguration. Whether he would have indicated a possible successor for post-war Republican leadership is unknown.

Sensational Revelations

Sensational revelations of graft and corruption, involving members of the cabinet and congressional leaders, brought disrepute to the second administration of war hero Ulysses S. Grant. The Republicans were split into three groups at the end of the term, and President Grant made no overt effort to signify his choice for the 1876 nomination. Grover Cleveland ran into the 1893 business panic in his second term. The Bryan-free silver element, dominating the 1896 "cross of gold" convention, repudiated Cleveland's leadership of the Democratic party—particularly because of his rigid advocacy of the gold standard.

William McKinley, first of the "front porch" campaigners, was assassinated six months after his second inauguration. He had evidenced no preference for a successor. To the dismay of Mark Hanna and other old guardsmen, Vice-President Theodore Roosevelt stepped up to the presidency and was elected to that office in 1904. As his second term was drawing to a close, the popular Teddy picked the similarly popular "Bill" Taft for the 1908 nomination. With Roosevelt's support, Taft won the nomination "in a walk" on the first ballot.

Woodrow Wilson was a second-term president who spurned importunities to indicate his preference of a party leader in 1920. Calvin Coolidge maintained a characteristically discreet Coolidge silence when Republicans got down to the business of choosing a potential successor to him in 1928.

No United States president has had three terms. Eleven were elected twice. George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Grover Cleveland, William McKin-

Mr. Simpson had followed the trail from Ontario right through to British Columbia, having been employed in the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway near Winnipeg and coming west with it.

He came to the Bulkley Valley and twenty-five years ago located at Hazelton where he was employed in hotel and other work for some years, eventually locating on a farm near Smithers.

Mr. Simpson was very interested in the Eagles Lodge and helped to organize Omineca Aerle Hazelton in 1920. He was also interested member of the Sons of Canada, belonging to the Smithers Assembly. Being of a very genial nature, he had a great many friends throughout the whole district who will regret to hear of his passing. # Damage Amuses Terrace People TERRACE, Nov. 13.—Some amusement was caused locally by outside reports that made it appear that Terrace had been visited by another catastrophic flooding of the Skeena. It is true that the river rose very quickly and to a height not usually reached but, excepting for a short interruption to the railway service, there has been no appreciable damage.

CARNIVAL AT METLAKATLA

Highly Gratifying Sum of $143.80 Is Realized at Function

METLAKATLA, Nov. 13.—A very successful carnival under the auspices of the Young Men's Benevolent Association was held recently at Metlakatla. The half finished community hall was beautifully decorated with colored crepe paper streamers. Very noticeable were the blinking colored lights at the different booths. The paddle wheel booths, fish ponds, ice cream and hot dog stands all did great business. The villagers responded nobly to the call and a good time was enjoyed by all.

The splendid sum of $143.80 was realized which is considered very creditable for the size of the village. The proceeds will be expended towards the purchase of necessary lumber for lining the new hall.

Jimmy's Popular Orchestra furnished music for dancing which was kept up to a late hour.

STEWART

Miss E. M. Earl of Prince Rupert is opening a branch of her Dollar Store at Stewart with Mrs. La Clair in charge there.

The annual Armistice Day service last week in Stewart was featured by an address by A. Russwurm, chaplain of the Stewart branch of the Canadian Legion James Morrice and John Thompson assisted Mr. Russwurm in conducting the service.

Mrs. Munro of Stewart, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now well on the road to recovery although not yet able to leave her bed.

H. Elde and Roy Lexich, after having been employed at the Big Missouri mine, have left for Prince Rupert.

The steamer Prince Rupert, on her voyage last week, landed at Stewart 140 odd sacks of mail destined from the United States via Hyder for Ketchikan and other southeastern Alaska points. The mail had been routed in that circuitous way owing to the shipping tie-up due to the Pacific Coast maritime workers' strike.

L. S. Davidson, manager of the Wellton mine, has been confined to his home for several days with a severe cold.

Jack and Sam Fitzgerald of Hyder left last week for Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miller have taken up residence in the Dietrich house on Seventh Street. Mr. Miller is employed at the Big Missouri mine.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Krugg have moved to the house at the corner of Seventh and Victoria Streets owned by Mrs. E. T. Applewhaite.

A south wind and torrential rains following recently on some fifteen inches of snow caused almost unprecedented ground conditions here. On Tuesday of last week 2.09 inches of rain fell in the Stewart area and on Wednesday 3.21 inches. As a result, there were road wash-outs and many basements in town were flooded. There were numerous slides on the Salmon River road. The Government Telegraph line went down and some difficulty was experienced in preserving electrical power service uninterrupted. For a few days motor transportation to Premier from Stewart was interfered with.

ALICE ARM HAS FLOOD

Bridges Go Out on Kitsault Shore Road But Dolly Varden Line Undamaged

ALICE ARM, Nov. 13.—Owing to a heavy fall of snow the government work ceased on the Dolly Varden road recently. The work had been completed all but a short distance. After this fall of snow it turned mild and started to rain which caused quite a flood but did no damage to the line.

The flood caused all the bridges to go out on the Kitsault shore road making it impossible for anything but foot traffic. This road is on the flat towards the Illance River. At present the water is down to normal again, and the snow has disappeared.

J. V. Browning, provincial inspector of beer parlors, has been a recent visitor in Smithers.

PIONEERING in 1937

Because the covered wagon has vanished and there is no longer any risk of hostile Indians shooting down white settlers from ambush, it does not follow that the pioneer spirit of our forefathers has disappeared from Canada. Conditions have vastly changed since those early days, but the desire to explore new fields, to open new territories, to improve and then continue to improve, still remains an attribute of Canada's forward-looking leaders in all walks of life.

Tobacco Company is completing the construction of a new building—an addition to its plant in Montreal. This unit—Building "K"—pioneers by making the most liberal use of Glass-Brick of any building in Canada. It was planned after exhaustive research and study by our architects and engineers, to provide us with the newest and best manufacturing facilities in the world today.

Glass-Brick, heretofore used in Canada only for decorative purposes, now fulfils its true function by providing really sunlit manufacturing floors, where we can make use of the most advanced air-conditioning. These floors will be entirely insulated, and so, unaffected by summer's heat or winter's cold. The temperature and humidity will be controlled, and the washed, conditioned air completely changed every ten minutes. These features will also achieve an important advance in the comfort, health and well-being of our employees.

Building "K" is a long stride forward toward the Imperial Tobacco Company's goal—perfection! More sunshine, better conditioned air and immaculate cleanliness will all enable us to improve still further the already fine quality of Imperial Tobacco products.

Gardening

In reply to a query as to what to do in the garden between now and Christmas, I suggest that apart from cleaning up weeds it is just as well to leave a well cultivated garden alone. In my own case I dug several plots this fall and I find the loose soil washes away terribly. If it had not been touched there would have been little of this wash. On flat land it may be different. Also if the land is new or lumpy by turning it up on the first possible dry day the frost can get at it and would help pulverize the lumps.

There are still a few flowers in bloom. Some people have snapdragons and marigolds they can pick for table decoration. I have violets and Theo Collart tells me he has a regal lily in bloom and yellow jasmines. A few other flowers including roses are blooming in spite of the rains and wind but usually, the flowers are rather poor specimens.

Those who lifted their chrysanthemums for shelter may still have some in flower. I hope to have them for a month yet, possibly to Christmas, but that will be the extreme limit.

The next move is to make plans for next year. Spring planting is best for nearly everything except spring bulbs and delphiniums and a few other perennials. In the spring we become enthusiastic and are apt to do the work better. Also we can make better plans for laying out our beds.—H. F. P.

IS JUMPING OFF PLACE

Cape Breton Island Has Welcomed And Bid Farewell to Many Trans-Atlantic Fliers

SYDNEY, N.S., Nov. 18: (CP)—Cape Breton Island—"The Long-shaft of America"—has been just that to trans-Atlantic fliers. The 100-mile long island on the north-eastern tip of Nova Scotia, where J. A. McCurdy and F. W. "Casey" Baldwin operated the first heavier-than-air machine in the British Empire in 1909, has had more than its share of Atlantic ocean hoppers, both by accident and design.

The two 10-ton German flying boats, Aeolus and Zephyr, were the latest. The Lufthansa aircraft made experimental flights across the northern ocean route last month. The Aeolus crossed from Sydney to the Azores in approximately 12 hours under ideal conditions. The Zephyr navigated the same trip in 15 hours of changeable weather. Both were catapulted from the surface ship Schwabenland at the start of the 1,700-mile jaunt.

In September, blonde Mrs. Beryl Markham completed the first east-west female solo crossing by tracking up in a bog at Balifene Cove, 10 miles from Louisburg, where the French and English once fought for North American supremacy.

The spot where the English flying mother grounded was within 12 miles of the last landmark passed by Col. Charles Lindbergh on his history-making solo dash to Paris. Numerous other European-bound planes have been sighted as they sped out to sea from the rugged coastline. The Graf Zeppelin flew so low over Bras d'Or Lakes, in the interior, that distant observers believed the big craft had crashed. Jim Mollison also visited Cape Breton. He landed in a hay-field near Sydney on his contemplated return hop to England. Physicians here advised against his continuing, and Jimmie went home by boat.

CASE OF 'BAD BOY'

What's to Be Done With A. F. of L.'s Rebel Leader Item For Convention

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18: (AP)—Whether John L. Lewis should be booted out of the American Federation of Labor is the prime issue at the federation's annual convention now on in Tampa, Fla.

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and the federation's "bad boy" for many years, was suspended recently by the federation for leading an "insurrection." This insurrection consisted of trying to enroll all the workers in each big mass production industry, including steel, into one big union without the federation's sanction. Lewis' miners and nine other unions lost their good standing at the same time.

Craft unions control the federation. They think workers should be organized by craft—that a machinist should belong to the machinists' union no matter where he works. They are determined to crush Lewis' rebellion. To what extent the federation should seek government help in carrying forward its aims will be the other big issue before the convention. Some leaders are known to feel that labor should avoid asking for any legislation that could conceivably be used against labor by an unfriendly administration or congress.

Included in the discussion of this issue will be debate on whether to seek a constitutional amendment to allow enactment of "social justice" legislation. A colorful cross-section of the American labor movement is presented by the 500 delegates. At least two-thirds of them are professional labor leaders, some of them reputedly well-to-do. The other third, approximately, comes directly from the rank and file.

The largest block of votes this year is controlled by William Hutcherson, president of the carpenters' union and Lewis' arch-enemy in the federation. His union now is the largest in the federation, with 300,000 members.

HALIBUT LANDINGS

Were Heavier This Fall in Spite Of Earlier Closing of Season

Halibut landings at the port of Prince Rupert for November this year totalled 472,000 pounds comprising 297,500 pounds American and 174,500 pounds Canadian fish according to figures compiled on the waterfront. This compares with a total of 635,000 pounds in November last year including 338,000 pounds American and 297,000 pounds Canadian fish. Of course, it should be explained that fishing last year continued throughout November and into December whereas this year it closed on November 3.

Halibut landings here for October this year amounted to 1,484,000 pounds, of which 910,000 pounds was from American vessels and 574,000 from Canadian, as compared with October 1935 figures of 893,000 pounds consisting of 545,500 pounds American and 347,500 pounds Canadian fish.

Contests between the two countries go back as far as 1876 when two tests were played in England, each team winning one. Since then the rivalry has grown and the Mother Country and the Commonwealth meet alternately in England and Australia every two years. Australia is in the lead with 33 victories, one more than England and 29 tussles have been drawn. In the 1934 series the Dominion players were successful, winning two games to England's one, while two matches were drawn. It was in 1882 that the following epitaph appeared in the London Sporting Times: "In affectionate remembrance of English cricketer which died at the Oval on 29th of August, 1882. Deeply lamented by a large circle of sorrowing friends and acquaintances. R. I. P. (N.B. The body will be cremated and the ashes taken to Australia.)"

Ivo Bligh, later Lord Danley, took a team "down under" with the command to "bring back the ashes." At Melbourne he was solemnly presented with an earthenware urn which was filled with ashes. The series of four games ended in a stalemate, each country winning two, but the urn with the ashes remained in the possession

SPORT CHAT

John Tansey, a New England collegian, who pitched for New Waterford Dodgers in the Cape Breton Colliery Professional Baseball League, returned to the United States after his team had been eliminated and played for a Ken-tucky club that won the United States Amateur championship.

England's cricketers, now touring Australia, carry with them a familiar, yet curious injunction to "bring back the Ashes." First uttered in 1882 to a similar band of players setting out for "down under," it has echoed through the corridors of sport and its meaning is as pregnant today as it was in those Victorian days. Broadly, "The Ashes," nowadays is synonymous with cricket supremacy and Gilbert Allen, skipper of the English team which opens the first of a series of five test matches against Australia December 4, is charged with the task of regaining cricket honors which England lost to a visiting Aussie team in 1934.

Contests between the two countries go back as far as 1876 when two tests were played in England, each team winning one. Since then the rivalry has grown and the Mother Country and the Commonwealth meet alternately in England and Australia every two years. Australia is in the lead with 33 victories, one more than England and 29 tussles have been drawn. In the 1934 series the Dominion players were successful, winning two games to England's one, while two matches were drawn. It was in 1882 that the following epitaph appeared in the London Sporting Times: "In affectionate remembrance of English cricketer which died at the Oval on 29th of August, 1882. Deeply lamented by a large circle of sorrowing friends and acquaintances. R. I. P. (N.B. The body will be cremated and the ashes taken to Australia.)"

That is how the term "The Ashes," known wherever cricket is played, originated. Only one test was played that year in England. When victory was in sight for the home players, F. R. Spofforth, demon Aussie bowler, turned the tables with a brilliant spell of bowling and England lost by seven runs. That winter Hon. Ivo Bligh, later Lord Danley, took a team "down under" with the command to "bring back the ashes." At Melbourne he was solemnly presented with an earthenware urn which was filled with ashes. The series of four games ended in a stalemate, each country winning two, but the urn with the ashes remained in the possession of Lord Danley and he kept it until his death. The urn was formally presented to the Marlborough Cricket Club in 1928 and now stands in the "Don Room" among other historic cricket treasures.

Since Bligh's team went to Australia the title of cricket champion has swayed back and forth between England and the Commonwealth. Famous players, whose names are inscribed in cricket's book of heroes, have fought great battles for the coveted "ashes." England's chances this winter are quite bright. In its first four games Allen's team has been victorious three times but plain battles are in prospect when it is opposed by the Commonwealth's full strength. The English team is riddled with injuries which will keep some players out of the game until shortly before the first test. Walter Hammond, the Gloucestershire all-rounder, who has done big things for England in previous international encounters is at the top of his form and already has four centuries to his credit. The touring team includes several youngsters new to Australian cricket, and it is expected they will improve rapidly as they become accustomed to conditions there.

SHADES OF CZAR WALK

Czarina's Egg of Solid Gold, Many Personal and Household Glories Of Russia's Last Royalty On Display

New York, Nov. 15: (CP)—An Easter egg of solid gold, six inches high, and studded with hundreds of diamonds and scores of rubies is the centre of an exhibition of jewelled art objects at Rockefeller Centre.

Of exquisite craftsmanship, these precious trinkets are the work of Carl Faberge, who was court jeweler and goldsmith to the last Czar of Russia and all were once the property of the Czar and members of his family.

The Easter egg was made by Faberge at the order of the Czarina to celebrate the second anniversary of the founding of St. Petersburg. It is elaborately designed in the Regence style. The egg can be opened and within is a miniature gold sculpture of Peter the Great.

A hundred other objects of every day use but artistically designed, worked in precious metals and studded with gems recall the luxury which surrounded the Russian Royal Family. Among a profusion of beautiful cigarette cases, perfume vials, parasols and walking stick handles are several sumptuous push buttons used to summon palace servants. One of these is made of pale green jade mounted with tiny elephants carved out of ivory and bearing jewel which serve as the buttons.

A selection of icons by Faberge is to be seen, as well as a finely chased and engraved silver coffee service, a pair of richly-decorated gold urns, a crystal vase mounted with gold scrolling and a number of similar treasures.

NEWS OF THE MINES

Ore Being Shipped From Babine Property Into Smithers—What Premier and Pitt are Doing In Australia—Hudson Bay Mountain Likened to Noranda

Ore taken out in recent work on the Silver Pick property in the Babine district is being trucked to Smithers for shipment. There will be a carload of the ore which is expected to return high values. Mining operations have now been suspended owing to snow conditions but work will be renewed next spring. Meantime, the operators of the Silver Pick property have also taken an option on the Wright property closer to town and further down the hill. The plan is to take out ore for shipment during the winter months.

Completing five and a half months on his second trip into the Unuk district, Oscar Larson recently arrived in Prince Rupert from Stewart, expressing satisfaction with the season's work on the Unuk properties. With locations made during the past two seasons, Mr. Larson is now interested in some fifteen claims on what is now known as the main Unuk River but which was formerly called the South Fork. The ground is about twelve miles or so from the forks and approximately twenty-eight miles from the Alaskan boundary. The showings consist of a strong "arena" vein, carrying good gold and silver values. Mr. Larson is the only one operating in his section which is about twenty-five or thirty miles south of the Premier holdings. The nearest operation to him is that of Placer and lode properties being developed by Johnson brothers and Unuk Placers which are situated on Sulphide Creek. Mr. Larson proceeds from here to Vancouver but will be going back into the Unuk next spring.

The Australian venture of the Premier Gold Mining Co. is now going ahead by leaps and bounds since Dale L. Pitt, general manager, who is so well known in Northern British Columbia, took personal charge there three years ago. Early production from the company's Big Bell mine in Australia is fore-shadowed by a bill having come before the Australian Parliament to authorize the construction of about twenty miles of railway from Cue to the mine at a cost of £60,000. The company has agreed to put up £50,000 as a guarantee of the further development of the property, this to be returned to the company on completion of the plant, arrangements for the shipping of which are now well in hand. Treatment is expected to begin next April, initially at 30,000 tons monthly and later at double this rate. Proven ore reserves are estimated at 3,500,000 tons of which 1,200,000 tons are blocked out. The Big Bell is a low grade deposit, the lease of which is shared by the American Smelting & Refining Co. (forty per cent), Premier Gold Mining Co. (forty per cent), Terra Nova Properties (fifteen per cent) and Mining Trust (five per cent). Operation of the mine is in personal charge of Mr. Pitt. Diamond drilling below the 300-foot level has disclosed ore of a higher average grade than was found in the upper workings. The 300-foot level is the lowest at which drifting and cross-cutting has been done. Whereas it was calculated that the average grade of ore would be about $6.75 per ton in gold, deep drilling is reported to have led to the conclusion that much of the ore below the 300-foot level will grade between $9 and $10 per ton. Operating costs are expected to be about $3 per ton at the outset and, with subsequent increases in milling capacity, may be reduced to about $2.50 per ton. While beginning with a capacity of 1000 tons daily, the mill is expected to be increased shortly to 2000 tons capacity and, by stages, up to 5000 tons or more. The ore body, according to last official information, has been proven over a length of 1200 feet but further work is understood to have extended it another 1200 feet. The mineralized zone, in all, is said to be about three miles long.

Finishing touches have been put to the building for the mill to be installed by Gold Leasers on the Georgia River mining property down Portland Canal from Stewart. With the completion of this work which, as a preliminary required heavy rock excavating in order to secure a suitable site, everything is now in readiness for the installation of the machinery which is expected to arrive from the south as soon as weather conditions permit a fairly decent trail from beach to mine.

Dr. M. F. Bancroft, who carried out extensive work for the federal Geological Survey in the Smithers district during the past season, declared that Hudson Bay Mountain has all the favorable rocks and all the minerals of the famous Noranda mine. "From what I saw at the Duthie and Mamie properties," writes Dr. Bancroft, "I feel that there is no question but that substantial values will be won from them. I hope Mr. Duthie can get some action on that property and get things in shape to benefit as prices improve. With plant and equipment as it stands, an energetic mining program could be initiated in short order to test out excellent surface showings with gold a more important item than it was in the mining operations of earlier days."

Freighting of supplies and equipment from Stewart to the Big Missouri mine for the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. is being rushed despite recent unfavorable weather conditions.

WHIFFLETS

From the Waterfront

Up to late this morning there was no report as to when C. N. R. steamer Prince John, Capt. Neil McLean, might be expected to arrive from Vancouver via Queen Charlotte Islands. The vessel has been delayed by stormy weather on the present voyage and was still in Skidegate Inlet at 10 o'clock this morning. This means she will probably not arrive here before tomorrow afternoon or evening.

C. N. R. steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. H. E. Neidden, arrived in port at 10:30 o'clock this morning from Vancouver, Powell River and Ocean Falls and will sail at 4 o'clock this afternoon for Stewart and Anxox whence she will return here tomorrow evening southbound.

Capt. "Jim" Morrison made a trip to Big Bay yesterday aboard the power tug F. H. Phippen. He said that it was the roughest passage he had ever made between here and the mill point. However, the doughty skipper and his staunch little vessel made it safely.

GOOD BILL PRESENTED

Uproarious Laurel and Hardy Comedy, Thrilling Intrigue Story And Capitoliens

Two feature pictures—"Our Relations," with Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, the popular comedy team, and "I Stand Condemned," thrilling drama of love and espionage in World War Russia with Harry Baur, great French character actor in the leading role—and the Capitoliens concert party, under direction of Dr. H. N. Brocklesby, make an exceptionally interesting mid-week entertainment at the Capitol Theatre.

In "Our Relations" Laurel and Hardy appear first as respectable residents of a quiet seaport town living a sedate life with their wives then as twin sailor brothers reported to have been hanged for joining in a mutiny and, finally, are flashed doubly on the screen. The stirring and funny adventures that beset them are said to be highly mirth-provoking. The supporting cast includes such well known screen figures as Alan Hale, Sidney Toler, Daphne Pollard and Lona Andre. The settings are the most elaborate ever presented in a Laurel and Hardy comedy. There is also a humorous and tunesome musical score.

The powerful story of "I Stand Condemned" depicts the conflict between three people—an elderly and cold-blooded gambler, his lovely young war nurse fiancée and a handsome young officer with whom she falls in love. There are thrilling episodes and an unexpected climax. The Capitoliens, in their presentation, will feature singing and musical numbers from "Rose Marie."

WOULD SAVE WILD FLOWERS

CAPTOWN, Nov. 15: (CP)—Describing it as "criminal neglect," Lady Phillips declared at the Cape Wild Flower Show South Africa's native flora would soon vanish unless drastic measures were taken immediately to protect it.
