compared with $48,821,039 in 1935. Whereas gold and silver accounted for the greater part of the increase in 1935 compared with 1934, there has been this year an actual decrease in the output of the comsined metals due to greatly depresiated metal prices for silver. This depreciation, however, has been nearly offset by increased production in lode and placer gold. It is of interest to note that the value production of placer gold for 1936 is likely to be greater than in any year since 1904. Lode gold production has again established an alltime record.

Another Year Gone

Another year is past with all its joys and sorrows and at midnight tonight we enter upon a new year with a new ESSINGTON set of problems, new difficulties to be overcome and, let us hope, plenty of new joys.
