Frank Cade, Reporter of Melbourne Sun, in City in Course of Trip Around the World

In the course of a year's leisurely tour around the world, Frank Cade, a reporter of the Melbourne Sun, Australia's second largest metropolitan daily newspaper, is an interesting visitor in Prince Rupert. Mr. Cade was recently left a legacy by his late father, and he has obtained a year's leave of absence from his work in order to see the world, writing some articles for his newspaper and allied publications as he goes along and finds things of interest. He is travelling on no fixed itinerary but simply as the spirit moves him. He arrived here yesterday on the Prince John from the A. P. Allison Logging Co.'s camp at Cumshewa Inlet, Queen Charlotte Islands, where he has been spending a couple of months getting an insight into the British Columbia logging industry. While here he took a job as an assistant to Charles Ellison of this city, civil engineer in logging railway construction work. Mr. Cade will proceed Sunday night on the Catala to make the round trip to Stewart and Anox and thence through to Vancouver. Walking over from Stewart to Hyder while the boat is here, the globe-trotting journalist will be able to say when he gets home that Alaska was among the countries he visited.

Starting out from Melbourne last March, Mr. Cade crossed the Pacific Ocean aboard a Matson Line steamer to Los Angeles. There he bought an automobile and started out on a motor tour of the United States going into Mexico through the southern and Gulf states, up the Atlantic seaboard from Florida to Maine and thence across the continent again to Seattle. By means of this circle trip he was able to visit 36 states of the Union. His longest stay in the States was in Virginia where he spent a month. From Vancouver, Mr. Cade will travel across Canada by rail to Montreal or Halifax with stops at various points of interest. Then he will cross to England where he plans to spend Christmas. His plan is to travel across Russia and also visit China and Japan. About April he expects he will be home in Melbourne again.

Interested in Islands Mr. Cade has developed an especial interest in the Queen Charlotte Islands, apparently being intrigued by speculation of the possibility of the Haidas having come originally from the Orient, Fiji Islands or even New Zealand. While on the islands he took occasion to delve into some of the aboriginal customs of the Haidas and found that they correspond in some respects to those of the aborigines across the Pacific Ocean. Mr. Cade tells of favorable conditions existing today in Australia. The Dominion has come very well out of the depression. Prosperity seems to be general again. Wages (Continued on Page Two)

COULD WED COMMONER

Nothing to Prevent Edward VIII Doing This 'Tis Said—Gifts Have Passed?

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Two London publications, "Cavalade" and "Weekly News Review," broke the silence of the British press yesterday and openly discussed the divorce of Mrs. Ernest Simpson together with the possibility of King Edward VIII marrying a commoner. The King, it was pointed out, need not marry a princess of royal blood but might marry a commoner. It is reported on good authority that the King has presented Mrs. Simpson with an emerald necklace. Another report is that he has given her a large black limousine like his own.

Buildings Shaken and Residents Rush Into Streets—Some Damage is Done

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 23. (CP)—An earthquake shock of several seconds' duration followed by lesser shocks shook buildings here last night and sent people racing into the streets. It shattered plate glass windows, dislodged plaster and cracked concrete walls in the Anchorage Times building. Otherwise, no damage was reported.

CHOICE IN GIRLS' JOBS

Survey Shows Beautician Doesn't Like Washing Dishes and Dietician Loathes Stenography

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 23. (CP)—A local newspaper made a survey of female opinion on women's occupations—and what a hodge-podge of answers developed. The stenographer found the lady clerk's job loathsome, and the dietician used strong adjectives to show her distaste for "pounding a typewriter eight hours a day."

It seems it's still every woman to her own taste and Halifax girls are thankful for a variety of occupations to choose from.

"What kind of daily employment would you most heartily dislike?" they were asked.

"Washing dishes—I can't think of any job I would dislike more than that," exclaimed Muriel Arnold, beautician. "I can't imagine anything more unpleasant than continually cleaning dirty, greasy dishes. Washing dishes as a part of housekeeping would be bad enough, but to do it for a living, no thanks. I'd rather not."

"Clerking in any kind of a store—that is my idea of how not to enjoy life," volunteered Pat Sellers, stenographer.

She said she didn't like the idea of standing behind a counter all day listening to abuse and complaints and wearing a million dollar smile, "no matter how you are feeling."

But Gertrude Maxwell, dietician, hadn't a good word to say about Miss Stellar's job. "Pounding a typewriter eight hours a day is the kind of work I would enjoy doing least," she replied to the query. "I tried it," she continued, "but sitting all day long taking notes and transcribing them on the typewriter got me down, and I had to stop."

Conflicting Reports as to Movement of Munitions Into Spain—Outside Attacks Said to Have Been Made on Insurgents

MOSCOW, Oct. 23. (CP)—Soviet Russia tonight announced virtual withdrawal from the European "Hands Off Spain" agreement, declaring that she could not consider herself bound to a greater extent than other participants. Earlier in the day, however, Soviet Russia spokesmen had indicated that Moscow would take no steps which might precipitate a European war. It would make every diplomatic effort to thwart Nazi and Fascist aid to the Spanish insurgents. Indications are that Russia will not openly, at least, send arms to Madrid.

SAN DIEGO HAS FIRES

Serious Blazes in Two Large Department Stores Are Being Investigated

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 23.—Authorities are continuing the investigation of two fires of mysterious origin which on Wednesday swept large department stores here and for a time threatened an entire city block. One of the fires was in Whitney's department store and the other in the National Dollar Store. Damage at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 was estimated to have been done.

Local Lady Receives News Which Relieves Her Mind

Mrs. J. S. Irvine of this city has been relieved to hear indirectly of the safety of her sister, Mrs. D. Allen, who resides in Spain where her husband is a mining official. With their young daughter, they were residing at Monte de Herrio not far from Seville and in proximity to the most severe of the civil war fighting. Now they are in a safer place near Gibraltar. Mrs. Irvine had not heard of them since the Spanish civil war started and was becoming quite anxious as to their safety. Mr. Allen represents Baird & Co., iron founders of Scotland, in their mining interests in Spain.

Ogle and Lee, it is stated by officers, were caught red-handed weighing out morphine when an apartment was raided. A large quantity of the drug was confiscated.

TO AUGMENT FISH FLEET

Storm and Time Send Newfoundland Bankers to Bottom Without Replacements

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Oct. 23. (CP)—Newfoundland's once proud fleet of sailing vessels has dwindled year by year and last month's big blow ended the careers of several of the staunchest that remained.

For a time some of the older type Nova Scotia vessels were purchased at low prices to counteract the ravages of storm, but this supply has been exhausted and Newfoundland is confronting a serious problem in her disappearing bankers, mainstay of the fishing industry.

"There is only one solution to this problem," says the St. John's News, "and that is restoration of the bounty on at least the old scale of $30 a ton."

Newfoundlanders had their bitter experience with building ships under government financing, the newspaper declared. The vessels under this system cost far more than they should to build and only the most fortunate could participate in the scheme.

"The bounty encouraged people to invest their own money in vessels—a fact which carried with it the assurance that they would be built as economically as possible and operated efficiently as possible. However desperate conditions on the south coast may be, fishermen argue, they would have been infinitely worse if there had been no banking industry. Even at current low prices it is anticipated that most of the 1,000 men who manned the bankers will have a fair voyage and certainly they will fare better than the inshore tiller.

GIVING YOUNG MEN A START

Speaking before a local service club Wednesday, the district forester gave his listeners an idea of the splendid work that the provincial government is doing for young men under the Young Men's Forestry Training Plan. The plan is to take selected and likely looking young chaps who require employment and have been unable to get it into the forests of the province and there give them training in a number of valuable lines associated with silviculture. The intention is not to get work done cheaply for the government, although some very useful things may be incidentally accomplished, but to tide the young men over the dull period and, in so doing, give them training in a number of subjects which will serve them in good stead in later life no matter what trades or professions they might go into. The results of this innovation, according to the district forester, have so far been very gratifying, particularly from the standpoint of the benefits the young men themselves have derived.

While instituted primarily as a depression measure, the Young Men's Forestry Training Plan is something which it appears might be very useful as a permanent institution. It is to be hoped that the government will see fit and be able to continue it in permanent operation.

THAT ONE MISTAKE!

Inadvertently a week ago the chief editorial writer of a widely read London daily used the word "numismatists" instead of "philatelists." Within a day or so the journal in question was literally swamped with "letters to the editor" exuding superior knowledge.

Under the heading of "Thanks Indeed" this is what appeared afterward:

Thank you indeed, kind and learned readers, who have written to us by the score in order to correct us for writing of "numismatists" when we meant—as you know—"philatelists"! We expect to be put right when we go wrong. Thank you.

Do we expect to be congratulated when we happen to be right?

We do not. We know too much. We know that, for one who acknowledges accuracy there are 10,000 who correct mistakes.

BRITISH FASHION WATCHED

Coronation Trends Will Have Their Effect on This Side of Atlantic

Impending coronation of Edward VIII is making itself felt in the fashion circles of the world. Fashion experts are agreed the crowning will have a decided effect on autumn fashion trends in United States, quite as much as in England.

A regal note is creeping into the latest collections of famous designers, and is expected to become more pronounced as the season approaches its maturity, it is said.

Margot Grahame, British actress in American films, who has recently returned from a vacation in England, describes the tendency toward greater formality, especially in evening clothes, in anticipation of next spring's brilliant festivities.

The purple of kings and the regal wine reds and royal blues, she reports, are being used a great deal, while another noticeable innovation is the lavish use of feathers and plumes. Many of the plumes on the hats are modifications of the three used in the coiffures of women presented at court. Ermine is going to be used more lavishly, too, in line with the coronation trend.

The coronation card has been issued to members by the British color council. It contains six colors in addition to coronation red and coronation blue. The six are coronation gold, coronation green, Marlborough blue, Holyrood green, Buckingham lilac, Saint James' rose. The last four are pastels named after the British royal residences. Coronation gold is a soft, rich tone found in works of art from Persia and China. Coronation green is a bright clean shade dyed to the original Vert used in the science of British heraldry, from the Thirteenth Century.

Marlborough blue is named after the new home of Queen Mary, and is a pale forget-me-not shade. Holyrood green is named after the Scottish palace of the royal family and is a delicate pastel used from earliest times in decorative art, especially glassware, pottery and enamel.

Buckingham Colors

Buckingham lilac, named after the King's London residence, is associated with Aubusson tapestries and was used freely by Eighteenth Century painters like Fragonard, Boucher and Lancret, and was later worn in England by the "bucks" of the regency period. St. James' rose is romantic-looking faded old rose, named after St. James Palace in London, likewise occurring in Aubusson tapestries. St. James' rose is close to Duskyrose on the American spring, 1936, silk card. Holyrood green is slightly bluer than green-gaze on the same color card. Coronation green is slightly darker than dryad green on the spring, 1935, woollen card.

Evening gowns typical of what the well dressed Englishwoman will wear during the coronation season are being shipped to American department stores from London dressmaking houses. One, cabled for recently, is in crush-resisting silk-back velvet in red, in a slender Princess silhouette with a train, ruffled hemline and matching capelet trimmed with silver fox.

QUIT ARMY FOR WIRES

Picture of First Telegrapher in New Brunswick is Presented To Telegraph Company

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Oct. 23: (CP)—An enlarged colored photograph of a distinguished looking man in the full dress uniform of a colonel has been presented to the St. John office of Canadian National Telegraphs by Charles W. McKee, retired dean of local telegraphers.

The picture was that of Colonel J. Mount, first "electric telegraph" operator at Saint John who joined the New Brunswick Telegraph Company when it was founded in 1849, five years after the famous message "What Wonders God hath wrought" clicked over the first telegraph line in the world.

Colonel Mount came to Saint John with Imperial Army troops. The army was interesting itself in the new science of telegraphy and the colonel had studied the "new-fangled" wonder invented by Samuel Morse. When a group formed a company and arranged financing for a telegraph line linking the Maine and Nova Scotia boundaries, Colonel Mount was the expert they obtained to direct operations. Until he trained assistants, he was the only telegraph operator in this district.

Framed and inscribed, the picture presented by McKee is one he had reproduced from a miniature given him by his grandmother, a friend of the Colonel. After the ceremony McKee gave the miniature to Arthur Mount Gregg, great grandson of Colonel Mount.

Old records of the New Brunswick Telegraph Company, still existing with its original line under the lease, shows that the first issue of stock at £10 a share found a ready market. These books are in the possession of McKee, now secretary-treasurer of the company.

After the presentation formalities old timers recalled stories of days when telegraphy was so little understood that many persons thought goods could be sent over the wires. One woman wanted to telegraph socks to a son in Montreal. Another wrote a message and carefully sealed the envelope before handing it across the counter in an apparent belief the original communication could be sped mysteriously through space.

Her Next Book On "Civilizer"

British Author Hopes Fascism Not Coming But Says Some Conditions Favor It

TORONTO, Oct. 23: (CP)—Phyllis Bentley, the noted British author of "Inheritance" and other novels, interviewed here by W. A. Deacon, said she could not travel or "live" and write, too, but she will be engaged next winter on another Yorkshire story. "This time about what happens to a man who tries to do good to others, I think of him as a civilizer."

"Are conditions all right now in the British woolen industry?" she was asked. "Yes. Unemployment is very much reduced." "Is that due to armaments?" "No. Improvement began in 1932 and armament did not start till a year ago."

In "Freedom, Farewell" she said she had tried to picture a country ceasing to be free and falling under a dictatorship. "I did not force the analogy, but it needed no forcing. Here were the same conditions that have brought about contemporary dictatorships—increasing corruption in public life, increasing disregard of the marriage tie and easy divorce; and an increasing weariness of people in bearing their own burdens and wishing to throw them on somebody else."

"I find several of the same conditions in England and America that produced dictatorships in the past and Fascism in Italy and Germany today. I do not say we shall have Fascism and fervently hope not, but I see slowly rising those conditions which, if not remedied, ultimately produce Fascism."

VICTORIA, Oct. 23: (CP)—Trevor Lewis wagered he could ride curved inside a large truck tire while it was rolled four city blocks. He won the wager but staggered a trifle after his release. It was estimated he made 176 complete revolutions.

Woman's Auxiliary Supper at Terrace

Splendid Program Followed Affair Held on Wednesday

TERRACE, Oct. 23.—The Anglican Woman's Auxiliary on Wednesday carried out a very successful social affair which took the form of a supper and program. Practically all Terrace came in for supper and all enjoyed the program of music that was given by several ladies. Miss Walsh, as violinist, contributed much to the general enjoyment while Miss Helen and Velma Greig and Mrs. Hinchcliffe rendered some beautiful songs. Mrs. Kirkaldy accompanied and perhaps the prettiest item of all was when little Miss Warden danced a highland fling in costume.

It's fun to watch him build with St. Charles

EVER since his baby days, when the doctor first prescribed St. CHARLES for his bottles, he has thrived steadily and surely. He has built a sound foundation of abundant health for play and school. And he is still building sturdy growth, because his mother always uses plenty of this rich, pure milk in the family meals.

You, too, want your baby to grow up with a straight back and well-shaped body. You will be richly repaid if you use St. CHARLES—the better irradiated evaporated milk—for feeding your baby.

St. CHARLES is always safe... pure milk from selected British Columbia farms, evaporated and sterilized in the shining, sanitary plant at South Sumas. It is more easily digested than ordinary milk, and its quality has never been surpassed. And in addition it is irradiated for extra Sunshine Vitamin D.

Your doctor knows all about St. CHARLES MILK, and he knows your baby's individual needs. Ask his advice on feeding your baby.

Mrs. Wodehouse spoke at the same meeting on Woman's Auxiliary conditions at Ottawa. This meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. B. Gibson, the Diocesan president, and the Dean gave a devotional address at the opening.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Wodehouse addressed a meeting of Anglicans under the auspices of the Young People's Association.

Yesterday Mrs. Wodehouse and Mrs. Donaldson visited the Anglican Japanese Mission and kindergarten as well as Ridley Home and were taken on a trip to Metlakatla aboard the mission boat Northern Cross.

This afternoon a reception is being held for Anglican women at the home of Mrs. R. L. McIntosh, Fourth Avenue East.

Mrs. Wodehouse and Mrs. Donaldson will leave on this evening's train for Smithers where a meeting of representatives of interior branches of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held. Then they will proceed to Ontario with visits at various cities enroute.

PRETTY WEDDING

Miss Joan Eyoifson Becomes Bride Of Walter Johnson at Interesting Evening Ceremony

A pretty and interesting wedding took place last night at 7:30 at the home of the bride's brother, John Eyoifson, Water Street, when Miss Joan Eyoifson, daughter of the late T. H. Eyoifson and Mrs. Eyoifson, was united in marriage to Walter Johnson, son of the late J. B. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson of Burns Lake. The ceremony was performed under a bridal arch of evergreens and pink and white flowers by Rev. Canon W. F. Rushbrook. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion in pink and white.

The bride entered upon the arm of her brother, John Eyoifson, by whom she was given in marriage. She was prettily gowned in white taffeta with veil and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The Wedding March was played by Miss Nellie Lawrence. The matron of honor was the sister of the bride, Mrs. Bedford Church, who wore flowered chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. The groomsmen were Harry Eyoifson. During the signing of the register Miss Nellie Lawrence played "I Love You Truly."

A reception for the thirty or so guests followed when felicitations were offered to the happy couple. Canon Rushbrook proposed the toast to the bride and groom to which the groom responded. Later in the evening the couple sailed on the Prince Rupert for Vancouver where they will reside. The groom is engaged in fishing and the bride, until recently a member of the city telephone department, has been a resident of the city for years, having been formerly at Osland. The day was also the eighth wedding anniversary of the sister of the bride, Mrs. Bedford Church.
