Abandoning Sanctions, Britain Calls Upon France and Germany To Help in New Security Move

Parliament Splits Widely on Method of Procedure In International Affairs—War Would Bring Death To
British on First Night, Says Baldwin

LONDON, June 18: (CP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin declared in the House of Commons today that collective security had failed and called for a peace alliance of Great Britain, Germany and France. Premier Baldwin added: "If possible, collective security shall not fail again. I regard it as of first importance that Germany, France and ourselves should work side by side throughout all Europe for peace."

The Prime Minister warned the house: "We, as trustees of the people, ought to remember that, if there is war against this country nearer than the Mediterranean, they will pay for it on the first night with their lives. The first blow may come from the air."

"The policy announced by Captain Eden," Baldwin declared, "commands the unanimous support of the government. We believe our method is not a method that will kill the League."

Eden's Declaration
Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had previously told the House that Great Britain would take the lead at Geneva for removing League of Nations sanctions against Italy. Eden said: "His Majesty's government, after mature consideration, on advice which I, as foreign secretary, thought it my duty to give, has come to the conclusion that there is no longer any utility in continuing these measures as a means of pressure upon Italy."

Arthur Greenwood, Labor, opened the Opposition fire on Eden's speech. He said it "means truckling to a dictator." He added: "No more deplorable utterance ever fell from the lips of a British minister."

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, former Premier, declared: "This is the end of the authority of the League. Eden's predecessors, when their policies were overthrown, had the decency to resign."

Clement R. Atlee, Opposition leader, wound up the debate with the announcement that he and his colleagues will move for a vote of censure when the debate is resumed on Tuesday.

Canton Government Refuses To Suppress Anti-Japanese Activity

CANTON, China, June 18:—A new Sino-Japanese crisis was threatened today when the Canton government refused point blank to accede to the Japanese request for suppression of anti-Japanese activities.

General Ready
HONG KONG, June 18:—General Tsai Ting Kai, hero of the Shanghai war of 1932, volunteered today to revive his famous 19th route army and plans to lead his troops into action against Japan but no anti-Japanese resistance could be successful without the support of the entire country he said and the present situation is obscure. He said he would not take part in civil war. However, he would be ready to join any anti-Japanese movement with the old 19th route army.

Military reports tonight said that the troops of General Chen Che Tang, Canton dictator, were pressing northward to fight the Japanese forces and had crossed into Fukien Province which is under Nanjing jurisdiction.

Halibut Fishing Industry Had Availed Itself of Marketing Act

OTTAWA, June 18: (CP)—The Employment and Special Insurance Act and the Natural Products Marketing Act, both of which were declared invalid by the Supreme Court yesterday, were two of the most important of the eight laws upon which judgment was rendered.

The Natural Products Marketing Act is a statute enabling groups of producers of natural products to set up prices and regulate marketing of their products. The halibut fishing industry of the Pacific Coast had partially availed itself of the privileges of the Act. The Court divided 4 to 2 in upholding Section 498A of the Criminal Code while there was unanimity in agreeing on the constitutionality of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act.

Plea For Sociology and Economics to Keep Pace With Scientific Developments Made by Dr. W. A. Riddell
In Address Before Local Service Club

Motor travel at 150 miles per hour on widened one-way highways in real streamlined automobiles giving eighty miles to a gallon of gasoline, aerial passenger services through the stratosphere at four or five hundred miles per hour or more, bringing Paris to within five or six hours of New York, freight service on monorail railways at one hundred miles per hour and upwards, dissemination of news and entertainment by television instead of by newspapers and the theatres as at present, houses of translucent glass with moveable partitions and great developments in the field of medicine were envisioned by Dr. W. A. Riddell of the scientific staff of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station in a novel and interesting address before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club yesterday on the subject of "Every day Life in 1980."

Dr. Riddell took occasion to express the belief that there would be no permanent cure of the world's present economic ills until such time as sociology and economics were able to get into stride in a planned and systematic way with the advances in the field of scientific development. As matters stood at present economics and sociology were thought of in terms of the past instead of the future. The speaker made a plea for realization of the importance of scientific research and application of the accomplishments of science to sociology and economics so that conditions (Continued on Page Four)

TROOPS AS PRECAUTION

France Gradually Returning To Normalcy After Strike

PARIS, June 18:—Steel helmeted mobile guards today supervise the French efforts to return to industrial normalcy after two weeks of strikes which resulted in higher wages and reduced working hours for labor. The impressive display of military force was prompted by fears of Premier Leo Blum, Popular Front Government leader, that foreign agitators would foment fresh trouble to cripple French industry and hurt the country's armaments program.

However, the high point of the industrial crisis is believed passed following the evacuation of the Renault Motor Car factory by 30,000 workers.

LABOR AN DRADIO BROADCASTING

The All-Canadian Congress of Labor recently met the Parliamentary committee on radio broadcasting and strongly urged that the broadcasting of all radio programs be taken over by the commission.

It was argued by the Congress that broadcasting tended to become a monopoly and control of any Canadian monopoly would pass into alien hands. They argued that Canadian listeners wanted Canadian programs whereas the majority of programs heard now emanate from places outside of Canada. This moulds the ideas and opinions of Canadians along lines which are not Canadian. "In a country of the vast geographical dimensions of Canada, broadcasting will undoubtedly become a great force in fostering a national spirit and interpreting national citizenship.

RATES OF WAGES

There seems to be a more or less concerted effort on the part of some employers to cut the rate of wages to 25 cents an hour as a result of the depression and the scarcity of work. The provincial government rate is 40 cents an hour and men working for the city of Prince Rupert get 40 cents an hour for the time they are employed. The federal government has set a rate of 25 cents an hour which may be all right in the east but is certainly not sufficient in the west, where living conditions are quite different.

There have been proposals to put men to work at road work in this province at 25 cents an hour but the Pattullo government has definitely decided against it. They have announced that any work in which they have any say will have to be done at the 40 cent rate.

There is nothing to be gained by setting a rate of wage which is too low for a man with a family to live on decently. We strongly favor a decent wage for a decent day's work.

CAPTURES BRITISH MARKET

In the first four months of this year Canada led in exports to the British market in wheat, the amount purchased by Britain during that time being 15,449,533 cwt. Australia came second with 9,000,000 cwt. and Argentina third with only 441,180 cwt. In the corresponding period of last year Argentina came first with 10,056,443 cwt., Canada second with 9,723,973 cwt. This is a complete change in marketing due largely to the change in Canadian marketing policy and to the variation in crops.

DEMOS ARE PREPARING

Getting Ready to Give Roosevelt
Unanimous Choice at Love
Feast—Governor Talmadge
Falls in Line

ATLANTA, Ga., June 18.—Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, who has been one of the sharpest critics of the New Deal and who himself had been threatening up to a short time ago to enter the presidential race himself in opposition to it, announced yesterday that he would give his whole-hearted and active support to any candidate to be chosen by the Democratic national convention next Tuesday. This means he will support President Franklin D. Roosevelt whose renomination, probably without any opposition whatsoever, is a foregone conclusion.

"I am a Democrat and I am one hundred percent for the party," declared Talmadge. "We may sometimes disagree among ourselves but we must stand united in an election."

Program Announced

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—The official program for the Democratic national convention here next week was announced yesterday. It calls for the renomination of President Franklin D. Roosevelt on one night and his public acceptance the following night at an enormous public outdoor gathering at Franklin Field. The convention bears all the earmarks of turning out to be a love feast. The only issue that is in sight now is that regarding the two-thirds nomination rule which some would abolish but for the continuation of which the Solid South stands united. Whatever is done in regard to this, however, will have no bearing on the renomination of President Roosevelt who is expected to be chosen unanimously on the first ballot.

Roosevelt's Campaign

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 18.—President Roosevelt will plunge immediately into his re-election campaign after his expected renomination at Philadelphia next week according to White House plans. These plans call for a major political address at the Monticello home of Thomas Jefferson near Charlottesville, Va. It will be his answer to the statement by Alfred M. Landon that "to me the fight is on." Prior to the convention President Roosevelt will remain in Washington to pilot Congress through the adjournment rapids and prepare his acceptance speech which is to be made at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, probably on June 26 or 27.

The New York Yankees improved their American League leadership with a couple of easy slugging victories over the Indians at Cleveland and now have a three and a half game margin over the Boston Red Sox who defeated the White Sox 9 to 4 at Chicago. The Washington Senators had a close 2 to 1 victory over the Tigers at Detroit and advanced from fifth the third place, the Tigers and Indians now being tied for fourth place. The Philadelphia Athletics, playing at St. Louis, thought they had a victory in the bag but the Browns came up from behind to win 14 to 13 in a heavy hitting melee.

"The Man Who Fell From Heaven"

Indian Legend Read to Rotary Club at Its Meeting This Afternoon in Place of Usual Address

Instead of hearing an address from some visiting speaker, members of the Rotary Club today listened to the reading by H. F. Pullen the legend of "The Man Who Fell From Heaven," written by Mrs. J. B. Gibson. This is one of a collection of legends which Mrs. Gibson wrote some years ago and which her friends are persuading her to publish in book form. A summary of the legend follows:

In Metlakatla Passage there is an island adjoining Wearmouth's Island on the shore of which is a rock showing a depression exactly the size of a human body where it is alleged that an Indian Medicine Man, who had visited heaven, fell again to the earth, making the depression in the rock where he struck.

The name of the Medicine Man was Lthan. Prior to his visit to heaven there were many members of the Tsimpsian village who would gladly have banished the haldowget from the village only they feared him. He had done nothing of late to help the tribe. One calamity after another had befallen them. The run of oolachan had been very short in the spring and the salmon run was the poorest known. Even deer had been scarce and it was also a dreaded seventh year when the plague visited the rabbits and they were not edible. Coupled with this the Tsimpsians at Metlakatla had suffered great loss from death. A marauding party of Haidas had swept down upon one of their canoes and all but one of the party had been killed. There had been several drowning accidents and the last and greatest blow had been the death of the chief's son. Was it any wonder the natives were indignant at their haldowget?

Very soon Lthan began to feel that he was shunned by his fellows and, in cases of sickness, he was no longer called upon to shake his rattles and sound his drums. His power was waning. Losing his life was as nothing to losing his power over his fellows. Life without it would be unbearable. He went off to the woods to think it out and, if possible, devise a plan for regaining his fast waning prestige.

On his return he announced that he had received a call from heaven and it was imperative that he should obey. He must leave them at once. He would not be able to accompany them on their annual trip to the Naas River in search of the oily oolachan for Wee Nagwadum, the Great Father, had sent a direct command that he was needed in heaven and he must go. "But I will return," he added. "Look for me when the sockeye run—when their silvery bodies glitter in the sunlight as thrice they jump."

Saying this he turned and left them.

The people went off to the oolachan fishing at the Naas. The whole community migrated with the exception of a few old men and women and dogs, and it was nearly three months before they returned laden with oolachan grease, the odoriferous material they used in all their cooking.

After the return of the villagers an occasional sockeye was seen and the people began to wonder if Lthan would really come back. They had not long to wait. A young man out hunting on the slope of a distant hill heard a voice say: "Lthan has returned. Go look for him." Nothing could be seen, not a leaf or blade of grass was moving, so the young man knew it must have been a spirit that spoke. He returned and told the chief.

Fell From Heaven

A search party was formed and about two miles from Metlakatla they found important evidence of the return of their haldowget. There was an impression in the rock just the size of Lthan and with one leg slightly shorter than the other. It was, undoubtedly, the impression made in the rock when their medicine man fell on his return from heaven. The whole village turned out to visit the spot and the news rapidly spread to other villages and there was great excitement all along the coast.

When a few days later Lthan walked into the village looking pale and thin, the ovation given him was tremendous. He was welcomed as a god. The miraculous power of healing given him by Wee Nagwadum while in heaven made him famous throughout the length and breadth of the land and legend gives him the first place among the medicine men of the Tsimpsian peoples.

The depression in the rock, exactly resembling the matrix of the figure of a man, may be seen to this day only a short distance from Prince Rupert on Metlakatla Passage.

Power Is Discussed

One heard alarm expressed in some quarters, said Dr. Riddell, in discussing power, that the world's coal and petroleum might become exhausted in the course of a few hundred years. This would probably occasion no hardship for new sources of power were under investigation and in a comparatively short time would possibly become available in a practicable way. Scientists were investigating means for conversion of the energy of the sun's heat and for harnessing of

From the Waterfront

Circus Patry Travelling North—Dybhavn off to Islands—Maid Of Orleans Sails.

Delay of the steamer Prince George in arriving here from the south yesterday was due to the handling of a large circus outfit which was brought north from Powell River to Ocean Falls. The circus will come here from Ocean Falls next week.

C. N. R. steamer Prince John, Capt. James Watt, is due in port at 8 o'clock tonight from Vancouver via the Queen Charlotte Islands and will be here until Saturday night when she will sail on her return south over the same route. This is the last voyage of the Prince John before being replaced for the summer by the Prince Charles. The Prince John will engage in tramp freighting during the next two or three months.

John Dybhavn left on the Delphinium this morning for Massett where he will spend the season personally directing operations of the Massett Cannery salmon cannery which will start next month packing cohoes from the Island trolling grounds.

Pilot Charles Elliott is due back here today from the interior where he has been doing some mine freighting work into the Omineca district from Fort St. James during the past week. He is bringing back a party of Skeena River cannery men who went to Hazelton last week with him to arrange for the transportation of Indian cannery workers to the coast for the season. The first of the cannery workers are due here tomorrow aboard the steamers Prince Rupert and Princess Adelaide, accompanied by R. H. Gurd of Cassiar.

Skipper George Frizzell is on his weekly visit to town from Port Essington with the Laura F II. He arrived yesterday and will be returning to the river tomorrow. There is a temporary lull at the cannery now between the time of intensive preparatory work and the opening of the canning season a week from next Sunday evening when the sockeye fishing commences.

The big auxiliary schooner Maid of Orleans, which has been sold to Gibson Bros. of Victoria by the Armour Salvage Co., which came into possession of the vessel following her wreck near Milbank Sound last spring, leaves this afternoon for the south. This morning she moved up from the salvage floats to the Union Oil Co. dock to take on fuel.

"Cruise News" is the title of an attractive daily mimeographed news bulletin which has been instituted this voyage aboard the steamers Prince George and Prince Rupert for the Alaska cruises this season. In addition to a concise review of world news, the bulletin, which is issued each morning, gives valuable travel instructions to passengers, describes points of interest to be visited on the day of issue and announces shipboard activities. Prince Rupert and what may be seen and done here is given prominent mention in the bulletin on the mornings before arrival here. The publication is a credit to the officers responsible for its production and will, doubtless, be appreciated by the passengers.

Mathew Yeomans and Alfred Adams, who came in on Tuesday with the Chief Wah from North Island with a small load of salmon for the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., will sail tonight on their return to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The largest halibut from the local banks to be landed so far this season at Seattle was delivered there yesterday by Capt. John Skarpsness from his boat, the Mad-dock. It weighed 220 pounds. The largest halibut to be landed at Seattle this season from any bank was a 265-pounder which came from the westward on the Seattle. The all time high record fish at Seattle was close to 500 pounds.

SENATOR IS DEAD

Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida Was Prominent and Esteemed Member of United States Upper House

WASHINGTON D.C., June 18: (AP)—Death struck another blow at Congress yesterday when Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida succumbed at the age of seventy-seven years. With the exception of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, Fletcher had the longest service record of any member of the Upper Chamber in which he had sat continually since 1909. He had been chairman of the important banking and currency committee and was a staunch supporter of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal. He was one of the most popular national legislators.

Development of the American merchant marine and improvement of inland waterways were subjects closest to the heart of Duncan U. Fletcher during his long years of service as United States Senator from Florida. Immediately after the World War he advocated establishment of regular routes to keep engaged the great wartime fleet of merchant craft; opposed in the Senate the sale by the International Mercantile Marine of its ships to British interests and held out for government operation as a certain means of keeping the American flag on the seven seas.

In inland waterway development the Senator was interested particularly in the Gulf-to-Maine inland project and also proposed the building of a canal from the mouth of the Mississippi river to the Atlantic ocean. He lived to see the first project become a reality, but not the latter. Senator Fletcher also interested himself in rural credits and was the chairman of the United States Commission on this subject appointed by President Wilson. It was after the findings of this commission had been made that the Farm Loan Act was passed in September, 1916.

Development of South Ever active in the development of the entire south, Senator was chief sponsor and for a time president of the Southern Commercial Congress. He also was a director of the national Rivers and Harbor Congress and successively president of the Gulf Coast Inland Waterways Association.

Born in Sumter County, Ga., on January 6, 1859, Senator Fletcher was graduated from Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., and then took the law course. Admitted to the Tennessee bar in 1881 he soon moved to Jacksonville, Fla., where he began his public career in 1887 as a member of the city council. He was elected to the state legislature in 1892 and became mayor of Jacksonville in the following year, serving two terms. He was elected to the Senate in 1908.

Soon after leaving college, Senator Fletcher married Miss Anna Louise Paine. They had two daughters.
