"HAUNTED HOUSE" LEASED BY LINDBERGHS IN KENT

The reputed "haunted house" leased by the famed American aviator, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, at Weald, in Kent, England, is shown above. The estate, which includes an 18-room house and four ancient cottages, is known as the Long Barn. Supposed birthplace of William Caxton, the man who introduced the printing press to England, the Long Barn is said by country folk in the vicinity to be haunted by Caxton's ghost. Another indication that the Lindbergh's intend to remain some time in England is that both have just taken out British pilots' licences.

JOHN SR.: "Well, son, I'm glad you are doing so well with the outfit. You are going through my old experiences of hard but satisfying work. We are happy now to rest."

JOHN JR.: "You deserve to rest after all your years of hard work and I realize I owe all this opportunity to you and mother. I have often heard you say how successful she was with the poultry and dairying end of the business."

JOHN SR.: "Thank you, son, but we don't deserve all the credit. In 1900 when we had only a homestead and preemption, with shack and barn, and had to haul water five miles and drive 20 miles to market, the Bank of Montreal made me the seasonal loans, I needed to carry on. In five years we had later owned 640, with good buildings and equipment. The bank kept on lending for harvesting and feeding, because I carried out my contracts and kept my credit good. You remember, son, we sold out in 1919 forcash, and were able to retire. You were lucky to rent the old place, for it's a good one."

JOHN JR.: "I am lucky, father, and I am trying to live up to your reputation."
