Laval May Dampen Eden's Ardor

Taken somewhat by surprise at the appointment of Sir Anthony Eden as new British foreign secretary, European diplomats are looking to clever diplomat Pierre Laval, premier of France, as the only man who can dampen the young British statesman's desire to force the league into full sanctions against Italy, a position which would be most embarrassing to France. Laval (left) and Eden (right) are shown here in Geneva, the premier without the cigarette which nearly always hangs from his lips.

Dr. Soward Of University Of B. C. Discusses Implications Of Ethiopian Invasion

At Turning Point

World Must Return To Anarchy If Collective Action Is Not Now A Success

For the first time in the history of the nations of the world have named a great power as the aggressor in a war of conquest and the question arises as to whether they can organize successfully to defend the small powers. If not, the world must return to international anarchy and give up the effort to apply collective security. That was one of the interesting statements made last night by Professor F. H. Soward of the University of British Columbia in an illuminating lecture on the "Wider Implications of the Italo-Ethiopian Dispute." Lee Gordon presided at the meeting in the city council chamber and the speaker was introduced by City Commissioner W. J. Alder.

In opening his address Dr. Soward quoted from one of the speeches of Mussolini in September, 1911, in which he said:

"Between us Socialists and the Nationalists there is this difference of view. They want a vast Italy. What I want is an Italy well cultivated, rich and free." Since then the views of Il Duce had undergone a vast change. When he delivered the speech from which the speaker quoted, Italy was beginning her efforts toward expansion. She seized Tripoli from Turkey. At that time there was a free press and Mussolini was editing a newspaper which gave voice to views opposed to the government of the day. The reason for the change of attitude of Mussolini seemed to be that he was drunk with power. "All power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely" seemed to apply in this case.

Dr. Soward then outlined the various movements which led up to the commencement of hostilities. There was the affair at Wal Wal when the British and Ethiopians were trying to settle their boundary and found an Italian force at that point claiming the territory. Britain withdrew but there was a scuffle with the Ethiopians in which 30 Italians and about 100 Ethiopians were killed. Italy demanded an apology but Ethiopia appealed to the League of Nations.

From that time Italian troops began to move through the Suez Canal. Efforts to settle the difficulty were mentioned, one of which was an appeal to the United States government to call on the nations to implement the Kellogg Peace Pact. Secretary of State Cordell Hull expressed the hope that there would be no war but the following day he asked for the withdrawal of all Americans from Ethiopia.

By this time it became evident Continued on Page 2

BRITISH MILITARY CORRESPONDENT ASSERTS THAT MORALE IS BEING AFFECTED BOTH IN THEATRE OF WAR AND AMONG NEW REINFORCEMENTS.

LONDON, Jan. 9: (CP)—The Italo-Ethiopian war is not going well for Italy. Dispatches from Ethiopia report that rains are almost everywhere churning up the roads and creating new and unexpected difficulties for the invaders. From Germany, the Austrian Tyrol and Jugo-Slavia come stories of the flight of Italian conscripts across the frontiers.

Major Sheppard, the Evening Standard's military correspondent, asserts that "there are indications that all is not well with Italian morale, either in the theatre of war or among reinforcements. This, if true, is a matter of the utmost seriousness." Rain clouds, Major Sheppard concludes, are not the only ones gathering in Ethiopia.

ITALIAN REVERSES

ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 9: (CP)—Well informed sources said today that the Ethiopian government had received reports that a large scale Italian advance had been frustrated in the Dolo region after an engagement involving more than 100,000 troops. The report followed an official announcement here that the invading Italian army had abandoned the Tembein region on the northern front.

MR. JOHNSON IS HONORED

Honorary Life Membership in Junior Chamber of Commerce—Dinner For Prof. Soward

T. H. Johnson, retiring manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. and past president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, who is about to leave Prince Rupert, was honored last night by being made an honorary life member of the Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce. The presentation of the life membership took place last night at an informal dinner meeting of the Junior Chamber in the Knox Hotel. The resolution, conferring the honorary membership, was proposed by G. P. Lyons who commented upon the active interest Mr. Johnson had taken in the Junior Chamber ever since its inception. Constructive advice, based on his own experience in public affairs and business, had always been most acceptable and appreciated. Mr. Johnson replied suitably, declaring that he would always cherish the honor that had been conferred upon him.

The dinner, presided over by Lee Gordon, president of the Junior Chamber, was held in connection with the visit to the city of Prof. F. H. Soward of the University of British Columbia. Other guests were City Commissioner W. J. Alder and C. V. Evitt, president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

LONDON, Jan. 9: (CP)—The price of bar silver was firm here yesterday, being 1-16 of a penny higher at 20 13-16 pence. Today it was easier, dropping 5-16 pence to 20 1/2 pence. The New York price was steady and unchanged at 49 3/4c.

LOG SCALE IS STEADY

Only Slight Decrease Recorded In 1935 As Compared With Year Previous—December Falls Off

Log scaling in Prince Rupert forestry district for the year 1935 showed a slight decrease from the year previous, compilation of official figures of the Forest Branch show. The total scale for the year just ended was 131,339,285 board feet as compared with 135,967,361 board feet in 1934. For December 1935 the scale was 811,499 board feet in comparison with 4,479,349 board feet in the same month of the year previous.

Production of poles and piling as well as railway ties in the interior in December 1935 showed a substantial increase over the same month in the year previous. Poles and piling totalled 61,280 lineal feet—all cedar—as against 37,009 lineal feet. The count of railway ties for December 1935 was 32,562 pieces—316 hemlock and 32,246 jackpine—in comparison with 2,644 pieces in December 1934. Cordwood production this December was 434 as against 21 in the same month of the year previous.

The log scale per species in December was as follows:

	B. F.

UNIFORMITY OF PRICES

No Reason Why Cars Should Not Be Sold This Way—Makers Penalize Dealers

OTTAWA, Jan. 9: (CP)—R. T. Graham, counsel for the provinces of Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba, discussed before the tariff board today a suggestion for a uniform price for cars all through Canada. Other standard articles such as typewriters were sold at standard prices, he pointed out. It was estimated that the price of cars in Vancouver and Victoria would be reduced by $125 to $135 and the price in Central Canada increased only $10 to $15.

Motor car manufacturers and dealers clashed when R. P. Sparks, counsel for the dealers, charged that men who sell cars are unfairly treated by the manufacturers and suffer from intense competition between manufacturers which leads to the high prices for trade-in cars.

WORLD IS UNSETTLED

Dr. Soward Says Advance Towards Recovery But Many Difficult Problems Yet to Be Faced

Internationalism

Currency Stabilization and Lower Tariffs Essential—Three Nations Are Stumbling Block Today

Economically, there was during 1935 the most definite advance toward recovery since the depression commenced, declared Dr. F. H. Soward, Professor of History at the University of British Columbia, in addressing the Prince Rupert Gyo Club at luncheon yesterday. The industrial improvement, attended by highest wholesale prices since Great Britain went off the gold standard in 1931, was not, however, paralleled by increased employment, owing to the increased use of machines and other factors. The advance in wholesale prices, Dr. Soward attributed largely to droughts, tendency toward rearmament among many nations and the putting into effect of production restriction programs. There had not been the increase in international trade which might normally have been anticipated due to increased population. There were two factors that still caused concern—first, such improvement as there had been was confined to nations that had gone off the gold standard; second, such recovery had been entirely due to national effort. New York Foreign Exchange Experts Surprised At Tendency In Old Country—Drop of Two and One-Eighth Cents Recorded Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 9: (CP)—Weakness of the United States dollar in London today accompanied by reports that further devaluation of American currency was likely came as a distinct surprise to Wall Street foreign exchange experts. In most quarters devaluation rumors were set down as pure gossip. In London the American dollar closed at $4.95 9-16 to the pound sterling, a net loss of 2 1/4c.

PASSENGER SHIP SINKS

TRIED TO SELL OUT

How J. P. Morgan Failed to Dispose of Arms Plant To Great Britain

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 9: (CP)—Evidence that J. Pierpont Morgan invited Great Britain to buy control of an American arms plant before the United States entered the Great War was introduced yesterday in the Senate's investigation into war-time finance.

The invitation, dated January 14, 1916, was contained in a cablegram from Morgan to the Morgan house in London, stating that the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. was in financial difficulties.

The reply, received four days later, showed that the British were opposed to such procedure.

There were only fourteen firms in the United States engaged today in the manufacture of war materials, the committee was told.

After having been forced down near Kaltag when the fuel ran out last Friday, members of the party travelled many miles by snowshoe to get fuel to take them to Nulato, 310 miles west of here, where they arrived safely yesterday.

GREAT INTEREST TAKEN

There was a large crowd out at the City Hall last night to hear the lecture given by Professor Soward of the chair of history at the University of British Columbia. It was an encouraging sign that so many people should be present at the hall when the lecture was being broadcast by radio and could be heard at home.

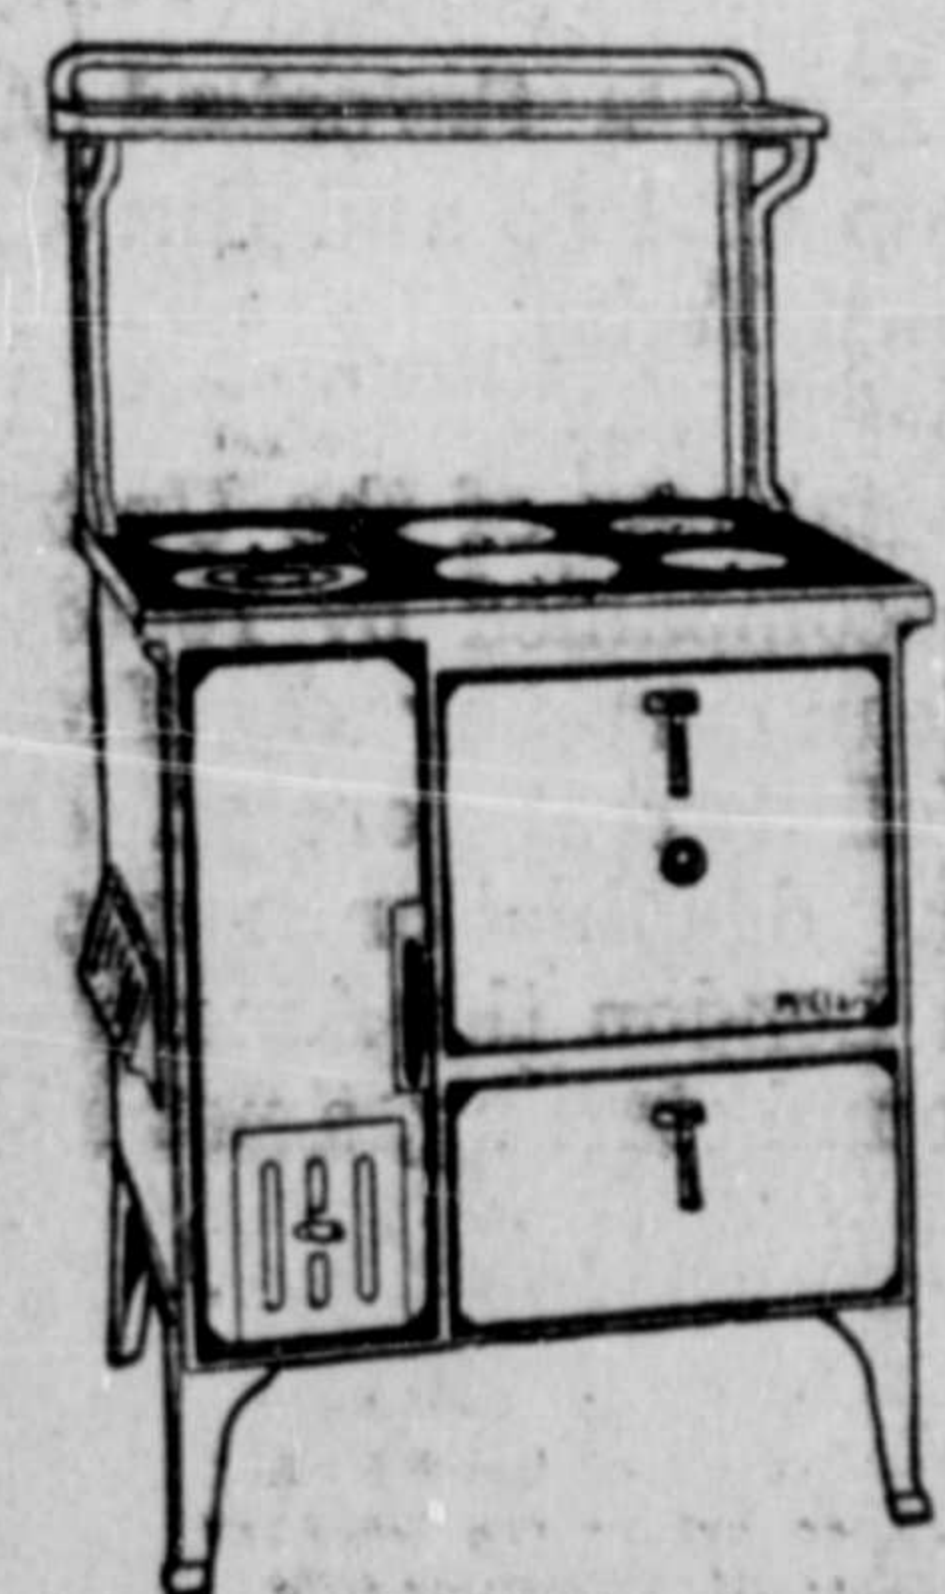

Those who did not attend missed a great deal. It is all very well to listen to the radio if it is not possible to be present but it is a great advantage to see and hear the speaker face to face. Dr. Soward illuminated the subject on which he spoke and, doubtless, many will want to hear him again this evening.

A SPRING CRUISE

Some of Britain's warships will make a spring cruise soon. It is an opportune time for such a cruise and, doubtless, it will prove impressive. All Britain's ships are ready for action just now if it should be found necessary to use them and the people of Britain are almost a unit behind the naval and military forces. At the same time there is a general wish that naval and military action may not be necessary but that Italy will realize that she is half a century out of date in her attack upon a smaller nation. Canadians may not take part officially if the worst comes to the worst, but it is a sure thing that thousands of Canadians will rally to the side of Britain if war should be declared. But we feel sure the need will not arise. There will be no general war just now.

SPEAKS OF CONFLICT

that expansion and prestige was the real cause of the threatened attack upon Ethiopia and British warships were sent to the Mediterranean. The League of Nations assembly was convened and almost every country sent its prime minister or foreign secretary. Canada fell down badly by not sending someone who might speak with authority. It was at this gathering that Sir Samuel Hoare made his great speech in which he emphasized that Great Britain would stand by the League covenant.

On October 3 Ethiopia was invaded. The League met again and a committee was appointed to draw up sanctions to be applied against the invader.

The Cause Analyzed

The speaker then turned back and analyzed the cause which led to the Italian wish for more territory. Forty years ago when the partition of Africa took place, Italy came off badly, getting only the crumbs of the territory. In 1896 when Italy attempted to seize Abyssinia, she was defeated at Adowa and withdrew. After the Great War when mandates were given to a number of countries Italy got none and that country showed keen resentment. Her population was increasing rapidly but her territory was small. Her citizens were not welcomed in other countries after the depression started. The present government made no effort to deal with the population problem but encouraged large families. The plea was made that Italy needed colonies for her surplus population and raw material for her factories. Ethiopia was no attractive for colonization and raw material could be secured quite well elsewhere. It had been proved long ago that there was no relation between colonies and prosperity.

Italy was losing her foreign trade partly because the value of the lire was held too high. The country was in debt and her budget was unbalanced. A foreign war was needed to distract the minds of the people from home difficulties. For years the Italians had been trained in war and now it was decided they must have someone to fight. The war was more nationalistic than economic.

The Problem

The problem facing the world was whether the world powers could organize successfully to defend the smaller powers against attack. Sanctions which might be applied against an offending nation were of several kinds. There was the moral sanctions such as that applied against Japan in connection with Manchukuo in which the powers refused to recognize the action of the aggressor. No power had yet recognized the new state of Manchukuo.

Another sanction might be the recall of all ambassadors with the consequent ostracising of the offender.

Economic sanctions had been in force against Italy for the past two and a half months, most of the nations refusing to buy goods from Italy and also refusing to sell war material. So far, however, cotton, nickel and oil were still being supplied to Italy and it was a proposal to impose this sanction that made Italy declare that this would be tantamount to declaring war. Faced by this danger Britain and France withdrew and made a proposal for a settlement which had been rejected.

The last sanction that might be applied was the military sanction and there was no proposal that it might be applied.

Chances For Co-operation

Discussing finally the chances for co-operation among the nations, Dr. Soward spoke of the surprising instance of solidarity in Britain among the people of all parties against "bartering Britain's honor." It was a remarkable demonstration. Britain was now back firmly for collective action with an outstanding leader in Sir Anthony Eden. France was divided and there was a danger that at any time the government might fall. Germany was bound by nothing as she was not a member of the League. Hitler felt that no matter what happened he could not lose.

United States, according to the speaker, looked upon Europe as the "land of original sin" and should be allowed to destroy itself. However if the neutrality bill now before congress passed, oil might be prevented from going from United States to the belligerents. Japan, evidently, had no interest in Europe only hoping that it would become so embroiled as to give her an opportunity to advance in Asia.

"We are at a turning point in the world's history" concluded Dr. Soward. Former President Wilson saw the danger of an unjust treaty at Versailles. If the present sanctions are successful that treaty will have to be revised in order to remove cause for dissatisfaction among the nations.

IMPROVING OF STOCK

Pork Raising Industry in Interior Receiving Assistance

PRINCE GEORGE, Jan. 9.—Forty-six select bacon type sows and two registered bacon type boars of outstanding breeding and quality were delivered to farmers in the Central Interior of British Columbia recently. This shipment resulted from the active co-operation of the Agricultural Department of the Canadian National Railways, Prince George, and G. A. Luyat of Williams Lake, with the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Pigs were distributed at Dunster, McBride, Hutton, Giscome, Prince George, Isle Pierre and Vanderhoof, as well as in the Quesnel and Williams Lake districts. Six registered Tamworth sows and one boar were placed in the Cariboo. George Cameron, Vanderhoof and Mrs. Ida Neilans, Giscome, purchased registered Yorkshire sows and George Long, Dunster, secured a registered Yorkshire boar. The registered stock in this shipment was from some of the best herds in Alberta.

The two Yorkshire sows were from advanced registry stock in the herds of H. McLaughlin, Spruce Grove, and Allenby Farms, North Edmonton. Both sows are bred to a boar from imported stock, whose sire has seven daughters in advanced registry. N. Curtis, Edmonton, who has charge of the Dominion Government Brood Sow Policy in Northern Alberta, stated that these two registered Yorkshire sows were as good pigs as he had ever shipped and the type and quality of the entire carload compared favorably with any such shipments made from the Edmonton yards.

This shipment of breeding pigs is the first wholesale introduction of stock of this nature into Central British Columbia and was made possible through the Dominion Government Brood Sow Policy. Under this policy the sows are purchased by Government officials on the yards, from shipments graded select bacon type. These sows are bred to the best type registered bacon type boars available. They are fed at the yards from three to six weeks, inspected by government veterinarians from time to time, inoculated for hemorrhagic septicaemia before shipping and the Dominion government pays half the freight. The only additional charge assessed to the farmer, over the original cost of the sow, is the half freight, which in the case of this shipment amounted to seventy-five cents per head.

The policy has made it possible to extend the swine breeding area considerably and at the same time permit British Columbia farmers to secure the best type breeding stock at a minimum cost.

President W. M. Blackstock was in the chair and there was a good attendance of members with a few guests.

Charged with assaulting Sarah Dudoward, occasioning actual bodily harm, in his shack on Seventh Avenue West yesterday afternoon, Paddy Heageney appeared before Magistrate McClymont in city police court this morning. Heageney pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned for eight days when the informant, who is alleged to have sustained a broken nose, failed to put in an appearance.

Quietly Married In City Yesterday

Miss Bertha Levitt Becomes Bride Of Robert Gillespie

The home of Rev. E. J. North, pastor of the Pentecostal Assembly, was the scene yesterday afternoon at 4.30 of a quiet but very pretty wedding ceremony when Miss Bertha Levitt of Back Bay, N.B., became the bride of Robert Gillespie of this city, Mr. North officiating.

The principals stood under an arch of white and pink with white bell and a background of palms and flowers.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white satin, inset at the yoke with cobwebby lace and offset with a spray of hand-made flowers of white satin. A fine chiffon veil, orange blossom wreath and a bouquet of pale pink carnations and snapdragons completed the costume.

Miss Mildred Dixon, as bridesmaid, looked dainty in robin-egg blue taffeta with bandeau to match and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

The groom was attended by Ronald Dixon.

A quiet reception took place later at the Commodore Cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie will make their home in the city.

Canadian Legion Regular Meeting

Various Items of Business Dealt With at Gathering Last Night

President Jack Preece presided at the regular monthly meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League last evening.

Reports were presented on the holiday festivities. The club entertainments had been much enjoyed. Hampers had been provided for families and single men. In addition the annual dinner for ex-service men had been put on and guests had been loud in their expression of thanks. The British Columbia division of the Red Cross Society acknowledged receipt of annual grant and letters were also received from needy ex-service families who had been otherwise assisted.

It was decided to purchase the first volume of the official biography of the late Field Marshal Haig and present it to the local public library. This first volume treats of the war up to the time of the Battle of the Somme.

The thanks of the branch were extended to R. E. Benson for his splendid gift of framed photographs of King George and Queen Mary. The poem written by Mrs. W. Brass on the tenth anniversary of formation of the Canadian Legion has been suitably framed and hung in the clubrooms.

Interest in Week Of Prayer Shows Steady Increase

There was a further increase in attendance last night when a good sized crowd assembled in First United Church for the third meeting in connection with the observance of Universal Week of Prayer in Prince Rupert. Rev. C. D. Clarke led the meeting and, after the opening hymn, Psalm 103 was read responsively. There was prayer by Rev. E. J. North, pastor of the Pentecostal Assembly.

The speaker of the evening was Very Rev. James B. Gibson, dean of St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral, who read Scripture from First Corinthians 12, taking his text on "Fellowship" from the First Epistle of St. John, Chapter III, Verse IV.

Dean Gibson referred to humanity's systems in an endeavor towards fellowship with God. There had been failure in each attempt. The only possible way to attain fellowship between God and man was through Jesus Christ. God desired fellowship with man—and partnership. Where this existed, there was mutual association, participation and obligation. The call went forth for more consecrated fellowship men with men and men with God.

A session of silent prayer followed Dean Gibson's address. After the closing hymn the benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. D. Clarke. Miss Swanna Olafson presided at the organ.

Tonight's meeting will be held in the Pentecostal Assembly Hall and the chief speaker will be Canon W. F. Rushbrook.

Home treatment with MUSTARD.....

Give your children mustard baths... nothing better for chills, colds and coughs! Mix one or two tablespoons of Colman's Mustard to a thin paste and add to a bath of steaming-hot water in a warm room. Let their little bodies soak 10 or 15 minutes. Dry them carefully, then pop them into bed and be sure they keep well tucked in. That will sweat the poisons out!

Good for you, too, but you'll need 3 tablespoons of Colman's. Take a mustard foot bath if more convenient.

British Officers Anxiously Watch Hindu-Moslem Disturbances in India

A double barrier formed by police and barbed wire entanglements set up in a street of Lahore to prevent further march of roused Moslems who protested against the action of the city's Sikhs in razing a mosque they had been given and converting it into a Sikh temple. Now, in Lahore, the Sikhs and Hindoos have massed on one side, against the Moslems, and religious riots are feared. (Lower picture shows Major Hogge and Captain Staples (left to right) anxiously watching the procession of 60,000 Moslems of Lahore who, armed with axes, swords and lathis, march in protest.

forts. Little had been accomplished in the way of international co-operation through stabilization of currency and lowering of tariff walls.

Speaking of international problems, Dr. Soward asserted that 1935 had seen the settlement of no international problems with the exception of the Saar Valley. It had raised the problem of Italian aggression. Germany was still a source of unrest and concern. There was also the menacing situation in the Far East.

The subject of Dr. Soward in an intensely interesting discourse was "Looking Back on 1935." True the year had passed and many might be glad that it was gone, said Dr. Soward. It might prove of interest, however, to review some of the events of the past year in the light of what the future might be expected to bring forth.

Speaking of the industrial improvement and the rise in wholesale prices, Dr. Soward said that the advance in wholesale prices in Great Britain had been twenty percent. The increase in disposal of raw materials had given new hope to the producers.

The recovery, such as it was, having been limited to nations which had gone off the gold standard, conditions in such countries as France, the Netherlands and Switzerland, particularly in France, were still acute. Policies of deflation were still rife in these countries. Foreign trade was down and debts were up. Unemployment continued at a dangerous level and restlessness was general.

After referring to the second alarming factor wherein so far the improvement economically had been confined to national efforts alone, Dr. Soward asserted that there had not been a single international accomplishment towards a common cause in bringing about recovery. There had been the 1935 world economic conference which had been wrecked on account of United States policy.

International trade, declared Dr. Soward, had shrunk to 32 percent of 1929 whereas, if it had paralleled the natural increase in population, it should have been today about 115 percent of 1929.

"Until a move has been made to restore international trade," declared the speaker, "there will be acute difficulties for railways and shipping companies, international investments and those nations depending upon export trade."

"The only way we can improve international trade is to stabilize currency and lower the tariff walls. So far little has been accomplished along these lines. Owing to instability of currency, international contracts are impossible."

Only piecemeal tariff adjustments had been made. There would have to be more than bi-lateral trade agreements, most important of which had been the one recently reached between Canada and the United States. It would take years to work out an effective program along this line. It was essential that the nations co-operate as a group.

One reason that the nations had been unable to get together on settling economic matters had been the international political policies of three powers — Germany, Italy and Japan. All three were governed by Fascist forms of government—Germany and Italy openly and Japan through control by the army and navy. All three sought territorial expansion. The result was a move toward rearmament and general lack of confidence.

Dr. Soward then proceeded to review the policies of these three countries during the past year. Early in the year Italy had effected a reconciliation with France but was now embarked upon a deliberate war of aggression. The African campaign brought to the fore the danger of conflict between the whites and the blacks.

Germany at the first of the year had caused alarm by the threat of aggression in regard to the Saar. This had been checkmated by the presence of international police in the Saar and the plebiscite whereby the people of the Saar had voted to return to Germany. Germany's resolute policy of rearmament was still a matter of grave concern, presenting a menace which might eventually become as great as that of 1914 although for a couple of years yet the country might still be tranquil. "Germany is today," declared Dr. Soward, "the unknown and the most feared quantity in Europe."

As for Japan, Dr. Soward attributed the activity of that nation in China not as a fight upon communism but as a move towards territorial expansion although it was true that Japan feared Russia and probably for this reason was moving towards Outer Mongolia with a view to eventually cutting off the trans-Siberian Railway Japan's demand for naval equality also presented a threat. However, it was possible that, due to internal fiscal conditions with taxation increasing and competition in the manufacturing field becoming more intense, Japan might soon have matters to attend to at home which might discount the country as an international menace. A contest for control between the commercial and business interests, on one hand, and the militarists, on the other, might be anticipated.

"Last year," concluded Dr. Soward, "solved no international problems except the Saar. It raised a number of problems such as that of Italian aggression. There is a great chance today for international co-operation and for active and enlightened leadership in the world. Chance may come to the rescue of the world as it had done before. But this is not a very cheerful prospect to leave with you."

The luncheon was presided over by Past President W. H. Tobey in the absence from the city of President S. J. Jabour. Among the guests was T. H. Johnson, whose impending departure from the city was referred to with expressions of regret. Other guests, besides the
