THE FIGHT FOR BETTER CIVIC ADMINISTRATION

There are a large number of diseases of the body that end their course in a sort of germicidal suicide The disease germs create other germs which kill the first germs. That is why certain diseases like measles rarely attack the same person twice. That is how immunity from certain diseases is acquired. It is a dangerous and expensive method of acquiring immunity, but it seems to be one of Nature's biologic laws.

In a similar way the social body seems to acquire immunity, and overcome its things. ill-health. When a community or a government gets so rott n that it can hardly hang together, a new force is born that fights and overcomes the old order. is a dangerous and expensive method of acquiring immunity from social ills, but it seems to be one of Nature's sociologic laws. In a study of the commission government of cities—the application of business system to municipal corporations—the significant truth is borne home, that in nearly every case, these most progressive of cities are the products of a reaction against boss rule and machine politics. In almost every instance it has been the fight of a few citizens and a newspaper on one side, against the forces of machine rule and a subsidized press on the other, that has started the victorious fight.

Mayor Dan Dineen of Decatur, Illinois, in a personal letter to the Daily News has outlined very succintly the reasons that made that city adopt the commission form of government. Decatur it may be mentioned is a city of over 30,000 inhabitants. This is what Mayor Dineen says about the subject:

First, This community as well as others, has grown tired of "machine politics," and under this plan, every candidate stands on his own footing. is unlawful to contribute money for the election of any particular candidate, and the successful candidate has to file a sworn statement of his actual expenses and by whom the money was contributed. The candidate's name goes on the ballot in alphabetical order and there is nothing to show the candidate's party affiliation and anyone can be a candidate without asking any "boss."

Second, The plan attracts abler men to fill the offices because of the increase in salary and the reduction in number. It fixes individual responsibility, the same being direct and personal, and renders communication between the citizens and the City Hall easier.

Third, By means of the Initiative, Referendum and Recall, which are not essentials of commission form of government, but are usually attached to the plan, the power which has formerly been usurped by the officials has been returned to the people where it belongs. By these means a community may initiate legislation or protest against legislation, and may recall unworthy

Fourth, Privileges to public service corporations are safe-guarded in that they lay over one week before passage, and then in most instances before they become effective, they must be submitted to a vote of the people, and if vote results in a majority in favor of granting the privilege, the ordinance becomes effective, otherwise, not. This method eliminates public service corporations from getting behind certain candidates. Free transportation to city officials is prohibited and all discrimination is absolutely forbidden.

> Yours truly, DAN DINEEN, Mayor.

The four excellent reasons that influenced the city of Decatur might apply very well to the city of Prince Rupert.

FIRST: "CATCH YOUR PRINTER"

DIRECTIONS FOR COOKING A HARE: FIRST:-" CATCH YOUR HARE"

To produce good printing you must "first catch your good printer. . . You can't get good printing from a poor printer, even if he work with never so good an equipment. If he lacks the "knack," the trained taste, the single-minded fondness for his work which real printers have, he will do poor printing for you. If he has all of these, and in addition to them adequate modern equipment, your printing will have distinction, salesmanship, the lure of type-beauty.

As this office produces good printing you may infer the presence of a good printer-who is "catchable."

But there was no ecstasy soul, no mental altitude. In quick reaction came the fanciful memory the hardy old salt who cheered his shipmates during a terrific gale with the trite remark:

Dwellers in inland cities were ning. amazed and incredulous when newspapers spoke of its extraordinary violence. A truth is harder to swal low than a lie, all the time.

Up clattered Enid with the steaming beverage; Constance, the lanternbearer, providing the rear-guard.

"I do believe it is blowing worse than ever," said Enid, striving desperately to be unconcerned. In reality, the angry wind was no longer able to behead the waves. With a rising tide and the gale assisting there would soon be a sea worthy of Turner in his maddest mood.

"Neither of you will ever regret tonight's experience—when it is nicely over," he said. "You are like a couple of recruits in their first battle." "I am sure-" began Enid.

A huge wave, containing several hundred tons of water, smote the lighthouse, and cavorted over their heads. The house that was founded upon rock fell not, but it shook through all its iron-bound tiers, and the empty
