This demonstrator is being arrested by police in trafalgar Square, London, as about 3000 British Fascists heard Sir Oswald Mosley, their leader, address them, in the midst of uproar caused by anti-Fascist groups who opposed the gathering. The blackshirts had marched from Kentish town in north London to Trafalgar, in their first procession since the passage of the Public Order Act. The Public Order Act forbids the use of political uniforms. Sir Oswald, who marched at the head of his followers, was the only marcher who wore the semblance of a uniform. He wore a black e-fifth of the family heads of shirt and black tie with his light grey suit.

Nipponese Declare Their Intention to Resort to Arms to Punish China For Acts of Provocation

NANKING, July 28:—The Chinese ninth army reported it had smashed the Japanese offensive against Peiping in the first major clash of the informal war in North China. The Japanese attacked Peiping's environs at dawn, after the expiration of their final ultimatum demanding the withdrawal of the Chinese army divisions from Peiping area.

The Japanese high command at Tientsin, base of the Japanese army in North China, denied the Chinese reports and asserted that Peiping's defenders were being hurled back on the city walls.

Both capitals made declarations of open hostilities. Japan formally declared her intention of resorting to arms to punish China, charging repeated acts of provocation against Japan.

The spokesman for the Chinese Government here declared that a formal declaration of war was "impossible since the Kellogg Pact" but declared "actual hostilities will be on a major scale and will encompass all China."

Each country is blaming the other for having brought about the commencement of hostilities.

TIENTSIN, July 28:—The Japanese air fleet roared over the countryside about Peining early Thursday morning, dropping leaflets warning the Chinese popuance to evacuate.

Swimming is probably one of the oldest activities known to sport and in all probability was first learned from the frog. Man, with all his superior qualities is about the only creature on land that does not swim instinctively. Once having learned however, he is able to swim more efficiently and with a greater variety of methods than any other creature. Swimming is healthful, invig orating, cleansing, a good developer and decidedly conducive to good posture. Learn to swim correctly, improve your style and form and become more versatile in the water and you will be surprised at the increased satisfac-Is On Increase tion that swimming gives to you. both from an aesthetic and a physical standpoint.

A swimmer can float for hours on the back and make a little headway with scarcely any effort whatever, beautiful and graceful swimming can be done, on the side, and of course the fastest stroke is the crawl. The stroke however, that is considered the most efficient is the breast stroke. This stroke can be used on the surface or under water, in rough seas, or swimming under and around objects. In short, it is considered fundamental in swimming as the piano is in music and as ballet technique is to all forms of dancing .. This series may be of some help to non-swimmers, but they are more for the benefit of those who already swim but who do not do so correctly.

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Wheel From Kingsford-Smith's Plane Found Positive identification of a tire, wheel and broken landing gear recently found floating in the Andaman sea off the coast of Burma, by an Akron, O., rubber company, clears up somewhat the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Capt. Charles Kingford-Smith, Australian aviator, while on a flight from London to Australia in November, 1935. The tire, floating for nearly two years, was still fully inflated. Observers say the condition of the parts indicates Kingsford-Smith may have landed in the jungles instead of in the Bay of Bengal between Allahabad and Singapore as some contend.
