Eleven Drowned When Air Liner Came Down Near 'Frisco Tuesday

Officials Baffled to Account For Disaster—Visibility Was Good and no Other Planes Were in Way

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10: (CP)—Eleven persons were drowned when a United States Air Lines transport plane crashed a few miles from here on a regular flight from Los Angeles. Airport officials are mystified at the disaster as visibility was good and no other planes were around to interfere with the landing. The Coastguard reported only three bodies of the eleven victims of the plane crash were found in the wreckage.

British Columbia Vessels to be Tied Up at Seattle, Union Organizer Threatens

SEATTLE, Feb. 10: (CP)—Captain John M. Fox, international organizer of the Island Boatmen's Union, announced here last night that his union would tie up and picket all British Columbia ships as fast as they arrive at American ports. He said the union would continue to picket the ships whose owners sent them into American waters and still "continued to fight organization efforts of our union's branch at Vancouver."

Word was received in the city today of the death at Port Essington at 9 o'clock last night of Andrew Spalding.

ROBERT SANDY LAID AT REST

The funeral of the late Robert Sandy, for many years a well known employee of the city public works department, who passed away Sunday night at the Prince Rupert General Hospital, took place this afternoon from the chapel of B. C. Undertakers to Fairview Cemetery. Very Rev. James B. Gibson, dean of St. Andrew Cathedral, officiated.

STALIN IS STEEL MAN

Big Boss of Russia Refuses Cap Of Dictator

Strong Personality

All Russia Feels Power of Its Uncrowned Czar

NEW YORK, Feb. 10: (AP)—One of the outstanding world figures of the day and, paradoxically, one about whom the least is known, is Joseph Stalin, communist chief of Soviet Russia.

His policies are no secret, although rarely do they come directly from his lips to the public. His works are visible. And his name often is written large in the news, as when men face death for plotting against him. But Stalin himself remains in the background—a powerful but mysterious personality, the sphinx of Moscow.

The name "Stalin" means "steel man." It was bestowed by the late Nikolai Lenin, father of the Soviet, on his disciple and right-hand lieutenant (christened Joseph Vissarionovich Dzugashvili) and was a commentary on its bearer's inflexibility of purpose.

Stalin, although virtually uncrowned czar of all the Russias, objects vigorously to the designation of "dictator" which foreigners apply to him. "Never, under no conditions, would our workers tolerate a one-man rule," the steel man once told Emil Ludwig, German historian. "The biggest authorities among us become converted into zeros as soon as they lose the faith of the working masses."

Stalin is directing secretary-general of the executive committee of the communist party. As such he is head of government, but the office he holds is elective and he could be removed at any time.

There is a dictatorship in Russia, but communists declare it is that of the communist party; that is, the people, for no other party is allowed to exist. Government policies are evolved from general party discussions. The executive committee imposes these policies in a dictatorial manner but the policies persist only until the party decides on a change.

Stalin's influence in this system is so great that it is tantamount to dictatorial power. His admirers say, however, that his influence comes from the fact that he is head and shoulders above all others in his party in intelligence and far-sighted statesmanship.

Personality Dominates He is like a great medical specialist whose advice the patient accepts and follows. But a specialist who made several bad mistakes would lose his standing, and so might Stalin.

Stalin's personality dominates every conference he attends. He holds his head erect with an air of supreme confidence. His mouth be speaks kindly traits, but if you glance a bit higher you encounter a pair of hard eyes which look straight through you. His remarks are brief and as straight as the spine of those steely eyes. He never raises his voice—never indulges in strong language.

Stalin is said to be able to get at the meat of a situation quicker than any of his colleagues. When he presides at a committee meeting he frequently gives the impression—they say he does it with shrewd purpose—that he is just a

PREMIER CHILD IS BURNED TO DEATH

Divisional headquarters of the provincial police here have been advised of the death at Premier last Friday of Regina Flevia Pelletier, four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Armand J. Pelletier. The child had been playing in the house and put a newspaper in the fire. Her clothing took fire and the mother rushed from an adjoining room to find the child ablaze. The burns resulted in her death the next day.

AMNESTY IN MEXICO

States Wiped Clean For Political Prisoners Either Convicted Or Accused

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10: (CP)—President Lazaro Cardenas wiped the Mexican court dockets clear of all "political" cases with an amnesty bill applying to persons accused or convicted of rebellion, sedition, uprising or disturbance. Presumably within the scope of the bill was the pardoning of former President Plutarco Calles, now in California.

PROGRESS OF CO-OP

Rev. C. D. Clarke Speaker at Meeting Last Night—Complement Of Socialism

In Many Countries

Sweden Pointed to as Leading Way In Movement

Speaking before a good sized meeting in the Canadian Labour Defence League Hall last night, Rev. C. D. Clarke, pastor of First United Church, gave a history of the progress of the co-operative movement in the world to date, expressing the belief that in it lay the foundation for socialistic governments. Co-operative movements should be able to work hand in hand in bringing about improvement in the condition of the common people, Mr. Clarke declared. Co-operation, he believed, was the keyword of civilization.

In opening, Mr. Clarke said that many people were looking forward to the day when socialism or a type of socialism would be general in government. It was not coming as fast as some might like to see. Possibly this was because socialists did not co-operate. There was too much division in their ranks. Socialism had made a disappointing showing in the recent presidential election in the United States. There was enthusiasm among the leaders but the movement was not getting on so fast. However, great things often moved slowly.

Mr. Clarke defined the difference between socialism and the co-operative movement as he saw it. The former worked from the government down, the latter moved from the people up. Almost every country in the world had a co-operative movement. The movement had had its origin in England. After previous efforts to establish

Local Member Gets Left-Handed Compliment From Mr. Spence Of Parkdale

The following House of Commons discussion during the recent passage of the local $150,000 public building item as reported in Hansard will prove of considerable local interest.

Mr. Spence (Toronto-Parkdale): Let us get some information about Prince Rupert. Surely the hon. member for Skeena (Mr. Hanson) has not so much influence that he is worth $150,000 to this house. That is a wonderful sum of money to spend. I think it is an exorbitant amount and should not be spent.

Mr. Cardin: For the information of my hon. friend I may say that in order to arrive at the amount required for that public building we have capitalized the rentals which we have been paying in the past and which we are paying at present for the different government services in Prince Rupert. The site has been given to the federal government by the provincial authorities, and it was by capitalizing the rentals which we are paying at present in Prince Rupert for our different services that we arrived at that amount.

Mr. Spence: What services are going to be accommodated in that building?

Mr. Cardin: There is the post office, the national revenue department, the government telegraph and different offices of the marine and fisheries branches.

Mr. Hanson: I am glad the hon. member for Parkdale (Mr. Spence) asked that question because, representing Prince Rupert, it gives me a chance to say a few words. Prince Rupert is one of the greatest North American Pacific ports. The provincial government of British Columbia has seen fit to erect a building there costing approximately half a million dollars, realizing the strategic position of that city as far as central and northern British Columbia are concerned. The minister has explained that this building will house the post office, the customs department, the Indian branch for central British Columbia and also the fisheries branches and the lighthouse offices. I think I am not wrong in saying that this is the one important point on the central British Columbia coast as far as the development of that area is concerned.

Mr. Spence: What is the population?

Mr. Hanson: I am not making any rash statements. As a representative of a part of British Columbia I am trying to explain that we hold a strategic position in British North America. We have the first railway connection in that part of the country.

Mr. Spence: Have railways ever paid up there? Mr. Hanson: The Department of National Defence will no doubt bring before the house some measures which may or may not be approved. So far as I am concerned, I must say that the world is in such a state of turmoil that an oriental power could come in with

Claim Control of Highway to Sea and Assert That They Can Hold on to Capital Indefinitely

MADRID, Feb. 10: (CP)—An insurgent communique from forces outside Madrid today announced that a desperate attack by Madrid's Socialist defenders to reopen the supply to Valencia, which had been captured yesterday, was repulsed by the rebels. The communique declared that the Fascists held dominant positions on the newly won highway to the sea but heavily censored dispatches from the capital declared that Socialist troops were still in control of the vital supply road. Government commanders predicted that the defenders would be able to "hold the city indefinitely against the besiegers."

REPORT ON TAXES IS HOLDING LIMELIGHT IN SASKATCHEWAN TALK

Discussion Extensive as Legislature Prepares to Open Thursday—Jacoby Report Reviews Field Of Taxation

REGINA, Feb. 10: (CP)—The third session of the eighth legislature of Saskatchewan will open here Thursday with possibility of introduction of legislation based on the Jacoby taxation inquiry which issued its report last month. Premier Patterson, Saskatchewan-born head of the government, will lead his house membership of 50 Liberals. The opposition is composed of five Co-operative Commonwealth Federation members led by George Williams, M. L. A. for Wadena.

Bills expected to come before the session include one to exempt improvements under municipal housing schemes and debt adjustment.

The Jacoby commission report, which included suggestions for $5,000,000 in new taxes, is holding the centre of discussion in the province. Criticism from a score of sources has been made of the report and a government statement said it was not necessarily the basis or indication of legislation.

Headed by Neil Jacoby, formerly of Dundurn, Sask., and now of Chicago, the commission suggested a two percent sales tax and stiffening of the income tax on earnings over $300 for single persons and $600 for married persons. Numerous taxation changes were proposed. Changes in the income tax were not expected. At Saskatoon, Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, former premier, declared the commission efforts a waste of public funds. Before the province could reach a "pay as you go" stage, he said the public debt must be refunded at lower interest rates and that the federal government should cancel borrowings for relief purposes totalling $53,000,000. No commission was necessary to show how taxes could be raised, he declared.

Letter From Terrace

We have a very interesting letter from William Cole of Terrace in which he says he believes the C. C. F. is the only organization in Canada that sees the truth and is ready to die for it. We are not publishing the letter because we are not anxious to start a religious controversy. We believe in complete religious liberty for any and every sect and we do not object to one church becoming powerful or another weak. We refuse to be a party to starting any discussion which might cause bitterness and make life in a small community less pleasant than it is today. There is nothing to be gained by stirring up old antagonisms in a community that has always prided itself on its religious toleration. The C. C. F. is not a religious organization and is opposed to no church, as far as we have been able to gather. If it is, we should like to know it. Many people get spiritual comfort from practically every church and we see no reason why we should interfere with their happiness.

Unity of Purpose

As this is being written to the editorial desk comes a "call to prayer" in which people of all denominations are asked to unite in fellowship, particularly in asking guidance for the youth and the leaders of the people. This is the very reverse of the request for us to stir up one sect against another. We shall never all think alike on religious subjects. Some do not even believe in any religion. In Russia the state is trying to knock religion out of the people but without success. In Germany an effort was made to introduce a new form of religion with new interpretations of the Bible and force it on the people but they refused it. The Germans were determined to hold the right of people to worship in any way they might wish except in the Jewish way. That was a fatal weakness in the German churches. They were willing to be a party to an anti-Jewish campaign but soon found that religious interference could be just as easily turned against their own religions.

We hope that the local call to prayer will emphasize the right to every person to worship God as he sees fit, whether he be Protestant or Catholic, Buddhist or Mohammedan, as long as each of these sects minds its own business and does not interfere with others.

a rowboat manned by two men with one additional to handle a machine gun, and they could take the whole coast. I am surprised that an hon. member from a province such as Ontario, one supposed to uphold all British traditions, one of the pioneer districts, should question any expenditure in the part of the country about which I am speaking. We are trying to convey to the committee that we form part of the Dominion and that we hold a strategic position within it. I am surprised to hear any hon. member ask about our population about our traditions or our possibilities.

I remember an occasion two years ago when in opposition I tried to suggest that in my section of the country we have room for hundreds of thousands of families. Upon that occasion one hon. member on the government side of the house said, "Where are you going to put your houses? On the sides of hills?" I would ask the hon. member for Parkdale to visit that part of Canada and see for himself that we do not have to put our houses on the sides of hills.

Mr. Spence: I have been there. Mr. Hanson: There are four hundred miles east and west where one cannot see a mountain; there are seven hundred miles north and south where one cannot see a mountain.

Mr. Spence: Or anything else.

Better Take Trip

Mr. Hanson: Consequently it is not necessary to put houses on the sides of hills. I notice the former Minister of National Defence, the hon. member for Yale (Mr. Stirling) is looking at me; he knows something about the matter. Hon. members who insinuate that we have no space in that part of Canada had better take a trip to our country and find out for themselves. Then they would not come back to the floor of this chamber and say there is any lack of space. Like Mae West I would say "Come up and see me sometime."

So long as British Columbia is in the Dominion of Canada, and so long as we have opportunities and possibilities for development, and the place to put hundreds of thousands of people, I think our interests should be considered. When an hon. member such as the hon. member for Parkdale asks why the government is making such an expenditure, surely he cannot know what he is talking about. We are supposed to be operating under a British constitution and the principles of British fair-play.

Mr. Tolmie: I have much pleasure in supporting what the hon. member for Skeena (Mr. Hanson) has had to say with reference to the port of Prince Rupert and the tremendous area for which it is the Pacific outlet. In his section of the country are many attractions and resources. No person knows just how rich the resources are, because many miles of that section have not been scratched or prospected. I am quite sure the hon. member will agree with that statement, and even without Mae hundreds of thousands of people, hundreds of thousands of people I could not help rising in an attempt to support what the hon. member has said. He has told the truth about that section of Canada and no doubt he could have told much more had he had the time to do so.

Mrs. Black Too

Mrs. Black, Yukon: Might I be allowed to say just a word to the hon. member for Prince Rupert (Mr. Hanson). Ever since 1898 I have been going past his home town. When first I went into the north country the site on which Prince Rupert now stands was nothing but a barren, rock hillside, and today we have there a beautiful little town growing, and feeding an area that not only is a mineral section but contains the port for one of the largest fisheries in Canada. It also feeds what will be eventually an agricultural section, because if we have any faith in this country of ours we expect the west to grow.

KETCHIKAN WON AGAIN

Locals Give Good Account of Themselves Although Defeated 44 to 34

KETCHIKAN, Feb. 10.—Ketchikan scored a second victory over the visiting Prince Rupert Senior basketball team here last night by a score of 44 to 34.

Again it was a hard fought tussle all the way with Prince Rupert putting up stiff opposition.

The first quarter ended 6 to 5 for Ketchikan. At half time the locals were ahead 20 to 18. At three-quarters the count was tied 27 all. During the third period Prince Rupert had been ahead 21 to 20.

Herbie Morgan and Severino Dominato of Prince Rupert were benched for personals. Ernie Ratchford was unable to play, having broken his thumb in the first game.

Angus MacPhee, Jack Lindsay and Bobby Armstrong played a great passing game for the visitors. MacPhee was responsible for eighteen points. Lindsay did not score but was valuable in combination.

The Prince Rupert team is now in New Metlakatla for games to-night and tomorrow.

listener. Quietly he injects a pertinent word here or a question there, and the sum total of his interjections is a subtle guidance which impels his colleagues towards the decision he wants. The committee makes the decision, and is pleased with itself, but the man behind the gun is Stalin the Silent. He never hems and haws or corrects himself. He knows what he wants to say and says it briefly.

Is Businesslike

When Stalin receives callers he rarely interrupts a speaker as long as the guest is talking common sense. Russia's Big Boss is impatient of drivel, however, and being a blunt man, does not hesitate to all the fun when he finds his time being consumed needlessly. This does not mean that Stalin is unwilling to have his views challenged. He will debate a point at length, but only as long as his opponent shows knowledge of the subject. Let the questioner betray ignorance and Stalin's hard eyes will flash a signal of the caustic retort to come.

Stalin's private office is said to be the best-organized and run the most smoothly of any in the Kremlin. He has only one secretary working with him at a time. Actually he has three private secre-

aries, but they work in shifts of six hours each. It is not unusual for him to spend 18 hours at his desk.

Virtually everything important passes through Stalin's hands. He wants to know what is going forward. No one writes letters or statements for him to sign; the chief does all his own dictation. He himself never rushes about or waves his arms, nor does he permit anyone else to indulge in displays of temperament. He is methodical and deliberate both in speech and in action.

If he decides any individual's activities are menacing party policies, Stalin first tries to win the rebel over, but if this is impossible, well, suicide would be an easy way out of the difficulty. Stalin asks no quarter, gives none.

George Wall's Rink Winner

Led in Two Curling Contests On Smithers Ice

SMITHERS, Feb. 10.—George Wall holds the distinction of having skipped a rink to the top of the heap in both the ham and egg bonspiel and in the tournament for the Hanson Trophy which he won last week after a hard struggle with two other teams high had tied him for the honor.

In the final game with the J. P. Downey rink the two teams were tied several times throughout the game, but Wall finally got out in the lead and finished on the long end of a 9-6 score.

The Anthracite Coal Mine team, skippered by Tommy Campbell, challenged the Wall rink to a game for a crab dinner but skipper Wall had the misfortune to drop a heavy log on his foot which has incapacitated him for the time being and the game has had to be deferred.

Not content with being a good curler Mr. Wall is stepping out in the contest for King of the Ski Carnival and appears to be leading the field ahead of five other stalwart contenders for the honor of leading the Carnival Queen to the Throne on February 26.

Museum to Hold Dinner Meeting For First Time

At the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Museum Board held yesterday afternoon in the Museum with R. L. McIntosh presiding, it was decided to hold the first annual dinner meeting on the evening of February 23 and a committee consisting of Dr. Neal Carter, Dr. J. C. Mandy and the president was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

A lot of detail work in connection with the organization was dealt with and Dr. Carter told of a call he made during a recent visit to Ottawa on Dr. Murray at the National Gallery. Information gathered at this interview will help the local board in the expenditure of the money received at the end of the year from the Carnegie Fund to be used in forwarding the interests of the local organization.

Those present at the meeting were R. L. McIntosh, A. E. Parlov, Rev. Canon Rushbrook, Rev. W. E. Collison, H. F. Pullen and the custodian, N. L. Jones.

REPORT ON TAXES IS HOLDING LIMELIGHT

Association. John Evans, a former Progressive member of parliament for Saskatchewan and Rosetown, said "the futility of increasing the cost of living ought to be apparent." The sales and income taxes, he said, put the burden on people least able to pay.

Aldermen in towns and cities of the province discussed the tax proposals extensively. Mayor Ellison of Regina said the taxation proposals would cause great hardships for the cities. Relief recipients, Mayor Ellison contended, could not afford to pay the sales tax.

The government issued a statement after the report had been made public reviewing the whole situation. The commission, appointed to review the whole problem of taxation, had made its recommendations and the government statement pointed out that "any suggestions having to do with taxation are not very popular." If requests for increased expenditures by the government were to be met, then the only way to obtain the money was by taxation, it pointed out.

Timely Recipes

BUTTER CAKE

One third cup butter, 7/8 cup fine granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon flavoring, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 3/4 cups milk.

Cream butter. Add sugar gradually and cream together. Add well beaten eggs and flavoring. Beat well. Add alternately the milk and dry ingredients, adding baking powder with last amount of flour. Bake in a buttered loaf pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes, or in layer cake pans at 375 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

Butter Icing

Four tablespoons butter, 1 1/4 cups icing sugar, milk, cream or fruit juice, flavoring.

Cream butter. Add sugar gradually. Beat well. Add liquid drop by drop, until of desired consistency.

It had failed, the first successful co-operative had been established by Rochdale weavers in England. He attributed this success to the fact that its founders had been working for themselves instead of somebody else for them. Twenty-eight weavers with $5 each had started a store and out of this had grown strong co-operative societies which by 1864 had expanded to such an extent that they were able to branch out of the retail into the wholesale business. Gradually they had gone into manufacturing and then banking until today it was one of the biggest businesses in England. The co-operative bank of England was second only to the Bank of England in strength. When the city of Glasgow had needed money, the co-operative bank had been able to loan it first two and a half million dollars and later another two million dollars at low rates of interest. Ever since 1929 during the depression, the British co-operative had gone ahead by leaps and bounds, employing more people and paying higher wages when other businesses had had to curtail. It had also paid back to its members $600,000,000, money which, otherwise, would have gone to make the richer richer and the poorer, poorer.

Mr. Clarke then went on to discuss the organization of the co-operative movement in England. Each member paid one pound to join. Each member had one vote, regardless of the number of shares he might hold. Goods were sold at the prevailing market prices. There were no demoralizing bargains. At the end of each year, after expenses had been paid, five percent was paid members on each share and the balance of the proceeds were returned on the basis of purchases made. About forty-five percent of the householders of England, fifty-five percent in Scotland were members of the co-operative although it was not necessary for them to do all their buying from the co-operative.

In Sweden

In Sweden, the co-operative movement had made even greater advance than in Britain. It had been started shortly before 1900 and had been instrumental in breaking such trusts as margarine, flour, rubber goods and electric lamps. More than twenty percent of the wholesale and retail trades in Sweden were carried on by the co-operative, ten percent of the manufacturing and one-third of the householders were enrolled. Incidentally, Sweden also had what closely approached a socialist government owning some of the railroads, power and forests. Conditions for the people in Sweden, as a result of the co-operative and near-socialist government, were fairly good. Old age pensions were paid out of tobacco profits.

The Danish co-operative movement was also referred to as well as those in Norway and Finland. The co-operative of the Scandinavian countries had joined together for purchasing purposes with a buying house in Copenhagen. Some progress had also been made in United States in movements although not as marked as in these European countries. Nevertheless they were doing a large business and had proven beneficial. Many small communities were better off as a result of the co-operative. It had proven successful not only in purchasing necessities but in marketing of certain commodities. There was an opportunity for co-operation among the fishermen whom the speaker declared were now at the mercy of the financial interests.

Mr. Clarke also referred briefly to the credit union movement which had also grown in the United States and had many functions in the matter of providing credit for those who needed it. Boats for fishermen etc. could be financed in this way. Everything depended upon people getting together to help themselves.

Following the address there were a few questions in reply to which the speaker stressed the belief that socialism might be advanced by the co-operative movement. Roger Babson, high priest of capitalism, had declared that there was enough force in the co-operative movement to blow the capitalistic system wide open.

August Wallin presided over the meeting and a collection resulted in $2.90 being taken.

H. W. Butler, Government Telegraph operator at Alice Arm, arrived in the city on the Catala yesterday afternoon from the north for a brief visit. He will be returning north on the Prince George this afternoon.

C. N. R. steamer Prince Charles, Capt. George Coles, after making a voyage to Vancouver in place of the steamer Prince Rupert, which met with an accident last week and had to be taken out of service, is due in port late at 6:30 tonight from the south and will sail later for Anxox and Stewart. On her return here Thursday night or Friday morning from the north, the Prince Charles will go off the run in order to take up the Queen Charlotte Islands service in place of the Prince John with the sailing Friday night. The Prince John is due late tonight or early tomorrow morning from Vancouver via the Islands, having left Skidegate Inlet for Massett Inlet at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Prince George will take the regular sailing for Vancouver tomorrow night.

The motorship Eskimo arrived in port at 8 o'clock this morning from Ketchikan with one overload of frozen fish for trans-shipment east over Canadian National Railways.

Port Essington Ladies' Aid In Annual Meeting

PORT ESSINGTON, Feb. 10.—At a recent meeting of the Pierce Memorial United Church Ladies' Aid, the pastor, Rev. F. Bushfield, in the chair, the following officers were elected:
President, Mrs. F. Bushfield.
Vice-President, Mrs. John Brown.
Secretary, Mrs. Matthew Wesley.
Treasurer, Mrs. Lee Wing.
Organist, Miss C. L. Clark R.N.
Two very successful affairs held in the past year were the St. Patrick's tea in March and the anniversary sale and tea in December. To this organization goes the credit for the installation of the fine new bell which is much appreciated by all. The hymn board, offering plates and various cash gifts to the church board have also been donated by the Ladies' Aid.
The decorating of the church for all special occasions has been taken care of, the members making beautiful artificial flowers, etc. In this and many ways, it is filling a real need in the life of the church and community.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, rank and the world looks pink.
A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.
