POWER BILL MARKED LEGISLATIVE SESSION IN OLD QUEBEC PROVINCE

State Ownership and Control Provided For Among Measures Carried Through in Upper And Lower Chambers

QUEBEC, June 12: (CP)—Development and control of electric power and light resources of the province was the keynote of legislation brought down by the Union Nationale government of Premier Maurice Duplessis and adopted by Quebec's twentieth legislature at its second session. The three electricity laws provide for municipalization of electrical services, for a government body to control private electrical industries, and for establishment of a system of state ownership in competition with private interests.

All factions in the House favored the general aims of the new legislation to provide public ownership of electrical facilities. However, the Liberal and Nationalist opposition groups claimed the premier's bill for municipalization of electricity was not an aid to the cause of public ownership and placed too many restrictions on municipalities. The bill provided power for municipalities to expropriate private power systems. Liberals said the law duplicated powers already granted under laws of the old regime.

They offered similar criticism of the other two bills. One of these established the provincial electricity board with authority to regulate the private power industry, to examine company books and assets, and to cancel their power contracts if expedient. Liberals said the abolished electricity commission headed by J. A. Frigon had the same authority.

Form New Syndicate

Considered most important of the three bills was that establishing the National Electricity Syndicate, a body similar to Ontario's hydro electric commission, with power to set up a system of state ownership. A proposed production and distribution system in Temiskaming, Abitibi, Roberval and Lake St. John districts would be wholly owned by the government. Systems established elsewhere in the province will issue capital stock, of which the government will hold a controlling interest of 60 percent. Premier Duplessis declared the former Liberal government had failed to take any steps towards public ownership. His trio of laws, he said, removed government influence and all politics from the movement towards public ownership. Members of his commission could have no connection with private interests.

Other important measures in the 196 bills passed by the two Houses in the legislature and sanctioned by the lieutenant-governor included provision for an increase in funds for rural credit from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000. Pensions for the blind were provided. Among new labor laws was provision for collective labor agreements by stipulating that such agreements will affect all similar enterprises in the district. A joint committee of employers and employees will administer the agreement.

Two Houses Clash

The end of the session saw a brief struggle between the legislative assembly and the legislative council, the latter predominantly Liberal and the only surviving Upper House in Canada's provincial legislatures. The council balked at a bill to revise jurisdiction of the law courts and returned the measure to the Lower House with a number of modifying clauses. Prorogation was delayed for a week but the assembly accepted the (Continued on Page Two)

STATESMAN IS BURIED

All Canada Joins in Final Tribute To Memory of Sir Robert Borden

OTTAWA, June 12: (CP)—Streets of the capital were lined with thousands of people today as Canada united in final tribute to the memory of Sir Robert Laird Borden, wartime Premier of the Dominion, at his funeral today. It was a state funeral and among those attending officially were privy councillors, cabinet ministers, members of the judiciary, diplomatic and consular representatives, senators and members of Parliament. Former Premier Dr. J. D. McLean was the official representative of British Columbia at the request of Premier T. D. Pattullo.

The body was borne from the home of the late statesman on Wurtemberg Street to All Saints' Church and then, after the service, to Beechwood Cemetery. The Bourbon note of the carillon in the Parliament Buildings tolled farewell.

STRIKE IS SPREADING

Trouble in United States Steel Industry by No Means Over—Bethlehem Involved

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 12: (CP)—Governor Martin Davey has called principals in the widespread steel strike to his office for peace conferences but more trouble looms on the labor front following the calling of a strike at 11 o'clock last night by the steel workers' organizing committee in the huge Johnstown, Penn., Cambria mill of Bethlehem Steel to bolster the walk-out on the Bethlehem subsidiary railroad. At Washington Senator Bridges told the Senate Post Office committee that the assistant postmaster at Niles, Ohio, had refused to accept parcels for delivery to strikebound workers in the Republic Steel Co. plant because union pickets "will not allow it."

PERMISSION IS GRANTED

American and Canadian Governments to Permit Soviet Aviator to Pass

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 12: (CP)—The United States Department of State announced yesterday that it had granted a request for a Soviet aviator to fly over United States territory. From Ottawa came word that the Canadian government had granted similar permission.

This is taken to indicate that the Moscow government expects soon to try another flight from the Soviet capital of Moscow to San Francisco via the North Pole. Such a venture failed two years ago because of mechanical difficulties encountered by Pilot Sigismund Levanevsky.

No further information is given except the statement that the form-permit does not specify the date, starting point or destination. There have been suggestions of such a flight for several days.

Colthurst, Cumshewa, Queen Charlotte Islands, is the latest election poll in Prince Rupert riding to report its result following the general election voting a week ago last Tuesday. No poll was held at Hutton Island, it has been learned, the voters there being at Murchison Island so this leaves Murchison Island and Lockport the only two polls yet to be heard from. The totals to date for the four candidates are as follows: Pattullo, 1472. Weaver, 778. Eviitt, 650. Bowen-Colthurst, 13. Clear majority for Pattullo, 31.

Three Men Drowned As Workings At Extension Flooded

Nelson Shepherd, Joseph Shepherd and Joseph Carr Are Victims—Rescue Workers Save Others

NANAIMO, June 12: (CP)—Two Nanaimo coal miners lie in hospital here today apparently little the worse for a ten-hour entombment last night in the flooded Beban mine, a small working at Extension, seven miles south of here, in which three companions perished. Fifty weary rescuers had fought their way to Louis Pognello and John Senini through water which slowly receded as two machine pumps tossed out 12,000 gallons an hour from the mine. Late last night the men were brought out safely.

Mrs. Sutherland explained that she had merely repeated what was common talk. Following the apology, Simpson's counsel announced to the King's Bench Division that the action was consequently withdrawn. Mrs. Sutherland accepted court costs.

CONNECTION RETIRES

The bodies of Nelson Shepherd and his nephew, Joseph Shepherd, were recovered early this morning. A rising crosscut on which they sought refuge unsuccessfully was flooded and they were trapped and drowned.

Joseph Carr, a Slav, is still unreported and is believed to be buried under tons of water at the bottom of the vertical v-shaped workings.

The mine wall crumbled yesterday and let in a rush of stagnant water from adjoining slopes of the abandoned Extension mine.

Tony Senini, brother of one of the rescued men, and four others—Joe Wilson, mine manager; Alex Webster, Lorne Perry and Joe Foster, were on the outside of the slope and gained safety at the mine mouth when the flood broke. The accident occurred in the heart of the Vancouver Island coal mining district where eight major accidents have claimed 324 lives during the past fifty years. This particular property is operated by Frank Beban.

THE BRITISH MARKET

Great Britain buys more oats, hams, apples, canned lobsters, timber, copper, nickel, non-ferrous metals and leather at the present time from Canada than from any other country in the world, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. For the past three months Argentine has been selling the United Kingdom more wheat than Canada with ten million bushels as against eight and three-quarter millions from this country and four and a quarter millions from Australia. Practically all the oats imported by Britain come from Canada and this country also led in wheat meal and flour. Denmark came slightly ahead in the amount of bacon sent across to its neighbors but was not in the running so far as hams were concerned.

The Canadian apple crop that went to Britain amounted to 445,203,000 pounds which was more than half her imports, the remainder coming from United States.

It is rather surprising that Canada exported to United Kingdom five and a half million pounds of tobacco, the United States during the same period sending thirty-one million pounds.

Great Britain has been a very good market for most exportable products and Canada has evidently profited very considerably from the preference given to Empire countries.

OUR VISITORS

Members of the Vancouver Board of Trade party, here yesterday, were a thoroughly representative party and many Prince Rupert people enjoyed their visit. The next move to consider is whether it might be possible for the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce to charter a steamer and take one hundred local people to visit Vancouver in an official capacity. We are inclined to think we might stop the traffic on Granville Street for three-quarters of a second.

THE POST OFFICE

We are assured that the work on the post office building will commence with as little delay as possible. We appreciate that. We know Olof Hanson, M.P., has worked hard to get the money and now we are all anxious to see it spent. While none of us object to a little red tape, none of us like it too red or too much of it.

Former Judge Regretful Of Borden Death

Hon. W. A. Macdonald, former justice of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, who was in the city yesterday with the Vancouver Board of Trade excursion party, expressed deep regret over the death of Sir Robert Borden, former Prime Minister of Canada, of which he learned on reading the Daily News. The well known and popular retired judge and the former premier had been friends for many years.

"Sir Robert was never a politician," commented Mr. Justice Macdonald. "He thought in terms of the country's and not the party's good. That was evident throughout his long and splendid career."

VISITORS AT ROTARY

Address Delivered by One of Vancouver Visitors and Community Singing Led by Another

One of the largest and liveliest Rotary meetings to be held in the city took place in the Commodore Cafe yesterday afternoon when a number of visiting members of the Vancouver Club and one from Kelowna as well as a number of local visitors sat in at the luncheon and took part in the proceedings. C. V. Evelt presiding. The high light of the occasion was a serious address on Rotary aims and objects by S. S. McKeen of Vancouver. R. J. Kenmuir of Vancouver led the community singing and did it well. Dr. A. K. Haywood played an impromptu mouth organ solo. Visitors present included C. C. Mills, Mayne D. Hamilton, Captain J. R. Elfert, R. G. Gruff, Dr. R. G. Large, Harry Birch, James Steen, W. H. Tobey, Leonard Manley and Mayor George Miller of Vancouver.

Visiting Rotarians included Frank Burde, Norman Cull, Norman de Graves, E. C. Hammond, Dr. A. K. Haywood, E. G. Donegan, E. F. Halliwell, R. G. Kenmuir, S. S. McKeen, W. T. Moodie and W. I. Cromie of Vancouver and W. R. French of Kelowna.

In his address Mr. McKeen stressed the value of the quiet work done by members of the Rotary Club as distinct from the more spectacular activities. The old idea in business was to make all the profit possible and then when a man retired he might devote his declining days to public service activities. The Rotary ideal was that a man, while in business, should be all the time working for the public welfare. He mentioned the excellent work done by the Vancouver Rotary Club in connection with the I. O. O. E. through the prevention which made life worth while to a great many children and at the same time made those who provided the facilities happier. It was the duty of every Rotarian to take part in the activities of the club but also it was found that the members of the clubs were connected with all worthwhile activities. The aim was not so much to make a good name for the organization as to do quiet work in an unobtrusive way, individually and collectively.

DINNER ON SHIPBOARD

Vancouver Visitors Return Hospitality Extended by Prince Rupert

Mutual Aims

Prosperity and Development Interlocked — Commissioner Speaks of Prince Rupert

President Walter Carson of the Vancouver Board of Trade presided over a happy dinner party last evening when members of the council of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and many civic and other officials were guests of the Vancouver excursionists aboard the steamer Prince George following a reception for the visitors at the Prince Rupert Club. As several of the Vancouver men remarked, it was the first time since they left Vancouver that the party had really mixed together, forgetting for the time that they were leading business and professional men and becoming human. For the local people who were present, it was a rare opportunity to meet many of the visitors at a time when they were more or less off guard.

Following the dinner, there were several short speeches by the president of the Board, Mayor George Miller of Vancouver, T. S. Dixon, former president of the Board, and Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald, on behalf of the visitors, and by City Commissioner W. J. Alder, J. J. Little, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Lieut. Col. W. J. Nicholls for Prince Rupert.

President Carson of the Vancouver Board welcomed the guests from Prince Rupert and expressed thanks for the wonderful entertainment they had received in the city, particularly mentioning Paul Armour who had taken them on the Algie for a trip on the harbor.

Mayor Miller of Vancouver explained that this was a good will trip and they had come to meet their friends and to make friends. He expressed the general sentiment of the party when he said they realized that Vancouver could not become the great city they hoped it to be unless it was the centre of a great province. Some people believed Vancouver thrived because of the excellent harbor, the huge trade and commerce and industries. As a matter of fact it could not exist without a large hinterland. For that reason they were behind any developments that may be going on in any part of the country.

Wishes Rupert Well
T. S. Dixon said one of the aims of the trip was to educate Vancouver people on what other parts of the province meant to them. Vancouver drew from every part of the province and now they were out to see what they could do for the outlying parts of the province. He sincerely hoped and trusted that Prince Rupert would take her share in the period of prosperity which he saw coming. He hoped to be spared to return some other time to partake of the hospitality of this city.

City Commissioner Alder mentioned that Prince Rupert seldom saw these Vancouver visitors whereas Prince Rupert people often found their way to Vancouver. When the work done by the Vancouver people in building such a splendid city was contemplated, there was justifiable pride, Prince Rupert too had the foundations laid for a big city. The surrounding country was the richest in natural resources of any port in the world. There was twenty-five billion feet of merchantable timber at its doors, uncountable millions of feet of pulp timber, rich mines in the district and one of the most valuable fisheries in the world, halibut and salmon. Thus Prince Rupert had three of the most valuable natural resources at hand. Most of the money from these found its way to Vancouver and he wished there was more of it because the same money which enriched one enriched the other.

Peace River Railway
Commissioner Alder then spoke of the ambitions of the people of the Peace River to extend their railway westward to a point on the Canadian National Railway and to Prince Rupert. While this would primarily benefit the Peace River country it would also benefit Prince Rupert. The local Chamber of Commerce was pledged to use its best endeavor to bring about this development and he asked the Vancouver visitors to join them in this attempt to develop the rest of the province. The provincial Premier had in mind the addition of the Yukon Territory to British Columbia. It was a huge empire and they could not act the part of dogs in the manger. It must be developed by the utilization of its resources and the settlement of its lands. Only by co-operation in these endeavors could a really prosperous province be made.

J. J. Little also referred to the value of the port of Prince Rupert and to the whole province, including Vancouver, of the Peace River western outlet through Prince Rupert. He urged the visitors to give serious consideration to this matter and to aid Prince Rupert and the Peace River people in bringing it about.

Lieut. Col Nicholls said it had been estimated that eighty percent of the goods produced in Prince Rupert district found their way to Vancouver which was the entrepot for the province. Prince Rupert was concerned in the development of primary products while Vancouver's were secondary. He believed the Prince Rupert district was on the threshold of important developments and he asked for the close co-operation of Vancouver. He spoke of this "company of merchant adventurers trading in Northern British Columbia" and asked them to share in the prosperity which was going to take place in the north.

Ovation to Former Judge
Hon. W. A. Macdonald made a humorous speech in which he told a number of interesting stories and was greeted at the close by tremendous applause and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." One interesting remark in his address was that 95 percent of the things people worry about never happen. The judge, who was 77 years of age recently, urged that people enjoy themselves before they became too old. That was why he was now enjoying himself while he was young and hearty.

Burning brush caused a fire alarm to be turned in from Ninth Avenue West at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. No damage was done.

VANCOUVER IS FRIENDLY

Importance of Co-operation of Metropolis With Rest of Province Realized by Mayor

The importance of co-operation between the city of Vancouver and other communities of the province was stressed by Mayor George C. Miller of Vancouver in an interview yesterday. The chief magistrate of Vancouver, who was here with the Vancouver Board of Trade excursion party, expressed the opinion that the more far-sighted citizens of Vancouver were of the opinion that the prosperity and progress of their city would be more soundly built upon a policy of mutual co-operation, and assistance rather than in the spirit of Vancouver draining all the business out of the whole province. Any spirit of selfishness which might have existed in Vancouver was gradually disappearing, he thought, and the feeling was now generally accepted that a prosperous Vancouver depended upon a prosperous province. This was an attitude which he endeavored to keep to the fore in civic affairs.

"People in new towns like Prince Rupert are at times liable to lose heart," said Mayor Miller, "I can remember when it was the same in Vancouver which city has been my home since I was eight years old. I recall when our city was little larger than yours and when things at times seemed hopeless but we came through and now have a great city."
This was Mayor Miller's first visit to Prince Rupert. He expressed himself as being favorably impressed with the city. During the day he was an interested caller at the City Hall.

Frank Blachford noted Canadian violinist, after spending a couple of days here in his capacity as examiner for the Toronto Conservatory of Music, sailed Thursday night by the Prince Rupert for Vancouver whence he will return to Toronto.
