CLIMAX TO CORONATION

Theatre and Dinner Party Last Night for Those Who Helped To Put Celebration Over

Success Crowned

Presentation to General Committee Secretary One of Features

A fitting and enjoyable culmination to the recent Coronation Day celebration in Prince Ruperi took place last evening when the general committee tendered theatre-supper party to the various committee workers and others who had contributed to the success of the undertaking. There were about fifly guests in al! The theatre party, at which the feature "Banjo on My Knee" proved most acceptable entertainment, was made possible through the courtesy of Manager D. G. Borland. After the show all repaired to the Boston Cafe where! an excellent supper was served after which a number of those present made speeches appropri ate to the occasion.

After the toast to the King hac been duly honored with the singing of the National Anthem, W M. Brown, chairman of the general celebration committee, duly opened the proceedings. Mr Brown referred to the harmony and general effectiveness of the work of the committees, more especially the members of the sub-committees. There had been an admirable spirit of co-operation and the good results of this work had been apparent.

City Commissioner W. J. Alder felt that the success of the celespiration. Great credit was due BOY HURT the committees for the way in which it had been organized. ## Bernice Palmer says . . .

Isn't it funny, no matter how much or how far each generation progresses or what new discoveries are made, children still continue to do the same things in the same old way? Every little thing is new to them and is something to be examined and lexplored. Watching two children playing in the back yard making mud pies, this was brought home to me so keenly. I used to make mud pies and spent many hours digging and digging, trying to reach China, just as these babies were doing. In spite of all we do nature seems to continue as of jold. We make new discoveries but we haven't done so much to change nature's plans after all I think the only differnce is that some of us cease to believe in fairies sooner than others. It is itoo bad we can't continue to meet life with the same keen enjoyment of childhood, that we let age take the edge off the world of miracles around us. It isn't nature that changes, it is us. Or perhaps we "can't take it" we become surfeited with the myriad of things around us and let the little things

By attempting to prevent gypsies from camping on the famous Epsom Downs during race meet ings, especially in Derby Week the authorities have set themselves a big task. These wander ing Romanys, who have been feature of the race meetings for years, look on the camp sites as an inalienable right. New by laws approved by the ministry of health say definitely gypsies shall not camp on the Downs.

Conservators are taking no chance of caravans being planted surreptitiously. They will have the Downs patrolled day and night before the race meetings and have raised a fund of $2,500 for the purpose. Authorities say that the gypsies have been despoiling plantations around the Downs, rooting up young trees, pilfering shoots to make baskets digging up plants and bulbs.

It is suggested in some quarters that a field be set apart for gypsies where effective police control could be introduced. This, it is thought, would give the nomads a base from which to work their trades, including fortune telling at race meetings, and a settlement their work.
