HIS DEATH IS MYSTERY

Rescue Workers Unable to Understand Why One of Extension Victims Did Not Escape

NANAIMO, June 15: (CP)—Rescue workers, who took out the body of young Joseph Carr from the workings of the flooded Beban mine at Extension yesterday, endeavored to discover why Carr went back into the mine after evidently having had an opportunity to escape. Discovery of tools led the rescue workers to theorize that Carr finished work at the pit bottom, started out and then, for some reason, laid his implements down and returned to the deep end of the slope where the water caught him.

FIRES IN INTERIOR

Rain at Week-End Gave Promise Of Relieving Situation, Olof Hanson Reports

Rains had started to fall at the end of last week and there appeared prospect at that time of some relief in the forest fire situation which had already done considerable damage to timber stands and was threatening other areas in the Hazelton district, it was reported by Olof Hanson M. P. who arrived from the interior on Saturday night's train and is returning to Smithers this evening. In the Kispiox district there was fire in considerable crown granted timber areas as well as in one of his own, Mr. Hanson said. There was also a large fire in the vicinity of Nash where the Hanson Timber & Lumber Co. assemblies timber floating down from the upper Skeena. Weather has been very hot and dry in the interior for the past two or three weeks, making a rather high fire hazard.

The motion had passed 23 to 20 against the vote of every cabinet minister. Earlier the government's budget was passed removing the immediate cause of an insurgent threat which almost wrecked the Aberhart government in April.

BILBAO NEAR FALL

Complete Capture of Basque Capital by Insurgents Now Appears Imminent

WITH THE INSURGENTS OUTSIDE BILBAO, June 15: (CP)—Advancing insurgents began raking the streets of Bilbao yesterday with rifle fire from scattered houses in the outskirts which they had occupied. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops had cracked through the Basque defences and carried their red and yellow flag to the city's edge. The morale of the Basques was, apparently, breaking and their capital was seemingly given up for lost although the government of President Aquirre denied reports that some of its members had fled to Santander. No surrender was contemplated, Basque officials said. Basque militiamen hurriedly threw up street barricades today for a last stand defence against the insurgents who continued to fight their way into Bilbao. Insurgent bullets were still falling in the streets. The defenders are facing the onslaught calmly.

British Consul Leaves

A landing party of British sailors today rescued British Consul R. C. Stevenson from Bilbao under a hail of insurgent fire. Stevenson's staff and other British nationals were evacuated a long time ago.

OUT OF POLITICS

Rev. Robert Connell has given up politics and retires to his garden, his philosophy and his scientific studies. He was always too good a man to lead a political party with its boisterous turmoil. He has a scientific mind and not a political mind. Yet many people will deeply regret his leaving his seat in the Legislature. We believe his attempt to lead a party of reform was a thoroughly sincere one and all parties in the newly constituted Legislature will miss his genial personality.

DESIRABLE PUBLICITY

Prince Rupert is getting some desirable publicity in Vancouver from the recent visit of the members of the Board of Trade from that city. The newspapers sent along their publicity men and as a result the Vancouver people are able to read the impressions of these observers in their home papers.

DISGRACE TO THE WORLD

Every country in the world, including Canada, must feel the disgrace of allowing and in some cases encouraging the civil war in Spain in which women and children have been the innocent victims of the political prejudices and ambitions of several groups.

We have little sympathy with the Spanish people in their political methods and policies but they have a right to the kind of government they want. We have less sympathy with those who would interfere and try to set up a military autocracy in the country.

What we think is wrong is the backing of one side or the other by outside nations. There is no doubt that France and Russia have been supporting to a certain extent the government party in Spain but it must be remembered that they were supporting the lawful government of the country as against the rebels who were supported by Portugal, Italy and Germany.

If four countries together can now prevent troops being sent from outside it will be a step toward mitigating the horrors of the civil strife.

CELEBRATE ON JULY 1

Plans Further Advanced For July 1 at Meeting Last Night

Further arrangements for a full program of sports in connection with the annual Dominion Day celebration here on July 1 were made at a joint meeting last night of the Prince Rupert Football Association and the Prince Rupert Boys' Band Association. All the usual celebration features will be embodied in the program.

Jack Preece will be general chairman of the celebration committee with G. J. Dawes as secretary. Frank Derry is named chairman of the finance committee, G. W. Johnstone the sports committee and G. J. Dawes, dance committee. At the opening of last night's meeting, a two-minute silence was observed in honor of the memory of the late S. D. Macdonald, Casey Vink presiding during the early part of the meeting.

Well Played, Sid

I doubt very much if Sid Macdonald would appreciate any tribute more sincerely than that all sportsmen in Prince Rupert and district would wish to give him and their tribute is, "Well played, Sid."

It has been the very much esteemed privilege of the writer of this to have known Sid for the last twelve years. I made his acquaintance first in the realm of sport. Since then I have played billiards with him, cards with him, attended basketball matches with him and discussed football with him. Many an hour we spent in comparing notes of the games we played in the past, his cricket in Scotland, his football in Kamloops and the south. More recently his enthusiasm for bowls was equalled by his skill in the same game. In every game, he played with a rare zest, a high degree of skill and a sporting spirit unexcelled anywhere.

The Junior Footballers recognize their debt to him. And I believe that, keen as was his interest in the games he took part in himself recently, he was even more wrapped up in the prospect of what part the youth of the city would play in the future. They were always assured of his interest and his wholesome guidance. Beginners in all other games owe much to him that probably they do not know he was responsible for. His soul goes marching on!

It has been a rare privilege to have known him, and to have known that he appreciated our comradeship. What a happy record to have left! We salute a real sportsman!

Legion Has Soccer Meet

Organization For Season is Completed—General Discussion Of Sport

At a special meeting of the Canadian Legion Football club last evening the organization of the club was completed. Alex Harvey was appointed manager and Jock McGreish trainer. Henry Dickens is captain.

Questions affecting football generally were discussed and the club is making a genuine effort to assist the sport. The vexed problem of referees was considered and, in addition to Alex Harvey who has already refereed games this year, Fred Hardy, Malcolm Lamb and Karl Glazie offered to serve when needed. The club will also try to have games fully reported, realizing the value of newspaper publicity and also the willingness of the local papers to co-operate in this respect. Respect was paid to the memory of Sid Macdonald in a silent tribute.

M. M. Lamb and Jack Judge, members of the club football committee, and George Dawes spoke. J. S. Wilson presided.

The team to represent the Legion against the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve this evening was selected as follows: Spiro Gurvich; W. Murray, G. Blake; Baptie, Sonny Dickens, Greer; R. Franks, R. Cameron, G. Howe, H. Dickens, A. Hardy; spares Sid Dickens, Alan Smith and K. Glazie.

TIGHT BALL RACE IS ON

Two Teams Vying For National Leadership White Four Near Top in American

NEW YORK, June 15.—With two teams travelling to new series stands, there were no games scheduled in the Big Leagues yesterday but play is being resumed today. A hard campaign is being waged both in National and American Leagues for supremacy and every game counts now.

Only half a game separates the leading New York Giants from the second place Chicago Cubs in the National League. The Giants open at Pittsburgh today against the Pirates while the Cubs start a series at Wrigley Field against the Boston Bees. The St. Louis Cardinals, who have jumped into third place ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates as a result of week-end play, have the Philadelphia Phillies as their opponents at Sportsmen's Park and quite possibly may move further upwards as a result of the series. The Brooklyn Dodgers, who have advanced to the leadership of the second division, open against the lowly Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati today.

An even more interesting situation exists in the American League where only a game and a half separates the first place New York Yankees from the fourth place Cleveland Indians. The series between the Yanks and Indians, starting at the Yankee Stadium today, may well prove a crucial one. The Chicago White Sox, who are but half a game behind the league leaders, are now playing the erratic Boston Red Sox at Boston while the third place Detroit Tigers take on the no less steady Washington Senators at the National Capital. The tail-ender Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Browns are opening a bill at Philadelphia.

DEAN GIBSON WAS SPEAKER

Addressed Local British Israel Society Last Evening

Very Rev. Dean J. B. Gibson was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the local British-Israel Association held in Toc H rooms last evening. The speaker emphasized the need for systematic study of the Bible and outlined different methods of approach. Taking prophecies from Daniel and Revelations, he showed how they paralleled each other in many respects and clearly defined the trend of the nations through the ages and the condition of the church from Apostolic days to the present time. The speaker pointed out that the lukewarmness and spiritual lethargy so evident today was one of the conditions that would exist before the second coming of our Lord. The challenge to the church was to be constant and faithful and refuse to be submerged by materialism.

Bernice Palmer says . . .

Mr. and Mrs. James McNulty left California recently for England. Mr. and Mrs. Bazett-Jones, who were visiting their son Sidney, in Hollywood, were on hand to see them off at the boat. Sid writes they also saw Harvey Peck (remember the "shoe pecks") who is now operating the Astor Hotel. Mrs. Peck is still playing extra parts in the movies so be sure and keep an eye out for her. It looks as though Prince Rupert folks turn up in all the professions. Sid, you will remember, is now with Columbia Pictures, who have such stars as Gary Cooper, Jean Arthur, Irene Dunne and Grace Moore. "Lost Horizon," Columbia's most ambitious effort to date, will be released through the smaller theatres when it has completed its year of exclusive road showing. This picture played to capacity audiences in San Francisco recently—and is worth waiting for.

And for those of you who, like myself, are ardent William Powell-Myrna Loy fans, here is news. M-G-M plans featuring the two stars in another "Thin Man" opus, this time, "More About the Thin Man" and two other favorite screen celebrities will also appear in the production—you guessed it—Astra and Mrs. Astra. I told you these are the Dog Days.

Had Great Trip To Ocean Falls

Prince Rupert Operatic Society Played to Two Full Houses—Generous Hospitality

Members of the Prince Rupert Operatic Society, returning home yesterday from Ocean Falls where they gave two presentations of the musical comedy "H. M. S. Pinafore," reported having a highly successful and enjoyable trip. Both shows drew packed audiences and appreciation seemed to be general.

The local party, numbering some thirty-five, found the people of the paper town very generous hosts and there was plenty of hospitality and entertainment which made the visit all too short.

Leaving here last Friday night on the Princess Adelaide, the party got home yesterday morning on the Princess Charlotte.

For being an inmate of a disorderly house, Mabel Johnson was fined $50, with option of thirty days' imprisonment, by Magistrate McLymont in city police court yesterday afternoon. The fine was paid.

TOLD ABOUT DOUKHOBOR

Unusual Address Heard by Alberni Women's Canadian Club

Describes Coloring

Three Distinct Groups — Background and Customs Described

PORT ALBERNI, June 15.—With a greeting quite unintelligible to all her listeners, Mrs. G. H. Renwick of this city opened a talk on "Life Among the Doukhobors," to the Alberni District Women's Canadian Club here. After her strange greeting which is the usual salutation between Doukhobors on meeting friends or entering a home, the speaker went on to say that there are three distinct groups of these people, but those about which she was going to speak were the Community Doukhobors. Of the fanatic she knew little as she had rarely seen them but they were wild and shaggy looking with long hair and beards. They have no horses and no machinery, and possess a childlike simplicity together with a low cunning which is often found in these circumstances. It was persecution in Russia which caused this fanaticism.

Tolstoy Responsible
The name Doukhobor means spirit wrestler, and Tolstoy was responsible for their migration to Canada, and they took up citizenship here on condition that they should have no military duty, no registration of births and deaths, and no schools.

Both men and women are finely built and the women are not the fat and dumpy creatures that we imagine from their frequent pictures. Their teeth and complexion are very good, but it is the type of dress that is worn which gives the plump appearance, as it consists of several pleated petticoats, and a narrow band of very heavily pleated cloth round the waist which buffs out the skirts more than ever. On their heads they wear a "plateke," (the spelling is phonetic and your correspondent's) of white or colored cloth. The men dress much the same as Canadians except on Sunday when their garments follow the fashion of the Russian peasant.

Each Has Own Industry
Brilliant is one of the community centres, and here they have a jam factory where they make the most delicious strawberry jam. This is sold east of the Rockies, chiefly to the C. P. R. in individual small jars. Nothing but pure sugar and fruit go into this jam. All these communities have some special industry; one will have a lumber mill, another a brick plant, and so on. They grow flax and make their own linen, and the women do the most beautiful hand-drawn work. This is not sold and is not even supposed to be given away, presumably so that the younger generation will not become dissatisfied.

Rheumatism Spread To All Her Joints

Obtained Relief by Using Kruschen Salts

Here is a sad story of suffering, but it has a happy ending. This woman was attacked by severe rheumatism which spread to all her joints. But Kruschen brought relief as she describes below:—

"I feel it my duty to tell you how Kruschen Salts brought me relief from a severe attack of rheumatism. I had rheumatism in my legs and knees, later spreading to every joint in my body. This lasted over a period of 13 weeks. I was then ordered to bed with acute rheumatism. I was recommended to try Kruschen and before finishing the second bottle I was able to perform my normal duties."—(Mrs.) I. D.

Rheumatic conditions are frequently due to an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients in these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved uric acid through the natural channels.

with the simple life by having too much money.

The manner of arranging the buildings in these centres is rather peculiar. Two large square houses are set down side by side; these contain a sort of large living room and large kitchen, and upstairs are bedrooms. Incidentally they are not at all crowded in their sleeping quarters. Two sisters might occupy one room, but if there is only one girl she will have a room to herself. Behind these two buildings is a long narrow building in which live the older people and children; this, in order that the workers shall not be disturbed in their rest by the children. Behind this again is the community bath house. Community bathing by the way is not mingling of the sexes, and each sex has its own time for this purpose. The bath is after the Turkish style, steam being generated by the primitive method of stones and water. In the kitchen is an ordinary large stove, but the oven is built beside it of stone which is heated by fire inside, and then swept out and the large whole wheat loaves, or black bread, being placed in this heated cavity. This of course is the oldest type of oven found in all primitive places. Being strictly vegetarian, they use large quantities of linseed oil in cooking, and a sort of soup called borsch is their chief dish. Their meals are lengthy affairs, being prolonged by much singing between courses. Their vegetarian rules caused some amusing situations sometimes, as the teachers were expected to be likewise, so that if they were to have any meat meals it had to be smuggled in and cooked surreptitiously, all sorts of devices being resorted to in order that the inhabitants should not suspect.

Not Many Children

There are no animals, no noise, no cars, no priests, no musical instruments and surprisingly enough not many children in most of these communities. Two children are most common, sometimes three or four, and a family who had five children was considered quite unusual.

Kindness is a supreme virtue; it is their religion. During the whole of the speaker's residence among them she only saw children spanked twice. This may now be altered, she remarked. Times have changed.

In Fear of His Life

Peter Veregin the elder was an outstanding figure among them. Tall and kingly in appearance, he ruled with an iron hand and yet was a father too. He flogged them but he fought for them, and daily went in fear of his life. In illustration of this, Mrs. Renwick mentioned an incident that occurred when she offered him some flowers to smell. He sprang back to the other end of the room, while she stood practically petrified with astonishment. He explained later that assassinations had frequently taken place with a pistol hidden in flowers.

He lost his life a year later. If Veregin had taken his followers to an island somewhere well away from modern civilization, where the climate was equable, with his ideas and their religion they might well have had a Utopia. They live self-contained lives, well able to get on without much outside assistance, but the civilization of today has touched them and is doing infinitely more harm than good.

degree to allow for the near normal operation of trains. It was for his leading roll in this gigantic task of reconstruction that Vermont's leading educational institution conferred an honorary degree of doctor of mechanical engineering on Mr. Hungerford.

Six honorary degrees were conferred yesterday by the University of Vermont. Those who received degrees in addition to the distinguished Canadian transport executive, were:

Doctors of Divinity
George Fletcher Beecher, pastor of the first Calvary Baptist Church of Lawrence, Mass., one of the most scholarly and popular clergymen in the Bay State.

Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving, rector of Trinity Church in Boston, who reached the baccalaureate sermon here Sunday. Dr. Kinsolving was a Rhodes scholar from Virginia Christ Church, Oxford University, 1920-23. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Kappa Epsilon.

Doctors of Law
George Percival Auld of New York, author of the Dawes plan and accountant-general of the inter-Allied reparations commission from 1920 to 1924 and an officer of the French Legion of Honor.

George W. Alger of New York, a distinguished attorney and author of legal and economic works as well as a member of the New York state commission which drafted the present state parole law. Mr. Alger was commencement orator.

George David Aiken, governor of Vermont, and one of the leading agriculturists of the state. Among the Canadian National system officials who accompanied Mr. Hungerford to Burlington Monday were D. C. Grant, vice-president in charge of finance; Edmund Deschenes, vice-president in charge of Central Vermont lines; R. H. M. Temple K.C., general counsel and E. P. Mallory, executive assistant to the president.

PROSPECTORS

(by Anna May Ullman)

A long-faced prospector came upon the picturesque town of Barkerville, nestled in the mountains, and declared, "The first thing you see is the cemetery then the hospital, and the next is Barkerville itself, shaped like a coffin."

For years countless gold-seekers—old timers, chechakos, Orientals—have roamed through those mountains and up the creeks.

Some hide themselves in little isolated cabins, seldom coming out, except for necessary supplies. Some camp near the main road.

Their life history? Well, it seems that the old timers must have been prospecting all of their lives.

One who comes from California tells of a terrifying experience in Death Valley. He lay down to sleep for the night on the desert. Something slithered along in the darkness and curled up on his stomach. A rattlesnake! Unmoving, he lived an eternity in the hours that he waited for the snake to crawl away.

Up the pass lives a Swede who used to be a sailor. His ship was torpedoed during the war and he drifted for many days in an open boat before he was picked up.

From Southern California comes K. K. Langford, the mining man, with strange tales of prospectors on the desert—grizzled, tight-lipped, typical "desert rats" of fiction fame.

They roam through the mountain fastness through almost inaccessible canyons and along old creek beds, across the Mojave desert where the jack-rabbit hides in the meagre shadow of prickly cactus and little scaly lizards scuttle out of the traveller's way. Where water holes are few and far between you'll find bleached bones of cattle—and sometimes a human.

You'll find them in the treeless hills of Southern Arizona, in the blazing sun, perhaps riding little Mexican burros, with a second burro to carry their freight, pick, shovel and gold pan on top.

Heavy Halibut Landings at Seattle —Local Pleasure Boat Changes Hands—Evelyn Berg in From Ketchikan.

Twelve halibut vessels sold catches totalling 306,500 pounds at Seattle yesterday as follows: Paragon, 39,000 pounds, New England, 9c and 8c; Wizard, 36,000, Washington, 8½c straight; Kodiak, 39,500, Booth, 9c and 8c; Omaney, 35,000, Whiz, 8½c and 8c; Eclipse, 37,000, San Juan, 8½c and 8c; Foremost, 39,000, Sebastian, 9½c and 8c; La Paloma, 22,500, Booth, 3½c and 8c; Maddock, 12,500, McCallum, 8½c and 8c; Huskie L., 10,000, McCallum, 8½c and 8c; Superior, 12,000, Chase, 9c and 8c; Freya, 18,000, Drexel, 9c and 8c; Merit, 6,000, San Juan, 11½c and 8c.

Endeavors are being made to contact the halibut schooner Thor, which left Seattle on Saturday for Sitka enroute to the halibut grounds, to warn the vessel to call in Ketchikan so that John Larsen, one of the members of the crew, may make a formal report to immigration authorities, having failed to do so on arriving at Seattle last week aboard the boat Mermaid. The Mermaid had called at a Canadian port prior to going into Seattle and, evidently, Larsen failed to make the customary declaration. He is liable to a fine of $1000 and the only way this can be avoided, it is said, is for him to make the report at Ketchikan.

Having completed the discharging of a cargo of fuel oil at the company's local tanks, the Imperial Oil Co.'s big tanker Albertolite, Capt. A. Mosher, sailed at 9 o'clock last night for San Pedro, California. Capt. Larry Thomson, who came north as pilot on the Albertolite for its trip up the coast, sails this afternoon by the Catala on his return to Vancouver.

Another well known local pleasure boat has changed hands with the purchase by Dr. C. H. Hankinson of the Gael from Johnny Pierce. The Gael is a thirty-foot raised deck model equipped with a 40 h.p. Boeing Aircraft engine. The vessel was originally owned by C. O. Rowe when it was named Mipal.

Frank Waterhouse freighter Northholm, Capt. A. W. Ogden, arrived in port last night and was discharging local cargo this morning.

The Alaska freighter Evelyn Berg, Capt. Eldred Hansen, arrived in port at 11 o'clock yesterday.
