Overland Party From Evanston, Wyoming, Finds Nineteen Plane Occupants Dead

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 19: (CP)—A ground searching party reached the crumpled air liner "Mainliner" high in Uinta Mountains today and found all nineteen occupants of the plane—eleven passengers and three members of the crew—dead. After word of the tragedy, involving the greatest number of persons ever killed in a United States air line crash, United Air Lines assembled ground workers to bring out the bodies. There will be a searching investigation.

EVANSTON, Wyoming, Oct. 19: (CP)—A search party was making its way overland from here to Chalk Mountain, twelve miles southwest of Evanston, where an air liner has been wrecked with nineteen persons on board, the bodies of all perished. The plane cracked up on the side of Chalk Mountain at an altitude of ten thousand feet. Pilots who located the craft could not fly low enough to see whether or not any one was alive so the land party went out.

It will be an arduous journey for the overland party as sheer cliffs, mud and soft deep snow are among the difficulties that have to be contended with. There is also danger of blizzards and rockslides.

Sentenced For Theft

Sheffield and Courvoisier Get Five Years Each for Robbery With Violence in Fur Case

Provincial police headquarters here were advised late yesterday afternoon that Bert Ralph Sheffield and Henry Courvoisier had been each sentenced to five years imprisonment by Judge H. E. A. Robertson at Pouce Coupe for robbery with violence in connection with the theft of some $32,000 of furs from the Hudson Bay Co. at Fort Nelson in the Peace River country on July 12, 1936.

The two men, both trappers, who had been arrested in Alberta a few weeks ago when they tried to cross the border into Montana, pleaded guilty to the charges after having elected for speedy trial.

Courvoisier and Sheffield were arrested a year ago but were allowed a stay of proceedings in the case at the May assizes in Prince George. They returned north in July of this year. Shortly after they were known to be in the Fort Nelson district the furs were found on the banks of the Nelson River three miles below the fort from which they were stolen. All evidence around the fur cache suggested Courvoisier and Sheffield and the police, under Sergt. Gammon, made an intensive hunt for them in that territory but somehow they slipped through the police cordon and got to the U.S. border at Sweet Grass, Montana.

The furs involved in the robbery consisted of 633 beaver pelts, 72 ermine, 12 fisher, 23 silver fox, 133 cross fox, 303 red fox, 306 marten, 404 lynx, 152 mink, 46 muskrat, one otter, five wolves, 51 coyotes, two wolverines and they were practically all recovered in the fur cache found two months ago although some of them had been damaged by an evident attempt to set fire to them.

Stock Mart Crashes And Recovering

NEW YORK, Oct. 19: (CP) — The New York stock market cracked wide open again yesterday in the worst crash in four years. Industrial issues dropped as much as $10 a share and bonds and staples followed the general downward trend. Selling was heavy. Canadian markets also dropped, many Montreal issues being off as much as six points. In spite of an announcement of increase in the price of newsprint, pulp and paper issues also declined. A sell-off this morning, after yesterday's break, totalled more than five million shares with a further $5 decline in wild trading reminiscent of the 1929 crash. There were scenes of wild confusion as shouting brokers rushed to execute orders pouring in from all over the United States and abroad. Later today the market rallied after a two-and-a-half hour tailspin under the heavy selling, leading shares recovering a portion of their losses. Market observers were unable to account for the drop, holding that nervousness among shareholders was responsible. In Chicago Representative A. J. Sabath, Illinois Democrat, wired President Roosevelt a charge that the market slump was directly traceable to "Wall Street conspiracy."

QUESTION OF IMPORTANCE

In some matters Great Britain is very slow and certainly behind the times. In his address here last week Tom Waying remarked he did not like the British method of procedure. He did not elaborate on the subject but the idea behind it was something like this:

When the country is called upon to take action on any important question the man who leads is the Prime Minister. He is the real ruler of the country because, under the constitution, the King acts on his advice. Then when it came to crowning the king the Premiers were relegated to the background and the socialites were introduced and given positions of honor. The social nobodies were supposed to be nobles whereas the Prime Ministers of the various nations of the commonwealth were simply commoners.

This matter of precedence is not very important except that it is likely to cause irritation and it plays into the hands of those who like to see the whole kingly fabric destroyed. It seems to us that the time has come for the King and members of the British aristocracy to realize that the representative of the people is next to the King the most important person in the country and should be recognized as such. We certainly object to the Lord of the Bedchamber or some other person with nothing but a social standing taking precedence of Prime Minister Mackenzie King. If we are to have under our recently revised constitution that the equality which has been so much discussed, it should be shown at the crowning of the King. If this is important for the Canadian Prime Minister, it is even more important for the Prime Minister of England.

The probability is that the change has not been made because the people of the Old Country are used to that sort of thing. The really important people do not mind being shoved aside on state occasions for others of less importance.

A STATED CASE

Take the case of young Mr. Anthony Eden. It devolves upon him to undertake all important moves in connection with foreign countries. Next to the British Prime Minister he is the most important person in the British Empire. Yet, at the coronation, he was relegated to a minor position behind these who were decorated with gold braid and other gewgaws. Even Right Hon. Neville Chamberlain was kept well in the background.

If any of these people visited Canada they would be given their true position and would be so acclaimed by the people of the country.

Man in the Moon

Good day! It's nice to meet you once more and tell you that the world is still revolving on its axis in spite of the Spanish crisis and the Sino-Japanese crisis and the hundreds of other crises through which we have passed safely.

Every day that the earth revolves on its axis that is another crisis passed.

When the moon swings safely around its circuit, that's another crisis passed and when the year ends and it is found that most of us are still alive another crisis will have passed.

When the pulp mill is started another crisis will have been begun and, once the workmen commence hammering stone for the basement of the post office, we shall feel that is a crisis.

When I manage to save enough money to buy a new hat a real to goodness crisis will be over.

I always pity the great men. When I see their pictures in the paper; they do not look so great.

Take Mr. Premier Heburn. He's not the kind I would vote for, judging from his pictures in the papers. Yet he is elected in spite of the C.I.O. and the local C.C.F. club.

By the by, where is the Ontario C.C.F.?

Hollywood is getting ready to receive the Dook. Possibly he plans to make a career for himself in the pictures.

John Davey was asked to solve a problem. It was how much a fisherman would get for a catch of salmon and halibut at fifteen cents and ten cents if one third of the catch was salmon and the halibut amounted to 1742 pounds. John's reply was that he could easily work it if it was all halibut but he never had anything to do with buying salmon.

There is a rumor that Guy Bryant once went to Kitluak's fish. On his return he was asked how many he caught. He replied that the fish were too small to bother with so he got a couple of the boys to help him heave them back into the water.

Bernice Palmer Says . . .

The French importation not very popular with big business here is being put down strike. So far there has only been the one in this part of the country and it caused a mild depression. The girls were quite comfortably housed in one part of the Sirella Corset factory and the other in another. They walked away with cards and dancing and the strains of a radio in the recreation room. A birthday party was held for the small son of one of the workers. The little fellow and his brother were hoisted through a window in the plant, with a birthday cake.

It all seems rather silly and unimportant to me. From a nation used to stand up for its rights, it seems to have developed into one that sits down on them.

On the day the strike began, a convention was being held in another part of the building and the girls cleaned the plant up a bit for the event.

The Sirella factory is situated in Burnabyville, a part of Metropolitan Vancouver and even the sight-seeing buses went around that way to point out "Oakland's first strike strikers." It gave us a new angle for conversation—"Have you seen the strike yet?"

BOARD IS SUGGESTED

Advisory Committee on Schools Suggested by Trades and Labor Council

The Prince Rupert Trades and Labor Council has endorsed and will support the convention of labor unions to be held at Victoria at the end of the month.

The council feels that it would be beneficial to teachers, parents and pupils if there was a representative voluntary committee acting as school board, this committee not to have control of finances but to act in an advisory capacity. The City Commissioner will be asked to endorse this measure.

A protest from the Vancouver Pressmen's Association regarding the printing of text books outside of the province has been endorsed. Commenting on the vast sums of money being expended on defence measures, the council went on record as favoring the building of a recreation centre as a means of building up the health of our young people rather than the building of armories. Gratification was expressed at observance in Saturday's press that Commissioner Alder has already made a suggestion in that direction.

It being reported that several employers were not observing the Hours of Work Act and the Minimum Wage Act, it was suggested that, in the near future, prosecutions might result. J. M. Campbell is the government inspector for this city and he is empowered to act in such cases.

Fire Hall matters came up for discussion. It being ascertained that the department is being operated with a reduced personnel those in charge will be questioned on the efficiency of same.

HIS IDEALS WERE HIGH

Robert Underwood Johnson Was
With Allies All Through
Great War

NEW YORK, Oct. 19: (AP)—The late Robert Underwood Johnson, who died here at the week-end, was a strong advocate of peace and arbitration and the union of Christian effort. He stood for the national spirit as against all forms of sectionalism and vigorously opposed lawlessness carried on under the guise of support for various movements. Copyright reform and forest conservation were subjects to which he devoted much time and in which he attained the objects for which he worked.

From the beginning of the World War, Dr. Johnson was outspoken in his attitude against the Central Powers and during the war published many poems in praise of the different countries grouped in the Allies and in appreciation of the entry of the United States into the conflict. He had displayed especial interest in Italy and the people of that country and after the war his appointment as American ambassador to Rome was received with general satisfaction throughout Italy.

Born In Washington

Dr. Johnson was born January 12, 1853, at Washington, in a house that has been replaced by the rotunda of the House of Representatives office building. His father was the late Judge Nimrod H. Johnson who, besides being an able lawyer and jurist of Indiana, was widely known for his knowledge of history, poetry and general literature. To him the son owed his literary temperament and predilections. Dr. Johnson's mother was Catherine C. Underwood Johnson.

The boyhood of Dr. Johnson was spent at Centerville, Ind., where he received his early education. He then matriculated at Earlham College, a Quaker institution at Richmond, where he was graduated at 18 as a bachelor of science. He immediately entered business in Chicago as a clerk in the western agency of the Scribner Educational Books.

After two years he became connected with the editorial staff of Scribner's Monthly, afterwards the Century Magazine. In 1881, Dr. Johnson was advanced to associate editor and, on the death of R. G.

Business Changes In Smithers Made

Ladies' Wear and Butcher Shops
Have New Owners Now

SMITHERS, Oct. 19:—Two business houses in Smithers changed hands last week when the ladies' wear store conducted by Mrs. W. L. Grant was sold to Mrs. E. Duff of Smithers and the meat market operated by Roy Pope was sold by him to Harry Attree of Terrace. Business is going on as usual at both places under the new management.

Following the sale of the Grant store, Mr. and Mrs. Grant and family departed for Vancouver where they will take up residence.

Mr. Pope expects to remain at Smithers and will continue to operate his farm near town.

Gilder in 1909, he was made editor-in-chief. He continued in that position until June, 1913, when he retired because of a difference with the reorganized business management relating to policies concerning the conduct, exploitation and ideals of the magazine.

In 1876, Dr. Johnson married Miss Katherine McMahon of Washington. They had two children, Owen, who became widely known as an author of fiction, and Agnes, who became Mrs. Frank H. Holden.

WHIFFLETS From the Waterfront

Today is the final date for halibut fishing in Area No. 3 prior to the commencement of the close season at midnight. There is only one Canadian boat out in Area No. 3, this being the Sea Maid, Capt. Henry Doiron, which should be in any time now. There are a number of American boats still out in Area No. 3 and some of these may land their catches here although it is not likely there will be many. It will be well into next week, it is expected, before all the American boats are in.

Halibut landings were heavy at Seattle yesterday with ten Area No. 3 vessels landing catches totalling 354,000 pounds as follows: Neptune, 40,000 pounds, Whiz, 9<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c; Liberty, 39,000, Ripley, 10<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c; Estep, 25,000, Chase, 9<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c; Bernice, 24,000, McCallum, 10<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c; Lituya, 32,000, Washington, 9<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c; Rio Rita, 40,000, Booth, 9<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c; Addington, 25,000, New England, 9<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c; Havana, 39,000, San Juan, 10c and 9c; Eldorado, 50,000, Sebastian, 10<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c; Celtic, 40,000, MacCallum, 9<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> and 9c. Cod vessels from Area No. 2 also sold small incidental halibut catches at 11c.

On her way south after a special voyage to Skagway to pick up an overflow of passengers from Alaska and the Yukon, C.P.R. steamer Princess Norah, Capt. William Palmer, arrived in port at 7:30 this morning from the north and sailed an hour later for Vancouver. The vessel's passenger accommodation was completely filled and she had no room for passengers from here.

The contract awarded to Armour Salvage Co. for the new Standard Oil Co. plant here includes large warehouse, dock, approach, office, tanks, fence and grading of yards.
