VOTING MONDAY The ratepayers of the city and license holders will be empowered to vote on Monday on a referendum as to whether certain concessions shall be made to the person or company erecting and operating a pulp mill in the city. It does not bind the city to anything but it does empower it to enter into an agreement which will have to be legalized by the government at Victoria.

We believe that Prince Rupert has everything to gain and noththing to lose by entering into such an agreement and for that reason we urge that the rategive concessions of this kind. A populations. company locating outside the building in the city it does being also put out of commission way is providing the site and the company will pipe water for itsself. It also pays a definite rate of laxes for a term of years.

A pulp mill in the city would provide work for a great many people and would put new life into the place. It would enable a great many things to be done which cannot be done today. It would provide work for longshoremen and bring shipping to the port which does not come now. It would give the city better business and better business places, improved streets and add to our prestige, hastening the time when we can have our highway completed and in every way make life more interesting. It is always more pleasant to live in a place that is making progress than in one that is standing

INCREASES IN FORCES

The American Legion is urging the United States to increase its land and sea forces. As it is the United States has a navy looked upon as the equal of the British navy and it also has large land forces. Steady increases and improvements are being made all the time to these forces and, if the Legion should secure even greater increases, the cost to the country would be commensurately increased and the tendency would be for it to be looked upon ! as something more than a defense measure.

INDIANS BATTLED

of Bella Coola Made Their Tribal Wars Did Not Interfere With Business

BELLA, COOLA, Sept. 25: (CP) -Canada's governor-general and his wife stood this summer at a spot near where centuries ago savage tribesmen of two peoples met peacefully to trade and exchange gossip.

At Landmark and Painted Rock they paused one rainy afternoon to gaze at the blurring symbols traced by the Indians in prehistoric days-symbols painted on the rock in red ochre to record events that occurred before the white man came to the country.

On Painted Rock, three miles east on the trail to Anahim Lake where the hard-riding Chilcotins live, appear art forms which meant something to their longdead authors. Their meaning now in many cases is lost.

Many "copper signs" blur the rock face, indicating in olden days that an important chief, rich and mighty, had passed that way or that a big deal had been concluded in the shade of the giant trees. For here, almost 50 miles from the Pacific's salt water the coastal Bella Cools and the men of the interior met to barter.

In leather containers the Bella Coolas packed up the winding OLD GUN rocky trail grease derived by OLD GUN $5.00 or candle fish. From the high plateau eastward the Chilcotins 50 brought down in exchange furs! or slaves, luckless men and woand men captured in raid against neighboring tribes to be sold into bondage in a far country and to live among strangers for life Rusty Weapon of Daring Youth three pictures, a canoe, a female | An enjoyable bridge party was | SYDNEY, N. Angered by repeated attacks upon their shipping by submarines and aeroplanes operating in the Mediterranean, Britain and France are seeking united action to drive the mysterious "pirate" vessels from the waters around embattled Spain. More than 20 ships of Russian, British and French registry have been attacked, mostly in the Mediterranean. One of the British victims was the Af-
