CONFERENCE ON PIRACY PROCEEDING

Punitive Rather Than Preventive Measures to Be Taken Against Submarine Activity

Patrols Divided

Russia Gives Notice It Must Take Steps of Its Own if Necessary

GENEVA, Sept. 10: (CP)—With Italy and Germany declining to take part in the conference to devise ways and means of stopping submarine piracy in the Mediterranean, Great Britain and France will co-operate with other nations such as Russia, Turkey and Greece in measures which, in view of the situation, will take punitive rather than preventative form. The scene of the conference has been moved from Nyon, where it was to have opened today, to Geneva.

The nine-power anti-piracy conference tonight abandoned the project for giving merchant ships in the Mediterranean naval convoys but retained in principle the British plan to divide the inland sea into zones for surveillance. Waters west of Malta will be guarded by the French and British fleets while the east will be patrolled by other powers represented at the conference.

Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff of Russia warned the conference today that Russia "must and will take its own measures" against submarine pirates. This is interpreted as a threat of reprisals against Italy. Litvinoff spoke after Great Britain and France called upon the other powers to adopt by common consent a sweeping plan to annihilate submarine pirates in the Mediterranean high seas.

Fugitives Fear Cayenne Return

French Convicts Plan Dash Of 750 Miles in Open Boat

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Sept. 10: (CP)—Fearing a rumored decision of the government to deport them by steamship from this West Indian Island would result in their finding themselves once more in dreaded Cayenne, three of six French fugitives who landed in Trinidad were preparing to make a voluntary dash in an open boat for Haiti, 750 miles away.

Raymond Vaude, leader of the trio, said: "I shudder at the thought of going back to Cayenne and I prefer to risk the dangers of an open boat flight to Haiti. I know nobody there, but of this I am certain—Haiti is a free country. I hope to earn my living there as a steward. I held that post for two years when I was with the French Marines. Vaude, who is 35 years old, was sentenced to a five-year term with hard labor for larceny and robbery.

STUDYING OF NATURE NOTICE TO FISHERMEN

Land and Sea Around Churchill Prove Happy Hunting Ground For Several Science Parties

CHURCHILL, Man., Sept. 10: (CP)—A robin that fishes is intriguing to scientists studying bird and insect life in this district. They claim it is the first time on record that a robin has been found muscling in on waterfowl. However, in this north country food isn't always plentiful and the birds cannot be too ethical.

Water drips from Churchill's reservoir, forming a pool which runs into a nearby creek. Small fish from the creek work their way up to the pool where the robin stands by the hour at the edge of the water and from time to time grabs with its bill the minnows that venture too close to it.

Churchill has proven an interesting rendezvous for scientists this summer. The most important party is that headed by Dr. George F. Cline, famous surgeon of Cleveland, Ohio, who has with him Dr. D. P. Quiring of Western Reserve University and Arthur G. Fuller, manager of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History. Their study is being made in connection with a thyroid gland investigation. They have examined great numbers of fish and land animals including six white whales. Many specimens have been sent to Cleveland.

"It is too early to arrive at any definite conclusions in our comparisons of animals living in cold climates and the same species we have previously examined living in warm climates," Dr. Cline stated. "But the tests here have been highly satisfactory."

Dr. Cline and his party went to Chesterfield Inlet on the steamer Nascope and plan to remain there some time. While there, they hope to perform metabolism tests on native Eskimos.

Scientists studying insect life have included R. H. Daggy and D. G. Denning of the division of entomology, University Farm, Minn.; W. J. Brown, entomologist from department of agriculture, Ottawa and Frank Farley, Camrose, Alta. N. Rollin, an ornithologist from England, was also here.

A. D. Bagkov, a Russian, is looking into the possibilities of commercial fishing in Hudson Bay. Contrary to a government report which held out scant hopes, Dr. Bagkov insists there can be successful cod fishing and many other types of edible fish.

Conditions Similar

"The conditions in Hudson Bay are almost exactly the same as in the White Sea and Kara Sea in northern Russia where there is much fishing," Dr. Bagkov said. "I

Text of Announcement in Regard to Closing of Area No. 3 to Halibut Fishing

The following is the text of the official notice that has been issued by the International Fisheries Commission with respect to the closing this season of Area No. 3:

"In accord with the new halibut treaty and regulations, the International Fisheries Commission will prohibit departure for halibut fishing in Area 3 when sufficient quotas have cleared to land the quota set for that area. It is now estimated that this date will not be earlier than September 26. It is expected that the final date may be somewhat later than this but the exact date will be determined by the time of the departure of the last vessels which can be allowed to clear without exceeding the quota.

"A closing date for all halibut fishing will be set also, allowing sufficient time for a full trip by vessels which have been allowed to depart. All fishing by vessels which have been allowed to depart must cease by the date of closure."

Vancouver Wheat

VANCOUVER, Sept. 10: (CP)—The price of wheat advanced again Wednesday when it was trading at $1.27 1/2 on the Vancouver market, dropping back slightly yesterday to $1.27 1/4 and today to $1.25 1/4.

am sure there will be successful fishing of cod in Hudson Bay. However in the summer the cod are about half way between the bottom of the bay and the surface as they are feeding on capelin. As soon as we find out when they gather in schools in the bottom of the bay we will be able to fish successfully for them. They are being caught occasionally now but will be in abundance when we know their habits better.

"Other fish which will be caught in commercial quantities in the vicinity of Churchill will be whitefish, siscoo and Arctic char (a type of salmon). The oils from white whales make them profitable. There are plenty of sturgeon in the Churchill River above the estuary but there are no facilities for getting them to a market."

Entomologists find insect growth in the sub-Arctic exceedingly rapid. Grasshoppers for example develop twice as rapidly as in southern Manitoba. Hatched fully four weeks later, they reach maturity about the same time as their southern brothers. With the short summer in this district they would not be able otherwise to reproduce.

QUIET FOR PRINCESSES

Queen Anxious to Avoid Ill-Effects of Coronation Glamor On Children—British Women Active

LONDON, Sept. 10: (CP)—Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose will not find life quite so gay when they return from their holidays in Scotland. Queen Elizabeth has made no secret of her anxiety over the possible effect of public appearances at Coronation time on her children. In the Autumn they will lead a strictly family life with perhaps a Christmas pantomime and one or two Christmas parties in anticipation.

Princess Elizabeth, heir presumptive to the throne is learning to be a Queen even while she is having her holidays. At Glamis with her grandfather, Lord Strathmore, she made daily tours of the estate and listened to the way he discussed matters with officials and tenants. Like her other grandfather, King George V, in his lifetime, she likes to call at the cottages on the estates, sit and munch biscuits and chat.

A particular friend of both the younger princesses is the postmistress at Glamis at whose shop they sometimes buy presents for special occasions. She annually opens a fresh tin of their favorite candy, "bull's eyes," for them during August.

Bessboroughs Active

The former chateleine of Canada's Rideau Hall, the Countess of Bessborough, is having a busy holiday. A group of players will stay at her house at Standed during a Shakespeare Festival. They will perform "Love's Labor Lost" in Lord Bessborough's private theatre in the park grounds from Sept. 8 to 15. Lord Duncannon, remembered as the "Hamlet" in Ottawa, is taking the part of Ferdinand. Hostesses from neighboring country houses are making up parties for the play.

Though society as a whole remains North until the end of September for the shooting, leaders of Women's Leagues, clubs and associations are hard at work in town. On Sept. 13 the Assembly of the League of Nations gathers and will concern itself mainly with "The Status of Women" in the various countries represented. This discussion has been requested by representatives of countries of recent social revolution: China, Czechoslovakia, Russia and others. Laws affecting the rights of women to property, franchise, protective legislation and civic responsibility will be threshed out before the legal committees and attempts made to unify and equalize legislation.

In London these matters bring warm arguments. Extreme feminists wish to abolish such protective legislation as minimum wages and hours for women. They contend they cause discrimination. The trades unions fear the removal might flood the market with women workers.

Various British women's organizations are sending members to Geneva to watch proceedings and lobby for resolutions. Among the official British delegates is to be Miss Irene Ward, member of Parliament for Walsend-on-Tyne.

The latest English holiday venture for girls is a camp run on the same plan as that organized in 1921 by the King, then Duke of York, as a meeting place for boys from public schools and boys from working class homes. The first similarly planned camp for girls will be an experiment, with 60 girls in camp.

Oriental Conflict Has Been On For Month; Chinese Holding Firm

Foreigners Placed in Fresh Peril as Invaders Strike Anew On All Fronts—International Settlement Endangered

SHANGHAI, Sept. 10: (CP)—Japan's war machine struck at stubborn Chinese defenders on all fronts today, placing foreigners in serious danger from spreading hostilities. The new assault found China's armies holding virtually the same positions as when the Shanghai warfare started last month.

MADE ROYAL GOWNS

One of the greatest honors that can come to a member of his craft came to 33-year old Norman Hartnell, British designer, when he was chosen to design the wardrobe for Queen Elizabeth's coronation and subsequent court functions. Hartnell received a royal order for 40 dresses, evening, court, day and tea gowns, from her majesty. He believes he was brought to the queen's attention by the Duchess of Gloucester, for whom he designed some dresses when she married the duke, brother to King George.

Foreign troops guarding the northern boundary of the international settlement were endangered when a Japanese shell plunged into the heart of a barricade and sent shrapnel hurtling into the settlement. A number of civilian casualties were reported. Japanese sources asserted that a women's battalion of death comprising five hundred Chinese communists was fighting among the troops in Lotien, northwest China.

Effort Made To Secure Rotary Convention Here A telegram is being sent by the Prince Rupert Rotary Club to the District Assembly asking that the next district meeting be held in the north, the cities designated being Juneau, Ketchikan and Prince Rupert, one day at each place. If the scheme goes through it is thought that ships will be chartered next summer to bring the visitors north, possibly a thousand or more people coming in three or four boats, stopping first at Prince Rupert, next at Ketchikan and making the final call at Juneau. In that way the entertainment of the visitors would be shared about equally by the three clubs and the housing problem would take care of itself as the guests would travel at night from place to place.

The Victoria finally refloats herself without damage.

Effort Made To Secure Rotary Convention Here

A telegram is being sent by the Prince Rupert Rotary Club to the District Assembly asking that the next district meeting be held in the north, the cities designated being Juneau, Ketchikan and Prince Rupert, one day at each place. If the scheme goes through it is thought that ships will be chartered next summer to bring the visitors north, possibly a thousand or more people coming in three or four boats, stopping first at Prince Rupert, next at Ketchikan and making the final call at Juneau. In that way the entertainment of the visitors would be shared about equally by the three clubs and the housing problem would take care of itself as the guests would travel at night from place to place.

In line with the idea of receiving visitors, there was a bouquet program, brief remarks being made by President W. R. McAfee, C. V. Evtitt, Phil Linzey, Dr. L. W. Kergin, Lieut. Col. J. W. Nicolls, George Bryant, Neal Carter and H. F. Pullen. City beautification was the chief topic and it was suggested by one of the speakers that beautification of the city as the chief objective of the club would be a splendid thing.

President McAfee was in the chair and visitors present included H. M. Streight and C. F. P. Faulkner of New Westminster and Dr. A. L. Pritchard of Nanaimo.

FILL UP VACANT PLACES

There is a growing feeling throughout Canada that the vacant farm lands near the railways should be filled up with a good class of settlers. It is pointed out that the years when Canada had the heaviest immigration were the days when the country was most prosperous.

It is quite understandable that labor should fear the influx of too many people from other countries. There is no suggestion that the immigration bars should be taken down. Canada does not have to take any people who offer. What is needed is selected immigrants from countries friendly to the British Empire and men and women who will make good citizens. Chiefly the people who come to the country should be those wishing to go on the land.

Speaking at the convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Dr. W. J. Black, director of colonization and agriculture for the Canadian National Railways, urged the admission of farmers from the United States. He also would let down the bars for selected immigrants from a few European countries.

POLITICS GETTING HOT

Evidently political feeling is getting dangerously near to the boiling point in Alberta. It is not often that, with a government in power little more than two years, there is a public mass meeting, thousands strong, that calls on the Premier to resign. Another interesting question dealt with by the gathering was that of the right to broadcast political speeches on Sunday. They asked that this be not allowed in future. The whole political question in Alberta is becoming very complicated and before long it looks as if Mr. Aberhart will be forced out of office unless he does something constructive very soon.

ACTIVITY AHEAD

With September getting along it is being realized that summer is over, such as it was, and that fall activities are due. We find in the advertising columns of this paper advertisements of bazaars and teas and other activities. Winter sports are being organized and plans laid for indoor recreation. Days are shortening and very soon cooler weather will be expected.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 10: (CP)—New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers shared honors in a double-header here yesterday and, with the second place Chicago Cubs losing to the St. Louis Cardinals, the margin of leadership of the Giants in the National League was increased to three full games.

In the American League the leading New York Yankees dropped a heavy-hitting decision to the Boston Red Sox and had their margin of leadership cut from ten and a half games over the Detroit Tigers who were winning a class victory over the Cleveland Indians. The Red Sox took exclusive possession of the leadership of the second division after having been tied for fifth place with the Indians.

"ELEPHANT BOY" HERE

Outstanding Picture Is Showing This Week-end at Capitol Theatre

"Elephant Boy," British picturization of Rudyard Kipling's well loved story "Toomai of the Elephants," comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre as the feature offering for the end of this week. It has been produced as a moving picture by Robert Flaherty, famous Canadian director of outdoor films, who was responsible for such previous successes as "Man of Aran," "Moana of the South Seas" and "Nanook of the North." The picture is a wonderful depiction of adventure in India and, besides having a good plot, it shows a great deal of interesting wild life of the jungle. The story is that of an Indian lad who aspired to become a great hunter of elephants. The entertainment provided is said to be wholesome and refreshing.

Much of the popularity of "Elephant Boy" which has been having much success everywhere it has been shown, is said to be due to the appeal of its handsome young star, Sabu, who was discovered in the elephant stables of the Maharajah of Mysore in India. Sabu had never been away from his native village until he was taken to England last year.

Bernice Palmer says . . .

Remember Fred Leggett? He has a prosperous lacquer and paint shop at Visalia, California, and with his wife, spent a couple of weeks visiting in San Francisco recently. While here they were the house guests of Jack and Fyrene Shakespear — more Prince Rupert people.

Had a card from Isobel Wood (Kelly) at La Honda where, with her sister, Anne, and family, she had taken a house for the summer. The men folks—who have to work for a living—went up for the week-ends. Isobel writes that Bob Kelly is still making the front page in the Longview Daily. He played the lead in "Broken Dishes" and young Malcolm, who was also in the play, won second prize for his high school in the State Dramatics contest in Washington. All this is sort of reflected glory for Prince Rupert where the two boys had their early schooling and it is the first groundwork, after all, that sets the pace for future achievements. OAKLAND. CHEERIO!

WHIFFLETS From the Waterfront

Following the announcement by the International Fisheries Commission of the tentative final date for issuance of clearances to halibut fishing in Area No. 3, the halibut control board of Seattle is relaxing the voluntary regulations in regard to lay-overs in port between trips, etc. Vessels now in port on lay-overs may leave at once and, under certain conditions, lay-overs may not now be required. The fishing limit of 3500 pounds per man per trip remains unchanged.

Two halibut boats sold catches in Seattle yesterday as follows: Thor, 39,000 pounds, San Juan, 12½c and 10c; Arne, 21,000, Whiz, 12½c and 10c.

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, is due in port about 10 o'clock tonight from the south and is scheduled to sail half an hour later on her return to Vancouver and way points.

The Seattle yacht Nikinah, with its owner, Wesley B. MacDonald and party on board, was here again from Monday evening to Tuesday morning of this week on its way south after a cruise up the coast as far as Ketchikan.
