FOUND INVALID
EDMONTON—Mr. Justice Ives today declared invalid an Alberta order-in-council preventing court actions challenging the validity of Alberta legislation without permission of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. Judge Ives ordered $1 damages without costs against R. P. Wallace, clerk of the Alberta Supreme Court, who, under the order-in-council, had declined to enter a statement of claim questioning the legality of debt adjustment legislation. The order-in-council had been passed to accomplish measures provided for in the Legislature bills which were disallowed by the Federal government.

Grouse Crashes Into Bedroom Of Smithers Barber As Other Nimrods Scour Vale For Game

SMITHERS, Oct. 20.—Many hunters have been scouring the Bulkley Valley the past few weeks looking for grouse but Smithers' genial barber has them all beaten. He just lies in bed and waits for them to come to him.

While Sandy Gazeley was peacefully snoring a few mornings ago (sometime between 7 and 9 a.m.) he heard a great crash and awoke to find a grouse circling his bed room. The bird had crashed through the bed room window and was looking for the way out. Sandy lost no time getting out of bed and, grabbing a broom, he tried to bring him down but the grouse made his exit by the same window he had entered and took a little more of the glass with him on the way out.

Sandy says he has had lots of grouse in his shop that gave him a pain but this is the first one he has had that took away a pane.

MAKES NEW CIVIL WAR PROPOSAL

Would Send Independent Commission to Spain to Effect Withdrawal of Foreign Troops From Both Sides

Soviet Snag

Russia Lays Latest Stumbling Block to Spanish Non-Intervention

LONDON, Oct. 20: (CP)—Italy unexpectedly recommended to the Spanish non-intervention committee today that an independent commission be sent to Spain to effect withdrawal of foreign troops from both sides of the Spanish civil war "as soon as possible." Count Dino Grandi's statement that Italy was ready to collaborate on this point indicated that the more controversial question of belligerent rights to the Spanish combatants might be put in the background temporarily.

LONDON, Oct. 20:—Soviet Russia's defection from the Spanish non-intervention committee yesterday brought a new snag to negotiations looking to a withdrawal of foreign volunteers from the civil war ridden country. Claiming that non-intervention efforts had so far been only a handicap to the loyalists without hampering the insurgents, Russia has taken the stand that it will not further endeavour to accept responsibility in the keeping of outside help from Spain.

Great Britain and France are pleading with Russia not to take too adamant a stand. Meantime, they are preparing, if necessary, to take an independent course of action. Sweden and Belgium support Great Britain and France, who now propose belligerent rights for both sides.

Meantime, an agreement between Great Britain, France and Russia on the one hand and Germany, Italy and Portugal on the other on the basis of withdrawal of volunteers is still sought.

ROOSEVELT PLAYED BY AL LONDON

Accused With Trying to Set Up Man Government—General Excoriation

PEKA, Oct. 20:—In a national radio broadcast last night, Governor Alfred Landon was Republican candidate in last presidential election, declared that he asserted to be President Roosevelt's desire for a man government. He compared the President's Chicago speech on foreign affairs and the statement of Justice Hugo Black to the Supreme Court of the United States.

President Roosevelt's failure to establish a constitutional government as an administrator, Landon charged, had seriously handicapped the progress of the country in the last five years.

Landon declared that Roosevelt had changed man since he had been President. "He would be a modern Julius Caesar," the former G. O. P. candidate asserted. "He had been made a politician," Landon asserted, and "employment, as it was in 1933, still the country's major problem."

Assessing his leadership of the Republican party, Landon called for his 17,000,000 supporters in the 1936 election to aid him in his fight to preserve the constitution.

HUGE LOSS IN STOCKS

Estimated at Twenty-Seven Billion Dollars in Two Months—End of Collapse May Not Be Yet

NEW YORK, Oct. 20:—Within the last two months, it is estimated that $27,000,000,000 has been lost in stock trading in the United States. This is computed on the basis of a falling off of seventy-two points in the average value of all stocks since the middle of August.

Despite yesterday's partial recovery, the end of the present stock crash was believed by many to be not yet. Others, however, were more hopeful and believed the bottom had been reached. Following collapse of Monday which continued into yesterday morning some high class issues recovered the losses and actually scored fractional gains for the day. These included United States Steel and General Motors. In two days transactions reached the huge total of 7,290,000 shares. The market was steadier today.

The actual cause of the present collapse seems uncertain although charges of manipulation are general. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has the authority to close the market but is not expected to do so, had no comment to make yesterday. In some quarters it is suggested that the President's announcement that the national deficit this year would be greater than was expected might have influenced the market adversely.

UNTIMELY OPPOSITION

A prominent Conservative, addressing the Victoria Conservative Association a few days ago, urged the Association to oppose the building of the Alaska Highway and the annexation by British Columbia of the Yukon Territory. The main line of argument against it was that it was all being done for the militarization of Alaska as defense against Japanese aggression.

The speaker said he expected to hear that the United States would without interest provide the money with which to build the highway. This he thought should not be accepted.

We cannot think that the Conservative Party of British Columbia would be opposed to the building of this highway which would mean so much commercially to the province. If the United States would provide the money for the road, then it would be much easier to get the money from the B. C. Government for the highway into Prince Rupert and the road would be a good one all the way to Vancouver. As Canada has been looking to the United States for her defense all these years and still would expect help if the country were attacked, we do not see why we should object to a military road.

We all would object to British Columbia building the Alaska Highway and leaving ours in the lurch, as we think we should have precedence but it would seem like very poor sportsmanship for us to oppose this road if the money is provided from outside sources and did not affect our own highway financing.

It seems a pity that this highway should be made a party question for many Conservatives would doubtless support its construction. We do not think it would be opposed by leading Conservatives of Vancouver for no place would benefit as much as Vancouver from its construction.

DOGGED RESISTANCE

The dogged resistance of China against the mechanized Japanese armies is the wonder of the world. Evidently the soldiers of that country are imbued with the highest spirit of patriotism and are willing to lay down their lives for their country against tremendous odds. They are without the support of a navy and are but poorly equipped with airplanes and tanks compared with the Japanese, yet the invaders have made but little progress except in the northern part of the country. Russia is reported to be sending planes and material and soldiers but they cannot be sufficient to make any great difference. It is the Chinese who are holding back the Japanese army, not the Russians.

ATKINS BEING TRAINED

gain experience in co-operation between artillery, infantry and tanks and to give infantry practice in clearing a village.

For eight days units of the First Division of the Aldershot command were supplied with food in the field on an actual war basis. Supplies were moved by train from a base at Aldershot to a railroad. From there they were taken by mechanical transport to a centre from which they were distributed by divisional transport to the various units.

TESTED FOR MOBILITY

One battle had as its objects handling of artillery in a retirement, use of the Royal Engineers in hasty preparations of a demolition scheme, organization of a defensive position, exercise of certain units in movement by bus and exercise of intelligence sections of division and brigade headquarters.

The artillery of the First and Second Divisions used "devastating" fire on selected targets and laid down barrages to aid infantry. The Fifth and Sixth Infantry Brigades engaged in an operation consisting of moving a column of all arms by mechanized transport at night.

The mimic warfare required considerable exercise of imagination by the combatants. For instance, a retiring column blocked the road along which they were moving with "seven farm wagons." But all the pursuers found there was a piece of string across the road, with a note attached saying "this represents an obstacle of seven farm wagons."

For the purpose of the manoeuvres East Anglia became a miniature continent, divided into several countries. Some were at loggerheads with others; some grouped themselves into alliances. A series of "wars" were fought—most of them broke out in the morning (after breakfast) and ended in general fraternizing at dusk. But some continued several days.

A colorful cast of characters lent further reality or at least further interest to the operations. Eastland has as head of the state a Mugwump, Southland and Westland an Emu, Northland a Man-Goose, Centralia a Cheetah. Part of the operations consisted of escorting the Mugwump through a hostile Centralia to visit the Emu. Unfortunately the Emu disappeared before the meeting was achieved and the Mugwump was nearly captured by irregular Centralia forces under one General Bolo during his return to Eastland.

Participating in the manoeuvres were the King's Own Royal Regiment, Leicestershire Regiment, Worcesterhire Regiment, the Royal Scots Fusiliers, the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, the South Staffordshire Regiment and the Royal Welsh Fusiliers.

PASSING OF OLD TIMER

Bob Riley, Formerly of Prince Rupert, Dies at Smithers

SMITHERS, Oct. 20.—Death removed another old timer of Smithers and the north when Robert (Bob) Riley passed away in the Smithers Hospital last Saturday. He had been ailing for some time and his death was not unexpected. Mr. Riley was born in Ireland seventy years ago. He came to Canada when about 18 years of age and worked as fireman on the Canadian Pacific Railway at Port Arthur and Schreiber in 1890. He drifted west and had many occupations on the coast, having at one time been employed as a fireman on the steam trawler Andrew Kelly out of Prince Rupert in the early days. He spent quite a few years in and around Prince Rupert.

He had lived at Smithers for the past 15 years and was a well known figure on Smithers streets. The funeral took place at Smithers on Tuesday.

ARCTIC SEARCH COSTLY

Levanefsky Pole Flight May Involve $5,000,000 Expenditure

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (CP).—A successful trans-polar flight costs a small fortune but it is only a trifle compared to one in which the fliers are lost enroute.

Efforts to find Sigismund Levanefsky and five others, missing since August 13 on the third Soviet flight to the United States, have cost something like $1,000,000 estimates Vilhjalmur Stefansson, president of the Explorers Club of New York which is helping to coordinate rescue efforts.

If the men are not found and the search continues until the season of fog in the Arctic next June, the total bill incurred in Canada, Alaska and Russia may amount to $5,000,000. Planes worth $3,000,000 are now stationed around the Arctic Ocean, ready to take off on search flights.

While the brunt of the bill is being borne by the Soviet Government, humanity and the freemasonry of flying has led Canadian and United States agencies and individuals to bend every effort to aid in the hunt.

The Canadian Air Force, for instance, turned over the bulk of its gasoline in northwestern depots, about 12,000 gallons, to the searchers. While Canadian Airways added another 4,500 gallons and loaned two transport planes to freight gas to Akilavik, base for the search.

Even that was not enough gas, for Sir Hubert Wilkins, in his flights out of Coppermine and Akilavik, in the flying boat URSS L-2, used an average of 2,000 gallons a flight, so more had to be brought from Fairbanks, Alaska by Alaska airplane operators. The Royal Canadian Corps of Signals kept men on extra duty at northern radio stations to hasten messages and weather information to planes and bases, while the United States Weather Bureau established a special meteorological bureau at Fairbanks and sent an expert forecaster north from Oakland, California.

When the Soviet Embassy purchased the URSS L-2, it obtained the only plane available in North America with a 4,000 mile range. The same type as the new long-range bombers supplied to the United States Navy, the plane had been built with naval approval for an expedition headed for New Guinea. The navy authorized its sale to the Russians.

Plan Winter Search

On the Soviet side of the Polar Sea bases have been established at the mouth of the Lena River, Siberia, and at Nordvik, most northerly point on the Siberian mainland. Long-range planes, of the same type as those used on the trans-polar flights, await favorable weather conditions at Dickson Island, Siberia.

When the new sea-ice hardens at the end of October, Sir Hubert will exchange the flying boat for a plane mounted on skis.

However, it is not all on the debit side. The greatest single advance ever made in Arctic exploration, Stefansson declared, followed the disaster to Sir John Franklin's expedition in 1845. Parties which searched for the explorers during the next few years discovered most of the islands on the map north of Canada.

"The search for the Russians," he said, "will probably bring a similar great increase in knowledge of arctic conditions, especially as they apply to transportation."

"MY JOB ISN'T EASY!
BUT WRIGLEY'S
SOOTHES MY NERVES.
I'VE ALWAYS A PACKAGE HANDY!"

Bernice Palmer says . . .

Making the rounds of Metropolitan Oakland and San Francisco shops to see what my lady is wearing this fall, your correspondent came home in a dither. This is what I learned:
Skirts are wide.
Skirts are pencil thin.
Clothes are very simple.
Clothes are exaggerated.
Necklines are low, front and back.
Dresses are modest.
Man tailored suits are OUT.
Dressmaker suits are IN.
Shoes are simple and inconspicuous.
Shoes are extravagantly exotic.
Cocktail gowns are pesse.
Every woman has a cape ensemble.

And so it goes . . . The only thing everyone seems agreed on is that skirts are fifteen inches from the ground for daytime wear . . . And hats are just as confusing. There is a hat for every type of face and a flower for every type of hat. They range all the way from tiny turbans made entirely of flowers and a bit of ribbon, to the large picture hats with a handful of long stemmed tulips arranged casually upon its drooping brim. Even tailored hats sport a flower somewhere . . . And bonnets. The quaintest looking things like some old daguerreotype, perch on the very back of my lady's head and these are adorned with old fashioned flowers.

and, believe it or not—STREAMERS—which float provocatively out behind . . . And to nearly every hat Dame Fashion adds that ever alluring touch—a veil—for she knows the veil has been synonymous with glamorous and feminine mystery since woman first donned clothes. CHEERIO!

Feel Full of Life—No More Tired, Dull, Heavy Mornings

Keep your liver healthy and you'll feel great every morning. When you wake up feeling "rotten" your liver is out of order. Your liver clears the blood of poisons, separates the nourishing part of your food from the waste. Supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands—gives out bile, the body's laxative, helps stomach, kidneys and intestines to work properly. A mere bowel movement isn't enough. "Fruit-a-tives" made from fruits and herbs, will strengthen and build up your liver like nothing else will. You'll be amazed how well you are every morning. Try Fruit-a-tives. All druggists.

Newlyweds Are Here To Reside

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Appleyard Spent
Honeymoon in South Following
Marriage in Prince George

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilfrid Appleyard, who were married recently in Prince George and have been on a honeymoon trip to Vancouver and elsewhere in the south, arrived in the city on the Prince George today to take up residence. Mr. Appleyard is a well known and popular member of the Canadian National Railways staff here and he and his bride will have the hearty congratulations and best wishes of many friends. The bride was formerly Miss Irene Gladys Finer, daughter of the late Richard and Mrs. Finer of Penny.

The marriage took place in St. Michael's Anglican Church at Prince George on October 9 with Ven. Archdeacon Samuel Pollinger officiating.

The bride was attired in pale blue organdie with long veil held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms and carried a sheaf of carnations and sweetheart roses. Miss Ruby Newsome, who was the bride's attendant, wore a pretty frock of white floral crepe with white accessories and carried a bouquet of pink roses and carnations. James Qualle attended the groom as best man and Miss Betty Milburn played the nuptial music.

SMITHERS, Oct. 20: — The friends of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Bamford gathered at their home on Saturday evening last to celebrate with them their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Ten tables of bridge were played until midnight when a presentation of silverware was made to the happy couple. H. B. Campbell made the presentation on behalf of the friends gathered and both Dr. and Mrs. Bamford responded. Lieut. Col. R. L. Gale also made a presentation from the Bulkley Valley Branch of the Canadian Legion in recognition of services rendered to the branch by Dr. Bamford in the past.

The genial Doctor protested against the sentiment expressed by the guests when they sang "Poor old Doc he ain't what he used to be."

Dr. and Mrs. Bamford have two sons, Douglas at Bridge River and Alfred who is attending the University of British Columbia.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes three good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

"Topper," With Roland Young, Constance Bennett and Gary Grant, Strange Sort of Picture

The odd adventures of a conservative and unimaginative little banker who buys the reconditioned car of a couple who were killed in an automobile crash and whose sprightly spirits still haunt him comprise the unusual theme of fering on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here. It is somewhat disconcerting to have the leading man, played by Roland Young, going about making passes at people who are not there and holding conversations with invisible persons until one gets accustomed to the fact that it is ghosts he is conversing with. This established, it is not surprising that anything happens, even the spectacle of an easy chair moving around without any one pushing it.

The dead couple, Constance Bennett and Gary Grant, are souls imprisoned in space unable to advance to a higher plane until they have performed one good deed. Making the little banker human constitutes that deed on accomplishment of which they vanish.

Billie Burk, Alan Mowbray and Eugene Pallette also have important parts in this picture.
