VERY NEAR BOTTOM

Prince Rupert comes very near the bottom of the list in the amount of money borrowed under the Home Improvement plan. Only two towns of the class between five and ten thousand people came below this city in their borrowings.

May we draw attention once more to the possibilities Philadelphia, postponed on acfor those who would like to spend money in painting or count of rain. improving their homes in any way. They can get money at the bank without any other security than their note providing their banking record is good and they own their Baseball Standings own homes.

The number of loans taken in Prince Rupert being small compared with other places may indicate that there is little need to borrow. It may mean that there is little desire to improve homes or it may be possible that the bank managers here are more exacting than in other places. While the campaign does not seem to have been very fruitful from the point of view of the banks, it will be noted that much renovating work has been carried out in New York the city during the year and at least a portion of this may Detroit be attributed to the suggestion made through the Home Chicago Improvement campaign. People have painted and re-Boston decorated their homes inside and out, have put in new con- washington crete basements, improved their grounds and in other Philadelphia ways expended money to make their places more pleasing. st. Louis This was the idea of the campaign and it matters little where the money came from, whether from the banks, from savings of the residents or if it was financed by the contractors. Much work has been done and the city looks! the better for it.

This fall the campaign is being renewed and it is quite probable others may be influenced to follow out the home improvement idea. There is still need of expenditures in some directions which would benefit the owners of the property and indirectly the whole city.
