FUNERAL OF CONDUCTOR

Many Gather to Pay Final Tributes To Late W. D. Moxley

With Tye Lodge A. F. & A. M., of which deceased was a member, taking a leading part in the rites, the funeral of the late William Delmar Moxley, for more than a quarter of a century a conductor of the Canadian National Railways running out of Prince Rupert took place yesterday afternoon from First Presbyterian Church to Fairview Cemetery. There was a large congregation at the church to pay final tributes of respect and esteem to the memory of deceased as well as to manifest their sympathy for the bereaved. Rev. Dr. J. W. Stevenson officiated at the church. Prior to the church service, a Masonic funeral service had been commenced at the Temple, members of the craft moving in procession to the church.

Dr. Stevenson, in his funeral sermon, paid fitting tribute to the memory of deceased. He had been faithful in his life work and helpful to his fellowmen. His life had been a worthy one. Words of comfort for the bereaved were voiced by the pastor. The children of deceased were fatherless and motherless but they were not without hope. To the Christian believer, death was but a phase of life. The body was but a limitation of the spirit which now went on to the fuller life.

Mrs. E. J. Smith presided at the organ to accompany the hymns which were "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and "Abide With Me," the latter having been the favorite of deceased. John E. Davy sang as a vocal solo "Father I Come to Thee."

After the church service, the Masons formed in procession and marched to the junction of First, Second and Third Avenues where they took to cars for the cemetery. There was a long concourse.

At the cemetery there was a Masonic committal service with J. S. Nelson, worshipful master of Tye Lodge, in charge.

Active pallbearers were W. H. Tobey, J. W. McAuley, William Grulckshank, G. E. Phillipson, Al Berner, T. M. Spencer, F. S. Walton and A. R. Nichols, all of whom were Masons and associates of deceased in the railway service. A. C. Abbott, James Parks, H. Mork, H. E. Alton, Charles Harradine and W. J. McCutcheon acted as honorary pallbearers.

There were many beautiful floral tributes.

No Settlement of General Motors Strike Although Hope Held

DETROIT, Feb. 8.—With neither side giving any quarter on the question of collective bargaining, no further progress towards a settlement of the strike dispute between the General Motors Corporation and its employees was seen Saturday night when negotiations were adjourned until today. However, there seems to be an air of optimism that the coming week may see some sort of a solution even if by no other means than by direct intervention by President Roosevelt.

FLOODS IN CALIFORNIA

High Water Situation Serious In Golden State as Mississippi And Ohio Subside

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 8.—With the flood crisis on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers gradually passing although not as yet entirely removed, Southern California has now developed serious high water conditions. As a result of the heavy rains of several days, extensive floods developed at the week-end in the Los Angeles and San Diego areas. All highways between Los Angeles and San Diego were reported Saturday night to be blocked and many homes in the lower lands have been abandoned with their occupants fleeing to high levels to await the crest of the flood waters. Railway services and telegraphic and telephonic communications have also been interfered with and it is already evident that there will be considerable damage.

In the Ohio and Mississippi River areas, waters are continuing to subside today although it will be at least ten days or two weeks, it is believed, before the level of the rivers will be back to anything like normal. The latest count places the total death list as a result of the floods at 414, 206 of whom have been in the one city of Louisville, Ky., alone. Some 2,600,000 people, it is now announced, have been driven from their homes and the property loss is estimated at well up to half a billion dollars.

Alleged "Rule of Gun" by Anarchists and Communists Is Ended—Rome Report is Confirmed by Advices From Gibraltar

ROME, Feb. 8: (CP)—Fascist troops have marched victoriously into Malaga, say Italian reports from that port, seemingly ending what Fascists said was "the rule of the gun" by defeating anarchists and communists. This was confirmed by advices from Gibraltar which said that the army and fleet of General Francisco Franco, in a methodical drive, had won domination of the Mediterranean port, the last government stronghold in the Gibraltar Straits area. Fleeing Socialist officials of Malaga were seized in a boat in the harbor, it was reported.

MEMORABLE GATHERING

Maurice Davey Describes Boys' Parliament at United Church Service

The service at the First United Church yesterday morning, before a good sized congregation, was in the form of a Youth Service. It was dedicated to "Youth" and some of the boys took part in the very inspiring service. Malcolm Wilding read the Scriptures about the boyhood of Jesus.

Maurice Davey gave the following report on Boys' Parliament which proved to be both interesting and inspiring:

"It was my privilege during the last four days of last year to attend the sessions of the 14th Tuxis and Older Boys' Parliament held in Victoria, right in the Parliament Buildings.

"Before I go on to tell you about Parliament I would like to tell you a little about the Tuxis program. It is a plan of training in Canadian Christian Citizenship. The program is Christ-centred. It is based on the record in Luke's Gospel of the growth an ddevelopment of Jesus who, as a boy, increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man. The four terms 'wisdom' or intellectual, stature for physical, 'in favor with God' for devotional or religious and in favor with man for social, have determined the idea and ideal around which the Tuxis program has been developed.

"The word Tuxis is made up of five letters, each having a very significant meaning. 'T' stands for training, the last letter 'S', for service—training for service. 'X', placed in the centre, denotes the Greek letter 'Chi', the first letter in the Greek word 'Christos' or Christ, which is to indicate that the program is Christ-centred. The 'U' and 'I' suggest our social relationships, the attitude of brotherliness and unselfishness—the 'Help the other fellow spirit.' You will notice that 'You' comes before 'I'.

"In this way the word suggests the ideal. 'You and I in training for service, Christ in the centre, and no one but Christ between us.'

"Now we turn to the subject of Parliament. From 35 to 40 boys met at Parliament representing approximately 2414 Tuxis and Trail Rangers in 183 groups in 104 churches in the province. British Columbia was wholly represented. Our own district of Skeena-Hazelton sent a representative for the first time in a number of years.

"There is usually an election in dis-

San Francisco and San Diego Dispatch Ships Following End of Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8:—San Francisco dispatched its first steamer following the ending of the maritime workers' strike with the sailing of the steamer President Hoover for Honolulu on Saturday.

Also on Saturday the California left San Diego for New York, being the first vessel to leave that port.

All along the coast, ships are getting ready for sailing and early this week will see many of them at sea with passengers and freight following the three-month tie-up.

TO OPPOSE PRESIDENT

Reaction of Stocks From Court Plans of Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 8:—In proposing an increase in the personnel of the United States Supreme Court from nine to fifteen judges, President Franklin D. Roosevelt expressed the belief that the present number is insufficient to meet the business. The President's proposal to retire judges at the age of seventy would affect Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes who is 74 years of age and Justice Brandeis who is 79.

There is talk of a coalition opposition of Democrats and Republicans against the President on the judicial reform and other issues. Leaders in this movement may include Senators Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, W. E. Borah of Idaho and G. C. McNary of Oregon, all Republicans.

Reaction of Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 8:—Reaction of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's judicial reform proposals as presented to Congress resulted in a heavy selling movement on the New York Stock Exchange on Friday. Industrials were off 2.26 on the average, rails of .55, and utilities off .63. On Saturday, however, there was complete recovery with some industrials reaching new highs for the year.

SUNDAY IS CHALLENGED

Reward of $1000 for Anyone Who Can Prove it is Sabbath By Bible

Climaxing a week of lectures on the subject of Sabbath observance, Evangelist Ainsley Blair last night offered $1,000 for a single text proving that Christ or His disciples authorized the change of the Sabbath from Saturday, the seventh day of the week, to Sunday, the first day of the week. This challenge, Mr. Blair pointed out, was first thrown out by the Roman Catholic Church to the entire Protestant world, and had never been taken up by any Sunday-keeping church. In observing Sunday, declared the speaker, Protestants were showing more reverence for Catholic tradition than they show for the Bible.

PASSING OF ELIHU ROOT

Famous Elder Statesman of United States Dies Early Sunday At Age of Ninety-Two

Great Career

As Well as in Other Capacities, He Served as Member of Two Federal Administrations

NEW YORK, Feb. 8: (AP)—Elihu Root, in his day one of United States most noted statesmen, died early Sunday morning in New York, the victim of pneumonia. He was a member of two administrations, having been Secretary of War for President McKinley immediately after the Spanish-American war and Secretary of State for President Theodore Roosevelt. In many other spheres, he also served his country with distinction even in his later years. Had he lived until February 15 he would have been ninety-two years of age. He had been ill for two weeks, pneumonia of the bronchial type.

If America possessed anything comparable to the institution of the Elder Statesmen of Japan, Elihu Root would have been its senior member.

For half a century he was concerned with public affairs, either actively or as an advisor to those in authority. He was diplomat, cabinet officer, legislator, law enforcement official, one of the leading legal minds of the world and of international reputation as an advocate and organizer of international court procedure as a substitute for war.

Sheer power of intellect was his dominant characteristic. It gave him a niche all his own in the hall of fame and toward it presidents and nations turned for the solution of some of their most puzzling problems.

In thought and action he was an embodiment of conservatism, a stalwart of the "old guard" in the Republican party, an advocate of the orderly process of law and a consistent opponent of anything that smacked of irregularity. Rationalism was his shibboleth throughout his long career.

Lacked Personality

There was little in his personal appearance to bear out his dominant intellectuality. He was of slight stature and dressed habitually in the conventional garb of serious-minded men. He had little evidence of personal magnetism and few oratorical gifts. But he never spoke in public unless he had something definite to say and although his voice was not strong and tired easily, he commanded respectful attention.

His contributions to a discussion were products of his reasoning powers. He was trained from boyhood to think coolly and clearly and he used a meticulous exactitude of statement founded upon complete thoroughness of preparation.

But he felt deeply and was not as cold-blooded as his political opponents sometimes pictured him. In his later years he worked unceasingly for adherence of the United States to Permanent Court for International Justice at The Hague.

When he was eighty-four years old President Coolidge called him to a fresh activity in that cause, sending him to Geneva to act with leading jurists of other nations in revising the statutes of the court so as to meet reservations adopted several years before by the United States senate. The result was the Root-Hurst formula, the co-author being Sir Cecil Hurst of Great Britain.

Mr. Root helped to organize the

Congratulations, C. N. R.

The Canadian National is to be congratulated on its good judgment in letting the steamship Prince Rupert be repaired in the company's own shipyard here instead of being sent to Vancouver as was at first proposed. We would like to know who made the first proposal for we cannot realize how any concern could turn a job of that kind over to another yard when it had a yard of its own fully equipped and well able to do the work.

Evidently someone at Vancouver is happily trying to get things away from Prince Rupert. Happily we have a live head to our dry dock and shipyard here who, it seems goes out after the business when he feels it slipping away.

While we are pleased to see the contract coming to Prince Rupert, the first order given to take the vessel south leaves a nasty taste in the mouths of Prince Rupert people who cannot understand the mentality of the official, whoever he may be, who takes every opportunity of trying to rob this port of work which should come here.

The contract for the Prince Rupert including the annual overhaul will keep a number of local people busy for a good many weeks.

Many Quick Changes

The business world is kept fully alert these days watching for the quick changes that take place. Many of the older businesses have partly faded from the picture. Radios have taken the place of gramophones and to a large extent of pianos. The use of electrical refrigerators has taken the place of ice. Cars have taken the place of buggies and horse trucks. Coal is being nosed out by oil. Talking movies have taken the place of silent films just as the silent films took the place of the travelling theatre companies.

In "The New American Tempo" by Robert R. Updegraff the need of adaptation to present day conditions is shown and the book also points out how easy it is for businessmen to go to the wall today through not realizing modern trends and adapting their businesses to meet them.

World Court, having been a member of the International Commission of Jurists which, upon invitation of the Council of the League of Nations had reported the plan for that tribunal. The scheme was adopted in 1921. Age caused him even then to decline a place on its bench after seven nations had nominated him for the post.

Start of Career

Root's public career started with his appointment as a Federal District Attorney by President Arthur in 1883. But after two years in that office he went back to private practice and had only a meagre background of public service when in 1871, he was called to Washington by President McKinley to be Secretary of War.

This was on the heels of the Spanish-American conflict and he found the United States army reflecting the effects of the scandals which had followed criticisms of its foreign administration. "Enbalméd beef" aromas hung over the department, to say nothing of the popular indignation over the fact that the American regulars and volunteers had been forced to wear heavy woolen uniforms in tropical Cuba and fight with black powder ammunition whose smoke revealed their positions clearly to Spanish forces using the smokeless variety.

Secretary Root reorganized the staff system and laid a sound groundwork of army administration that withstood acids test-years later when submitted to the crucible of the World War.

That his work was good is written in the promptness with which he was called back to Washington to become Secretary of State under Roosevelt, against his own desire to go on with the practice of law in New York.

Again it was his lot to reorganize a great governmental agency and he rebuilt the consular and diplomatic services. Through them he worked more than seventy-five treaties.

Goes to Senate

Public life had claimed him definitely now. He went from the cabinet to the senate, to stand squarely as a champion of party regularity in the hectic days of the Bull Moose movement.

Wielding the gavel over the Republican National Convention at Chicago, he held the party unwaveringly to a course that meant defeat in the three-cornered battle of 1912. He stuck to his guns, strong in the belief that the Roosevelt defection was a passing mood, a belief that proved itself within his lifetime.

At the end of his senate term Mr. Root again sought retirement. But with the World War came a new duty, this time under a democratic administration, when President Wilson made him head of a special diplomatic mission to the ephemeral Kerensky regime in Russia.

After the war Mr. Root was concerned in the fight for American membership in the League of Nations, trying his best to persuade the "die-hards" in the senate to accept compromises which he was sure would safeguard this country from entangling European alliances. Several times in later years he advised the men who blocked the United States away from the Geneva organization.

In 1921 President Harding named him as one of the American delegates to the Washington Arms Conference. There he led the fight against the use of poison gases and the right of submarines to attack merchant vessels without warning.

He engaged in the legal fight against the Volstead Act, arguing, albeit unsuccessfully, in the supreme court against the constitutionality of that law. He maintained that congress had not the right, under the eighteenth amendment, to limit the alcoholic content of beverages to one-half of one percent.

Born in New York

Mr. Root was born February 15, 1845, at Clinton, N.Y., the son of Oren Root, professor of mathematics at Hamilton College. The father gave the son every opportunity for self-improvement, hoping that he would devote himself to education.

For a year, after graduation from Hamilton, young Root did teach school, being principal of an academy at Rome, N.Y. But his heart was set on the law and he turned to the law school of the University of New York, being admitted to the bar in 1867.

On January 8, 1878, he married Clara Wales of New York. To them

tricts where there are a number of groups. The Premier, Speaker and Government Critic are elected by the previous Parliament.

"These boys, or I should say, young men, meet for the following purposes:

"1. To strengthen and deepen their own lives in the Christian work in which they are engaged by having fellowship with other boys and leaders who are engaged in the same work.

"2. To help them become more effective in challenging and winning the youth of B.C. to the cause of Christ.

"3. To give intelligent leadership in the formation and execution of plans with which to carry on the fourfold program among the boys of the province.

"Those are the three reasons for holding parliament—to strengthen the members own lives and to enable them to pass that strength on to others and to plan the work for the groups for the coming year.

Daily Programs

"A brief resume of our daily program was as follows:

"Every morning at 9:30 there was a general caucus of all members at which meeting the various leaders spoke to us on rules of procedure, etc. Also at this meeting one of the older boys led us in a devotional service.

"Following that meeting the boys were split up into groups for Bible study under very capable leadership. In these groups we discussed the topic Why four Gospels? which dealt with the different conceptions of the life of Jesus of the four men, Matthew, Mark, Luke, John. Each boy came prepared for discussion on that subject and you can imagine what an eager group they made up, seeking to get all they could out of the discussion. Every boy was keyed up with earnestness and resolve while learning of the Saviour.

"Just before noon there were legislature committee meetings in which members prepared by discussion the legislations that were to be brought before the House in the evening when the sessions were held. Here again the members were split up into several groups to work on the different resolutions.

"In the afternoon all boys met at the Y. M. C. A. where new ideas were given to us on hobbies and games, etc. which we could bring back to our groups.

"Returning to the buildings an open forum was held where the boys were free to discuss any problems pertaining to boys' work or otherwise such as sexual relationships and world peace, etc.

"One most important question which arose was the question of church attendance—why the boys don't attend church and why they seem uninterested—and no matter from what angle we took these questions we found that the home was the central problem in the discussion of church relations. It is in the home and from their parents that the boys and girls receive their first ideas and impressions. It is in the home where their opinions are created and there is where a right attitude to the church should be taught.

"We cannot expect boys and girls to understand the different functions of the church without having a knowledge of what they stand for. Education is needed in church traditions and in church practices, the same as it is in any other phase of our life, and this should not be left to the Sunday School teacher for it is in the home that these can best be taught.

"In the evenings regular sessions of the House were held where the resolutions were put before the Assembly, were thoroughly debated

VARIETY IN FILMS

"Till We Meet Again" and "Wives Never Know" Features Of Capitol Double Bill

"Till We Meet Again," a thrilling spy drama, and "Wives Never Know," a delightful comedy, are the feature pictures on the first of the week double bill picture program at the Capitol Theatre here.

"Till We Meet Again," starring Herbert Marshall, is a tale of World War espionage. Two stage celebrities, a British matinee idol and his fiancée, a Viennese actress, are caught in the cyclone of war and, as spies for opposing belligerents, they meet in a German war office. The girl unwittingly betrays her sweetheart and risks a firing squad to save him in a poignant climax. Gertrude Michael is the Viennese actress and others in the cast include Rod LaRoque and Lionel Atwill.

What happens when a happily married husband takes the advice of a love expert and starts a love affair just to keep his wife's nervous system properly turned up is revealed in "Wives Never Know" which stars Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland. Adolphe Menjou is the villainous love expert who is himself eventually trapped into marriage. The hilarious climax is one of the features of the picture.
