COUGAR IN INTERIOR

One Cat Taken Near Moricetown And Another is at Large

SMITHERS, April 1:—The cougar is an animal that is not native to the Bulkley Valley district but occasionally there is one bagged in this vicinity.

Early last week two of these undesirable visitors were found prowling in the neighborhood of Moricetown, about 20 miles north of Smithers, and the natives of that village took up the hunt, accompanied by their many dogs, in an effort to eliminate these predatory animals.

The dogs were successful in treeing one of the animals and Jimmy Michel brought the cougar tumbling out of the tree with a rifle shot.

It was treed near the Campbell farm and weighed about 330 pounds.

The other cougar made her escape but the Indians are hopeful of getting her eventually and of collecting the $20 bounty that is paid for these animals.

DISCOURSE INTERESTS

"Cross Examination" Subject Of Interesting And at Times Amusing Talk Before Gyro Club

Interpolating his talk with many interesting and amusing incidents of actual court happenings, Sergeant J. H. McClinton, chief of the Prince Rupert district detachment of the provincial police, spoke before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at its regular weekly luncheon yesterday on the subject of "Cross Examination." At the same luncheon Sergeant McClinton was elected a member of the club. Dr. H. N. Brocklesby, president of the club, was in the chair and a guest was J. T. Harvey. A report on the preliminary organization meeting for the Coronation celebration in Prince Rupert was received from D. G. Borland, a member of the general celebration committee.

Court cases, Sergeant McClinton explained, were decided on evidence given by witnesses. Witnesses could be divided into two general classes—non-expert and expert. The non-expert witness gave testimony of what he had seen, or under certain circumstances, heard. It came within the purview of expert witnesses to give deductions.

Veracity of witnesses was a very important matter. Much depended upon the ability or inability to tell the truth and, of course, upon the desire to do so. There was a tendency on the part of some witnesses to dramatize what they had seen. Some, seemingly, could not help but exaggerate. Difficulties often arose from people being color blind, the tendency to overestimate or underestimate time, distance and sizes. The sense of smell also could often be confused. The powers of observation of many people were faulty. A noisy automobile always seemed to be going faster than a quiet one.

Sergeant McClinton devoted considerable attention to the matter of perjury. There were three principal methods of preventing perjury—first, the administration of the oath; second, the penalty for perjury, and, third and most important, cross examination. The oath had become largely a matter of form. It was difficult to estimate how much perjury actually occurred. It was also difficult to obtain convictions for perjury. One noted American authority had said that perjury was a foregone conclusion in most criminal cases. Cross-examination, the speaker believed, was possibly the most efficient means of securing truthful testimony. The successful cross-examiner must spend much time in study and preparation. Questions, even though seemingly simple, must be carefully prepared. They must lead up to something.

Sergeant McClinton closed his talk with the relating of a number of interesting court incidents, some of them highly amusing.

CHANGES IN POLICE ANNOUNCED TODAY

Some changes are being made in the provincial police. Constable C. H. Bennett is leaving here tonight to be stationed at Bralorne in the Bridge River district. Constable F. G. Saunders is leaving for Ocean Falls to be located and Constable M. R. Dafeo, who is now at Ocean Falls, has been transferred to Prince Rupert and will arrive here tomorrow.

SOME NATIVE TOOLS

Rev. Canon W. F. Rushbrook Tells of Some of The Native Museum Specimens and Explains How They Are Used

A museum is a sort of historic radio. It brings up to the present knowledge of the most ancient past. It portrays geology, biology, culture and kindred subjects from their beginnings through to their climaxes of today.

As every geological period has its distinctive formations, biological periods their own special flora and fauna, so every tribe and nation all down through the ages has had its peculiar culture, sometimes very primitive yet positive. A single stone implement or a potsherd may fix the cultural development of a race or give some more or less exact chronological information.

Hence there is no place that should so thrill the imagination as a museum. Our local museum possesses an outstanding collection of native handicraft.

As one looks at, let us say the bows and arrows and a great stone mortar, one can visualize dusky skinned swains, a maid and a youth, a shady nook. She is busy with the exacting work of grinding out of solid granite rock with sand and water, a mortar (a two or three years job, by the way) and he is fashioning with his rude tools bows and arrows. Yet neither is too busy to neglect the idyllic. He would display, with just pride, the fine fire-tempered yew wood bow, show its graceful symmetry, test with mighty arm its strength and well balanced elasticity. He would pet it as a thing of beauty which he loved (for it is a piece of exact science born of long experience) then perhaps further charm his companion by sending a shaft unerring to its mark. He would explain too the excellence of his arrows. That these long straight unfeathered yew and crab wood shafts with their needle-like points or those of lighter woods but tipped with bone or shell are for the hunt! These bone, stone or fire tempered yew wood points which fit into a socket at the head of this shaft (the shaft you see is beautifully painted and carefully bound around the top to strengthen and keep it from splitting) they are mostly used in warfare. Arrow points are from six to eight inches in length. The bows, both Haida and Tsimpsian, are about forty inches long and differ considerably in construction. The former is narrower but has a strengthening tongue running the full length of the under side.

Neolithic Products

But if the neolithic product is interesting, the neolite itself is not less so. These neolites comprise such tools as adzes, axes, hammers, knives etc. and were mostly made of grey balsam, some though, are of an inferior jade, said to have come from the Thompson river. The rocks were chipped down to the required size, then polished down with hard sand stones. Adzes are from ten to fifteen inches in length and two inches thick at the hammer end, tapering of course to a fine cutting chisel point. Neolithic hammers are of a quite different shape, necessary for holding the spruce root thongs by which the adze was attached to its handle, mostly a crocheted flexible cedar, yew or crab wood branch, for the method in using the adze was not a strike but rather a quiver created by a rapid muscular movement of the arm. The adze head lifted a very short distance from the object it was cutting. It had more the effect of a modern planing machine. The writer saw the principle in action by an aged native at Kitkatla when he was constructing a canoe. But the adze on this occasion was a steel chisel attached native-wise to a primitive handle.

These stone tools were carefully sharpened after each use. Some knowledge of the expertness of the users of these tools may be had from an examination of the food boxes, dishes, coffins etc., in the museum. Their knives made of grey balsam, quartz or yew wood were shapely and keen edged, for the flesh of the halibut, salmon and mammals were with these knives, cut into very thin strips for drying, large sea and land animals were skinned and their tough hides cut up for various purposes.

Singing and Blood Pressure

Evidently quite a large number of people between sixty and seventy years of age have high blood pressure and now comes a German physician who says that singing will reduce blood pressure. It is horrible to think what may be the result of this discovery. If all the wheezy old men were to start singing it might cause more misery by far than to have a few of them die off a year or two earlier than might be the case if they kept their mouths shut. It is another case where the cure would be worse than the disease.

What Would Cause War

Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, has been telling the British people what that country would be prepared to fight for. They would be prepared to fight in their own defence or in defence of territories of the British Commonwealth; in defence of France or Belgium in case of unprovoked attack; in case a western pact is reached in defence of Germany if she were the victim of unprovoked aggression by any of the other signatories, and lastly in defence of Iraq and Egypt in accordance with treaty obligations.

This attitude of Great Britain is designed to prevent war if possible and should receive general support. Following the failure of the League of Nations to prevent wars on two occasions, the attitude of Britain is possibly the best substitute for the League. Eden has put his finger on the danger spots and told the world what will happen in case anything should occur in those zones. This policy of open diplomacy is the best antidote to war and has already had a good effect in Europe, especially in view of the preparations of Britain, which will enable her to be ready in any emergency.

Was Losing Influence

Up to the past few months Britain was losing face in European diplomacy. Her statesmen thought to lead the world in peace gestures but this was construed as weakness and degeneracy and was not followed by other nations. Then she realized the position and is steadily regaining her lost prestige. Today she is on the way to becoming again the strongest all-round power in Europe.

EASTER AT KITZEGUKLA

Many Special Events at Interior Native Village—Numerous Visitors

KITZEGUKLA, April 1:—Last Thursday about thirty people arrived by train from Kispiox to spend the week-end in Kitzegukla. The visitors paraded to the United Church to the accompaniment of the bands and later a service of welcome was conducted. Rev. Bishop Black welcomed them on behalf of the church and Mrs. (Chief) Malkan and Chief James Weget on behalf of the community. The visitors responded by conducting an initiation service.

In the evening a pre-Passion service was held in the United Church conducted by the visitors. On Good Friday morning a service was held in the United Church when the pastor addressed the united churches upon the subject the dying words of Jesus, "It is finished." The home choir rendered beautifully the Anthem "Rock of Ages."

An afternoon service was held in the Salvation Army Hall at 3 p.m. under the leadership of Capt. Johnson. A unique feature of this service was a pageant illustrating the crucifixion performed by six girls in beautiful white robes. Mrs. Johnson sang an appropriate hymn while the girls surrounded Miss Johnson who stood with extended arms in front of a cross and was crowned with a coronet of thorns.

A further service was held in the church at 7:30 p.m., when an address was given by John Brown of Kispiox, and afterwards the Epworth League of Kispiox conducted the song service.

Banquets for Visitors

On Saturday at noon the Ladies Aid of the United Church sponsored a luxurious banquet for the visitors and residents. Dressed in Chinese and Japanese costumes they entered the Hall, while the band played a march. There was entertainment with 'oriental' dancing, speeches and mimicry all in Chinese fashion.

The local band seated on the platform rendered a number of selections under the able conductorship of Abbe Russ. The enthusiastic applause was evidence of the appreciation of the people. After the banquet speeches were delivered by the home people and the visitors and they vied with each other in wit and humorous expressions, all in the native tongue.

Home League Banquet

In the evening the Home League of the Salvation Army extended a cordial invitation to the visitors and residents to a dinner. The local brass band was again in attendance and gave many interesting selections.

A program of music included: "Marching to Glory" by members of the Home League; address of welcome by Bert Russell; invocation by Rev. Bishop Black; march, "C.S.M." the band; piccolo solo, Harry Angus; imitation of Howling Pup, Magnus Turner (a six year old); speech, Sergt. Major McDames; solo, "Free at Last," Magnus Turner; speech, Rev. Bishop Black; march by band; song, "John Brown's Body," the League; march, "The Imperial" by the band; Negro spirituals, Abbe Russ and Kenneth Cecil and also many other speeches.

David Williams gave a very earnest appeal for a closer co-operation among business and church affairs. He deplored the lack of loyalty given by men to leadership.

Easter Services

Sunday services began at 6 a.m. with an early sunrise service in the United Church. At 11 a.m. a community service was held, conducted by Rev. B. Black. Prayer was offered by Adjutant McKay and the lesson from scripture by Joshua Ridley, who translated it into the native tongue.

Two Easter anthems were sung one by the Kispiox choir and the other by Kitzegukla choir under the able leadership of Abbe Russ assisted by Walter Wesley at the organ.

During the service a baptismal service was held and the communion service at the close. A very impressive service was held in the Salvation Army Hall at 3 p.m. Capt. Johnson and David Williams were in charge. A very beautiful ceremony was the decorating of the Cross. Mrs. Johnson distributed Easter lilies while the audience sang "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

Afterwards the ladies gathered around the Cross and placed the lilies in the holes that had been made all over the cross. It was a lovely picture when finished. A united service was held in the church at 7:30 p.m. and Chief Councillor Johnson of Kispiox gave the address.

The pulpit at the church was decorated with Easter lilies by the members of the Ladies' Aid and looked very attractive. On Easter Monday afternoon the United Church choir provided a banquet for the Kispiox visitors.

Commencing with a speech of welcome by Sam Wesley and the invocation by Rev. Bishop Black. Then followed a march by the local band. Afterwards there was a speech of welcome by Arthur Sampare. The band then played "Colonel Bogey" and other selections.

Afterwards the choir rendered an anthem, "The Heavens Are Telling." This was followed by a humorous skit, "Examining the Cook," by Dr. Kipper; solo by Henry Wilson; duet by Abbe Russ and Nora Wesley; duet by two juniors (age about 6 years) Cora and Godfrey Wesley. Then followed two Negro spirituals, "I'm Going to be Ready," and "Get on Board, Little Children" by the choir under the leadership of Kenneth Cecil.

During the next period the visitors from Kispiox entertained the audience with their skit on "The Chinese Doctor and His Patients." During the afternoon speeches were given by the local representative officials and the officers of the visiting team.

The banquet closed with expressions of thanks to all that had taken part and the singing of the doxology. In addition to about thirty visitors from Kispiox, there were also Adj. McKay, his wife and child, and Ben Seymour from Kitselas.

NEWS OF THE MINES

Opening Up Omineca Mining District by Highway
—Supplies Being Rushed in Over Snow—
Good Progress at Independence

According to word received from Ottawa a substantial sum is being set aside by the federal authorities this year to continue the Manson Creek road out of Fort St. James towards Finlay Forks, primarily as a mining road. Last year $100,000 was voted for the extension of the existing road to Manson Creek but only $60,000 could be spent on account of weather conditions. The amount to be used this year has not yet been determined but it will be sufficient to build the road within striking distance of Finlay Forks. Meanwhile, the provincial government, co-operating in the project, is expected to extend its present Peace River road system eastward from Fort St. John along the north bank of the Peace to Finlay Forks. Within three years, or four at the most, it is planned to join up from the two ends and thus provide a highway from the Peace River country to the line of the Canadian National Railways at Vanderhoof. The first effect of the highway would be the opening up of the rich mineral country of the Manson Creek area and, further north, the known mineral resources tributary to the Finlay River. At present all development is hampered by lack of any transportation except by air.

Great activity is now in progress between Vanderhoof and the mining region to the north in the Manson Creek and Omineca areas and supplies are being rushed in by freighters while the snow remains on the ground. At the Vanderhoof end of the road snow is rapidly disappearing and freighters are working day and night. A snow train composed of a 60-75 h.p. diesel tractor hauling three heavy sleighs loaded with a twenty-five ton diesel shovel, fuel for the trip and a caboose for the crew of workmen has arrived at German-son Creek from Vanderhoof, taking in supplies for Charles F. de Ganahl, New York millionaire. Harold M. Perison is running four two-ton trucks from Vanderhoof to the Nation River, a distance of 110 miles, with supplies for the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. Ltd., Mr. de Ganahl and the Rossetti-Hayward Syndicate. Harold W. Smith is operating two trucks freighting in supplies for Capt. R. D. Adams on Manson Creek and the Robert C. McCorkell interests on German-son Creek. Two airplanes are working between Fort St. James on Stuart Lake and Takla Landing and Aiken Lake. It is conservatively estimated that during the coming season there will be five hundred men working in the mining areas north of Fort St. James. This mining activity in the Omineca country is another strong argument in favor of the early construction of a railway line which would connect the Peace River country with the line of the Canadian National Railways in the central interior. It is also proving a boon for the agricultural producers of the Vanderhoof country whose products it is helping to consume.

Among activities of the coming season in the Omineca country will be those of Toronto mining interests who are financing an expedition of prospectors into the country north of Finlay Forks where, they believe, extremely rich gold and other mineral deposits are to be found.

Owen McFadden, Jack Dodds, Paul Dempsey and Jack Lenehan of Stewart are putting the Glacier Creek camp in order and taking up supplies to start work on their lease of the Lucky Boy claim on which McFadden and Dodds last fall disclosed a very nice ore exposure not a great distance from the Dunwell mill. The lease has been acquired in the names of McFadden and Dodds.

S. P. Fitzgerald, who was in Stewart last week from the property, reported satisfactory progress being made in work on the Independence mine. During the past few weeks the main camp has been renovated and is now occupied. Twenty feet of cross-cutting has been carried out in the main lower tunnel. The object of the work is to determine the width of the vein in the tunnel. Two cuts recently put in bring the total to four cuts across the vein on this level in a distance of four hundred feet and indicate an average width of approximately sixteen feet. Mr. Fitzgerald is saying nothing about values until assay returns have been received. It is the intention to continue work of driving a cross-cut from the lower tunnel to intersect No. 1 vein at a depth of about two hundred feet. Mr. Fitzgerald is very optimistic regarding the property. Jack Fitzgerald, during the last few days, joined his brother, Sam, on the property.

D. D. Kimball was in Stewart last week from the Excelsior property upon which he said satisfactory progress was being made.

Essington Church Observes Easter

PORT ESSINGTON, April 1.—The Easter services at Pierce Memorial United Church were much enjoyed. At the evening service the choir rendered very acceptably the anthem "He is Not Here, But is Risen." Wm. Spalding sang with fine effect "Open the Gates of the Temple." Rev. F. Bushfield was in charge of the service and took as his subject "A New World." The church was tastefully decorated with Easter lilies, daffodils and pussy willows. Mrs. Bushfield was organist and choir leader. A Communion service was held at the close.

M. Collins and mother of Ocean Falls arrived in the city on the Prince George yesterday morning from the paper town and proceeded by last evening's train on a trip to Regina.

The delegates arrived on Thursday and were duly welcomed. Refreshments were served in the Church Army Hall by the members of the White Cross and Woman's Auxiliary. ## Kitzegukla Has Flu Epidemic

Almost Everybody in Interior Native Village is Afflicted

KITZEGUKLA, April 1.—Kitzegukla thought it was going to escape the influenza but it paid a short visit about two weeks ago and laid many low. Almost every man and child in town has been confined to the house. The ladies also had attacks but they seemed to have been less severe cases.

Chief Weget was taken sick at the church service on Good Friday and it seems a very serious case. He is still confined to his bed, but is gradually improving.

St. Mark's Church of Kitwano, under leadership of Albert Douse, and St. Paul's Church of Kitwanga, under Solomon Bryant. The Church Army was in charge of the evening service. ## Butler Was New Senator Type

Was Business Man Instead Of Orator—Went to Upper Chamber in 1924

BOSTON, April 1.—Before the 1924 campaign of the late President Calvin Coolidge, of which he was manager, got under way there was talk of the late Senator William Morgan Butler, whose death is recorded, running for the Senate from his own state against David I. Walsh, but his duties as national chairman were bound to prevent his making an active campaign. When Senator Lodge died, however, he was appointed to fill the vacancy and took his seat on December 1, 1924.

Just as he had proved a new kind of political manager so he proved a new kind of Senator, at least for Massachusetts. Here was a plain business man, by no stretch of the imagination an orator, succeeding to the seat of Webster and Sumner, Cabot and Adams, Choate and Lodge.

Back to Senate
By accepting a place in the Senate, Butler returned to the public service beyond the age of 50 after a lapse of nearly 20 years. At the age of 27 he had been elected to the Massachusetts Senate, of which he was resident for two years.

Born at New Bedford, Mass., on January 29, 1861, the son of a Methodist preacher, Butler's first aspiration was to become a sailor. His father refused to permit that ambition to be fulfilled and at the age of 15 young Butler began to work as a clerk in a shoe factory. After five years at a desk there he studied law, being admitted to the bar in 1883.

His early practice was in New Bedford, but after his service in the Legislature he established himself in Boston and continued to practice law there until 1895

Mr. Butler was married on July 15, 1886, to Minnie F. Norton, of Edgartown, Mass. They were the parents of Morgan Butler, Gladys Butler, and Mariam Butler. The Senator married a second time on January 1, 1907, making Mary Lothrop Webster, of Boston, his wife. Two children, Beatrice and Mary, were born to that union.

Man in the Moon

It is about time to think of the outdoors. Already the yachting enthusiasts are beginning to repair the leaks in their boats and are daubing gallons of paint on the hulls.

Jack says he wonders if the swimming club will come to life this spring early enough to get everything in readiness for the early bathers.

This is All Fools Day and the boys were having a good time this morning fooling their parents and worrying their close friends. That was about the extent of their pranks, so far as I have heard.

This morning a boy was told to hang the rug on the line and beat it. He did, but he had to come home at dinner time and then there was another beating.
