Build Actors Delay For a Week Their Decision in Regard To Joining Strike

HOLLYWOOD, May 4: (CP)—Six thousand studio workers have swept into the spreading film industry strike as guild actors, having arranged a week's delay in joining the walk-out. The six thousand members of the eleven unions of the Federated Motion Picture Crafts were ordered not to report to work yesterday morning and 3500 were assigned to picket duty. The basis of the dispute, which first flared into a strike Friday night, is the Federated Crafts' demand on nine major companies for sole bargaining rights. The central strike committee, without giving reason, called all women marchers off the picket lines surrounding the Hollywood motion picture studios today. An official said the decision was made after trouble last night at Westmore's. The House of Westmore, extravagant film colony beauty salon, was damaged, owners said, to the extent of $15,000 when three men and a woman smashed mirrors, ripped carpets and tapestries and smeared creosote over the establishment.

Final Decree of Divorce Clears Way For Marriage

LONDON, May 4: (CP)—Following the granting of a final decree of divorce to Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson yesterday, she and the Duke of Windsor are now free to marry whenever they choose. The wedding will perhaps take place in the chapel of the Chateau de Candé where Mrs. Simpson has been staying towards the end of May. The Duke of Windsor was reunited at Monts, France, today with the woman for whom he renounced the British throne. The reunion took place after five months and one day of enforced loneliness for the former King shortly after noon (4:45 a.m. Pacific Standard Time) when the Duke reached Chateau de Candé from St. Wolfgang, Austria. Mrs. Simpson met him on the doorstep of the chateau. The Duke jumped from his car and, arm in arm with Mrs. Simpson, he went inside the castle. As the Duke's car passed, every British newspaperman removed his hat. The Duke waved to the newsmen.

QUEEN'S ESCORTS

Her Majesty's Arrival in Abbey May 12 Will be One of Most Impressive Parts of Pageant

LONDON, May 4: (CP)—Fifteen women of noble rank will accompany Queen Elizabeth during her procession into Westminster Abbey on the morning of Coronation, expected to be one of the most impressive and spectacular moments of the entire pageant. Before the Queen's company enters, other processions precede her—the royal representatives of other countries; visiting princes and princesses and princesses of the blood royal; abbey beadle leading the chaplains and clergy of Westminster; officers of the orders of knighthood; standard bearers of the dominions with their standards; standard of England and the royal standard; the prime minister of the United Kingdom and the prime ministers of the dominions. The keeper of the jewel house will walk directly ahead of the Queen's retinue, bearing on a cushion two ruby rings and a sword for the offering. Behind him follows the Herald of York, the Herald of Windsor with herald extraordinary appointed for the occasion in the picturesque tabards. Next will come two peers bearing the Queen's regalia, the Ivory Rod with the Dove and Sceptre with the Cross. Between these noblemen will be the lord chamberlain of her Majesty's household the Earl of Airlie. The Queen's crown will be carried directly in front of her by the Duke of Portland accompanied by two sergeants-at-arms and a page. Her Majesty will be supported by two bishops, one walking on either side. She will wear a plain gold circlet on her head and have her six-yard purple velvet and ermine train carried by six maids of honor or train-bearers, dressed alike. They will be: Lady Iris Mountbatten, 17-year old daughter of the Marquess of Carisbrooke, cousin of the King and one of the bridesmaids to the Duchess of Kent; Lady Ursula Manners, 30-year old daughter of the Duchess of Rutland and keeper rider to the hounds; Lady Elizabeth Paget, daughter of the Marquess and Marchioness of Anglesey, who is also 20; Lady Elizabeth Percy, 21 and elder sister of the Duke of Northumberland; Lady Margaret Cavendish-Bentick, grand-daughter of the Duke of Portland, who is just 19, and Lady Diana Legge, third daughter of the Earl of Dartmouth, former lord great chamberlain. Queen Elizabeth is following the precedent set by Queen Mary who had six ladies as trainbearers, Queen Alexandria's train was carried by pages. The mistress of the robes, the Duchess of Northumberland, an old friend of the royal family, will follow. Bows Before King After the Queen has been anointed and crowned she will walk slowly towards the King's throne and make an obeisance before him. As she does so, the mistress of the robes and the six trainbearers bow with her and then range themselves behind the Queen as she takes her place on the throne. During the anointing a golden canopy is held over her Majesty's head by four duchesses dressed alike. These will be: the Duchess of Norfolk, a recent bride; the Duchess of Buccleugh, sister-in-law of the Duke of Gloucester; the Duchess of Rutland and the Duchess of Roxburghe. Following the mistress of the robes will walk the ladies of the bedchamber—Countess Spencer, (Continued on Page Two)

Mammoth Silica Property is Now Looking Up

The Mammoth Silica mine, Refuge Bay, Porcher Island, is completing arrangements for installation of a small mill. Sufficient tonnage is in sight to keep the mill busy for years. A new silica product for domestic and export markets has been developed. Organization of sales is under way. Work on the resurfacing of the road from Refuge Bay to the mine will begin in June. The outlook for gold in the property is encouraging. The granite has been discovered to replace the sedimentary surface capping at a depth much shallower than expected. Indications point to the possibility of gold production at an early date.

Basques, However, Assert That This is Not Entirely The Case—Fighting To Save City and Permit Evacuation of Women and Children.

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France, May 4: (CP)—Basque defenders of Bilbao were putting up a last ditch fight today to save the city and make possible the evacuation of a few thousand women and children. Spanish insurgent dispatches said that General Emilio Mola's troops were swarming into the mountainous region north of Bilbao and that their artillery commanded the Nervion River, Bilbao's water outlet to the Bay of Biscay. Basque reports declared, however, that government soldiers were holding their ground west of Bermeo, a fishing town only eight miles north of Bilbao. The Basque government said that three thousand Italian troops in the insurgent army had been killed in an assault when they were cut off from their Bermeo base.

This Is Good Government

The announcement that the Pattullo government will undertake a vast program of road building that will give British Columbia nearly 500 miles of new hard surfaced roads and will complete more than half of this province's section of the Trans-Canada Highway is good news indeed, says the Vancouver Sun.

Coupled with the further announcement that Ottawa is to spend almost seven and a half millions on roads, in conjunction with the provinces, this program means that at long last some tangible and practical solution of the unemployment problem is at hand—to say nothing of an overdue improvement in our highway system.

As we have pointed out in this column before, all monies spent on good, permanent road building will not only provide work for a great volume of the unemployed but will eventually yield a revenue of many hundred percent in tourist business.

So far as British Columbia is concerned, the increase in the gasoline tax alone will pay for these roads in a very short span of years.

It is unfortunate that this road-building program on the part of the Ottawa and British Columbia governments is not ten times as extensive. For whatever sum is spent on good roads in Western Canada will yield tremendous dividends, not only in creating work for the unemployed, but in attracting tourist money into the country.

However, extensions of this program are definitely planned. The present expenditure is merely a start.

Even as a start, it is an evidence of good government and sound administration on the part of Ottawa and Victoria alike.

Bernice Palmer says . . .

Chinatown! Doesn't that conjure up visions of soft Oriental lanterns and sloe-eyed maidens with brightly colored pajamas, tiny feet and languid grace? Firecrackers, chop suey (which no self respecting Chinese eats!) and tong wars? This and much more does San Francisco's China Town offer the tourist. San Francisco has two Chinatowns—one put on for the tourists and kept going by their patronage, and one for the Chinese themselves. The latter is the one that interests me most. It is off Grant Avenue and away from the more showy section where Chinese live and worship today as their ancestors have for centuries. Old dilapidated frame buildings hide from the world the gorgeous rooms beyond where priceless tapestry and jade furnish rooms in Oriental splendor, or dives where old men seek consolation in the pipe. Women quietly trot about their business (and their peculiar walk can only be called that) in funny black flapping trousers and coat with turned up collar, their hair in a knot on the back of the neck, and conversing in the monotonous sing-song so peculiar to China. After business hours many of the Chinese working girls change to their native costumes and lend an air of romance and enchantment to the scene.

If women insist on wearing pajamas, I never can understand why they do not adopt the becoming pants and coats of the Chinese maidens, instead of the mannish garb they do. The silk trousers and tailored coat that hugs the waist and then flares gaily decorated with silk embroidery, is so much more becoming than the shapeless pajamas one sees so often. Then there are the men with their flopping pants and full jackets—these are not "form fitting" as the girls, running in their funny, jogging, sluffing gait and carrying trays of the most intriguing smells, on their heads.

A look at some of the native food, however, sort of puts a damper on one's enthusiasm, so to speak, and I would advise that you "skip it." But be sure and stop at the native candy stalls and try some of the Chinese nuts or coconut candies. Some of these are very brightly colored—but, having outgrown my tendencies for such "noisy" foods, I usually stick to the white confections. Chinatown does that to you! And of course there is the native telephone office and bank, and the Buddhist Temple and other "civic attractions," none of which should be missed. And if you have the time, a native theatre. However, I do think you will come out of that experience with a much greater appreciation of your own type of entertainment!

The Chinese drug stores have always held a peculiar fascination for me with their funny bottled insects, the different barks, roots and herbs used in their practice. It must be interesting to be a Chinese doctor.

In all China itself, I don't believe there is a spot more interesting than San Francisco's Chinatown with its American Chinese, its Chinese Chinese, and its firecrackers and tongs.

And in Oakland, determined that American born Oriental children shall not grow up in ignorance of the language, history and culture of their ancestors, classes are held every day for Japanese children, and special transportation is also arranged for them. The children are picked up after their regular public school classes are over. Etiquette is also stressed—perhaps it would be a good idea if the same course was included in our own schools.

If your are thinking of picking up Chinese curios, don't. You can get them cheaper in Vancouver, or could some years ago, as the duty on bringing such articles into the United States, added to the price, makes anything worth while pretty steep. Some merchants will even throw in a story along with the price of the curio, as a proprietor of a certain curio shop in Prince Rupert use to "once upon a time!"

CHEERIO!

ORGANIZING BOYS-GIRLS

Junior Agricultural Clubs in Interior Prove Successful

SMITHERS, May 4:—In 1936 Smithers district had four Junior Clubs with a total membership of 37. This year a good deal of added interest is being shown. Already the Bulkley Valley has two dairy calf clubs organized with a membership of about 26, a grain club with seven members and a baby chick club for some of the younger boys and girls with a membership of seven. It is expected that the Francois Lake Club will again be organized as soon as it is possible to call a meeting in that area.

These clubs have the following objects:

- 1.—Create an interest in farming among the boys and girls.
  - 2.—Give a general training in the project they elect to follow.
  - 3.—Develop the boys and girls to carry on the farm work and their duties as citizens when they grow up.
- These clubs are regularly organized with a president and secretary, and adult organizer and are under the supervision of the District Agriculturalist. It is preferable for them to be sponsored by some organization such as the Farmers' Institute or Women's Institute. During the season, meetings and field days are held and instructions are given dealing with their particular project and any related subjects.

This year the Dominion government is assisting in paying prize money to swine, dairy and beef clubs. T. G. Stewart of the Dominion Department of Agriculture is to assist at some of the meetings and in final judging of results. Mr. Stewart is particularly well qualified for this work.

No one acquainted with the Junior Club work can doubt its value, both in the instruction given to the boys and girls and in the extension of subjects of interest to the farm. To carry on the work successfully the co-operation of the parents is necessary and they can do their part by seeing the boy or girl in the club work is given time and material for the work. The cost is very little and a boy or girl satisfied with his place on the farm is worth a lot to the parents and to the community.

Her Limbs Were Almost Crippled

Suffered With Sciatica For 25 Years

Those who are subject to sciatica should read this letter from one who suffered for years before she found out how to obtain relief:—

"For 25 years I suffered from sciatica in my right side, and I had backaches which forced me to remain in bed for two or three weeks at a time. When I got up in the mornings, my arms and legs used to pain me almost unbearably. One day I heard of Kruschen Salts. I took a bottle of them without feeling much improvement. I tried a second bottle, and that time I felt better. I have kept on taking Kruschen ever since."—(Mrs.) H. L.

The pains of sciatica are frequently caused by an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients of these salts assist the internal organs to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

Gown For Queen Is All British

Her Majesty Drives to Abbey Unveiled and Returns Wearing Crown

LONDON, May 4: (CP)—All-British materials are being used in the making of the Coronation gown of Queen Elizabeth, which will be much on the lines of that worn by Queen Mary at her own Coronation in 1911.

The latter gown now hangs in the Ontario Museum at Toronto, cut on princess lines, with short sleeves finishing above the elbow, and a little chemisette of lace.

Symbolic embroidery, combining the emblems of Great Britain and Empire, will decorate the dress back and front. Oak leaves and acorns, the Tudor rose, the thistle, shamrock and Star of India, and the lotus lily, all figure in Queen Mary's gown of 1911.

Elizabeth's gown will be worn beneath the Imperial robe of purple royal velvet specially woven for the occasion. White shoes will match the gown.

Queen Elizabeth will not wear a veil when she drives to Westminster Abbey, and a striking contrast will be provided by the simplicity of her uncovered hair on the outward journey, and the glittering crown and rich velvet robes which she will wear on the return drive to Buckingham Palace.

COLORFUL CHARLTON

Athletics' Record-Breaking Rise in English Soccer Made at Woolwich—To Tour Canada

LONDON, May 4: (CP)—The colorful history of Charlton Athletic, London football club which will tour Canada and the United States in June, touches many extremes but none more dramatic than the chapter just closing.

Advancing in three years from the third division of the English League to the position of strong major league title challenger, Charlton found one of its bitterest rivals the great Arsenal club. It was removal of the Gunners from Woolwich to Highbury, another London district, that made room for the Athletic as a league club.

After a small beginning in 1903 and an auspicious introduction to minor professional company in 1921, Charlton decided the time was ripe to bring league football back to the southeast district. Application was made and in the same year the young team was assigned to the third division, southern section, of the English League.

Originally named East Street Mission, the team became successively Blundell Mission and the Charlton Reds, playing only friendly matches. In 1905 the name Charlton Athletic was adopted and amateur league competition entered. Making rapid progress the club was runner-up in the London Amateur League in 1914.

The war put an end to Charlton's activities for four years but in 1918 it was revived and won the Suburban League title. Its consistent high amateur record resulted in the turn to professionalism.

Arthur Whalley, described as "a price of a halfback," was a member of the first pro team, others in the line-up being Harold Halse, famous international, and later an Aston Villa star, Frank Burton and Dan Bailey, transferred from West Ham United.

Charlton's great fight in the English Cup competition in 1922-23 brought the team into the spotlight. The Athletics vanquished such giants as Manchester City, Preston North End and West Bromwich Albion but finally went down fighting before Bolton Wanderers, losing by the only goal of the game. That winter saw them finish twelfth in the third division.

Reach Second Division
The 1928-29 season found Charlton campaigning in the second division, finishing in the middle of the table. Second division status was retained for five years when the Londoners slipped back into the junior circuit.

This reverse led to the departure of Alex McFarlane who had managed the squad since 1926. His place was taken by Jimmy Seed, English international and former Sheffield Wednesday and Clapton Orient star. The change had the desired effect, Charlton finishing in fifth place.

A well-balanced side which included Don Welsh, transferred from Torquay United at a fee of $15,000, won third division honors in a canter in 1935. Inspired by Seed's great coaching, Charlton made football history the following year by winning promotion to the first division. Much of Charlton's success dates from the time Albert Gliksten, millionaire timber merchant, and his brother Stanley

WHIFFLETS From the Waterfront

With the assistance of the Charles Currie & Son power tug C. R. C., the Union Oil Co. has been successful in making an almost complete salvage of some 130 empty oil drums which were blown off the company's dock by a sudden gale last week and swept across the harbor into the mouth of McNicholl Creek. The drums were stacked on the dock awaiting shipment to Vancouver when they were blown into the harbor. They have now been shipped to Vancouver.

Armour Salvage Co.'s power tug Daly returned to port this morning after having delivered the Union Oil Co.'s fuel barge to North Island where it will be located for the season. Tug and barge had left here Sunday morning and made a good twenty-five hour crossing to North Island. The barge, which was brought here from Vancouver last week, is in charge of C. B. (Kelly) Letnes of this city. James Adam, marine superintendent for the Union Oil Co., was here in connection with the installation of the barge on the trolling grounds for the season.

The Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. is sending out two of its salmon camps to the trolling grounds this afternoon, the packer Chief Seegay, Capt. Fred Walters taking out one and the Chief Tappet, Capt. Horace Tattersal, the other. One of the camps goes to Squadaree and the other to Freeman Passage near Kitkatla north of Banks Island. ## The Letter Box

LIBERTY

Editor, Daily News:—

A master once had twin daughters whose names were Duty and Liberty. He loved Liberty but Duty was always in the way. So he gave Duty a position among the slaves and sent her away from home. Duty became very ill but the slaves took care of her. She was not their Duty but the master's Duty at first but the master saw nothing of her so she finally became their Duty. In her weakness she was more beautiful and graceful than ever and the slaves loved her. In the meantime Liberty became very ill at home and the master's physician advised him to bring Duty home but the master refused until he finally saw the truth. He was going to lose Liberty. Then he went out to look for Duty, but Duty had died among the slaves so the slaves lost their Duty and the master lost his Liberty. This Duty was a greater Duty than the slaves had ever seen before and by caring for her the slaves had gained their Liberty. But Duty's ghost looked the master square in the face.

So from that time on the master and the slaves honored both Duty and Liberty and in due time God gave them another pair of twins and they called them Justice and Peace.

Man made a graven image of Liberty and worshipped it but he buried Duty in Flander's mud, and raised ten thousand monuments to it.

SPORT CHAT

If the Pittsburg Pirates continue the pace they have so far been setting this season in the National League they may go places in the Big Leagues in 1937. So far the Pirates have won six out of seven starts, adding two more victories over the week-end at the expense of the cellar-dwelling Cincinnati Reds. The St. Louis Cardinals, who have ruled as favorites to take the flag of the senior circuit this year, had a bad week-end, dropping a couple to the Chicago Cubs, and dropped from second into third place below the New York Giants. The two week-end victories for the Chicago Cubs lifted them out of the cellar tie with the Reds into sixth place. It does not seem right for the Cubs to be in the cellar anyway and the general expectation is that they will soon get into the first division and stay there.

In the American League the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees are now tied for the leadership. It is quite possible that they may be the pace-makers this year in the junior loop. Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Athletics are now deadlocked for fourth place below the Boston Red Sox who continue to cling to third position. Chicago White Sox, St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators are in sixth, seventh and eighth places respectively.
