B. Budget Is Brought Down Today Famous Statesman Great Britain Dies; Premier Three Times

No Increase In Taxes This Year, Announces Finance Minister Hart

Surplus For Next Fiscal Year is Anticipated, Not Taking Into Account Relief and Part of Sinking Funds

VICTORIA, Nov. 10: (CP)—Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, told the Legislature today that he had budgeted for a surplus of $80,182 in the fiscal year beginning next March 31. The budget does not, however, provide for unemployment relief expenditures or complete sinking fund allotments. Estimated revenue for the year is $28,065,341 and expenditures $27,985,158. There will be no increase in taxation.

Convicted

EDMONTON.—Joseph H. Urwin, Social Credit member of the Legislature for Edson, was today convicted by a jury in Supreme Court of Alberta of publishing defamatory libel knowing it to be false. He was remanded for sentence until Friday. The six-man jury recommended leniency. Bail was continued until arraignment for sentence. The charge arose out of the publication of the booklet "Bankers' Toadies" in which nine Edmonton men were named.

NEW ACT INVOKED

MONTREAL, Nov. 10: (CP)—The Union of Civil Liberties will fight the Quebec padlock law, passed at the last session of the Legislature to stop the dissemination of Communist propaganda in Quebec. The law was invoked for the first time yesterday when the police visited the office of a Montreal weekly publication and closed it down as being employed in the dissemination of Communist propaganda. Its records and book numbers were seized.

Schacht Anxious To Quit Office

Wishes to be Relieved so That General Goering May Have Free Hand

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, who is continuing as acting minister of economics after having been asked to reconsider his resignation, says that he wishes to relinquish the office definitely so that General Hermann Goering may have a completely free hand with his four-year plan.

EDEN HAS NEW PLAN TO OFFER

Returns From London to Nine-Power Conference in Brussels

BRUSSELS, Nov. 10: (CP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Great Britain returned to the nine-power conference yesterday with, according to report, a new plan for the settling of the Sino-Japanese conflict. The plan is said to be based on the original idea of mediation by United States and Great Britain. Soon after arrival, Captain Eden was in conference with Norman Davis, head of the United States delegation. The conference which is now awaiting a reply from Japan to a second invitation to enter peace negotiations, was to meet again today after adjourning from yesterday.

Shanghai Was Costly
SHANGHAI, Nov. 10: (CP)—The Battle of Shanghai, it is estimated, cost the Chinese 300,000 dead and wounded while Japanese casualties totalled 125,000. The cost to the invaders of capturing the city was $600,000,000 while the defense cost China $250,000,000.

Despite a merciless pounding from artillery, both on land and air, six thousand Chinese soldiers who barricaded themselves in the Nantao quarter after the surrender of Shanghai vowing to fight to the death were still holding out early today although their ranks were believed to be greatly thinned.

Japanese reinforcements were landed on the south and north shores of Hangchow Bay today for what may become a major offensive toward Nanking, the capital. Chinese feared the reinforcements might attack Hangchow as the first step in the drive now that Shanghai is in Japanese hands except for the remnant of the Chinese army.

Treated to Nantao native quarters yesterday and the international settlement and French concession.

Fears Entertained
TORONTO, Nov. 10: (CP)—Canadians are entertained for the safety of five missionaries of the United Church of Canada—four from Toronto and one from Winnipeg—following the capture of Taiyuan, capital of Shansi Province, by the Japanese.

Tokyo Says Safe
TOKYO, Nov. 10: (CP)—Twenty-six foreigners, including eight British missionaries of the Baptist Church, were found in Taiyuan, capital of Shansi Province, on capture by the Japanese forces, it was officially reported here yesterday. All are safe.

Boycott Is Urged
OTTAWA, Nov. 10: (CP)—Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, one of Great Britain's stoutest champions of the League of Nations and its Covenant, sneaking here, urged an economic boycott of Japan. If the nations would cease shipping war materials to Japan and would discontinue buying her products, the present conflict would soon end, he declared.

Viscount Cecil also made a similar plea with a view to bringing about peace in Spain.

WINNIPEG WHEAT PRICE
WINNIPEG, Nov. 10:—The Winnipeg wheat price has been firmer the past few days. November, at $1.11 1/2 Monday, closed at $1.13 1/2 yesterday.

FAMOUS ARTIST DIES
SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 10:—Collin Campbell Cooper, famous artist, is dead here.

REMEMBRANCE DAY
We strongly urge as many as possible to turn out tomorrow to take part in the brief Remembrance Day service at the Cenotaph to show to our fellows and the world that we have not forgotten the men who died or who fought and are still with us. It is very little for us to do for such an occasion. Many will go there and pray that Canada may never again be involved in any armed conflict.

NO PAPER TOMORROW
Tomorrow, being Remembrance Day and a general holiday, there will be no issue of the Daily News. The next regular edition will be Friday afternoon.

Former Premier Dies

Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, as suggested by the picture, was a confirmed air traveller. His son, Malcolm, is seen with him.

BULLETINS SOLDIERS READY AT FRONTIER

FOOTBALL DRAW
ABERDEEN—Ireland and Scotland each netted a point in the international soccer tournament today, playing to a one all draw. The Scots scored a goal in the second half after the Irish had tallied fifteen minutes from the start.

TREATY WITH STATES
LONDON—Premier Neville Chamberlain, speaking at the inauguration of the new Lord Mayor of London at the Guildhall last night, expressed confidence that despite difficulties, a trade treaty would be reached with the United States. He said that United States co-operation was essential to the success of the nine-power conference. The government was determined to have better relations with Italy and Germany, by informal negotiation rather than by public declaration, the Prime Minister declared.

JERUSALEM—Five young Jews, working in a quarry near here, were ambushed and slain yesterday, supposedly by Arabs.

PLOT ON STALIN
MOSCOW—Ten terrorists have been sentenced to execution for plotting to assassinate Dictator Joseph Stalin.

NEW SPEED LIMIT
VICTORIA—Attorney General Gordon Wismer announces that legislation will be introduced providing for a thirty-mile an hour speed limit in British Columbia.

YOUTH TRAINING Plan In Quebec
QUEBEC, Nov. 10:—The Quebec government is putting two thousand unemployed youths in training for useful employment.

LABOR PEACE Parley Has Adjourned
WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 10: (CP)—With no definite agreement yet reached although progress has been made during the past three weeks, the peace conference between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee on Industrial Organization adjourned yesterday until November 18.

Famous Statesman Great Britain Dies; Premier Three Times

Rose From Depths of Obscurity, Through Poverty, Ridicule and Calumny, to Become One of Greatest Statesmen of His Day

LONDON, Nov. 10: (CP)—Rt. Hon. James Ramsay MacDonald, former Prime Minister of Great Britain, died from a heart attack at 9 o'clock last night aboard the liner Reina del Pacifico on which he was bound for a trip to South America for the benefit of his health. He had sailed last Thursday. He had been failing for some time but there was no idea that the end was so near and the Empire was shocked by the news of his passing. He was seventy-one years of age. In the summer of 1927 he visited Prince Rupert in the course of a tour of Canada.

First information of the statesman's death was received in England in a message from Mrs. A. McKinnon (Sheila), the former Prime Minister's daughter, who was accompanying him. She sent a telegram to her husband. The oldest daughter, Isabel, was at the Hampstead home where Mr. MacDonald had been living quietly since his retirement from the government last spring. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, elder son and Secretary of State for the Dominions in the present government, was at Brussels attending the nine-power conference. The younger son, Alister, was on a motor trip to Northern England and Scotland.

The body will be taken from the Reina del Pacifico on its arrival at Hamilton, Bermuda, and returned to England by the first steamer. All parties and leaders joined in paying tribute to Mr. MacDonald as soon as they received word of his death. Political differences were universally sunk as the Empire mourned one of her greatest statesmen of modern times.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain received word of Mr. MacDonald's death at the Guildhall where he was attending the banquet of installation of the new Lord Mayor of London. It was at this same gathering that MacDonald collapsed just a year ago. Mr. Chamberlain expressed "deep sorrow."

From every part of the Empire also came tributes as well as from abroad. President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States said: "He was a great leader, a sound statesman and a loyal friend."

Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King of Canada declared "his career was one of the most outstanding of modern times."

James Ramsay MacDonald, man of destiny of the British Labor movement, was probably one of the select few who will be remembered when the ages have selected the significant from the insignificant of his time. From obscurity and abject poverty, this Scot struggled from the bleak North Sea fishing village of Lossiemouth on Moray Firth, to become thrice prime minister of Great Britain, director of the home government of a world-wide empire. His first cabinet was formed in 1924, his second in 1929 and his third in 1931.

The world felt his influence as an outstanding statesman, a worker for the common weal, a crusader for enduring peace and disarmament after the cataclysm of the world war.

His career was unique in British history. No prime minister before him had been born into such poverty. None had ever entered the historic portals of No. 10 Downing Street.

NOME IS WRECKED

Entire Waterfront of Far Northern Alaska Port Swept Away By Terrific Storm
NOME, Nov. 10: (CP)—The entire waterfront of the east end of Nome was wrecked and nearly all buildings swept away by a terrific storm last night and today. The loss is estimated at more than $125,000 as a result of the waves pounding in.

The Lincoln Hotel, one of the city's largest, was ordered vacated through fears as a result of the foundations being undermined by water. It was the worst storm since the tidal wave of 1913.

BARRED BY UNCLE SAM

Magda de Fontagnes, Whose Name Is Linked With Mussolini's, Charged With Moral Turpitude
NEW YORK, Nov. 10: (CP)—Magda de Fontagnes has been barred from entering the United States by immigration commissioners who heard her case at Ellis Island. They refused the woman entry on the grounds of "moral turpitude."

Mlle. Fontagnes has appealed to Secretary of Labor Perkins for a reversal of the order of the immigration authorities. If this is refused she will have to return to France aboard the liner Normandie late today. Mantine she is detained aboard the ship on which she arrived.

Sweep Money Sent To China

A local Chinaman who won a fairly substantial sweepstake prize last week immediately sent half of the money to China to help in fighting the war against Japan. Local Chinese are contributing substantially to the Chinese defense fund as are their countrymen elsewhere in this country.

LIBERTY IN A SHACK

Liberty in a shack is better than severe restrictions in a palace. That is the feeling of the average Anglo-Saxon. Yet it must be admitted that our boasted democracy is not by any means the most efficient method of government. Take Italy as an example. None of us like the idea of being restricted in our liberties and regimented as they are in the country ruled over by Mussolini. The Italians, however, seem to like it.

A recent visitor to Italy, writing of her observations, tells how the indolent people of the old days have been transformed into aggressive vitalized men and women. There is greater efficiency, self sufficiency and ambition shown everywhere. The cities are no longer dirty and unkempt and the beggars have disappeared from the streets, especially those frequented by tourists. Today cleanliness is apparent everywhere both in the streets and the people. The street cleaners really work and take a pride in it.

The visitor notes that there is efficiency even in the customs department and that everything is done to make the visits of tourists pleasant. Auto horns are taboo, in fact it is against the law to blow a horn in the crowded streets and at night the flash of lights takes the place of the horn. Iron fences are being replaced by education, the people there being taught to respect public and private property. Great public works have been carried out, giving employment to many and those unable to work are cared for by the state.

While we do not like many of the methods of the corporate state we have to admit that it is getting results and, if we are to keep pace with these fascist countries we shall have to try to adapt some of their methods to our democracy or we shall be left far behind in the advance of civilization.

Nobody in Italy refuses to work and then whines because the government relief is so small. The Duce has no use for that kind of citizen and neither has a democracy. Our methods will certainly have to change. Liberty in a shack is all right but it does not always make for progress.

SEES IMPORTANT CENTRE

"I thoroughly believe that, in spite of little setbacks of the past, Prince Rupert is going to be an important centre. Vancouver cannot always keep the city back. The natural resources being developed and the general movement of business northward is bound to result in an increase in population and an increase in prestige of this northern centre. Some people here have waited a long time for this development but I do not think they will have to wait much longer. I see great changes coming about in the next few years." This was the sentiment expressed by a local businessman who is in close touch with the whole country and who does not himself expect to be in the city to share its prosperity. It is the view held by us. We were hoping that the pulp mill might have come soon and that there would have been an influx of new people with new ideas, new ideas and plenty of pluck to stand by what they believe to be best for the city. What we need is a few new fighters, men with vision and virility to take up the fight where the old timers seem to have left off.

We are not suggesting that the pulp mill is not coming. We believe it will but its coming is bound to be delayed for a few months or possibly a year or so. In the meantime we must carry on as if it was never heard of. After all, the building of a city does not depend upon one industry, important as such an industry must be.

Two Killed In Quebec Crash

Girl Pilot and Passenger Lose Their Lives at Airport

QUEBEC, Nov. 10: (CP) — A young woman pilot and her passenger, a Quebec architect, were killed in the crash of an airplane at St. Louis airport here.

Man in the Moon

Welcome to our old friend Winter. May he behave himself as a gentleman should and not overstay his welcome.

The Chinese were not defeated. They have simply withdrawn to a more favorable position.

The Japs are not at war. They are simply carrying out a punitive expedition in China.

"There! I asked you not to leave the kitchen door open."
"Why, what's happened?"
"The draught has shut the cookery book and now I shan't know what I'm cooking!"

An optimist is a man who figures out when his shoes wear out he will be back on his feet again.

"How did you like those Chinese back-scratchers I brought you?"
"Is that what they were? My wife's been making me eat salad with them!"

Where there's a will there's a way, as the funny pictures say.

Jake says he's no politician so he can't be expected to keep exactly to what he says.

A woman may not know what she wants but she usually gets it.

The world is divided into two classes, those who say a thing can't be done and those who go to work and do it.

Chickens come home to roost but they sometimes take the wrong roost.

Corp. Harold Raybone, provincial police, sailed on the Catala yesterday afternoon for a trip to Vancouver on escort duty. He took south a prisoner and a mental patient.

SWINGTIME IN QUINTUPLET LAND

Swingtime has reached the Dafoe hospital in Callendar, Ont., but it's not the kind usually associated with Hollywood or Broadway. This swingtime is the old-fashioned type of fastening a swing to a tree and sailing high into the air. Annette Dionne, who seems to be going individualistic, has already learned the technique of leaning forward to accelerate her speed. Her four sisters are equally at home on a swing as is the famous quint shown above.

Bernice Palmer says . . .

Imagine my embarrassment to pick up a Prince Rupert Daily News and learn that Bernice Palmer is complaining about the brand of weather being dished out to Californians! I'd hate any honest-to-goodness - dyed-in-the-wool Californian to get hold of that item today! You know, down here no one ever admits bad weather. It is just "unusual" and the storm referred to has been thoroughly banished from California annals (and memories) it would be labeled today as libelous! Why we have not only had a simply gorgeous summer but are now enjoying our second crop of roses. We did have a thunder storm the other night, however, and the children's comments on this phenomena at the nursery school next morning were most amusing. Bernice Patricia gravely informed her playmates that thunder was Jesus hammering the stars in the sky. I wonder what she would think of the Northern Lights?

And while I am on the subject of misrepresentations and what have you, I have another complaint to register. This is a really personal complaint, and am I burned up?

To begin with, I had just put in nearly an hour looking for "Efficiency" under "E" to find Webster had moved it into the "E" classification when a letter from Prince Rupert arrived asking me if there wasn't something that could be done about my spelling.

Now for years, ever since I learned for sure I wasn't cut out to be a genius, I have rather prided myself on being original. In some instances, originality came naturally I found, especially in the little matter of my spelling. What I could do without half trying!

But to go back to the beginning and that letter. Ever since becoming a publicity hound and breaking into print, I have rather prided myself on the way I settled down to become commonplace even to the extent of purchasing a dictionary and consulting it when the occasion arose. There are only three cardinal rules in journalism, I learned—accuracy, accuracy and more accuracy. I spent hours verifying recipes, bits of news and what have you, not to mention the hours spent trying to locate words in the newest and most extensive addition of a standard dictionary. My manuscripts became masterpieces of conventional spelling—but—and here is where the rub comes—evidently someone in the Daily News office didn't understand the extent of my reformation.

I skirted it when a slight typographical error such as "hic" for "hit" crept into this column, but now I have a much more serious reeve. When it comes to spelling "California" with the "r" before the "o" and making this "r" state sound like some patent medicine, well, there is reason for remonstrance. I wouldn't mind it so much if it wasn't for the money frittered away on a dictionary. Dictionaries are supposed to make everything right again.

Oakland, Cal CHEERIO!

We Remember

To the Canadian Legion,
B.E.S.L., By Winifred O.
Brass

Have we forgotten, Comrades, that you lie,
Wrapt in dim peace, the quiet fields among?

Those Dawns we waited 'neath a monstrous sky.

Together, while the quivering heart grew strong

Of its own need—Strange, bitter paths and long.

Worn weary feet have travelled ceaselessly;

Mud, fevers, anguish—and the mystic tie.

Born amid war and peril, hate and wrong,

Are you forgotten, there, among your peers?

Rise! Let us hence! Sweet, clarion bugles blow!

About the Stone bright scarlet poppies glow!

Across the years, this morn of Bleak November,

Together still, my Comrades: We remember!

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel weak.

A mere bowel movement does not clear up the case. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes three good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Working as usual on our 120th Birthday

One hundred and twenty years ago there were only seven of us working on the staff of the Bank—a cashier, an accountant, a paying teller, a second teller, a discount clerk, a second bookkeeper, and a porter—that was the entire staff. Today we are more than 6000, in more than 500 Branches, all working to render modern, experienced banking service.

Our Bank's career has been inseparably woven into the career of the nation and every part of it. Founded in 1817, the Bank at once became a financial pathfinder for Canada's pioneers. Through all the intervening, eventful, growing years of Canadian life, our Bank has kept strong and efficient—by pursuing a policy of safety for depositors and by keeping our services always abreast of modern conditions.

In times of expansion and depression, in the best and the worst of economic conditions; through peace and wars, panics and political upheavals, Canadians have learned to rely upon the unwavering safety and banking assistance of the Bank of Montreal. Older than the Dominion itself, yet young as the latest sound business enterprise of Canada, we are working as usual on our 120th Birthday.

Always Tired, Grouchy, Nervous!

Chronic Constipation Made Life Miserable—Is Happy Now

If severe constipation drags you down, try the fruit juice, herb, tonic remedy. Nothing like it. Mrs. L. L. Montreal, writes, "I felt nervous, irritable and tired all the time. Couldn't eat. Didn't sleep. Worked with difficulty due to chronic constipation. I got no relief until I tried Fruit-A-Tives. Soon I became regular, headaches and irritation left me. I have lots of energy now." It's worth while to try this same simple way to regain health. You'll be glad you did. 25c. and 50c.

Carruthers, divisional commander of the Salvation Army for Northern British Columbia and Alaska with headquarters at Wrangell, after paying a visit to the Army post at Canyon City on the Naas River, arrived in the city from the north on the Catala yesterday afternoon and will be here until next Sunday morning when he will proceed to Wrangell on the Princess Norah.

Cambrai Chapter Holds Meeting

Various Activities Taken Up At Home of Miss Lois McRae

The regular monthly meeting of Cambrai Chapter, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Lois McRae with the Regent, Mrs. J. A. Barry, in the chair. Twenty-three members were present.

Arrangements were made for members to participate in the local Armistice Day Parade and plans for a telephone bridge to be held November 17 were completed. The proceeds of this will go towards supplying Xmas cheer for needy families.

A successful spring tea and fall bazaar made it possible to supply further comforts for their ward in the Prince Rupert General Hospital. A standard lamp, window shade and upholstered chair have been ordered and members are knitting a rug for the room.

COL. PECK IS DINED

Sixteenth Dinner Held—Inspects Battery and Visits Legion

Colonel C. W. Peck, V.C., D.S.O., was the guest of the members of his old battalion (16th Canadian Scottish) at dinner last evening in the Commodore Cafe after which the Colonel inspected the 102nd North B. C. Heavy Battery at the Armory where one of the finest turn-outs the unit has ever had took place. After inspection the Colonel addressed the men, complimenting them on the turnout and the splendid work they are doing in the service of their country.

An interesting event took place when Col. Peck presented to Battery Sergeant Major James Hadden the Coronation Medal.

MEDWICK IS BEST

Cardinal's Outfielder Voted Most Valuable Player in National League

NEW YORK, Nov. 10: (CP)—Joe (Ducky) Medwick, hard hitting outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, was yesterday voted the most valuable player of the National League by the Baseball Writers' Association of America in their annual poll. He received seventy out of a possible eighty points. Medwick's great batting was the deciding factor. He led the league in batting and tied with Mel Ott of the New York Giants for home run honors, each having had thirty-one.

Charles (Gabby) Hartnett, Chicago Cubs catcher, was awarded second place and Carl Hubbell, New York Giants' pitcher, third.

INSURING WORKLESS

Premier King Has Plan—Views Of Provinces Invited—B.N.A. Act Amendment

OTTAWA, Nov. 10: (CP)—Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King last night announced that a national system of unemployment insurance for Canada had been submitted to the premiers of the nine provinces who are invited to submit their views. The scheme would involve certain amendments of the British North America Act to which the consent of the provinces would have to be obtained. The plan is to enact the legislation at the next session of Parliament.

Premier King made reference to recommendations of the National Employment Commission. Unemployed insurance would, he said, necessarily form a part of any national employment system.

BECOME GENUINELY INTERESTED IN PEOPLE

"If you would make friends, be friendly. Forget your own interests. Think of other people's interests."
 "You can make more friends in two months by showing that you are interested in other people than you can in two years by trying to force other people to become interested in you."
 "People are not interested in you—or in me. They are interested in themselves—first, last and all the time."
 "When you see a group photograph that you are in, whose face do you look for first?"
 "Ask yourself this question:—'Why should people be interested in me unless I am first interested in them?'"
 "If you merely try to impress people and get people interested in you, you will never have many true, sincere friends. Friends, real friends, are not made that way."
 "But you can win the attention and time and cooperation of even the busiest, most sought after people by becoming genuinely interested in them."
 "So if you want to make friends, put yourself out to do things for other people."

The Silence

(JAY ESS)

No sound, no movement—just a silence, for two minutes. Nothing to distract the attention, nothing to arouse one's interest. Alone with one's thoughts. What are they?

I think of some of those who "grow not old as we who are left grow old." Joe went at Ypres, in that hell of the first gas attack. Ted on Hill 60; Bert at the Somme; Kirk, best loved of pals, at Vimy; Harry at Passchendale; Dick at Canal du Nord; and Jim after eight years in hospital. These are only a few of those who tell Canada "we rest content."

Of the years between? I think of the "let down" of civilian life. Its selfishness and greed dictating so much of the individual and consequently, the national life. So many false values, rotten standards. What a contrast to the camaraderie of the trenches! But calm judgment assures me the same fine character traits shown by my chums then are still present in the generation of today—the eagerness to serve, the will to endure; the readiness to sacrifice. These are all present; and they are needed in the face of as great a challenge today as great a challenge as 1914-1918 offered.

Surely the present generation has all the qualities my chums had. It must be a better generation; for their sacrifices cannot have been in vain. And when this generation recognizes the challenge, it will answer as nobly, as selflessly.

"Take up our quarrel with the foe," still demands our answer. The foe? Not a nation but the spirit of selfishness that permeates so many individuals. Let us determine during this "two minutes" to "hold the torch high" that they may sleep in Flanders fields.

The future? It is assured. Facing this challenge daily with our finest thoughts, our best efforts, our noblest aspirations, will be the best contribution we can make. They will not have died in vain—we shall not have lived in vain.

The "silence" is over. It was fraught with tragic, but proud memories. It was worth while—if we accept our responsibility and do as my chums did; "They served till death; why not we?"

CITIES PUT UP APPEAL

Early Action for Improvement of Relations with Governments Urged

VICTORIA, Nov. 10: (CP) — On behalf of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, Harry S. Sullivan, New Westminster barrister, presented a brief to the provincial government expressing dissatisfaction with the present financial relations of the municipalities and the governments. He urged action to relieve the municipalities even before the deliberations of the Rowell royal commission. Mr. Sullivan stated later that the government had expressed itself as being sympathetic.

FAMOUS STATESMAN OF GREAT BRITAIN: PREMIER THREE TIMES

Street as bearer of the political banner of the laboring class. MacDonald as a practical idealist who worked a lifetime for a socialist Britain and a pacified world.

Ramsay MacDonald, as he was generally known, was combined prophet, organizer and administrator of the distinctive brand of socialism that is British. It differs from the Marxian creed of Russian Communists in that it is evolutionary rather than revolutionary. It denounces capitalism and communism in the same breath, supplanting the violence of class war with the doctrine of the "inevitability of gradualness" toward universal democracy.

An example of this doctrine, MacDonald was active in politics for nearly 20 years before he got to parliament; it was 18 years more before he captured the highest prize in the gift of the British people. He trudged down the middle of the road, denouncing the "socialism-in-our-time" slogan of the British extremists as a flashing futility, and fighting communism at every step.

Life Long Pacifist

A life-long pacifist, he announced on the eve of August, 1914, that he would have nothing to do with the World War. Through 1914-18 he was reviled as a traitor, made a political outcast, harried by ridicule and calumny. His hair whitened and his shoulders sagged but from the depths he toiled upward to the prime ministership six years later without having recanted a word or sacrificed a jot of his principles.

Seven years later on July 11, 1931, he stood on the platform of Albert Hall in London along with Stanley Baldwin and David Lloyd George, leaders of labor's political foes, and said:

"People who seek safety by arms are like people seeking safety under trees in a thunder storm. They are at the point which is first to be struck when the storm breaks."

The two-room "but and ben" cottage—in which MacDonald was born on October 12, 1866, still stands in Lossiemouth. And there on the Scottish coast, where life is hard and great storms steel a hardy bread, he spent his first 18 years.

His schooling was scant and ended when he was 12. Thereafter he dug potatoes until the village schoolmaster made him a pupil teacher. This set the boy's mind into channels that led hither than to the dangers of a fishing smack.

He devoured every printed page in which he could lay his hands, fiction and folk lore, science and religion. He read Dickens and Scott and, of course, Burns and the Bible. Every Lossiemouth plowman knew his Burns nearly by heart and was equally versed in Holy Writ.

A stray copy of Henry George's "Progress and Poverty" found its way into the village at a time when agricultural Scotland was having hard times and hatred of landlordism was taking root. It planted the seeds that made a socialist out of MacDonald.

But while politics always interested him, his first love was science. In 1884 he bent his steps toward London, his ambition being to work by day and study by night for a scholarship in one of the science schools of the capital. Work was scarce and he starved in a garret.

His porridge came from Scotland and he paid for it with his scant earnings. Unable to afford tea he drank hot water.

"I have known what it was to walk the streets with nothing in my pocket with debts hanging over my head and with nothing to do," he said when he was prime minister.

His First Job

His first job was addressing envelopes and licking them for $2.50 a week. Next he was a shipping clerk at $3.00. His luncheon hours and his evenings he spent in libraries, at free lectures, reading borrowed books or attending courses at the Birkbeck Institute where the fees were next to nothing.

Struggling thus from dawn to midnight, without exercise or relaxation, a breakdown was inevitable. It ended his dream of a scientific career.

In 1888 he turned to politics and for four years was secretary to Thomas Lough, a radical candidate for parliament, receiving $375 a year. When he left Lough, MacDonald knew the inside workings of the British political machinery, was a trenchant speaker and facile writer.

Then he turned to journalism, joined the Independent Labor Party and the Fabian Society and became right hand man of Keir Hardie. In 1895 he tried for parliament on his own hook but a Southampton constituency gave him only 867 votes.

But that poll brought him romance, for one of the contributors to his campaign fund was "M. E. Gladstone." Investigation showed this was Margaret Ethel Gladstone, daughter of a scientist and niece of the famous Lord Kelvin. She and MacDonald were married in 1896 when he was 30.

She was a woman of wide culture, a devoted social worker. She brought her husband financial independence, a fact not generally known, and while by no means wealthy they possessed means which enabled them to spend a honeymoon in the United States and to tour Canada, Australia, India and South Africa. The jaunts gave him a background of personal travel knowledge superior to that possessed by other occupants of No. 10 Downing Street.

MacDonald finally won his first seat in parliament in 1906. In 1910, he became parliamentary leader of his party.

Then tragedy struck him. In 1911 came the deaths of a six-year-old son, his mother and his wife. Mrs. MacDonald had literally worked out her life for the poor of London's slums. Her passing left her husband with five children, Alistair, Isabel, Malcolm, Joan and Sheila.

Plunging deeper into political life, MacDonald warned against mounting armaments and when the crash came in 1914 took the step that dropped him into a pit of calumny. There was no election in war-time England so he held his seat until 1918. Then the "hang-the-Kaiser" election saw his defeat by 14,000 votes.

He was beaten again in a bye-election in 1921 but by only 683 votes and the next year came a turn in the tide and MacDonald and 141 other laborites were sent to the House of Commons. Then in 1923 Baldwin's tariff policies forced another appeal to the country and the

LABORITE DELEGATION WAS INCREASED

Laborite delegation was increased to 191.

The Conservatives had lost their majority and when on January 24, 1924, MacDonald moved a vote of "no confidence," the combined Labor and Liberal votes carried it. Thereupon King George summoned the Scottish pacifist to Buckingham palace and he formed a cabinet in which he was first Lord of the Treasury, foreign minister and Prime Minister.

But eight months later his conciliatory policy toward Russia and his government's leniency with World War offenders alienated the Liberals and parliament was dissolved. The election returned the Conservatives to power and there they stayed until June 1925.

In May, 1929, Labor won all along the line. The party lacked only 16 seats of a full majority, having 288 to 260 Conservatives and 58 Liberals. MacDonald's second Labor cabinet was formed.

There were many attacks on the government by massed Conservatives, aided by a flanking force of recalcitrant Liberals who disagreed with Lloyd George's alliance with MacDonald. There were desertions from the Labor benches by Sir Oswald Mosley and several followers and much sharpshooting against the cabinet by the left wing of the Labor party.

The Labor party split wide open in August, 1931, when a budget crisis brought out a proposal to cut the "dole" of unemployed workers. The cabinet resigned August 24 and the next day MacDonald formed a coalition cabinet of 10 men drawn from Labor, Conservatives and an anti-Lloyd George faction of the Liberals.

June 7, 1935, MacDonald yielded the Prime Ministership to Stanley Baldwin and took the latter's post as Lord President of the council. This new line-up was tested at the polls November 15 and MacDonald was humiliated by an overwhelming defeat in his constituency. He was persuaded to stay on in the cabinet and on February 3, 1936, re-

Paid Visit To Matanuska While Touring Alaska

Niece of Dawson Publisher Visits North From Seattle and Calls At Rupert Southbound

Passing through Prince Rupert this week on her way home to Seattle and spending a couple of days in the city enroute was Miss Harriet Malstrom, who had been to the Yukon Territory to visit her uncle, Harold Malstrom of the Dawson News. She also visited Fairbanks, Anchorage, Matanuska, Juneau and Ketchikan and gave solo entertainments of music and readings at each place visited. She represents a string of hotels in the south including the Dominion at Victoria.

Miss Malstrom gave the first entertainment ever held at Matanuska when she visited the valley two years ago. On her return this year she found great improvements made there including a fine auditorium in which to give her entertainment.

Speaking of the settlement Miss Malstrom said the settlers seemed very prosperous. They were aided by the American government by clearing their farms and these payments helped to keep them. These payments were based partly on the size of the family. When a child was born in a family the payment on clearing an acre of land was increased $9. There was a good market for all the products, particularly for their butter.

On one of the places they this year raised fourteen bushels of tomatoes and they also kept bees and produced their own honey. The sale of products for the month of September averaged $148 for each family in the settlement.

BRIGHTER CASTLES

Windsor Will House King's Family — Queen Busy With Alterations

By MOLLIE MCGEE
Canadian Press Correspondent
LONDON, Nov. 10: (CP)—Crimson and dark green plush has been banished from Windsor Castle, dingy brown and green paint has disappeared from Buckingham Palace, Queen Elizabeth who initiated these and other renovations has been busily occupied as the humblest housewife with affairs of her household since her return to London from Scotland.

New draperies and wall coverings of the Queen's favorite pastel shades were selected to brighten the old castle where Queen Victoria lived so long in secluded mourning. Windsor will now be the centre of home life for the royal family while Buckingham Palace remains the official residence.

New carpets, rugs and chair coverings at Windsor are in apple green, deep blue and soft rose. In her own rooms the Queen has had the ceilings and door panels picked out in gold for brightness. Heavily-carved and antiquated furniture has been moved from the private quarters to other parts of the castle. Heating and lighting arrangements have been modernized.

The nursery is the only apartment to be enlarged. This has been done with the idea of accommodating Prince Edward of Kent, his baby sister Princess Alexandra and the children of family friends who will be the Princesses' frequent visitors. Princess Elizabeth, who now speaks of herself as "almost grown-up," is to have her own apartment decorated in softest pink and gold. Hours of lessons are now everyday order for Elizabeth and Margaret Rose who will have additional matters to attend to this year. They have been given garden plots of their own at Windsor and must plan and plant them, they have been learning golf in Scotland and the Queen is considering adding skating to their lessons.

Choice of subjects for study by the younger royalties is given careful consideration by the Queen. It is expected they will continue their swimming lessons at the Bath Club and that Girl Guide meetings at Buckingham Palace will be held on Wednesday afternoons as they were last year and that the dancing class—in which children of friends are invited to take part—and special needlework classes will each have their allotment of time.

Needle Getting Popular
Fine needlework is coming into prominence again, not only in school rooms but as an accomplishment among society women. The Royal School of Needlework, under the direction of Lady Smith-Dorrien, close and trusted friend of Queen Mary, report they have never been so busy preparing and finishing work. Expert needlewomen in this school worked long hours on the important metallic embroidery for Coronation robes and it is these robes that are held responsible for the revival of the elaborate handwork in new Paris and London fashions.

Embroidery will be on exhibition October 20-26 in Eaton Square. Royal exhibitors will include Queen Mary, who does exquisite petit point, the Duchess of Gloucester who is showing a handkerchief which belonged to Queen Victoria and the Duchess of Kent who is sending a beautiful bedspread. It is recalled the King and Queen worked together as Duke and Duchess of York on a set of petit point covers for dining room chairs, but with so many duties to interrupt it is not thought they are completed. Interest in needlework is not only a sign of changing times. Mayfair

TINY PAPER FOR MUSEUM

Copy of Number 2 of Port Essington Star Published in June, 1902 Donated By R. L. McIntosh

A copy of what is probably the oldest newspaper in northern British Columbia is being presented to the museum by R. L. McIntosh. It is the Port Essington Star, Volume 1, Number 2, dated June 28, 1902. It is a tiny affair of four pages the size of a popular novel. Mr. McIntosh says the paper was published for three or four months at Port Essington which was at that time the most important centre in the north. This particular number tells of the celebration of Coronation Day. It says:

"Port Essington has nothing to be ashamed of in the way in which it celebrated Coronation Day. Flags in abundance were stretched to the breeze and there were many tasteful decorations. Stores and establishments were closed, as far as the exigencies of business permitted, and the streets were alive with pleasure seekers. At night there was a ball with supper at the Hotel Essington, which was very numerously attended and went fast and furious. Patriotic speeches were made by Messrs Morrow, McDougall and Heikerson at the conclusion of refreshments appropriate to the occasion."

An extract from another article on the coronation is interesting: "Each citizen of the Empire will on this occasion be burning with the consciousness of being 'Civis Britannicus,' member of the greatest Empire the world has seen; fulfilling a mission never before equalled. "But this public pageant has a greater meaning than that of mere barbaric splendor, and that is this: Great Britain glorious, victorious, still with the virility of youth, conquering new worlds only to endow greater freedom, in this accomplished and potential glory."

The little paper tells of a meeting of the Skeena Liberal Association at which the following were elected: President, Peter Herman; Vice-president, D. McKenzie; Secretary, Treasurer, R. L. McIntosh. There was a committee of thirteen but space did not permit publication of the names.

Among the local news items was one telling of the visit to port of the tug Carlisle owned by the Carlisle Canning Co. with the manager, Mr. Brewster, aboard. There was a reference to a meeting of the tennis club with which was connected the names of Misses Adams and Bonser who "respectively delighted their hearers by their sweet soprano and contralto voices."

Among names mentioned in the paper were Mr. Robertson, a fish-erie guardian, Mr. Gilmour of Standard, Miss Minnie Madden of Inverness, Mr. Wadhams, who returned to Rivers Inlet by the steamer Tees, Don Moore of North Pacific and Mr. English, a representative of the B.C. Packers' Association, who was there taking stock of the Cunningham and other canneries purchased by the combine on the Skeena.

Mrs. J. R. Drysdale of Premier was a passenger aboard the Catala yesterday afternoon going through to Vancouver.

Hostesses are reporting a return to Victorian courtesy and politeness. Hostesses are receiving thoughtful little thank-you notes from their younger guests. Gone is the air of weary sophistication from young escorts who now thrill debutantes with chivalrous attentions. Dowagers nod their heads in approval. "There is much to be said for the Victorian era," they remark.
