Alberta to Have Monetary System of Its Own; One Of Aberhart Ministers Quits

EDMONTON, Jan. 6: (CP)—An independent monetary system for Alberta, including distinctive money to circulate within provincial boundaries, is one of the recommendations of a cabinet committee established to formulate a Social Credit plan for the province, it is learned.

The money would be negotiable and would be issued by state credit houses. Some quarters believe that a constitutional crisis may develop if Alberta carries out such a plan.

The planning committee also recommends the extension of legislation adjusting private and public debts, the reduction of taxation by issue of interest free money to take its place, the establishment of a provincial wholesale set-up to handle import and export trade of Alberta, interest free loans within the province and monthly dividends of $4 to every registered Alberta citizen.

Religion to Suffer

Yesterday in this column we gave a summary of conditions in Europe along with some predictions in regard to the future, taken from the 1937 preview of the Rosicrucian Brotherhood. Today some quotations are given from its references to religion which, according to the prophecy, is in for a very difficult period. The preview says:

"The uprisings, systematic attacks and national disapproval of various forms of religion will continue throughout 1937 with increasing vehemence with the unfortunate killing of devoted defenders. Apparently all forms of organized religion will suffer disheartening defeat. In some parts of Europe every form of worship will meet official objections and a cry against all religious sects will remind us of the famous crusades in behalf of religion while many self-appointed leaders will arise throughout Europe and Asia as antagonists of Peter the Hermit of the middle ages.

"Fires, dynamite, cannon and human power in remote places will raze and destroy many famous and important places of worship. Christians, Jews, Buddhists, Mohammedans and others will be sorely tempted to unite in one wall: 'My God, why hast thou forsaken us?'

"But the cause of religion—the spirit of holy worship and the Divine power of faith—will not be lost. The end of sectarian religious worship will not come but will be made more impossible by the 1937 crusades of persecution. The very intensity of the fire will purge nations and divisions of peoples of their religious differences and unhappy distinctions and before 1937 ends its twelfth month, a unified movement, more or less secret in some countries, will sweep over Europe, Asia, Africa and the Americas with the slogan 'One God the Father of All.'

"The fundamentals of a universal religion will be preached and adopted, slowly at first but with increasing attractiveness, sincerity and strange mystical power. Before the close of the year 1939, this new spiritual movement will have affected (modified and remodelled) the doctrines and tenets of most of the old sects and a power which will develop among the millions of devoted followers of the new spirit will constitute a temporal as well as a Divine Power which the dictators, potentates and rulers of all lands will respect and fear."

An Explanation

While giving several articles derived from the same source we want it distinctly understood that neither the Daily News or its editor has any connection whatever with the Rosicrucian order and the only excuse for giving them this publicity is that they have proved fairly correct in the past and that they are intensely interesting to many people. This preview was made several months ago and it will be noticed that the campaign against religion has already started in Spain.

PRINCESS IS LOVED

From Babyhood Golden-Haired Elizabeth Was Trained For Apparent High Destiny

LONDON, Jan. 6.—No fairy god-mothers attended the birth of Princess Elizabeth, heir-presumptive to the throne, in the old-fashioned house at 17 Bruton Street, the town residence of her maternal grandfather, the Earl of Strathmore.

But personages from a fairy tale world were there in number April 22, 1926—peers of the realm, princes of the blood royal, and a solemnly garbed commoner, the Home Secretary, whose presence was required at the birth of a royal child who might some day be the sovereign.

Outside in the street ordinary citizens of London gathered in groups to discuss the event, for even without knowing whether the child of the then Duke and Duchess of York was a boy or a girl it was realized that some day the little addition to the royal family might be on the throne.

George V was King then and next to him the most popular figure in the Empire was the Prince of Wales; but the Prince had shown himself to be a sluggard as regards marriage, and next in line for the throne was his brother, the Duke of York, and after him, his children. Thus, from the moment of her birth Princess Elizabeth was third in line for the succession. Only the advent of a baby brother could break her sovereign destiny. She was christened under prophetic circumstances in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace.

Dressed in a long white lace robe which had adorned the persons of George V and Edward VIII on a similar occasion, the baby was named Elizabeth Alexandra Mary.

"After three Queens," whispered the good citizens of London and of the County of Forfarshire, Scotland, ancient seat of the Duchess of York's family. Guns boomed and beacon fires burned on the hill-tops, for the people saw in the advent of this child a possible future ruler.

From the time Elizabeth as "Lilibet" first waved to men and women from her carriage in a drive around Windsor Great Park to the present, when her appearance in public is an eagerly-watched-for event, she has conducted herself like one born to the purple and ermine of sovereigns, and has done it with a childish charm and warmth of spirit that have endeared her to all generations.

Taken to Glamis
Her mother, the Duchess, now Queen Elizabeth as the consort of George VI, took the Princess when three months old to her Scottish home, Glamis Castle. There the child started the tremendous hold she has on the Scottish people from whom her mother springs—a hold only equalled by the devotion that is hers from the people of the Empire at large.

Princess Elizabeth, now 10 years old, is a philatelist and her collection of stamps may some day rival that of her grandfather George V. She likes horses and dogs and has her own pony, and her letters are written on stationery with the royal crest.

On her seventh birthday King George and Queen Mary attended a party in her honor at Windsor Castle; the birthday cake was made by the King's own chef. After this birthday she requested that no more dolls be given her. She has been a bridesmaid at the wedding of the Duke of Gloucester and Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott and the wedding of the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece. During the Jubilee festival in 1935 she was a prominent and constantly cheered figure.

Elizabeth is a golden-haired princess, a slender child, thrilled by the pomp and pageantry of her country, and no longer bashful before cheering crowds. Her blue eyes and features reflect the Saxon strain of the royal family, and her resemblance to her father's kin is more marked than it is to her mother's.

In recent years, like all little women of her age, she has shot up fast and turned long-legged until today she is like a slender flower of a girl. Indeed, so pretty a picture does she make among the

FAITH IS REQUIRED

Rev. C. D. Clarke Speaks Ably And Inspiringly in Week of Prayer

The second of the series of meetings being conducted in the city churches this week in observance of Universal Week of Prayer was held in St. Andrew's Cathedral last evening when there was a fair attendance. Dean Gibson was in charge of the devotional period and Rev. C. D. Clarke read the Scripture lesson and delivered a thoughtful and inspiring address on the subject of faith.

Faith was that without which no one could live, declared Mr. Clarke. All possessed faith of some kind. The purpose of the speaker was to stress the fact of faith in Christ, what it meant today and its application to all problems. Faith did not dissolve problems. It solved them. By facing up to problems and making an effort to bring about their solution, people were not only helping themselves but also those who came after.

"Jesus Christ is the solution of our economic problem," declared Mr. Clarke. "It is possible to build an order on the example and teaching of Jesus that will be free from the demoralizing effect, especially to young people, of the relief allowance." The speaker deprecated the condemnation of the efforts of others unless there was something better to suggest. Faith without works was of little value.

Jesus Christ was the only solution of international problems. He came to establish peace and goodwill on the earth. There could not be much goodwill while men were dwelling in constant fear of each other. There was much evidence of the lack of the Spirit of Christ among the nations of the world. There could be no goodwill where nations were arming to the teeth and where the strong dominated the weak. Christ must reign supreme if nations were to dwell together in peace.

Jesus Christ was the solution of the racial problem. Faith in Christ provided the only basis of fellowship among the races of the world. In Christ all could unite. The speaker concluded by making a strong plea for a united Christendom which was the most crying need of the times.

The services will be continued this evening in the United Church when the address will be given by Dean Gibson.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

FAREWELL TO PASTOR

Many Honors For Rev. and Mrs. B. Shearman on Leaving Hazelton
HAZELTON, Jan. 6.—On Sunday the Anglican Church here was crowded to standing room only on the occasion of a special service prior to Rev. B. Shearman taking up duties with the natives of Kitwanga. The prayers and responses were said by Noel Stewart, Rev. Shearman's successor. The lesson was read by Native Lay Reader Willie Wale.
The address was given by Rev. Shearman who has been at Hazelton two and a half years. His address was based on the text: "My presence will be with thee and I will give thee rest." The native choir sang very sweetly the anthem "Make a Joyful Noise." The leader was David Mowatt and at the organ was Willie Wale. For the hymns Mrs. M. A. Myros was at the organ.
At the Church Army another well attended service was conducted and addresses were given by Sam Jones, David Mowatt and Rev. Shearman.
Mrs. Shearman gave an address, bearing on the work of the native White Cross and the sound position it occupied, the kindness and loving work of its members.
On New Year's Eve deputations unexpectedly arrived at the rectory, and after most kindly words of Mrs. Myros, Mrs. Shearman was presented with a purse on behalf of the Women's Auxiliary, of which she has been president with a good deal of kindly energy. Rev. Shearman was presented by the congregation with a case containing fountain pen and pencil. Mrs. Shearman and her husband suitably responded.
Next were the native ladies of the White Cross. Mrs. Shearman had been their president and treasurer during the time she has been at Hazelton. A beautiful three-piece dressing set was handed to her by Mrs. Clifford. Mrs. James White presented one of her silver bracelets, Mrs. Clark moccasins and Mrs. Ben Wale a basket. Mrs. Clifford then presented on behalf of the Church Army a set of military brushes to Rev. Shearman. Mrs. J. White presented moccasins. Many kindly words and kindly letters were received.
A banquet was held later and many expressions of appreciation were made by Chiefs Catemgulo, Spork and Lute-que-gews for the work done by Rev. and Mrs. Shearman for and on behalf of the native children. Suitable replies were made.

Home League Has Banquet

Enjoyable Affair Held Saturday Evening at Kitzegukla
KITZEGUKLA, Jan. 6.—On Saturday evening last a very pleasant and happy time was spent in the McDames Hall when the ladies of the Home League entertained the inhabitants of the village.
The proceedings began with an improvised broadcast with David Williams as the announcer. Under the conductorship of Simon Turner a number of part songs were sung by the ladies to the accompaniment of an old Indian drum. Amid repeated applause they sang several numbers.
Afterwards a real supper was served including a three course meal with a splendid variety of fruits and candies as the desert.
Speeches, songs and solos followed. The humour and wit of the various speakers made a happy close to an enjoyable banquet.
From 8 p.m. until midnight games were enjoyed by young and old, and everybody went home rejoicing and happy.

Man in the Moon

Good day! Are you perfectly recovered from the holidays?
It's a great and glorious feeling to be able to let loose and celebrate in the old fashioned way, but it takes a few days to get rid of the effects.
A strange lady came to town recently and called on Sergeant Ernie Unwin to ask about her son who was said to be in the army here. "Is he in the officer's mess?" inquired the sergeant. "Yes, that's him," was the reply. "He was always in some mess or another so that's where I'll find him now."
He: "If I'd known that tunnel was so long, I would have kissed you." She: "Heavens, wasn't that you?"
An architect remarked to a woman that he had been to see the great nave in the new church. "Don't mention names," the woman replied. "I know the man you refer to."
Her husband had translated one of Shakespeare's plays into Norwegian, and it was to be produced at the National Theatre in Oslo. At the final rehearsal his wife was refused admittance by the doorkeeper who did not know her. "But I am the author's wife," she protested in indignation. "I am very sorry, indeed, Mrs. Shakespeare," said the man politely, "but even you cannot go in."

TWO FINE PICTURES

"Give Us This Night" and "A Message to Garcia" on Screen Of Capitol Theatre

"Give Us This Night," a musical romance starring Jan Kiepura and Gladys Swarthout, and "A Message to Garcia," a thrilling comedy drama with Wallace Beery, Barbara Stanwyck and John Boles in the leading roles, comprise an unusually interesting double bill which is booked for the Capitol Theatre this mid-week.
"Give Us This Night" marks the second screen appearance of Miss Swarthout and Kiepura, both of whom made great hits in their first pictures—the former in "Rose of the Rancho" and the latter in "Be Mine Tonight." "Give Us This Night" was written especially for the screen. The musical score is operatic in type although it contains half a dozen melodies of popular style. The scene is set in a little Italian fishing village.
"A Message to Garcia" is replete with fanciful, colorful entertainment, high adventure and magnificent courage. Hardships and perils of the three principals in the Cuban jungle form the basis of the story which comes to a roistering climax and happy ending.
