Sir Francis Floud, High Commissioner, Tells How Canada Can Help World to Peace

Empire Relations

Believes New Trade Agreements Will Preserve Dominion's Advantage and Increase Old Country's

"With the present troubles in Europe and the movements towards dictatorships and various extremes, there never was a time when the world needed more the British kind of leadership," declared Sir Francis Floud, British High Commissioner to Canada, in addressing the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at luncheon Friday. The contribution we of the British Empire can give to the world today is invaluable. So much the better will it be if we can have the co-operation of the other great English-speaking countries, the United States, Canada, I believe, is anxious to assist in leading the world into paths of peace and prosperity. We of the Old Country, anxious to draw closer the ties that bind us with the rest of the Empire, feel that Canada, with its American influences and characteristics of freedom and independence, is a most valuable part of the Empire."

In the purchasing of goods, Sir Francis urged that where possible, orders be directed towards British products. It would be of mutual benefit. It would not only provide a market for British goods but it would enable the United Kingdom to continue to give free entry to Canadian goods.

With one-fifth of its population dependent upon the manufacturing and mining industries, Sir Francis pointed out that the Old Country was essentially an exporter of goods. "If we buy, we must also sell," he said.

Sir Francis discussed trade relations between the United Kingdom and Canada with which, essentially, he had a good deal to do. The trade agreements of 1932 had been of great advantage to Canada and particularly British Columbia through the lumber trade. Under the agreements Canada's export trade to the Old Country had expanded from $173,000,000 in 1932 to $400,000,000 in 1936, an increase of some 124 percent. On the other hand, Canada's purchases from Great Britain had increased some 34 percent. Naturally the people of the Old Country felt that the advantages of the agreements had been a little one-sided and were anxious to see a readjustment that would prove more equitable.

Agriculture an Example
British agriculturalists, and a good many people in Canada did not realize the importance of British agricultural industry which employed a greater number of people than any other single industry in the Old Country mainly through mixed farming, demanded a larger measure of control and protection. The attitude was that there should be a revision. As a result of recent negotiations, new agreements had been reached which, it was believed, would preserve the advantages which Canada had before as well as increasing the advantages which Great Britain would have in Canadian markets. This would be brought about by Canada increasing the preference for British goods over foreign products.

In opening his address, Sir Francis briefly reviewed some of the duties of the office of the British High Commissioner to Canada. Whereas Lord Tweedsmuir was the personal representative of the King nominated by the Canadian government and, as such, head of the Canadian government with which he had solely to do, he (Sir Francis) was the representative or agent of the British government

BILBAO IS OCCUPIED

Basque Capital Resists No Further—German Cruiser Attacked

HENDAYE, French—Spanish Frontier, June 19: (CP)—Headquarters of the insurgent generalissimo, Francisco Franco, announced today that insurgent armies had entered the Basque capital of Bilbao at 2:30 p.m. "without resistance."

More than five hundred thousand civilians are reported starving because of a shortage of food in sieged Bilbao. Refugees from the Basque provincial capital say food was no longer being issued.

German Cruiser Attacked

BERLIN, June 19: (CP)—The German Admiralty reported officially today that two unsuccessful efforts had been made to torpedo the cruiser Leipzig off the coast of Algeria on June 15 and 16. The Leipzig is a member of the international non-intervention fleet.

In London Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden called in French, Italian and German ambassadors to consider Germany's charge that the Leipzig was attacked by a Spanish government submarine.

HOSPITAL SERVICE

Proposal of Canadian National Railways Employees Under Discussion

It was reported at last night's meeting of the board of directors of the Prince Rupert General Hospital that negotiations had been opened recently by J. Meehan, on behalf of the Canadian National Railways Employees' Medical Association, in regard to a scheme of health and medical service covering members of the association and their dependents. Under the scheme, the association would pay the basic rate of $2.50 per day for hospital treatment for employees and dependents covered. Cases of insanity, maternity and venereal disease would not be included under the scheme. The association would pay for drugs for members but not for dependents.

The association proposed that there might be a discount of five percent for cash payment of hospital fees. Members of the board seemed favorable to granting this request. There was some uncertainty, however, as to whether or not the board should meet another request that the operating room charge should be dropped in cases where the patient remained in hospital more than ten days.

The board has yet to be formally advised in writing by the association and, until such time as this is done, no definite decisions will be made by the board.

LONDON, June 19:—The United States dollar lost one-eighth at $4.93 3/4 and the French franc remained unchanged at 110.87. Mines and oils closed weak in the stock market and other sections were generally quiet. German bonds and gilt edged securities remained steady.

PROGRESS MADE ON LONG HOP

Russians 500 Miles South Of Pole Today—May Reach 'Frisco By Sunday Afternoon

Past Fort Norman EDMONTON, June 19: (CP)—The Russian plane from Moscow to San Francisco was reported at 12:25 this afternoon about one hundred miles south of Fort Norman along the Mackenzie River basin.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19: (CP)—Three Russian airmen soared over the top of the world today in the longest non-stop and perhaps the most hazardous air journey ever attempted by man. The trio who took off from Moscow at 5:05 p.m. Pacific Standard Time Thursday crossed the North Pole region at 9:10 p.m. Friday and early today reported themselves five hundred miles south of the Pole with everything going well despite polar conditions which caused some ice formations on the plane in subzero weather and forced "blind flying." They were apparently averaging about eighty miles per hour in their single-motored monoplane and it was estimated they would complete the six thousand mile flight to San Francisco about 1 p.m. Sunday, flying via the Mackenzie River Valley and Edmonton.

The plane's crew consists of Pilot Valeri Pavlovich Chkalov, aged 33; Co-pilot Georgi Philippovitch Raldukov, 30, and Navigator Alexander Vassilievitch Beliakov, 40.
In Los Angeles a navigation expert described the flight as heading into a "magnetic and mathematical puzzle" where plane's instruments would perform weird gymnastics and finally fall altogether in the polar regions.
The take-off from Moscow was not announced until about twenty-four hours after the plane left.

Hospital Board Pays Tribute To Sid Macdonald

Fitting reference was made at last night's meeting of the hospital board by the chairman, G. P. Tinker, to the death since the last meeting of S. D. Macdonald, one of the members of the board. Mr. Tinker spoke feelingly of the worth of the late Mr. Macdonald and the very real sense of loss that was felt in his passing. His faithful service, his sound judgment and advice and his genial personality would be greatly missed and difficult to replace. His passing was a distinct loss to the whole community.
At the suggestion of Mr. Tinker and on motion of W. M. Brown and Frank Dibb, the secretary was requested to write a letter to Mrs. Macdonald and the family expressing the sympathy of the board.

J. C. Brady, district engineer for the provincial department of public works, will sail tonight on the Prince Charles for Port Charlotte. He will visit the Queen Charlotte Islands on official duties.

EVASION OF LAWS

Friendship of American Electric Razor Maker and Canadian Premier Mentioned

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 19: (CP)—The name of Jacob Schick, electric razor manufacturer, now a Canadian citizen, was brought into the congressional committee investigating income tax evasion yesterday. Ebery Irey, chief of the internal revenue department intelligence unit, said that Schick was a friend of the Canadian Prime Minister and had been granted special dispensation to get around the law requiring five years' residence to become a Canadian citizen.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau opened the congressional investigation into tax dodging by calling for legislation and publicity to be turned against those who evaded or avoided taxes. He appeared before the joint committee of representatives and senators.

HOSPITAL WAS BUSY

Number of Patient Days in May Heaviest on Record—Board in Monthly Session

The Prince Rupert General Hospital in May had the busiest month in its history, it was shown in reports presented at the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors last night. There is a slackening off now, Miss Jean Harrison R.N., the lady superintendent, stated although the institution is still quite busy. Hospital days for May totalled 1910, some three hundred above average, at a cost per diem of $2.19. Disbursements for the month amounted to $4,169.78, the report of the finance committee stated.

The board agreed to Miss Harrison starting her annual vacation within the next week or so. Miss P. M. Mooney R.N., operating room supervisor, will be acting lady superintendent during Miss Harrison's absence.
Miss Harrison, in her report, acknowledged the presentation by Thomas McMeekin of half a dozen flower vases to the hospital, a gift which was much appreciated. Miss Harrison also reported that newly ordered silver and china had arrived and was a great improvement.

The house committee's report referred to the elevator which had recently been checked up by the government inspector, certain improvements being recommended. Urgent repairs will be attended to without delay. The inspector is of the opinion that, when a new hospital is built, an altogether new type of elevator should be installed.
The monthly report of Fire Chief J. R. Morison stated that usual inspections had been made. The institution had been found free of inflammable materials. Alarm systems had been tested and found to be in good order.

The report of the finance committee made reference to a bequest of £100 which had been left to the hospital by the late Mrs. Rebecca Keith of Belfast, formerly of this city.
Those present at the meeting were G. P. Tinker, chairman of the board, who presided; G. V. Wilkinson, W. M. Brown, Frank Dibb and F. S. Walton, directors; Miss Jean Harrison R.N., lady superintendent, and H. W. Birch, managing secretary.

Travels in Canada Impress High Commissioner of What Empire Means

Common Cause

Canada Has Her Own Contribution and Also Her Own Responsibilities

His travels in Canada had been a real eyeopener, as in that way he had been able to see and meet the people and get a better picture of what the British Empire meant in this part of the world said Sir Francis Floud, High Commissioner to Canada of the United Kingdom, in an address to the Women's Canadian Club at a dinner given in his honor at the Knox Hotel last evening. As a result of this and other travels he had acquired a real enthusiasm for the future of the Empire. Australia was populated almost wholly by people originating in Great Britain and New Zealand was even more British. Crossing to South Africa he found representatives of two great nations, British and Dutch, tackling Empire problems side by side led by men who had fought against the British in the Boer Wars. In Canada again there were descendants of two great nations tackling the duty of building up the nation into a united whole along with nationals from almost every country in the world.

Sir Francis explained that North America had a distinctive point of view quite different from the other dominions and in connection with this Britain had learned the lesson of the defection of the American colonies and welcomed the movements toward independence taken by the Dominions.

"Canada has her own contribution to make to the British Empire and she also has her own responsibilities," declared Sir Francis. She brought with her that desire for freedom which came particularly from contact with the United States. The people of the British Empire were to a great extent the trustees of the civilization of the world. It stood for better conditions for the underprivileged as seen in the movements already initiated in that direction. He looked forward with full confidence to Canada taking her share in Empire responsibilities.

Explains Position

In opening his address Sir Francis explained his position in Canada as being somewhat similar to an ambassador to a foreign country but distinctive in that he represented Great Britain in another country which was a member of the same commonwealth. He briefly traced the steps by which Canada has evolved from a colony to that of an independent country within the British Empire, the only tie left being that of allegiance to the same King and such matters as the right of appeal in civil cases to the Privy Council in Britain which could be abolished by Canada at any time if she wished to do so. He spoke very appreciatively of the work of the late Sir Robert Borden who took part in the famous Balfour Conference when the question of equal status for each country in the Empire was decided upon following the demand for separate representation to the League of Nations. The Statute of Westminster was passed by the British Parliament, giving effect to the decision of the Conference. Just now there had closed a similar Imperial Conference. It had no legal status but it gave representatives of the Empire an opportunity for frank discussion of problems affecting all.

To outsiders the unwritten constitution of the British Empire was incomprehensible. They were (Continued on Page Two)

VALUE OF RAIN

The value of rain to this part of the country outside of its irrigating value is seen in the news published yesterday that the Surf Point mine is closed because of water shortage and that Ocean Falls is considering closing. The Bulkley Valley was dried up until the rain came and on Digby Island the tanks are almost empty. At least a week of rain such as that on the last day or two is badly needed.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

Sir Ernest McMillan, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, told a Victoria audience recently that people as a whole were more critical of the mediocre in music and listened with more intelligence than a few years ago. He urged that mechanical music either from a radio or gramophone was no substitute for music in the home and urged that young people go through the tuition and routine which is essential to all successful musicians. He also advocated the need of music study in the schools. "It is worth while to everyone," he maintained, "for it opens up a great literature that tends to bind nations together. It is a good discipline, tending to co-ordinate mind and body; it is related closely to history, to mathematics and to physics, and it is a safe and admirable outlet for developing lives of adolescents. It means increased happiness in later life, for it is an admirable hobby."

NEW OBJECTS FOR WAR

A newspaper the other day received from a war veteran an interesting letter, the concluding paragraph of which follows: "If we must again go to war," said the veteran, "I think I am speaking the thoughts of the war-wounded veterans when I say that we should declare war on disease, on poverty and on arid land. Let it be a war that will have for its object the clothing of the one-third of the people that are illy clad; the housing of the one-third that are illy housed, the employment at a living wage of the one-third that are poorly paid. Then, if that war be won, it will indeed be a glorious victory." A war with such aims certainly would be one that would pay definitely greater dividends than one or more wars that might be mentioned.

puzzled to understand how it could hold together. Canada for instance had complete control of her own affairs. She even chose her own Governor General who was appointed by the King on the advice of his Canadian ministers. As the Governor did not represent the government of the United Kingdom, there had to be a representative of that government at Ottawa and, as a result, he was appointed.

Speaking for the British government, which he represented, Sir Francis said they welcomed all the moves which had been made towards Canada taking complete control of her own affairs. Great Britain took on herself the defence of the whole Empire and the people there were subject to taxation such as they had never before known. But they did it willingly. They also took pride in their leadership in social services such as unemployment insurance and old age pensions. Unfortunately, they had not yet abolished poverty and destitution. In some parts of Britain there was unbounded prosperity but in others, such as some of the coal mining areas, there was destitution and homelessness.

Speaking of immigration, the speaker said it was a matter for Canada to decide upon. When the time came that they felt they were ready to tackle the problem he felt it should be done by co-operative effort. He did not favor any very sudden large migration although, undoubtedly, one of the Empire problems was the arranging for a proper distribution of the white races within the Empire.

Empire Agreements

The visitor also spoke of the recently affected Empire agreement by which he said Canada retained all her former privileges in the British markets while granting to Great Britain more privileges in the Canadian markets.

On motion of Mrs. D. McD. Hunter, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Sir Francis and it was explained that Lady Flound would address members of the club at a meeting today. Mrs. F. N. Good presided and introduced the visitor.

J. B. Agar of Terrace arrived in the city on Thursday night's train for a brief business visit to town, returning to the interior last evening.

City Solicitor E. F. Jones is making definite progress toward recovery at the Prince Rupert General Hospital where he has been a patient for the past month. He expects to be able to leave the institution in about two weeks.

RECITAL ENJOYED

Pretty Setting For Performance By Pupils of St. Joseph's Academy

The recital of the music classes of St. Joseph's Academy on Thursday evening was a pleasant event. The flower-decked kindergarten was the "auditorium" which accommodated the mothers, fathers and friends who came to hear the musicians—large and small. The entire class showed the results of the mutual work of both teacher and pupil to the satisfaction of all.

The program was as follows:

- "Hickory Horse Days" (Renk), Helen Balagno.
- "Rocking Horse Days" (Rowe), Mary Sylvester.
- "The Rosebud Waltz" (selected), Pauline Ohnesorg.
- "Gay as a Rose" (Canadian Folk Tune), Helen Balagno.

- "Puck" (Rubenstein), Glenna Moore.
- "Lightly Dance" (selected), Jean Murray.
- "Eccossaises" (Beethoven-Busoni), Leona Whiffen.
- "Queen of the Fairies" recitation, Lois Nickerson.
- "Off to the Sea" (Adair), Bernice Meyers.
- "Pomponette" (Shnick), Michi Yamanaka.
- "Rosella" (Hewitt), May Marion.
- "Won't You Come to My Tea-Party?" song, Yvonne Riffou.
- "Little Drum Major" (Egman), Richard Moore.
- "Grandfather Dances" (Karganoff), Mary Mackenzie.
- "Gypsy Dance" (Lichner), Marie Nickerson.
- "The Merry Trumpeter" (Morrison), Delphine and Charlotte Balagno.
- "Two Little Froggies" (Cramm), Alastair Crerar.
- "On the Meadow" (Lichner),

- Nora McCaffery.
- "In the Merry Month of May" (Butler), Kay Nickerson.
- "Valse in G Flat" (Chopin), Yvonne Riffou.

in Canada. Communications between the two governments went through his office. He was the intermediary in regard to political matters, such as came up at the unfortunate time of the abdication last December and also in connection with the Coronation this year.

Trade Important

Trade was also an important matter with which the office of the High Commissioner had to do. It was his duty to sign agreements. Another of the High Commissioner's functions was to keep the British government informed on conditions and feelings in Canada. To do this, he must travel and ascertain at first hand what was going on. It was necessary for him to remain in Ottawa while the Parliamentary session was on but, after that, he endeavored to get about the country as much as possible. This was the first time he had got this far west, Sir Francis said.

The address of Sir Francis was listened to with much interest by a fair attendance of Gyro members as well as several guests including F. A. MacCallum, G. P. Tinker, Fred McLeod, City Commissioner W. J. Alder, H. W. Birch, J. T. Harvey, L. H. Haworth and F. N. Good, all of Prince Rupert, and Dr. W. C. McKechnie of Vancouver. Dr. R. G. Large, past president of the club, was in the chair in the absence of the president, Dr. H. N. Brocklesby.

Dry Dock Having One of Its Busiest Springs in Years—Landings by Many Of Larger American Vessels Feature Halibut Business

The work consisting to large extent of miscellaneous jobs on various types of fishing vessels, the Prince Rupert dry dock has been enjoying this spring one of the busiest seasons it has had in some years. There is still considerable work in hand and more pending. The result is that there has been fuller employment for a considerably longer period than usual for the regular staff. Other local ship repairing establishments report a similar condition while machine shops and such other establishments having to do with the servicing of the fleet are also experiencing a fillip in activities. All of this has had the effect of improving conditions generally in Prince Rupert this season.

With a number of the larger American schooners landing catches during the period, United States halibut landings at Prince Rupert during the week ending yesterday totalled 317,500 pounds, bringing the aggregate of American landings at the port for the 1937 season to date up to 2,840,200 pounds in comparison with 2,210,500 pounds at a similar date last year. So far this year Canadian landings have totalled 3,203,550 pounds as against 2,555,500 pounds a year ago, the landings for the past week having amounted to 187,500 pounds which was rather lighter than usual. The grand total of landings at Prince Rupert up to and including yesterday amounted to 6,043,750 pounds in comparison with last year's 4,766,000 pounds at the corresponding date. Prices held steady during the week. The high bid for Canadian fish was 8.2c and 5c which the Svalbard was paid for 5,500 pounds and the low 7c and 5.5c which the Edward Lipsett and Joe Baker were paid for catches of 8,000 and 6,500 pounds respectively. For American fish the high price of the week was 9.1c and 6.5c paid the Seattle for 39,000 pounds and the low 8c and 6.5c which the Remus received for 11,000 pounds.

From all salmon trolling areas in Prince Rupert came reports this week of improved runs of springs and favorable fishing conditions. There is no trouble from wind with some fog, however, causing a little inconvenience. All the boats are now out.

Southbound on her first voyage of the season in the Alaska service, C. P. R. steamer Princess Charlotte, Capt. William Palmer, is due in port at 4 o'clock this afternoon from Skagway and will sail at 5:30 p.m. for Vancouver.

William Kyle of Prince George is here for holiday relief duty on the staff of the Canadian National Telegraphs.

MOTHER APPRECIATIVE

Editor, Daily News:—
Allow me, please, through your paper, to express thanks and appreciation to the teachers of the city schools for the splendid work with the children of the junior grades.

To see the children act yesterday at the Parent-Teachers' tea was wonderful. What more art could be wished than the girls in their lovely pastel shade dresses?

As a mother and a member of the Parent-Teachers' Association may I suggest that we see more of similar entertainment in the coming year. It not only benefits the children to learn to act but it also benefits the association financially when parents take an interest in it. Thanking you for valuable space.
A MOTHER.
