PICTURE SHOW WAS WRECKED BY THE MONTREAL ITALIANS

THEY WOULDN'T STAND FOR SEEING ATROCITY PICTURES OR FOR THE ARABS GETTING THE BEST OF IT—RUSHED THE THEATRE AND STOPPED THE SHOW.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
Montreal, Dec. 16.—Because the moving pictures being shown depicting the alleged barbarities inflicted on the Turks and Arabs by Italian soldiers, and giving the Turks the best of the fighting in the war in Tripoli, a large body of Italians rushed the theatre where they were being displayed last night. The angry men tore down the signs, routed the ushers, and compelled the proprietor to stop the show. They threatened if it is repeated tomorrow to return and wreck the place.

MINES TO WORK ALL WINTER

Mr. Edgar Harris, of Harris Bros., Gives Encouraging Account of Work on American Boy, Silver Cup and Rocher de Boule.

Interviewed by a Daily News reporter while on their way south, B. R. and Edgar Harris, of Harris Brothers, the well-known Hazelton mining men, gives excellent reports of the outlook for the properties in that country. The brothers are just going home for Christmas and will be back by January 15th, as they will keep at work on their American Boy group all winter. A crescent tunnel to their No. 2 vein is now being driven, which will give them 137 feet depth on the vein. The ore body is very rich, averaging over $100 a ton, one large piece weighing 137 pounds giving a assay of $374 to the ton. Work is going on in night and day shifts. Work is also going on with promising results on the No. 3 vein, and a gang will sink a shaft on No. 4 in the spring, where values of over $90 a ton have already been obtained.

Mr. Harris reports that the Rocher de Boule property, which was recently bonded to some Salt Lake parties at a big figure—some reports said $250,000—have already got twelve men at work installing machinery, which includes an eight-drill Ingersoll. They will drive a crosscut tunnel to tap the lower vein at a depth of 200 feet.

Silver Cup is also keeping three men at work all winter tunneling on the Duke claim.

SOON OPEN NEW WHARF

G. T. P. Line to Provincial Wharf Being Hurried to Completion.

Two long ballast trains dumped their loads at high speed with the special clearing car apparatus along the grade between the wharf and the Government wharf yesterday. Rapid work has been done to spike the rails and complete the skeleton track so far, and the ballasting will make the line in shape for heavy traffic very soon. With the completion of the access to the wharf and the railway and the appointment of the wharfmaster, Mr. J. Beattie, it would appear that before long the wharf will be opened for boat traffic. The false work used in the setting of the concrete piles has been adapted for protective buffer staging to the wharf to prevent damage to the structure by heavy steamship traffic.

Notice

A meeting of the residents of Sections 5, 6, 7 and 8 will be held in the Presbyterian church hall on Tuesday next, December 19th, at 8 p.m. Thomas Dunn, G. R. Naden and W. P. Lynch will address the meeting. The objects of the Property Owners' Association will be fully outlined at the meeting. Everyone should attend.—E. Fleznan, Secy.

WILL TEST THE COMPANY LAW

Canadian Manufacturers' Association Will Fight the Licensing of Extra-Provincial Companies at First Opportunity.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
Toronto, Dec. 16.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has decided when the first opportunity is presented to bring a test case against the licensing of extra Provincial corporations under the Companies Act of British Columbia. The case will be taken necessary to the Privy Council to the Supreme Court and if to test its constitutionality.

ARRANGED FOR THREE DEBATES

Prince Rupert Young Men Will Furnish Education and Entertainment This Winter by Public Debates.

Representatives from the Presbyterian, Anglican and Baptist Church clubs met last night and decided to arrange a series of three public debates, to take place during the winter season. One will be held at the Presbyterian Hall, one in McIntyre Hall and one at St. Andrew's Hall. A novelty in the debate will be that in each debate there will be on each side a representative from the Anglican, Baptist and Presbyterian Young Men's clubs, and each body will nominate a judge. In this way any possibility of denominational rivalry will be ruled out and justice will be done.

The dates and subjects are as follows:
Jan. 22—Baptist Brotherhood, McIntyre Hall. "Resolved, That early marriage injures a young man's chances of success."
Feb. 6—St. Andrew's Hall. "Resolved, That all races should be eligible for citizenship in Canada."
Feb. 24—Presbyterian Hall. "Resolved, That there should be an educational qualification."

The entertaining club will in each case supply the leaders, and each will be supported by one member from the other two clubs.

PELAGIC SEALING ENDS FOR A PERIOD OF FIFTEEN YEARS

TODAY THE TREATY BETWEEN RUSSIA, CANADA, UNITED STATES AND JAPAN CAME INTO EFFECT—ROOKERIES HAVE BEEN ALMOST DEPLETED.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
Victoria, Dec. 16.—Under the terms of treaty between Russia, Canada, the United States and Japan to terminate pelagic sealing, which came into effect today, a once great industry ceases to exist. The Canadian sealers are to be compensated by the Government.

Only 25,000 skins were disposed of in the London market today. They brought $27 a skin, $1 more than usual. The Japanese raids on the seal rookeries of Behring Sea have almost depleted the herds. Many of the American sealers are to be refitted to enter the halibut trade.

NAVAL REPORT JUST ISSUED

It is the First Naval Report Ever Issued in Canada—Deals Mainly With the Late Government's Policies.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
Ottawa, Dec. 16.—The first report of the Naval Service has just been issued and deals with the carrying out of the naval policy of the late Government, the work of the Fisheries Protective Service, Hydrographic Survey, Wireless and Radio-Telegraphic Service. It states that 38 recruits were secured for the cruiser Rainbow, all but three being secured in British Columbia.

ANOTHER FALL AT DANGER SPOT

This Time the Victim Was Not Killed, Only Had His Head Fractured, and Will Probably Recover

TOM WILLIS MEETS WITH BAD ACCIDENT

Slipped on the Ice on First Avenue Plankway, near the Grand Hotel Last Night, and Fell Head Downwards on the Rocks—Had a Fall of Twenty-Five Feet—Was Picked Up for Dead—Doctors Amazed at the Man's Escape from Instant Death

At almost the same spot behind the Dominion Hotel where a man was killed by a fall last year, Tom Willis, a longshoreman, slipped on the ice last night and crashed down a distance of twenty-five feet to the rocks below. He is alive, but his forehead was smashed, the skull is fractured and he has concussion of the brain. He lies at the General Hospital in a critical condition, but this morning was reported to be doing as well as might be expected.

Had a Close Call.
Dr. Tremayne, who was called immediately after the accident, says Willis has had about the closest call he might live through.

The distance he fell was a clear twenty-five feet, fifteen feet farther than the fall which killed John Crawford about a fortnight ago in the same neighborhood, and ten feet farther than that which killed another victim last year close to the same place.

Slipped on Plankway.
How Willis came to meet with the accident is difficult to account for, say the doctor and some of the helpers. He slipped on the plankway leading to the row of cabins just below the Dominion Hotel in the deep gully between that building and the Grand Hotel.

Slipped Under Rail.
There is a railing on the plank-way, but Willis managed to slip under the guard rail between the rail and the plank footway. Ice caused his fall. He was perfectly sober and a strong, well set up man or he could not have survived the blow on his head.

Picked up for Dead.
Helpers immediately after the accident took him up for dead, but Willis was able to speak and complained of injuries to his back though in a semi-conscious condition and suffering from concussion of the brain. The forehead was dark bruised and the eyes seemed hurt by the rocks. By a sheer miracle no bones except those of the forehead were fractured.

Fine New Business and Residential Block to Be Erected by J. H. Hilditch for Allan Campbell Near McBride Street.

Another fine business and residential block is planned for First Avenue, near McBride Street, overlooking the new Provincial Government wharf. The building is to be erected by J. H. Hilditch for Allan Campbell. It will be 50 by 100 feet with two storeys and basement. The ground floor will be occupied by handsome stores, the upper floors by commodious residential rooms. The basement will be adapted for store purposes and will accommodate the steam heating plant. Plumbing, electric light and bell equipment will all be of the most modern, and everything will be arranged in substantial style to suit the structure to the excellent site. Messrs. Munro & Lailey are the architects in charge of the work.

THAT THIRD AVENUE SIDEWALK.

That plank sidewalk on Third avenue east of Fourth street is an improvement to be sure, but quite a number of citizens have been asking why it wasn't built on the other side of the street at this point. It starts off at the Police Office, which is only a temporary police office after all, to be abandoned when the new City Hall is ready. Then it passes along a group of barren Government lots, unoccupied except by one small shack which once did duty as the police office. Across Third street the new sidewalk passes Mr. Barrow's house. Mr. Barrow was once an alderman, but it can't be for his convenience that the sidewalk takes his side for he doesn't live in his house now. The next and last building passed by the sidewalk is the Municipal "Hello House," which, though a busy centre, costs no shoe leather to reach, and has no special need of a sidewalk. The sidewalk ends at Second street just opposite The News' office.

Now on the other side of the street, where there is no sidewalk, there are a great many business premises. First, there is Wallace's department store, still isolated by morasses and rockpiles. Then there is Mr. Kauffman's music store, also isolated by contractors' leavings. There is the Empire newspaper office, the McCaffery & Gibbons residential and business block with William Grant's plumbing office and show rooms and E. L. Fisher's funeral chapel. Besides this there are several occupied flats, where women and children live, all of which are reached across makeshift side planks. Last, but not least, there is The News office, access to which is over a wilderness of jagged rocks.

By every rule of obvious public need the sidewalk should have been run down the opposite side of the street to that which it now adorns. Why was it not so built? Is it because the vacant lot next to the Telephone Central is owned by Alderman Hilditch, and the corner next to Mr. Barrow's house is leased by him, or is it just because he doesn't want Alderman Newton or The Daily News to have a sidewalk?

WANTED—SOME LABRADOR FISHERMEN.

Full credit to Herbert H. Stevens, Conservative member of Parliament for Vancouver, for advocating in the House of Commons the settlement of a thousand Labrador fishermen and their families upon the coast of Northern British Columbia. It is the most statesmanlike contribution that has yet been made for the upbuilding of a white man's fishery on our coasts.

It is idle to protest against yellow labor in the fisheries when no other labor offers. Economic laws pay no heed to protests and prejudices. The yellow man is not to be driven out—he must be displaced.

To bring a thousand Labrador fishermen to the North Pacific Coast is an act of mercy, of which a modern Portia might say:

"It is twice blessed. It bleaseth him that gives
And him that doth receive."

A thousand fishermen and their families transplanted from the rigors of Labrador to the genial coasts and well stocked banks of Hecate Straits would be transplanted from poverty to comfort themselves, and would do a great deal to enrich the district they would settle in and the government that would aid them hither.

The fishermen of Labrador are poor. "desperately poor, but the kindest and bravest people I have ever come across," says Colpitts Robinson in his latest book on Labrador. They would have to be assisted here. But the money so spent would reap rich dividends, and do more than any amount of bloodshed and treasure to solve the problem of the Oriental on our coasts.

The Labrador fisherman who brings his family and his Labrador customs with him will be an asset to settlement, too. Each family tills the little homestead while the man is out at sea. "Simple in faith, honest in purpose, their hospitality limited by circumstances, courageous in adversity, resourceful in danger," the Labrador fisherman as depicted by Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell would prove a valuable asset to this young and rich country.

It is no secret that the local Liberal Executive of last year was urging that steps be taken to import white fishermen for our fisheries. Their plans were cut off shortly by the unexpected fatality on September 21st last. The knowledge that one of the British Columbia members at least is striving to secure the importation of white fishermen to our coasts should and will meet with warm encouragement from all sides. The News suggests that resolutions in support of this policy be passed by the various political, trade and patriotic societies throughout the district and forwarded before the House reassembles to all the members of Parliament who represent British Columbia constituencies.

SITE FOR CITY WEIGH SCALES

Scales Are on Hand, but Council Cannot Agree on Site—City Engineer Called on to Reconsider Whole Matter.

The city weigh scales are now on hand, and Alderman Hilditch at last night's Council meeting expressed the idea of having them placed at the light plant. He pointed out that it would be very convenient for the Westholme Lumber Company in the selling of the cheap coal they advertise, while it would also be handy for the city. Alderman Douglas suggested a site near the St. John Hotel to serve both wharves and the railway depot. This idea was approved by the Mayor, but after some discussion it was suggested that the matter be referred again to the City Engineer.

This looked to Col. Davis a peculiar proposition considering that he has already had the matter referred to him and has selected a site on Centre street.

Further discussion, however, resulted in the carrying of a motion that the City Engineer reconsider the matter and report.

Favorite of the West.

No home in this western country can well afford to be without "The Family Herald and Weekly Star" of Montreal. It is particularly useful in western homes. The information it gives to the new settlers as well as worth hundreds of dollars a year. It is simply marvelous the amount of good instructive matter that paper contains each week. It well deserves its success. One dollar cannot be better invested in western homes than by ordering that great paper. A beautiful picture entitled "Home Again" is also included, and it is well worth the dollar alone.

THREE DAY CURE FOR DRINK HABIT

Appeals to the Business and Professional Man, the Banker, and Man in all the Higher Walks of Life

BECAUSE OF THE TIME IT SAVES THEM

When a man's time is worth a great deal more to him than the cost of a drink habit cure he is not going to drag along for twenty-eight to forty-two days taking a treatment when he can get a cure in three days, without hypodermic injections, and be surrounded with every comfort of home.

A PERFECT CURE.

The Neal internal treatment cures the periodical, occasional or moderate drinker and the nervous man who has to drink to keep from becoming nervous. It takes away all inclination to drink, all desire and craving to drink, by neutralizing the poison of alcohol in the system and ridding the blood of the poison by a rapid system of elimination, leaving the drinker in the condition that he was before tasting liquor, so far as the effect of alcohol may be concerned—all appetite for drink gone—and he a new man.

The treatment consists of the internal administration of a harmless remedy, tonic in its action, that removes the craving for liquor in a very few hours.

DRUG HABIT CURED.

At the Vancouver institute we also treat drug addictions with uniform success. Call, write or phone for booklet, giving full information.

HOW REMARKABLE BIRD-FLIGHT PICTURES WERE SECURED

The accompanying photograph, made by P. Trenchard Jones for the Prince Rupert Daily News, was snapped by permission of Orville Wright on the day he succeeded in keeping a motorless airship on an even keel in a 50-mile gale of wind, thus showing that the secret of the bird's flight in any kind of air current is in the possession of the Wrights.

The desolate place selected by the Wrights for these experiments is the same spot on which they camped when making their first airship experiments 10 years or more ago. Kill Devil Hill and Kitty Hawk are townships on a sandy waste on the coast of North Carolina.

Jones traveled by train to Elizabeth City, then by a hired fishing boat to Manteo, N. C., and at this point hired another fishing boat to take him the 13 miles across Albemarle Bay to the life saving station that is the sole structure at Kitty Hawk.

The arrival happened to suit the Wright party, for after keeping all inquirers at bay for weeks they had that very day concluded their efforts had solved the problem of the motorless aeroplane. Wright let down the barriers in his great jubilation and the photographer had plain sailing.

The picture was made with the wind blowing a gale. The glider stood perfectly still in the wind.

Wright has made a study of the power of the birds to fly in the teeth of the gale and his glider is made in accordance with the knowledge gained by a close examination of the methods of the birds in soaring. It is only a question of time, Wright says, when the motorless aeroplane will be an accomplished fact. This he predicts is the next important step forward in aviation and, although he will not talk about his experiments, he is confident that he will be able to show that man can soar aloft like a bird and remain there without the assistance of a motor.

Press on Power Scheme.

Engineers and surveyors are hard at work with the initial operations in connection with the Prince Rupert Hydro-Electric Co.'s Khatatda River power scheme, the transmission line being run at present by a survey party working toward Rupert. Another party is proceeding to make preliminary surveys for the development of the Oestaw River power. The company may be at Rupert's door with power before the city scheme is in operation.

Pound Keeper Appointed.

William Sims has been appointed pound keeper to the city. Mr. Sims is a Porcher Island rancher and has previously been employed by the city as launch man.

Abandoned Idea.

The Dominion Baths proprietors have abandoned the idea of erecting an illuminated sign, as it is difficult to build one in compliance with requirements of the Building bylaw.

What is Your Family Worth?

If your family is worth the best you can afford in house and food and clothes, is it not worth the best reading as well? And the best reading—best for boys and girls, best for men and women—is to be found in The Youth's Companion.

Of stories alone The Companion will print nearly 300 in 1912.

With all the rest of the paper thrown in, and counting the glorious long serial stories, they cost the subscriber less than a cent apiece. Moreover, you will look long before you will find stories so varied and interesting; stories of coolness in the face of peril, strange adventures with creatures of the forest and the sea; moving stories of life's obscure heroisms; stories breezy with good-natured humor, quaint and curious character sketches.

Now is the time to subscribe, for the new subscriber in Canada will receive free from the time his $2 is received all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1911, containing the opening chapters of Ralph D. Paine's great serial story of the Boxer rebellion, "The Cross and the Dragon."

And there is the gift of The Companion calendar for 1912, "On the New England Coast," lithographed in ten colors and gold. Only $2 now to Canadian subscribers, but on January 1, 1912, the subscription price will be advanced to $2.25. The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass. # Henry Fales-Gordon Visits Rupert

The Grand Trunk Inn.

Henry Fales Gordon was the most distinguished of the arrivals by the Prince George on Wednesday, most distinguished as a globe trotter and a trained observer. The name is well known even in Prince Rupert, as many excellent articles of travel and adventure have appeared in the magazines over his signature, and also during his stay in the United States he devoted these habits of trained observation to the conditions existing in the cities he visited and freely discussed them, his comparison of these conditions with those of the leading cities and towns of Great Britain and the Continent being read everywhere with great interest.

The News reporter introduced himself to Mr. Gordon at the Grand Trunk Inn as the latter was strolling in from breakfast Thursday morning. The reporter, being himself something of a traveler in a small way, quickly got en rapport with the visitor by the mention of his old-time friends among writers and artists whom Mr. Gordon must have met, and thus nearly an hour was pleasantly spent in interesting remembrance chat. After this the reporter got down to business and endeavored to obtain material that would be interesting to the readers of The News, and in this he succeeded far in advance of his expectations.

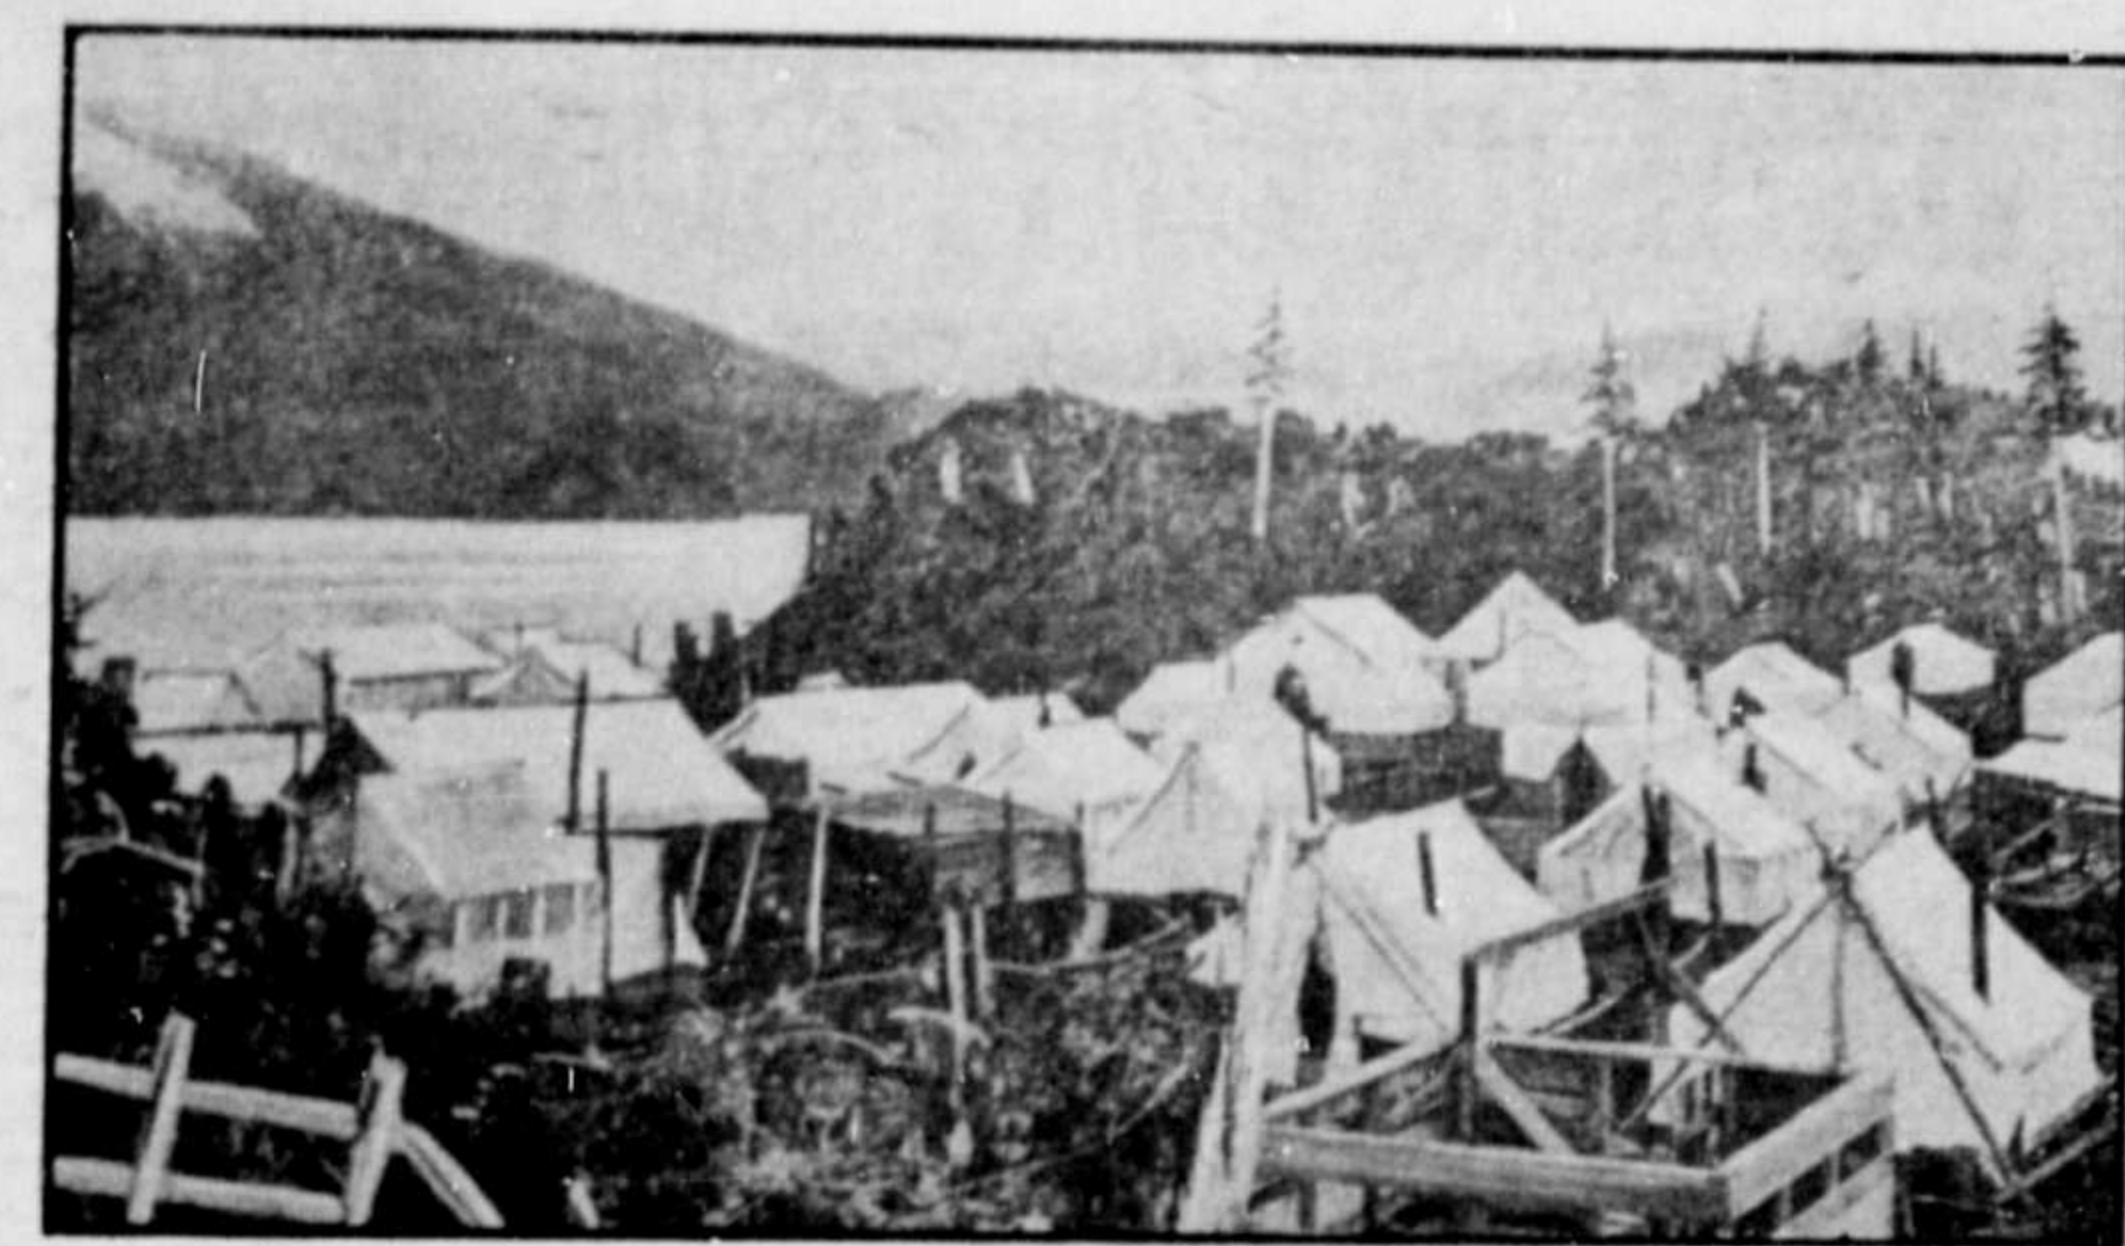

Referring to his articles on the rotten municipal conditions of Seattle and other towns he had visited, Mr. Gordon was asked if he had ever lectured and whether during his stay he might be induced to deliver a lecture here.

"No, nothing would persuade me to lecture. I was asked several times in the States to do so, but I always declined. As a matter of fact I don't much like the States. I don't like their ways. You know, you might, as you say, have read my name often, but this is what I object to: Too much publicity, don't you know. Now I've gone about a bit, and seen things, and if I can help anybody by anything I know, why, the information is theirs for the asking. But I don't want to have the limelight thrown onto me. Every fellow who is anyway decent objects to that, don't you know."

"Now, I like you, old chap. You've knocked about a goodish bit and know things. I am willing to help you make some 'copy,' and that's what any good newspaper man wants. But I won't be featured, you understand. Just say I landed and am staying at the Inn, and that's all. I don't want to be bothered with a lot of people. Promise me that and I'll go ahead making copy for you. Get your pencil out."

"It would be well to start this with the story you tell of meeting Patti in New York Bay when one of her very last 'farewell' visits. Twenty reporters were in the pilot house and she in the centre, and she says: 'Well, somebody ask me how I like America and I will answer that I just love America above all things.' Because I do like Prince Rupert. I like to study towns and this is an especial opportunity to study a great seaport in the making. It interests me very much. I'll tell you what most struck me yesterday afternoon, and while I am here what else strikes me: your fine stores, your horrible streets, your hotels, banks and so on.

"Let's start with this hotel. I came here naturally. I knew of no other, for although there was a crowd of hotel runners at the boat, none of them said: 'Free bus,' you know, so I took no notice of them. This is right next to the wharf anyway, and, another thing, you will never make a mistake in Canada in going to a railway hotel. You may, and possibly will, in any other country. The hotels in Canada are fine. I might class them as the leading hotels in the several cities, but this may not be the exact fact. You find in them the dignity of a first-class old hotel in England, but with a greater freedom. The little things that make for individual comfort are better looked after. The servants are not so obsequious, but they are willing and their first thought is not 'backsheth,' as it is in England and all over the Continent. And they have gentlemanly managers every time.

"This I will say for Mr. Sweet. He is a type so far as courteous manner goes, but he goes farther. He has a geniality that is never familiar and yet it captures; without admitting it you reckon him among your friends. Then he undoubtedly understands the fine art of catering. The meals are splendid compared with what I reasonably expected to find in a town so new. The service, too, is worthy of commendation. I don't know where he gets such nice girls. They don't have them in the States nor in Eastern Canada. What I mean is: I don't know how Mr. Sweet manages to keep them. For they go modestly and sweetly obliging about their business as if it was their business, seriously. Anywhere else the waiter girls are flirtatious and endeavor to convey the idea they are only there for fun for a short time. This is, in a measure, true, for in pioneer towns especially they are soon snapped up and married. But Mr. Sweet's waitresses are refined and seem proud of their business.

"The rooms and the house generally are up to the best of hotels and a trifle more homelike. But in regard to this I understand the railway is building a million dollar hotel here like the Chateau Laurier at Ottawa, and all I can say is that when moving day comes I trust the company will take along Mr. Sweet as one of the most valuable assets. It wasn't so soon after breakfast I would invite you downstairs to drink a peg in the prettiest wainscoted bar room I've seen in the Northwest.

"Arrayed in Fine Clothes."

"Your stores are beginning to put on a Christmas air, I notice," observed Mr. Gordon, as he filled his pipe. "Not to the same extent, however, is there to be noticed that crude garishness of holiday decoration as in many places. Your pioneer business men seem to be satisfied to make a good display of goods, and in this respect you are ahead of many places in the trick of window dressing and displaying wares to the best advantage. Not only that, but for a frontier town the stock of goods gives an idea of local prosperity and plenty of money going around, and also of cultured and rather expensive tastes.

"Were I of the other sex I should be disappointed, old chappie, that you have not noticed my get up. It was the store windows in this case that took me in and got my money, because I found when I was in that I really needed a new suit, and that prices were very reasonable.

"It was at a place on this side of the first street you go up, Sixth street, and the firm is Sloan & Company, Ltd. They had a holly lot of smoking jackets in the window, and the White Pass. However, it might be his son. I'd drop in and see just to pass the time away.

"Can I see Mr. Rogers?" I asked.

"You are looking at him," was the reply. "What can I do for you?"

He was a well set up chap, clean shaven, clear eyed, fine complexion and no crowsfeet—it must be Jim's son, for there was certainly a likeness to my old friend. Then I noticed that his hair was grizzled. Well, it might be his son, you know, for young fellows soon get gray gazaleas at the sides if they woo the Kitty late.

"I met a Mr. Rogers with C. E. Hawkins, the railroad engineer, at the Baldwin House, Frisco, about ten years ago," I ventured to say.

"That's me," was the ready reply. "Hawkins and I are old chums from way back."

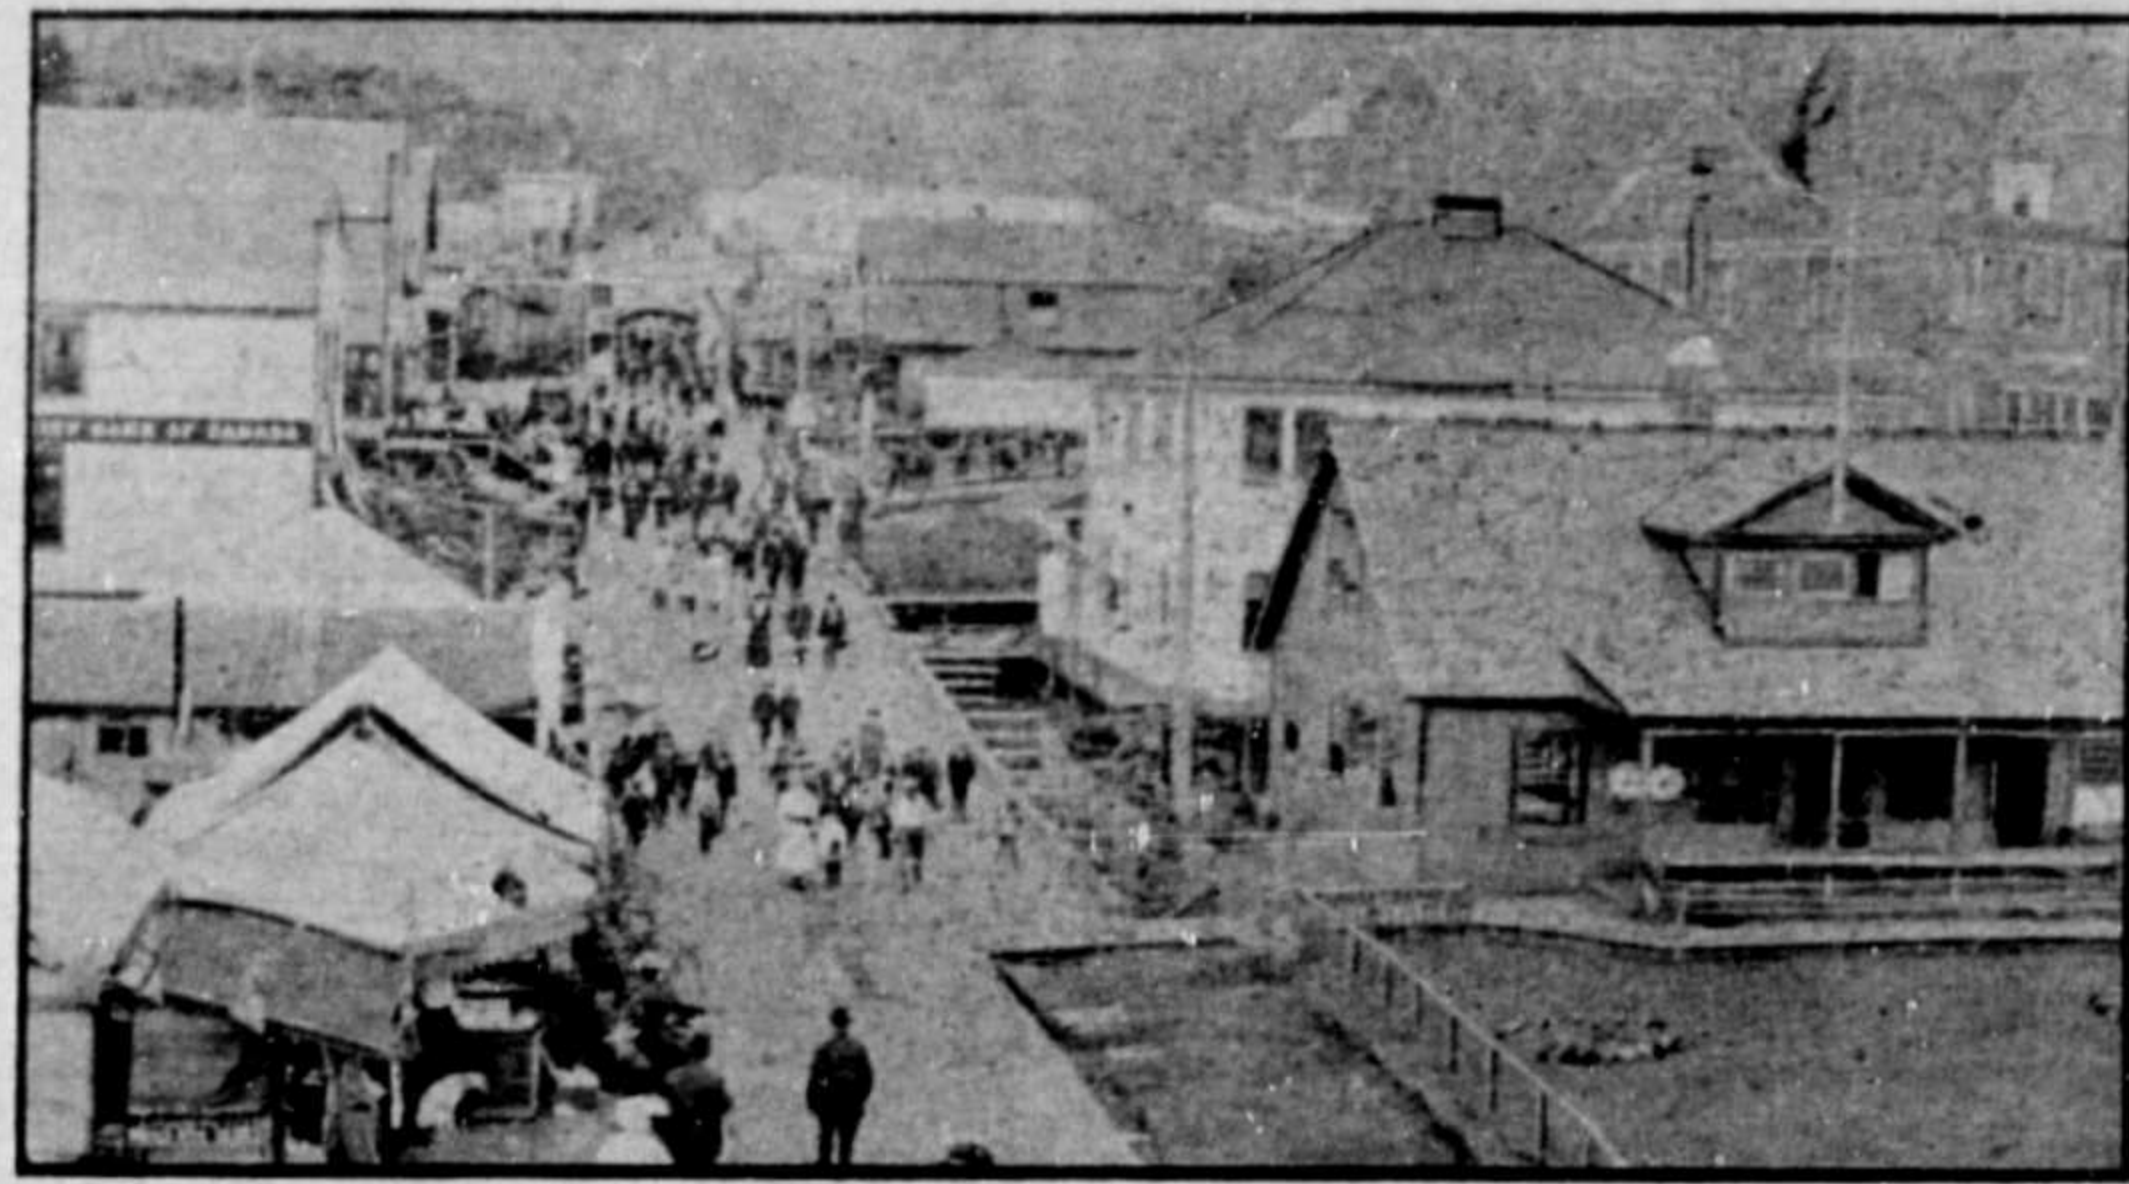

"Then I'm an old chum, too," and I tendered my card. He shook my hand with a clear, hearty laugh and I playfully told him he must be Jim's son.

"Quit yer kidding," was the laughing retort. "Why, Fales, I'm a proud grandfather. And, see that sign there—Rogers & Black? Well, you will see a similar sign in Vancouver and that Rogers is one of my sons. I have another here who is associated with the leading archiand all the leading lines across the Atlantic and to the Mediterranean and South America. Quite a business, I observed.

"But, I haven't quit railroad-ing altogether," said Rogers. "I am the agent here for the Great Northern, and I—"

Just at this moment a strapping chap with a big black moustache and a big soft black sombrero came bustling in—a typical frontier man—and Jim said: "Let me make you acquainted with Peter Black, my partner in the coal business," and I found Peter had a grip like a giant. Jim told about the fine hotel his partner has here, the Central I think he called it, and Mr. Black told about the serap they had recently had

From the Inn he strolled up Centre Street commenting on the changes with the city fathers about a supply of Wellington coal, and how they had come out with flying colors. I am going to take in the Central Hotel before I leave, but this evening I am to take dinner with Rogers at a place he calls 'The Saints' Rest' and to remain for evening service. So I guess James must have changed some since I last met the old boy.

"That thought suggests that the shadow of the mizzzen is athwart the poop and it's time to take a peg. Talking so much engenders a healthy thirst. Eh, what?"

heart as this exhibition of natural flowers.

"You need your heart opened and your pocketbook, too, I thought as I strolled in—for the store was pretty crowded. But when I got a chance to price goods, especially the jewelry intended for gifts, I found them very reasonable, and I bought this little gift for my sister as a souvenir of my visit to Prince Rupert.

"I was reminded of home, by the way, when I started to look over the fine collection of Crown Derby. He has some nice specimens of the work Moorcroft is turning out at his Stoke-on-Trent factory. Libbey's cut glass, too, is quite a feature.

"I understand the Warks, the people who are running this large store, are pioneers. Where they come from I didn't happen to learn, although in new places I have the un-English way of poking my nose into everything, as you must have noticed. But mirring some of his burnt work at the Seattle Fair. He is an interesting man and has an interesting collection. But he didn't try to sell me anything, just chatted on, enquiring after Colonel Cholmondesly, Capt. Graves and other London chaps who were in the Klondike in the old days. There was one thing I took a fancy to, however, and asked his price for it. This is a magnificent mastodon or mammoth tusk. Morte shook his head with a smile. He said Mr. Lett, the colonization agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific, deserted it and would be much disappointed if he didn't get it."

Gives Us a Big Pointer.

"That is one of the enterprises showing the rapid growth of your city," observed Mr. Fales-Gordon as we came up Centre street and stood in front of the new opera house. He passed on to say what a fine street it would make for business purposes as soon as Mr. McLeod had cleared the big rock pile from his two lots adjoining the Westenhaver business block.

"They will not have an uninterrupted view of the bay for a long time, however," he musingly proceeded, "for I am given to understand the railway company intends to include in its next auction sale the reserved lots on this side, between Fifth and Sixth streets."

"That's news to me," the reporter observed.

"May be so; you must go from home to get the news. Is this sort of wide sidewalk going all along both sides of this fine broad avenue and along all the other avenues?" he asked as we passed the government buildings. The scene of the recent fire led him to ask about fire insurance rates here, the fire protection system and such matters.

After what he declared to have been a very pleasant and interesting visit the distinguished traveler left on the Prince Rupert yesterday morning on his way back, via the Great Northern, to New York and to England on a Cunarder, having purchased his passage here.

Cosmopolitan and Dickens

CHARLES DICKENS is still a "best seller." Publishers don't argue pro and con over his books—they just order a new carload of paper, oil the presses, and let them speed on. And it has been over forty years since, one morning when the yard was filled with scarlet geraniums and the breath of syringa was heavy in the air, the great author followed little Nell. Now that the centenary of his birth (February 7th, 1812), approaches and everybody is thinking of Dickens. We have secured several articles which will tell many things about him that have hitherto been unknown. In the January Cosmopolitan his son, Alfred Tennyson Dickens, will tell you some of his own personal recollections of the great novelist. Later, probably in February Mary Angela Dickens, his granddaughter, will give an intimate view of Dickens as she remembers him. In fact, in these and other articles on Dickens which will follow—fully illustrated, of course—we shall aim to give you a more vivid picture than has yet the home—side of the great master, written by those who knew him best. Read the articles—they will surely arouse a new interest in the "best beloved" author in your library. Subscriptions to Cosmopolitan will be accepted until Dec. 10th, at the special low rate to Canada of $1.50. Cosmopolitan Agency, Box 851, Winnipeg.

C.B. WARK JEWELER

Wark's store with its array of cut flowers especially appealed to him held my attention. You remember what McMasters said of having left railroading for steamboating? Well, says I, here is another instance, if this should chance to be the Jim Rogers I knew as manager of the White Pass road. But it couldn't be the same, for that Rogers worked on the construction of the Canadian Pacific and for I don't know how many years—more than a dozen—in the operating department of the Great Northern. Then he must have been eight years with lect of Prince Rupert, another in the office with me and then some more, all doing well."

"And how did you come to quit railroading, Jim, after all these years?"

"Came to Prince Rupert to grow up with it, and I'm doing it. Do you want to get back to the Old Country for Christmas? What line do you prefer? Can offer you your choice of sixteen." And I found that he was agent for the Cunard, White Star, the Red Star line to Antwerp, the French line to Havre

Attracted by Cut Flowers.

"One thing that struck me in walking up the principal business street this afternoon—Third avenue, I think it is—was bunches of fresh cut flowers in a jeweler's window. They made a beautiful display still more beautiful and attractive and added additional suggestion of refined culture to the very large, artistic stock of silverware displayed. As this is on the eve of the holidays, I can imagine nothing so suggestive and so much calculated to open the

There are lots of good mining properties up the river," says Edgar Harris, "but one of the very best in the whole district is that owned by Tony McHugh and Angus Stewart, contractors for Foley, Welch & Stewart. He says the ore is rich on the surface and the development work that has been done makes the property richer. The shaft sunk on the main vein has led into an eighteen-inch vein of gray copper ore that shows a value of $700 a ton. "The winter camp has been completed and the shaft, now 85 feet deep, is to be sunk to 200 feet without stopping. "The Surprise property, adjoining the Silver Standard, comprising three claims, has been bonded by Couer de 'Alene and Slocan capitalists, and the first payment made on the bond. "Work is also progressing on the Iron Mask property owned by Dwyer & Stephens, who have recently let a contract for a 100-foot tunnel to be driven this winter."

'MANSON WAY' GOES ON AHEAD. Noble Lumber Bridge Work for Access to Provincial Wharf in Progress—It is a Roundabout Way. Extensive trestle and bridge work is in active progress at the wharf for the general public Provincial Government's new wharf to complete the access to the wharf for the general public when the wharf is opened for steamboat traffic. Access to the wharf will be by means of "The Manson Way," a route which seems most appropriately roundabout and indirect. The way itself is a high wooden girder bridge spanning the G. T. P. track. Above the wharf it takes a right angle turn and then by a long gradual slope of trestle work now under construction the passenger reaches the level of the wharf at the opposite end from that approached by the Manson Way connects with the city at First Avenue through the Westholme Lumber Co.'s domains.
