Mussolini's Ambition To Bring Back Greatness Of Rome Doomed To Failure, Declares Speaker

Expressing the conviction that any aspirations that Premier Benito Mussolini had to bring back to Italy the ancient greatness were inevitably doomed to failure and that Great Britain did not have to fight to combat her but only carry on as time would be Italy's worst enemy, Prof. Harry Warren of the University of British Columbia, speaking before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at luncheon yesterday on "The Geographic Aspects of the Mediterranean Crisis" with particular reference to Great Britain and Italy, justified the attitude of British statesmen in hesitating to call Mussolini's bluff, accepting what seemed to be humiliation and thereby saving the lives of thousands of men which would be lost through warfare. Prof. Warren gave an interesting analysis of the Mediterranean situation and outlined his reasons for declaring that Mussolini's ambitions for Italy were doomed.

Vancouver Honors Premier on Occasion of Birthday—Urges Support for Taking Over Yukon and Highway

VANCOUVER, Jan. 20: (CP)—With Mayor George C. Miller presiding, many prominent citizens of Vancouver and British Columbia gathered at a complimentary banquet in the Hotel Vancouver last night to celebrate the sixty-fifth birthday of Premier T. D. Pattullo.

In addressing the gathering, Mr. Pattullo made an appeal to "all people in British Columbia" to support the government's proposal to extend the provincial boundaries to include the Yukon. "I see no reason why this should not be accomplished within eight-months of two years," he said.

"Rest assured," the Premier continued, "Yukon will become a part of British Columbia. Basis of the transfer to the province had been agreed upon by the Ottawa authorities but the scheme was being held in abeyance by mutual consent until after the Rowell royal commission had done its report."

The Premier also urged all Canadians to support the proposed Yukon-Alaska highway which he said would result in rapid development of the northland with consequent benefit to all the country.

ARE WE BRITISH OR NOT

Is this a part of the British Commonwealth of nations or not? It seems that in some parts of the country it is considered unwise politically to advocate giving support to Great Britain in the event of war. Surely this must be a fiction of imagination of some fearful politicians. Canada is a British Dominion and we believe is willing to take upon herself all the duties of such a Dominion. Possibly a few people may not agree with this view. We, undoubtedly, have a right to refuse to take part but that means little. Most people will agree, when the time comes, if it ever should come, that it would be a disgrace for Canadians to hold back.

We stress this point just now because Camillien Houde, opposing the Liberal candidate in Montreal, tried to make capital of a story that Canada was pledged to send a number of troops overseas in case of war. Happily Houde was defeated, the people of Montreal not agreeing with the policy he propounded. After all there is no reason why Canada should not go to the defense of the Empire as long as the troops sent are those who have volunteered for the purpose. It would be the least Canada could do.

IMPROVEMENTS IN CITY

After all the doubts and fears expressed by local citizens the new federal building will be under way this week, it is announced. This is excellent news and will encourage those who may have been feeling faint-hearted as to the future of the city. Evidently the federal government feels that Prince Rupert is of sufficient importance to spend public money on it. There are others who will be investing money on buildings here before the end of the present year. One of these is already announced. The Chriss Mill Bakery is to be housed in a new building soon. There is a little building to be erected on the waterfront for the use of the local heavy artillery battery. Even now the Department of Defense is busy on preliminary preparations for other work here. The new shell fish cannery recently completed is now busy turning out canned goods. Gradually the waterfront is filling up, indicating increased business. The city is steadily improving.

CONACHER MUST QUIT

Famous Puck Star Retiring Permanently From Game on Advice Of Physicians

TORONTO, Jan. 20: (CP)—Charles Conacher, great right winger of the Toronto Maple Leafs, is through with hockey for good. After his physicians had advised him that he would seriously endanger his health if he continued any form of violent exercise, he announced his permanent retirement from the game in which for a decade he has been one of the leading figures. Immediate rest in a warm climate was prescribed for Conacher.

It was almost ten years ago that Conacher joined the Toronto Maple Leafs as a member of the famous "Kid" line. In 1930 the now 28-year old Conacher was taken seriously ill and underwent an operation. That and a number of serious accidents did not help and undoubtedly contributed to the present condition which requires his retirement. He built up a brilliant career, however, and for two seasons was leading scorer of the National Hockey League.

Connie Smythe, manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, described Conacher's retirement as a severe blow to his hopes in the Stanley Cup series.

Library Board in Annual Session Last Night—Reports Presented

Making Plans

Augmentation of Reference Section Being Contemplated

The annual meeting of the Prince Rupert Library Board was held on Wednesday evening. Those present were Frank Dibb, chairman; T. B. Black, secretary; R. E. Moore, T. J. Williams and Miss Olive van Cooten, librarian.

The annual reports of the librarian and secretary were presented and accepted.

The Prince Rupert Branch of the Canadian Legion has presented a copy of "Five Nines and Whisk Bangs" to the library.

As the reference section of the library is of considerable interest to many patrons, the board is considering augmenting the facilities of this section.

New directories from main centres in Canada will be secured at an early date.

Librarian's Report

The librarian's report for the year was as follows:

"A fact of considerable importance in this year's report is the increase in books in the library. A loan of seventy-two non-fiction books for an indefinite period was made by the provincial government through the Public Library Commission. This loan is a great boon to our library as these are all worthwhile volumes and are being used extensively by the more serious readers. A gift of $25 was received from the Canadian Club and greatly appreciated.

"In April of 1937 a campaign was started, its objective being the raising of money for new books for the free adult and children's sections of the library. This campaign brought in $82. One hundred and ten books were duly ordered with the sum but, owing to some misunderstanding in the East, the books were delayed and did not arrive until December. Thus, the borrowers are just now receiving the benefits of them.

"A sum of $50 was granted the library from the private fund new reprints were bought, part of them for the children's section where they were sorely needed.

"The library received many gifts from borrowers during the year; and, although they are needed and appreciated, they do not stand up for any length of time as they have not been reinforced and are in most cases used books.

"The pay section of the library shows a steady increase, the figures for 1937 being 5,620 as against 4,814 in 1936, an increase of 806, which shows that more borrowers are patronizing that section.

"A portion of the monies taken in for fines and the pay section was used to cover the cost of repairing and reinforcing fifty books. These fifty books form but a very small part of the volumes requiring repairs. Many of the better books are in quite a dilapidated state, despite our best efforts to keep them in good condition by mending and replacing loose pages. It would be well if these necessary repairs could be made quite soon. A large number of books were discarded during the year and many more should be taken from the shelves but, as they are always in demand, they must be left until here are new ones to replace them.

"A decrease in the circulation is again evident this year, the circulation being 31,056 for 1937, 8,327 less than the previous year. This decrease, however, seems general throughout Canada and, in all probability, is owing to the increasing employment. It would be well to note that more students and serious readers are making use of the library this year, the reference room being used to a great extent. Non-fiction books are in great demand although, in many cases, the library has not the up-to-date books required in some sections of the non-fiction.

"During the latter part of the year additions were made to the library fixtures in the way of a shelf placed on top of each end wall book case for the purpose of containing these books which are rarely used and were taking up space in the various sections of the library. A stack and ladder were also built.

"Statistics show an increase in borrowers from the preceding year which may seem incompatible with a decrease in circulation. This is explained by the fact that more juvenile borrowers joined during 1937. Unfortunately, owing to the various epidemics, many of them were forced to leave their books in the library without ever having had the use of them.

The library is indebted and very grateful to the City for renewing the subscriptions to magazines in the reading room."

Secretary's Report

The secretary's report was as follows:

"A further decline in circulation of books through the public library is reported for the year 1937. The circulation shows only 31,056 volumes, a reduction of 8,327 or 21 percent from that of the previous year.

"Although books in the library are listed as 9,455, an increase of 288 from the total of 1936, the continued decline in circulation can in part be attributed to the considerable number of obsolete copies on the shelves, withdrawals due to disrepair and lack of adequate replacements and additions.

"It is generally accepted opinion however, that any improvement in general conditions is reflected in increased public library circulations.

"Likewise, as civic library appropriations are now approximately 50 percent of those made in the years 1931-32 it is apparent that facilities must be curtailed to some extent.

"The Library Board spent $708.96 from private funds throughout the year, largely on new books and binding. These monies were obtained from donations, fines and the library pay section. No civic grant for books was received.

"Patrons still show an active interest in the library as 4136 were listed at the end of the year, an increase of 94 since 1936. A considerable number are not active borrowers.

"Notable assistance was given to the library in 1937 by the Provincial Library Extension Service in loaning 72 new books to the non-fiction section. These already have had a wide circulation. The donations to the Library Campaign Fund, including a gift from the Woman's Canadian Club, were much appreciated. A large number of books were also kindly donated to the library by various citizens.

The librarian, together with former and present assistant, have endeavored as far as possible to maintain efficient service and have given every satisfaction.

Twelve meetings were held by the Library Board in 1937. Attendance was as follows:

Frank Dibb, 10; T. B. Black, 11; T. J. Williams, 10; R. L. McLennan, 9; Mrs. N. Arnold, 8; R. E. Moore, 7; W. H. Tobey, 3. The Commissioner, W. J. Alder, attended six meetings of the Board.

Buy Psalter For $25,000

Famous Book Made for Henry IV Stays in England After Auction

LONDON, Jan. 20: (CP)—The historic Bolinbroke psalter, eagerly sought by many of the foremost collectors in the world, will remain among the treasures of the nation. Against keen foreign competition at Sotheby's winter auction, the prize was won by Ernest Maggs, an Englishman, for £5,000 ($25,000). It was offered for sale by the trustees of the Earl of Lonsdale.

The psalter was specially written and illuminated for Henry IV, shortly after he succeeded Richard II on the throne of England. One of the large historic initials in it shows King Henry in armor bestriking a lion and receiving from King David a naked sword and a shield with the arms of France.

Scattered over the vellum manuscript are family arms of the de Bohuns, Arundels, Courtenays and others. One of the quaintest illustrations shows David cutting the tail off Saul's shirt.

Anglican Young People Meeting

Amusing Gathering Featured By Preparing of Newspaper Matter

One of the most amusing evenings of the season was spent by the Anglican Young Peoples' Association last night. During the business meeting further plans for the forthcoming play were made and a Valentine party was arranged. It was also decided that the boys should assist the girls with the work connected with the Sunday School by post.

After the adjournment of the business meeting, those present were divided into groups to write short newspaper articles under the following headings: Front page and local news, editorials, social notes, church news and notices, advice to the lovelorn, sports, Twenty Years hence and personal classified ads. The articles were then collected and read out, proving very entertaining.

Next came folk dancing with Miss Phyllis Taylor as a very able instructress. After this, refreshments proved very acceptable. Three new members were present.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20: (CP)—Merely an exchange of notes is required to bring about a free arrangement for traffic of American and Canadian aircraft over each other's territory during peace time, it was stated officially here yesterday. International recognition of pilots' certificates of the two countries was also a matter of ready arrangement.

Recently complaint had been made in Washington that Canadian authorities had placed technical obstacles in the way of passage of American planes over Canada in the course of a service from United States to Alaska.

SPECULATE IN MINING PROPERTIES

Professor Harry V. Warren Urges Investigation Before Buying and Points Out Pitfalls

It is possible to make money from speculation in mining stocks but not easy, according to Professor Harry V. Warren, of the University of British Columbia in the first of his University of British Columbia extension lectures in the council chamber of the City Hall last evening, Dr. J. T. Mandy presiding. Wise speculation in mining stocks tended to encourage mining and, if one lost, he did so in a good cause Prof. Warren said.

The speaker outlined what he meant by speculating. It was different from gambling and also different from investing. Gambling in mining stocks was like shooting craps. It was pure chance if you won. Speculating in mining stocks was buying stock in a real mine with the expectation of an increase in price. In order to make money it was necessary to buy at the right time and sell at the right time. Investing was buying for dividends only. He was not dealing with investing money but speculating.

The speaker explained that the first principle of speculating in mining stock was to be sure there was a mine and a mine was a property paying dividends. Ore was rock which could be mined at a profit. No person should invest in a new mine which did not have at least 100,000 tons of ore or a block of ore three times the size of the local court house building. Some companies demanded a five-year supply. To put cash into a mine with, say, 20,000 tons of ore in sight was gambling, not speculating.

In mining when the term "assured ore" was used it meant that the ore body had been cut on three sides. Other terms used to describe the ore reserve were "probable ore" and "possible ore" and "reasonably assured ore," the last expression being as elastic as the promoter's conscience. He urged speculators to beware of "values run as high as." It was easy to pick samples which ran very high but what the speculator wanted to know was the average value of the ore. Old prospectors always knew where to pick good samples. Engineer's samples usually gave much lower values.

Another expression often used which was most misleading was "values increase at depth." He assured his hearers that there was no merit in depth. Ore bodies were like plums in a pudding. They were where you found them near the surface or at depth. Depth in itself had no merit.

Men Important
Being sure of the ore, the next consideration was the man in charge of the mine. Judging men was not easy. The professor gave a number of instances of how the public was fleeced by taking brief quotations from a mining report away from their context and making them mean something quite different from what was intended.

Being assured that the mine had the ore and the proper management, the next important factor was the amount of money invested in it. Roughly speaking it cost a dollar a ton of ore to make a mine. For example a mine with 100,000 tons of assured ore and a 100-ton mill would cost $100,000 and should have $150,000 capital. Some of the large mines took millions of dollars to make them into profitable shipping properties. That was why the provincial government was doing its best to see that properties were properly financed. He urged people planning to put money into a mine to read all the available data of engineers including the resident mining engineer and the Dominion engineers. Being satisfied that the mine had the ore, efficient and honest management and sufficient money, the time to buy was about the time when the mill was installed or just before or after.

Mr. Warren then went on to tell how to study the market, this applying not only to mines but to other stocks. Each stock should be represented by a diagram and these should be prepared daily over a period of years, possibly half an hour a day being occupied in this task. The story of these diagrams along with the number of shares sold gave valuable information which was an aid to the speculator. It was no easy job and unless followed out faithfully was liable to be misleading.

In any event when the speculator

DEATHS IN INTERIOR

Mrs. Matthew Jones and Infant David Wesley Pass At Kitseguckla

The death of Mrs. Matthew Jones, sister-in-law of Moses Jones, occurred on Friday last about noon. Mrs. Jones had been ill for many years and was stricken with an attack of influenza which developed into pneumonia. Dr. Irish was called from Hazelton but he could not save her.

On Saturday morning the infant daughter of David Wesley died. It also contracted influenza, developing into pneumonia.

Monday morning a service was held for Baby Wesley conducted by the Sunday School assisted by the pastor, Rev. Bishop Black, Harvey Jones and Jane Howard read the Old Testament Scripture and Phyllis Wesley the New Testament Scripture. The children sang three hymns: "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us," "I am so Glad That Jesus Loves Me" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." Rev. B. Black conducted the service at the grave. The Band attended.

On Monday afternoon services were held for Mrs. Matthew Jones. In the United Church Rev. B. Black took charge. Opening the service with "Rock of Ages" and the Lord's Prayer, he called upon Adjutant Halvorson of Hazelton Salvation Army Corps, to read the lesson. Capt. J. H. Johnson led in prayer. A very effective solo was rendered by David Williams, accompanied at the organ by Walter Wesley. An address was delivered by the pastor, followed by the Ladies' Aid singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Many lovely flowers decorated the casket. Adj. Halvorson assisted at the graveside and the Salvation Army took over the service there. Several marches were played by the Band. Almost every person in the village attended the services.

Mrs. Jones leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and two daughters. Both daughters are married. Eva lives in Kitwanga but Maggie lives in Kitseguckla.
