TRAIN BRITISH FLYERS

It is planned to train men for the British Air Force in Canada to augment the British air force as part of the Imperial air defense scheme. Arrangements have been made with the British government to enable this to be done. Through a leak somewhere in connection with the negotiations it got out that the government did not favor allowing the British government to establish training centres in this country unless they were conducted under the authority of the Canadian government. This was used politically by the opposition leader in Parliament who thought Britain should be given the right to establish independent training centres in Canada. The difference seems very slight but it might prove an embarassment to allow it and, undoubtedly, would be used politically against the government by those who are jealous for Canadian autonomy. We are inclined to think Mr. Mackenzie King did the right thing in this case.

Add 1/4 cup water and 1/4 cup lemon juice, bring to a boil, cover, and sim mer 15 minutes. (For stronger cherry flavor, add 1/4 teaspoon almond extract before pouring) Measure sugar into large kettle Add prepared fruit, packing each cup solidly and filling up the last cup with water, if necessary. Mix well and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 5 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly and paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each). If sour cherries are used, leave out 1/4 cup lemon juice and boil only 3 minutes instead of 5.
