RESERVE IS CALLED OUT TAXES ARE TOO HEAVY

Two Hundred R.C.M.P. Officers to Be Used in Connection With Visit of King and Queen Taxes Are Too Heavy, So Says Hon. T. A. Crerar

REGINA, Dec. 6: (CP)—Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police announced yesterday that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police force of two hundred men would be called out for special duty next May in connection with the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth.

MONTREAL, December 6—Taxation in Canada is "unbearably heavy," Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Natural Resources, told the Chamber of Mines, Wednesday.

Mr. Crerar was cheered by the 600 guests present at the dinner when he said: "We must take stock of our expenditures. We must make improvements in a way that will add to the productive wealth of the country and leave to later years the other things that seem to be necessary in a modern civilization."

The federal minister said Canada's heavy taxation is due largely "to the heavy services we carry and for only 11,000,000 people." He pointed to the progress of the mining industry in Canada and said he expects it to make an even greater contribution to the national economy of the country.

"Five years ago we didn't, but now we know enough to realize Canada is blessed with minerals as few other countries are blessed," he said.

Company officials believed that all injured and dead had been brought out.

CHANGE IN PARLIAMENT

When Parliament reassembles on January 12 there will be a change in the personnel of the House of Commons which will be encouraging to the government of Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Since the conclusion of the last session four elections have been held and two seats formerly Conservative have changed over to the Liberal side of the House. The Liberals now have 180 members in the House whereas hitherto there had been but 178.

This increase of support should tend to make Mr. King hold on to office for another year or two rather than appeal to the country for approval of the tri-partite trade pact which was a move tending to unite the English speaking countries at a time when support for Empire policies might be badly needed.

Naturally added interest is taken in the forthcoming session because of there being a new Conservative leader Dr. Manion has been a leading member of the House of Commons for a number of years. He had also been a member of the Bennett government. Now he speaks with authority as the leader of the opposition and the official mouthpiece of the Conservative party.

ITALIAN SITUATION

In view of the recent demands of Germany for return of her colonies now held under mandate by the League of Nations and the demands of Eire for reunion with Ulster, Italy has made demands for the return of colonies taken from her years ago by France.

The return of these colonies is not an important issue just now but, if France should at any time get into a war, it may become an issue. It looks as if Italy was determined that Germany should not get all the spoils from the movement which started with the return of the Sudeten. If there is to be any returning, evidently she expects to have a share. There is no reason why preference should be shown to the spoils of any particular war.

It is easy to understand Italy's position but it seems as if there is to be no return of any colonies, just now at any rate.

NEW BUSINESS BLOCK

The announcement that a new business block is to be built in Prince Rupert within the next few months is another step in advance, following the building movement which started this year and is likely to be continued into next. Other buildings are being planned and it is hoped that the new business premises will be followed by erection of new homes in the city.

STILL BIG MAN

Anthony Eden, who resigned from the British cabinet because of disagreement over the British official attitude toward the dictatorships, is still a big man with a tremendous influence throughout the British Empire and evidently also in the United States. He is now on his way to New York and we think he will be given a great reception there. The policy he upholds is one that is favored by a great many people. Those who did not agree with his policy still look on him as an outstanding man.

RUSHBROOK SPEAKS ON ABORIGINES

Seal Cove Young People Hear Many Interesting Things Of Young Indians of Old

The young people of St. Peter's Anglican Young People's Association received a visit from Rev. Canon W. F. Rushbrook who spoke to a meeting on the subject of "The Education of an Indian Boy and Girl Before the Coming of the White Settlers."

The culture of the Coastal Indian was comparable with the early white settlers in Ontario said Mr. Rushbrook. Owing to tribal affiliation which did not permit of marriage between those of the same crest, a high state of racial purity existed. The line of succession for chieftainship rested in the women of the tribe and not in the men. This fact gave the girls a peculiar importance. Marriages were arranged at the early age of fourteen or thereabouts and they were arranged moreover by the aunt or uncle of the boy or girl involved and by no one else.

The Indian boy and girl were not heathens strictly speaking, said Canon Rushbrook, because they possessed a belief in the Great Creator Spirit of the Universe. The later Christian teaching was, therefore, not difficult to impart.

The speaker then went on to tell of the girl's education. A piece of work was given the Indian girl at an early age and usually lasted her until her marriage. Such a work, for instance, might be the carving or grinding out of a bowl from a piece of solid sandstone.

Then, too, there was the work of selecting moss used for the reception of babies when they came along and this moss required careful selection. Food for the babies also, had to be collected since rarely ever was milk available for them. The inner bark of hemlock with fish eggs, partially masticated by the girls, were given to the babies at the end of the girl's tongue and this important function of feeding baby occupied a large place in the early life of the Indian girl.

In addition to this the girl would gather white fungus from the floor of the forest and the bark of trees, fungus of the sort that was edible. She would gather cedar bark carefully removed from the inner walls of the tree and would make cedar hats and mats by skillful weaving of the selected strands.

As the girl grew she would be taught to cut fish very finely for the purposes of drying and preserving; to gather and prepare devil club roots for medicinal purposes and to prepare herself for the arts of married life.

In passing, said the speaker, it was interesting to note that the helibore herb was used in the time of sickness to drive away evil spirits. This herb would be burnt in their huts or teepees and as later medical authority had affirmed, it possessed excellent disinfectant qualities.

Finally the girl married. Nearly all girls married Mr. Rushbrook said and, if they could not find a partner, they would become a second or third wife of the Indian orave who was wealthy enough to be able to support more than one at a time.

Boys' Education

The boys' education began with the teaching of the manufacture of instruments such as those used in domestic work or hunting or fishing or warfare.

The art of forestry, the selection of trees suitable for the fine work of canoe building, the making of arrow shafts and arrow heads and, later on, the mastery art of constructing a war canoe. All were included in the boys' early training.

The exacting disciplines of the Indian were spoken of briefly although they were many and varied.

There was one, for instance, which was undergone by the hunters prior to the hunting season. Into a roughly built igloo of willows and cedar boughs they went to endure a prolonged "Turkish Bath" by means of water handed to them from without and poured upon heated stones within the igloo. This, with fasting and constant drinking of water, combined to remove all human scent after "hich the hunter was ready for the hunt.

The hunter would take the nose from the first valuable animal taken at the commencement of the season. The nose would be cut in four pieces and thrown to the four winds—north, south, east and west—to the accompaniment of a prayer to the Great Spirit for the blessing of skill and luck in the hunt.

Appeasement Even Then

The Indians did not make a habit of giving the Great Spirit anything. Apparently he felt it was unnecessary, but the evil spirits were constant recipients of his treasures, the best of which would not be denied them in order to placate their knavish tricks. Canon Rushbrook illustrated his talk by showing many Indian relics. The Canon is himself an Indian by adoption, being a member of the Raven Crest of Metlakatla.

With the telling of two Indian legends and the quoting of the Lord's Prayer in the language of his adopted race, the Canon concluded a highly interesting and instructional address which was thoroughly enjoyed by eager listeners and questioners.

Man in the Moon

Tuesday is always a dull day for merchants in the city. Possibly it would be a good thing to change that by advertising. If every merchant advertised a special attraction for buyers on that day there would be no more dull Tuesdays.

And, Jake grows, the newspapers would make a profit which, he thinks, would be all wrong.

What a fearful work this is. We are all afraid someone else will make a dollar.

Head Grocer, making up the wholesale order for the week:

Assistant: "No, sir. We have enough in the store-room for another six weeks."

For her birthday, little Pat had been given a ring, but, much to her disappointment, not one of the guests at tea noticed it. At last she could bear their indifference no longer.
"Oh, dear," she exclaimed, "I'm so warm in my new ring!"

PARSON IN POLITICS

Members of Ministerial Association Feel He Has Time Only For One Job

Should a parson take up politics as a profession? Should he seek election to public office? These were questions which were discussed at the regular meeting of the Prince Rupert Ministerial Association yesterday. The consensus of opinion of the members of the Association appeared to be that while politics should not be de-created, the demands of a clergyman's clerical duties were such that he could not do more than the one job at a time.

In discussing church functions, members of the Association felt that the duties of members of church congregations as professing Christians were of as vital importance as the work and ministrations of the parson.

The meeting made further plans for the annual week of prayer to be held in January. More detailed arrangements will be made later.

Rev. J. C. Jackson, president of the Association, was in the chair at today's meeting

MONEY TO DOMINION

Stable Institutions and Opportunities for Profitable Investment Drawing Funds from Abroad

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Foreign capital is again turning to Canada as a haven of refuge, Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Canadian Minister of National Revenue, told the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

"Canada's geographical position, remote from the scene of war, her stable institutions, and the opportunities for profitable investment offered by her wide and varied resources, appear to be acting as a magnet for foreign capital," he said.

In the last few years Canada has repatriated a substantial volume of securities held abroad and this had added to the financial strength of the Dominion. This would be further reinforced "if new foreign capital comes to find, not a temporary refuge, but permanent investment in productive undertakings."

The minister emphasized the progressiveness and the stability of Canada and the adherence of Canadians to British institutions.

"Although they have lived beside this great republic for 150 years," he said, "they have a vivid consciousness of their relationship to a modest young man who lives much of his time in Buckingham Palace and Balmoral Castle.

"Whether it is because they respect him so deeply as a man or because he sums up in their minds those traditions and institutions which are close to their hearts, their emotional response to the appeal of the Crown is one of the basic realities of Canadian life."

DUKE OF WINDSOR TRIES NEW "ARROW GOLF"

A fine action picture of the Duke of Windsor playing the new game of "arrow-golf," the invention of Dr. Pichler-Mandorf, an Australian. The game features an arrow in the place of the golf ball. The arrow is thrown by a whip-like contrivance which the former King is shown wielding. So taken with the game was the former King that he ordered hundreds of sets.

ARMSTRONG IS WINNER

Al Manfred of San Francisco was Nothing More Than a Set-Up For Welterweight Champion

a third round technical knockout over Al Manfred of San Francisco, 146 pounds, here last night in the second defence within a few weeks of his world's welterweight crown. The end came in one minute and forty-five seconds of the third round. Manfred was wobbling and completely defenceless under Armstrong's terrific pace through the second and third rounds.

In another fight Lou Ambers, former title-holder, knocked out Freddie Wallace in the sixth round.

Tommy Farr and Maxie Baer are none too anxious to meet in the ring for a third time. Each boasts a victory over the other. Both figure a loss now would mean the end of consideration as a prospective opponent for Joe Louis.

Ford Frick, former newspaperman, was re-elected National Baseball League President for a three-year term at Chicago one year ago today. He succeeded John A. Heydler for one year in 1934 and at expiration of this term was given a two-year contract.

WARNING TO HUNTERS AND FISHERMEN

Each hunting season, through the careless handling of firearms, a number of people are seriously or fatally injured. The law protecting females of big game has been and is still in effect not only for the purpose of conservation, but also in order to prevent shooting at objects which the hunter does not clearly see. Fortunately this has greatly reduced these unfortunate accidents, although each year one or two hunters, generally through carelessness, are shot in mistake for Deer.

Hunters and fishermen have always been warned to be careful in setting fires, and to see that they are put out when breaking up camp, but notwithstanding this fact, a number of forest fires have been attributed to the carelessness of fishermen and hunters.

If sportsmen desire to have hunting and fishing, then every precaution should be taken to see that firearms are handled in a proper and careful manner, and that any camp-fires are extinguished.

EDEN AS BRITISH PREMIER

U.S. Trip Prelude To Bid For This High Office

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Captain Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, intends to study working conditions and housing projects in the United States on his forthcoming brief visit.

His plans inspired the belief that he wants first-hand knowledge of conditions in United States to help him perfect a three-point "new deal" which he has outlined in recent speeches, and which is generally considered a bid for ultimate leadership of the Conservative party and the Premiership. Eden's "New Deal" plans in main outline are:

1. A foreign policy based on respect for treaties.
2. Adequate re-armament.
3. Improvement in the standard of living of the common people.

Eden is due to arrive in New York this week. The primary reason for his trip is to make a speech on "Democracy and Modern Civilization" before the Congress of American Industry in New York on December 9.

Eden also will visit Washington where he hopes to see President Roosevelt. He also may make a speech at the National Press Club. Meanwhile Britain sees France emerging from an unsuccessful general strike as a potentially more powerful factor in stabilizing European peace.

Situation In France

The full effect of Premier Edouard Daladier's drastic use of military powers to minimize the strike of 5,000,000 workers called by the General Confederation of Labor remains to be determined. But the first reaction indicates a sharp upswing in the Premier's personal prestige and in the international influence of France.

Daladier announced plans for calling the Chamber of Deputies into session on December 8. He will face the hostile Left, secure in the belief that the country's favorable reaction to him during the strike crisis will prevent his overthrow and enable him to proceed unhampered with the recovery program. Daladier has now registered two important victories—at the Munich four-power conference he got what the French people wanted—peace—regardless of the terms. He counts heavily on that result to keep him in power in the face of troubles at home.

His second victory has come tentatively at least, on the home front. Failure of the general strike means that the Cabinet's three-year recovery program probably will be accepted by the people with some modifications and grumblings but with a determination to sacrifice certain social changes such as part of the 40-hour week law in order to revive national power.

If that program fully materializes, Daladier might easily become the most powerful French Premier since the World War.

WHERE 35 DIED IN SCOTTISH RAILWAY CATASTROPHE

Thirty-five persons died and 100 others suffered more or less serious injuries in the railway collision that left this pile of wreckage in its wake. The Edinburgh-Glasgow Express, rushing through a blinding snowstorm, crashed into a stationary passenger train at Castlegary in Stirlingshire, Scotland, creating the shambles. Railway cranes and wrecking crews are removing the splintered coaches from the line.

NEW RAIL LINE OPEN

Important Persons at Inaugural of Senneterre-Rouyn Branch

MONTREAL, Dec. 6.—Enterprise and efficiency of the Canadian National Railways in planning and building branch lines into the growing gold and copper fields of Western Quebec received warm tributes from government ministers and leaders of the mining industry when the Senneterre-Rouyn branch was inaugurated officially. The driving of the golden spike at Val d'Or, with Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, wielding a golden maul, signified the completion of the new line which terminates at the site of Noranda and traverses more than 100 miles over a rich mining field. At the throttle of the first official locomotive, at S. J. Hungerford, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways.

Speaking at Noranda during official ceremonies, Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, Ottawa, predicted that the completion of the railway would assist materially in the development of great wealth through the area.

Hon. Paul Leduc, minister of mines from Ontario, recalled that twenty years ago the area was without roads or railways. Now through the instrumentality of the railway, great progress has been recorded.

From Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, came further tribute. "The railways are the partners of new enterprise in Canada," he said. "Speaking for the government I can say that the government will support the advice of the railway management regarding building into new territories where the development of the country justifies such building."

Mr. Hungerford, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, asserted that he too might lay claim to being one of the pioneers because he had operated the first train to run into Rouyn at the opening of the first branch line, that from Taschereau on the main line of the National Transcontinental. "Naturally, I am immensely interested in the growth and development of this section and all sections of Canada and today I was greatly impressed by the evidences of growth and development which are so apparent from the railway. I think that this development is a positive inspiration. I do believe that there is no place in the world where, within an area of one hundred miles, there are so many good prospects and so many mines in actual production. I hope that you will feel that, as the first branch built twelve years ago was successful in its purpose, this new line will also serve to further aid in the development of this region of western Quebec. May I remind you that these branches to which I have been making reference are not the only lines of similar character which we have built. There was a similar situation in the West and the Canadian National built a line to the Flin Flon discovery, making possible the great Hudson Bay mining and smelting enterprise of today." "These lines specially built to aid the mining industry have been of great benefit and have unquestionably served the purpose for which they were planned. I am a great believer, in the principle of building up rather than tearing down. I believe that this principle should apply to our national economy."

Referring to the deficit of the Canadian National of which so much was heard and which gave such serious concern, Mr. Hungerford said that it should be remembered that the Canadian National Railways was born in bankruptcy at the time that the various railway lines comprising the property were put together. The present management had nothing to do with the creation of that underlying condition.

"We are the stewards of the owners of the property, the people of Canada. It is the policy of your directors and the management to carry on the enterprise efficiently and economically and also to build wherever and whenever it is clearly established that conditions fully justify such action."

ARMS AND STERLING

Continental Investors Said To Be Alarmed by Apparent Indifference

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The nightmareish weakness of the pound sterling in the last few weeks, not only against United States dollars, but against virtually all continental currencies, has dominated London gossip.

The city is attempting to decide whether the rise in sterling value that took place this week can be maintained and a few have been attempting to forecast the probable bottom level for the currency.

Sterling, after declining since the beginning of the month from $4.75 to $4.70, enjoyed one week of relative stability around the latter price, but in the past week began to slide at least one cent daily and reached new lows since 1933.

Perhaps the paramount theory for the drop of the sterling was the alarm felt on the continent due to seeming apathy in the British rearmament program.

One London financial commentator illustrates the theory with the story that one big French investor, who bought heavily of British securities following the Munich pact, recently visited London, saw half-dug trenches in London parks, sensed official listlessness and ordered his bank to sell British securities and buy American dollars.

Perhaps the most important factor has been Premier Chamberlain's refusal to establish a "supply" ministry on the grounds that it is a war-time device, whereas Britain is presently at peace. This is reported to have carried considerable weight in Switzerland where there has been active selling of sterling.

Another theory is that the British exchange control has taken heavy profits in its sales of gold and was willing to let sterling slide to a point where bear sellers would be forced to cover.

There has been some talk in London that the Bank of England must, in the near future, transfer a substantial block of gold to the exchange fund in order to bring it up to more formidable proportions. It is estimated that the fund's gold supply is presently no more than 400 millions. However, authorities are unmoved so far.

It's No Surprise That You're Constipated!

If constipation has you bowed down so you feel tired, sunk, all played out—it's time you asked yourself some questions!

What have you had to eat lately? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? It's no surprise you're constipated! The chances are you can't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and take a new lease on life! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Sold by every grocer.

Return of Mediterranean Territory Is Not Believed Real Italian Objective

LONDON, Dec. 6: (CP)—The belief is growing here that the Italian government has no intention of pursuing the demand for Tunis, Corsica or Nice out that this campaign is being used to pave the way for other demands the nature of which appear to be more or less uncertain at this time.

It was said in well informed international quarters yesterday that Chancellor Adolf Hitler was not disposed to back up Italy in territorial demands.

THERE'S NO JEWISH-ARAB STRIFE HERE

Despite the friction between Jewish and Arab factions in the Holy Land, there was nothing but the utmost friendliness and cordiality at the recent 84th luncheon of Foyles at Grosvenor House, London, when leading Arabs and Jews sat down to eat at the same table. Here you see the Arabian minister to England, Sheik Hafiz Wahba, left, shaking hands with Sir Ronald Storrs, chairman of the luncheon and leader in English Jewish affairs, at the luncheon.

At Seal Cove . . .

Moore, regent of Hill 60 Chapter, were visitors to the Hill 60 Girl Guide troop of Seal Cove last Monday evening. Great satisfaction was expressed by the visitors in the membership discipline and work of the troop.

The Anglican Young Peoples' Association had as its guest speaker last Thursday Rev. Canon W. P. Rushbrook who gave a most interesting talk on the "Education of the Indian Boy and Girl." The president of the organization, Teddy Moore, gave Canon Rushbrook a welcome.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Peter's Anglican Church was held at the home of Mrs. Reginald Kelsey last Thursday when the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. A. J. Moorehouse. Vice-President, Mrs. A. J. Croxford. Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. J. G. Viereck.

Dorcas representatives—Mrs. A. Sarbe and Mrs. H. Henderson. A splendid year's work was reported.

The Canadian Legion Scout Troop was visited by the chairman of the troop committee, Malcolm Lamb. W. H. Brown, H. A. Breen, J. A. Boddie and W. O. Vigar have promised to keep in touch with the troop's progress here. Mr. Lamb was pleased with the enthusiasm shown by both leaders and troop members.

Three of the First Prince Rupert Boy Scouts visited the Legion Troop scout master and received their passes in the Semaphore tests on Saturday. The test included the sending and receiving of messages at the rate of twenty words a minute. The boys were Ray Aves, Harold Norden and Howard Hougan. Valuable assistance was given by the Legion.

Pearson To Be Named To Public Utility Body

VICTORIA, Dec. 6—As the government approaches the appointment of a public utility commission—the most important appointments in recent years—the name of Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, is most prominent among those mentioned for membership.

No politician, Mr. Pearson is said to be willing to retire from politics and accept a post for which he is equipped by wide experience in business and a record of administrative success in the government probably unsurpassed in the history of provincial politics.

His appointment is urged because he would be acceptable to businessmen as a business man and to labor because he has been the champion of the working people in the Legislature and the government.

If he were appointed it would necessitate a by-election in his constituency of Nanaimo. The commission will consist of three men, headed by Dr. W. A. Carrothers. For the third post, it is believed the government will seek an engineer, since engineering questions enter largely into Public Utility Control.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

To purchase materials for public works in their village as well as Christmas goods, five boats from Greenville on the Naas River arrived in port late last night and weather permitting, will leave tomorrow on their return home. This will be the last trip that Greenville boats will probably be able to make to town before spring. Those in the party are Henry McKay, Joshua McKay, Samuel Tait, Peter Calder, Sam Gray, Simon Calder, Alex Angus, Charles Leeson and James Angus.

Union steamer Catala, Capt. Ernest Sheppard, arrived in port at 15 noon today from Stewart, Annapolis and other northern points and sailed at 1:30 p.m. for Vancouver at waypoints.
