REPLY IS RECEIVED

But London Is Not Satisfied With What Franco Said to Protest

More Bombing

Insurgents Continue Their Advance Towards Port of Valencia

LONDON, July 5: (CP)—The British government has received a reply from General Francisco Franco, commander-in-chief of the Spanish insurgents, to the latest protest against continued sinking of British ships in Spanish waters. Prime Minister J. Neville Chamberlain says it is not satisfactory. General Franco says that insurgent bombing planes fly so high they could not possibly aim direct on British ships. Loyalist ports Franco considers legitimate general objectives and there is no intention of singling out British ships. The offer of General Franco to make Ilmeira a neutral port for British shipping and trading with the Spanish government was disclosed in the House of Commons yesterday. Sir John Simon said that the Foreign Office was discussing the proposal. War supplies would be barred under Franco's proposals. Three loyalist cities were bombed almost simultaneously yesterday by Spanish insurgent planes. The hardest hit was Alicante where fifty high explosive and forty incendiary missiles were dropped. There was also an attack on one of the suburbs of Barcelona. At Valencia the insurgent bombers were driven off by anti-aircraft fire. The rebels continue their advance on the eastern front near Teruel in the drive to cut off the highway to Valencia. By use of airplanes and tanks to assist the infantry and artillery, three more villages have been captured. The casualty list is high. Today the insurgents reported they had shattered government lines below the important Teruel-Mediterranean highway in Sarrion sector, putting militiamen to full flight. A thousand government troops are in danger of being trapped.

Sergeant Robert Gibson Succumbs This Morning To Wounds of Revolver

Inquest Into Slaying of Inspector Service Under Way—Further Details of Unfortunate Affair Yesterday Afternoon Are Revealed

Third victim of the shocking shooting tragedy yesterday afternoon in which Inspector W. J. Service was killed in his office at divisional headquarters of the provincial police by Mike Gurvich who was later slain in a gun fight with police officers at the Royal Hotel, Sergeant Robert Gibson passed away at 4:15 this morning at the Prince Rupert General Hospital. Shot through the back of the head, Sergeant Gibson never regained consciousness. He was removed to the hospital where he was immediately operated upon for removal of pressure. From the outset, his condition was so serious and the injuries so grave that little hope was held for his recovery. Despite all that could be done for him in the way of skilled medical attention and nursing care, he gradually sank until the end. After Gurvich had fired a bullet into the back of the head and neck of Inspector Service, he then turned the weapon on Sergeant Gibson and, after having dropped both the officers, made off. Service and Gibson had been conversing in the public portion of the divisional office as Gurvich entered, Gibson being seated at his typewriter. What, if anything, Gurvich said at the time may never be known. Constable D. W. Taylor, having heard the shots, crossed the corridor from district office and believed he saw Gurvich running off. He had seen him enter. Too late to intercept Gurvich, Taylor telephoned the city police office up-town, informing the officers there of the tragedy. Constable G. H. Clarke and Constable Terry Stewart immediately left the station for the court house to endeavour to head Gurvich off as he would come up Third Avenue. The first car they hailed was Gurvich himself but he did not stop, shouting "To Hell with you." The officers took the next taxi to come up. Joined by Corp. Raybone, they went to Gurvich's taxi office. It was from there that they saw Gurvich in the middle of Sixth Street with his revolver. Gurvich fired at Raybone and Raybone fired back through the back window of the automobile. Then Gurvich retreated into the beer parlor saying as he went: "I've killed two of you already and I'll get anybody else that comes near me." The officers moved up to the beer parlor and, as Gurvich, shaking visibly and standing on a bench after gulping a couple of glasses of beer, fired again, Raybone and Clarke both fired and he fell. He had been shot through the forehead by Clarke who stood in the doorway entrance. Both Raybone and Clarke had fired in through a window, shattering glass hitting spectators. The car used by the police officers in pursuing Gurvich was a taxi driven by Frank Walls. At the divisional headquarters Gibson is thought to have moved to disarm Gurvich after he had shot Service. Gibson was shot in the back of the head. Reloaded Weapon Gurvich used a 38-calibre five-chamber revolver. He is believed to have reloaded between the time of his visit at divisional headquarters and the time he was caught up with by the officers at the beer parlor seven blocks away. Less than an hour before the tragedy.

THOUGHT OF HIS CROWD

First Concern of Cecil Steele Was to Clear People From Burning Theatre

BURNS LAKE, July 5: (Special to Daily News)—Cecil Steele, operator of the moving picture in the Community Hall here which was destroyed by fire last Thursday evening during a show, might have been able to extinguish the fire, which broke out in the projection room as a result of the breaking of a film, had he not first taken the precaution of getting the people out of the hall. Thus he lost control of the fire, suffering burns about the hands and the severe personal loss of over $1000 worth of equipment and two thousand feet of film. The community hall was only a few years old and was a big asset to the town. Some insurance was carried.

JAPANESE MOVING ON

Resume Advance Up Yangtze River After Temporary Interruption—Another Big Air Battle

SHANGHAI, July 5: (CP)—The Japanese vanguard had battled to within seven miles of Hukow on the Yangtze River yesterday and today announced capture of the city. Hukow, 160 miles from Hankow and principal barrier to the Japanese advance, is up the river from Matowchen where one hundred Nipponese warships are being held by a submerged boom. The Japanese have established positions for another major effort to reach Hankow, provisional Chinese capital. The Chinese said that the Japanese had captured Pengtseh on the south bank near Matowchen but a counter attack had cut off communications, isolating the Japanese there. The Japanese advance up the Yangtze was resumed yesterday after having been temporarily halted on Sunday when the Chinese won back territory in swamp land. There has been extensive use of aircraft on both sides with heavy casualties and conflicting reports as to the results. In what appears to have been another great air battle yesterday, the Japanese claimed having brought down forty-five to fifty Chinese planes with loss of only one themselves. The Chinese, on the other hand, claim to have brought down several Nipponese ships with little loss to themselves.

Final Appearance as Leader of Opposition—Clashes with Premier On Last Day

OTTAWA, July 5: (CP)—Before the prorogation of Parliament on Friday, Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King and others expressed appreciation of the services of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett as Leader of the Opposition and Premier. The remarks were made in view of the fact that it probably marked Mr. Bennett's final appearance as Leader of the Opposition. Earlier in the day Premier King and Mr. Bennett matched words over the reported desire of the British government to establish Royal Air Force training schools in Canada. Mr. King said that no such request had been received. He also expressed the view that the government should not permit any military forces being stationed in Canada under control of other than the Canadian government. The House prorogued fifteen hours later than the goal which had been set by members earlier in the week. The Governor General waited until Thursday night to officiate at prorogation but, when it was found impossible for the session to end in time, he left for Quebec from which port he sailed on Friday for a trip to England.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

We are all well used to reading of war and other tragedies elsewhere but the tragedy of yesterday in Prince Rupert brings home to us all what tragedy really means. In a place that has been unusually free from such troubles, it came yesterday as a terrible shock when reports of the shooting began to get around. It was difficult to believe its truth but, unfortunately, it proved to be only too true. This paper was held back in order that readers might get the details in their regular edition.

To Mrs. Service and Mrs. Gibson and their sorely bereaved families the Daily News joins in extending deep sympathy in this tragic hour. An ex-service man, Inspector Service was widely known throughout the province as an efficient and fearless police officer. That ability had within the past few weeks won recognition in his appointment to the important post of inspector of police here. In the prime of life, he was regarded as a man who would have gone far in police work had his career not been so ruthlessly and tragically cut off. Inspector Service will be mourned throughout the whole north. The most of his career had been in this part of the country. His many personal friends will find it difficult indeed to believe that "Bill" Service is gone.

Sergeant Gibson was also possessed of fine and sterling qualities. Unassuming and quiet in demeanour, he was, nevertheless, known as an efficient officer and a fine man. His work had also won him promotion and he held an important key position in police administration. He too was a returned man. Like Inspector Service the most of his police career had been in the north.

Inspector Service and Sergeant Gibson were both men of a type that the British Columbia police could ill afford to lose.

NATIONAL POLICY

As a national policy the Mackenzie King government lays it down that no country other than Canada can maintain a military unit in Canada. It is a long-established constitutional principle, Mr. King says, that in Canada there can be no military establishments except such as are owned, maintained and controlled by the Canadian government responsible to the Canadian people.

The Conservative policy, as enunciated by the leader of the party, Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, takes exception to this policy and declares that the Liberals were wrong if they denied Britain the right to raise and train flying corps in the Dominion. While denying that any application had been made or refused, the head of the Canadian government sticks to the policy which would prevent any other country, whether a member of the British Empire or not, from maintaining any military establishment in the Dominion.

We do not think the controversy is very important but it is an indication of the lines of thought in Canada today. While evidently there is every desire on the part of Canada to co-operate with the mother country or with other Empire countries, that is no reason for taking a retrograde step because we are all a little excited over the possibility of being forced into war. Canada already is sending one hundred and twenty airmen to augment the imperial force each year and is still training men for that purpose.

The C.C.F., at its recent Kamloops convention, went on record as being opposed to Canada taking part in what it called imperialistic wars, which, evidently, was intended to indicate that it did not trust British leadership in the matter of peace and war.

TERRACE HOLIDAY

Excellent Dominion Day Spent by Local People at Interior Town

TERRACE, July 5:—Dominion Day passed off successfully in Terrace. The weather was cloudless. If there was any fault to record it was rather too hot, especially for the tennis players on the new court by the railway station. Terrace lost in a tournament to Prince Rupert.

There was a baseball game in the new park and sports for the children.

The excursion train from Prince Rupert arrived at 11 a.m. bringing upwards of 400 holiday makers among them the Leslie family with their pipe band. This band formed fours as soon as the train stopped and marched piping towards the main street of the village, followed by an excited crowd of youngsters, also in fours, though it must be admitted their formation lacked something of military precision. The touch of color presented by the highland uniforms must have appealed to the graying veterans who were observed among the on-lookers.

The Oddfellows threw their hall open for dancing early in the evening. A large number enjoyed themselves with the help of Mrs. Black, pianist, and Guido Busanich, with his saxophone. These accomplished musicians were much appreciated.

The excursion train left about half past ten after which the Terrace crowd continued to dance until daylight on Saturday.

The day was a great treat to everyone.

Terrace had been looking forward to the coming of the visitors from the coast who were extended a hearty if not formal welcome. Prince Rupert people found that they were expected to enjoy the holiday as they wished and enjoy it they did.

SPORTS AT SMITHERS

RUPERT IS VICTORIOUS

Won Second of Baseball Games At Ketchikan Yesterday by Score Of 5 to 3

In the second game of the Independence Day baseball series at Ketchikan yesterday, Prince Rupert defeated Ketchikan by a score of 5 to 3. At the end of the sixth inning the score was tied one all. Then Prince Rupert staged a four run rally to cinch the verdict, Ketchikan being able to garner only two more. Features of the game included a fine catch by Simundsen with two on bases, heavy hitting by Johnny Comadina and steady hurling by Bill Lambie.

The local team left Ketchikan for home on the Pachena at 9 o'clock last night and was back at 7:45 a.m. today. The trip was an enjoyable one and every hospitality was accorded at the Alaska town. A big celebration program included field and water sports.

J. H. McLeod, collector of customs, and son, who went north with the party, will return home on the Princess Louise tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Peter Byrne, Miss Lillian Johnson and Miss Annie Byrne, who had been visiting at Hyder and Ketchikan, returned home with the baseball team this morning.

Young Boys On Prince Charles

Trio of Small Lads Travel From Vancouver to Queen Charlotte Islands

QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY, July 5:—Three interesting young passengers came north from Vancouver on the Prince Charles this week to Queen Charlotte Island points in the persons of Godfrey Lyman, age 6, Melville Mendum and Jimmy Tomlinson, both age eight. The boys travelled alone.

Godfrey disembarked at Thurston Harbor and will spend the summer holidays with his parents who reside there.

Melville and Jimmy disembarked at Queen Charlotte City and were met by Mrs. Gordon H. Jolliffe with whom they will stay until early fall. Both boys are from Bamberton.

The boys proved excellent sailors and their description of the 500 mile trip—the sea lions and whales logging camps and canneries—suggested that very little escaped their observation.

They had great admiration for the ships' officers, particularly the chief steward whose kind attention registered well with the youthful passengers.

SERGEANT ROBERT GIBSON SUCCUMBS THIS MORNING

edy, he had purchased shells in a hardware store.

After having been served with the summons earlier in the morning for trespassing at the C.N.R. wharf Gurvich consulted with a lawyer regarding his defense. There was no indication at that time that he was contemplating a rash act. Gurvich had been at one time in mental hospital several years ago.

An inquest opened last night on Inspector Service and, after viewing the body, adjournment until this afternoon. The inquest is being conducted by Deputy Coroner A. J. Lancaster and the jury consists of George Hill, foreman, J. H. Macey, R. W. Cameron, Fred Cameron, W. J. McCutcheon and H. A. Duhamel.

Inquests in connection with the deaths of Sergeant Gibson and Gurvich will also be held. The funeral of Inspector Service is expected to take place at Kamloops. His brother, Constable Sam Service of Chemainus, Vancouver Island, will arrive here tomorrow on the Prince George which picked him up early this morning at Campbell River after he had motored up the Island to that point.

Details of Shooting

Gurvich is believed to have shot Service and Gibson from a distance of about six feet. They fell in opposite directions with feet almost touching.

The bullet which instantly killed the inspector entered at the base of the skull and is believed to have struck the upper part of the spinal column.

Gibson was shot from one side of the back of the head and the bullet evidently entered the back of the brain.

Gurvich, shot from a distance of possibly eight feet through a door window from an angle, was struck square in the forehead, possibly a little to the right. The bullet went right through the brain, shattered the bone at the back of the head and spent itself without going right through.

A check-up is being made on Gurvich's gun to ascertain if it was registered.

Fine Records

Both Inspector Service and Sergeant Gibson had fine records in police work and the most of their careers had been in Northern British Columbia.

Inspector Service started out twenty years ago as constable in interior and had seen service at Smithers, Prince George and other interior points. He served overseas in the Great War in France, going over with the 62nd Battalion. He was widely known as a able and fearless officer and promotion came rapidly, especially in recent years.

Former city chief here, he had been at Kamloops as district chief for the past few years. Only recently he had been promoted to the position of inspector here. The inspector is survived by his widow and five daughters. He was a native of Ireland.

Sergeant Gibson was also an efficient and competent officer, specializing in office work. For years he had been stationed at Port Essington before coming to Prince Rupert some years ago. At the time of his death, he was divisional clerk. He too was a returned man. He is survived by a widow and son and daughter. He has a brother, John Gibson, here. Sergeant Gibson was born in Scotland.

Both Inspector Service and Sergeant Gibson were members of the Masonic order.

Inspector Shirass Coming

Inspector John Shirass is due to arrive here on Thursday from Kamloops to direct the investigation into the tragedy. The inquests were adjourned from this afternoon until next Monday.

Constable Gordon Daniels is acting divisional clerk following the death of Sergeant Gibson.

The remains of Inspector Service will be forwarded to Kamloops tomorrow night by train following a funeral service here.

Girl of 19 Accused of Bad Complexion

(Before Mr. Justice Kruschen)

JUDGE: Jane Smith, you have had a fair trial and you have been found guilty of the charge made against you. PRISONER: Y-y-yes, my lord.

JUDGE: Very well, then. Your crime may not have been deliberate, but it was one of serious neglect. You admit that though you do not get enough time for adequate open-air exercise you have never troubled to take steps to prevent constipation. Your complexion inevitably suffered. PRISONER: I said that constipation inevitably causes bad complexion; your client admits to the cause and plainly suffers from the effect.

JUDGE: I can't help it, my lord. I couldn't help it.

JUDGE: You could help it and you should help it. This is the first time a charge has been made against you; let it be a lesson to you that young women may not neglect and spoil the good looks that Nature gave them. Your duty to your parents, to your friends, to your future husband is to make the most you possibly can of yourself.

(Here the prisoner covered her face with her handkerchief and was handed a glass of water.)

JUDGE: (continuing): You will be placed on probation for 3 months and I order that you drink one cup of coffee or tea, or a glass of water at breakfast every morning—

PRISONER: But I always do!

JUDGE: (sternly): Don't interrupt! One cup of coffee or tea or a glass of water every morning into which you shall put as much Kruschen Salts as will lie on a 10c piece. You will get rid of constipation and when you do you will never find yourself in your present predicament again.

JUDGE: After consultation with counsel, the judge announced that costs to the extent of less than 1c a day should be borne by the defence. "I believe I am right in saying," said his lordship, "that a 75c bottle of Kruschen contains 96 doses. That is much less than 1c a day." The prisoner left the court smiling.

KRUSCHEN SALTS

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Fire Hall Gardens Are Latest Addition To Civic Centre Plan For Beautification Of Community

Park and Garden Area Now Extends From Salvation Army Citadel to Fourth Avenue Lookout With Eleven Totems

One of the most important improvements in the city of recent years is the laying out of the three civic gardens, one at the City Hall and police station, a second in the Totem Park on Fraser Street and the third and, possibly the most important of all, the new fire department gardens connecting the other two and making practically one continuous garden or park from the Salvation Army citadel to the lookout point at the end of Fourth Avenue.

The civic garden development commenced some years ago when a garden was established in front of and around the police station. Prisoners were allowed the privilege of helping improve this and gradually it assumed shape as a definite garden project. Under the present police head the work has made great strides, Staff Sergeant Greenwood taking great personal interest in it and giving it every encouragement.

City Commissioner Alder undertook the setting up of the totem poles in the park on Fraser Street. These poles were donated by prominent natives on Queen Charlotte Islands and the city paid the Indians for removing them and loading them on the steamer. The Canadian National Steamship Company provided free transportation and the poles were painted and set up under direction of the city engineer and William Beynon, great care being taken that the original colors be adhered to in the decorative scheme. This year an artistic pond and fountain has been added and the whole park is kept nicely trimmed.

There are now eleven totems in this garden area and they have been characterized by authorities as the finest collection gathered in one place on the American continent. They are the great attraction to the tourists who come to the city, ranking ahead even of the flowers in drawing power. They are visited by most of the people who come to the city on pleasure bent and many thousands of photographs of them are taken and carried away each year.

The Fire Hall gardens, initiated this year under Fire Chief H. T. Lock, come as a fitting climax to an excellent movement. The gardens have been artistically laid out with rockeries and planted with flowers which should give good results this season. Even the slope leading off toward Fraser Street has been partly terraced and is a great improvement. When completed this will be a splendid addition to the gardens of the city and already an excellent showing has been made.

It is pointed out that, while the police staff have help from the prisoners in their work, the firemen do the work themselves. Great credit is due them for the fine work they have done. They have definitely lined themselves up with the civic improvement movement which seems to be spreading each year.

WHIFFLETS

Union steamer Catala, Capt. James Findlay, arrived in port at 2 o'clock this afternoon from her regular voyage to Stewart, Anyox and other northern points and sailed thereafter for Vancouver and waypoints. On the way from the north the Catala called at Big Bay and Inverness. To have certain mechanical work carried out, it is announced that the next sailing of the Catala is being cancelled. Consequently, there will be no boat arriving next Sunday evening from the south or sailing a week from this afternoon for Vancouver.

No boats being in with catches, there was no sale of halibut on the local Fish Exchange this morning.

HE SHUNNED LIMELIGHT

Frederick William Was Less Prominent Member of Vanderbilt Family

NEW YORK, July 5: (CP)—Although he followed in the footsteps of his father and two older brothers in the railroad business, Frederick William Vanderbilt, who died last week, did not attain the high positions in the Vanderbilt system which they reached nor did he attract as much public attention.

Like the members of his family who preceded him, he was thoroughly grounded in the science of railroading, having gained his knowledge through practical experience in the various departments of the extensive railroad system which the Vanderbilt family controlled.

Equipped by education and training, Mr. Vanderbilt perhaps could have achieved accomplishments in the railroad business as important as those linked with the names of his father and brothers, Cornelius and William K. but he differed from them in that he was extremely modest and unassuming in his demeanor and mode of living and showed a preference for home life and travel to an aggressive business career.

Mr. Vanderbilt, the third son of the late William Henry Vanderbilt and Maria Louisa Kissam Vanderbilt, was born in 1855. Early in life he evinced a strong inclination for study and literature and, after completing his academic education, entered Yale where he was graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School in 1878.

Practical Education

As was the custom with the male members of the Vanderbilt family, Frederick set about to acquire a business education in a practical way and entered the offices of his father's railroad system. He went from one department to another, working in a humble capacity in each, until he had mastered the general details of the entire railroad business. Heads of the various departments praised him highly for his studious application to his work and his willingness to submit to the rules and regulations of the various offices.

After several active years in railroading, during which he had become interested as a director in numerous roads, Mr. Vanderbilt gradually lessened the amount of time he devoted to business until he occupied himself almost entirely in world travel or in the enjoyment of his homes in New York City, Newport and Hyde Park on the Hudson where he had a large estate.

An enthusiastic yachtsman, Mr. Vanderbilt always owned a luxurious boat and it was aboard this that he made most of his trips to various parts of the world. For several years he sailed the Conqueror which was built in 1889. His next was the Warrior which is said to have cost $500,000. On one of the Warrior's trips in January, 1914, the yacht ran on a coral reef off the coast of Colombia and for a time it was feared would be a total loss.

On that trip Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt had as guests the Duke and Duchess of Manchester and Lord Falconer. All were taken off by a steamer of the United Fruit Company, none the worse for their experience.

In later years, Mr. Vanderbilt owned the Vedette, which is said to have cost half a million dollars and as much more to furnish and equip. This boat sank while tied up off Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Vanderbilt took an active interest in the contests for the America's Cup and was one of the syndicate that built the Colonia, which was designed as a cup defender.

In 1880 Mr. Vanderbilt married Mrs. Alfred Torrence, who was
