Violence And Damage When Public Buildings Are Cleared By Force

Tear Gas Released and Riot Sticks Swing—Cracked Skulls and Limbs-Plate Glass Windows Shattered by Score in Disorderly Retreat

VANCOUVER, June 20: (CP)—The sitdown occupation of the Post Office lobby and Art Gallery here; which had lasted for a month was ended by the police' yesterday with tear gas and riot sticks. The men were put out forcibly after they refused to leave voluntarily. One policeman suffered a possible fractured skull and ana possible fractured leg. Scores of unemployed were treated in hospital, one with a possible fractured leg. Others suffered from MENNONITES tear gas and varied injuries.

Thirteen plate glass windows and most of the wickets were smashed in the Post Office.

As the men ran along Cordova, and Hastings Street after the ejection they broke scores of windows; in downtown business houses. The damage amounted to many thousands of dollars, estimated variously at from $50,000 to $200,000.

Abandonments Under Unification Plan

The heavy black lines on the above map show the railway lines that would be scrapped in British Columbia under the line abandonment program submitted recently to the Senate Committee at Ottawa by the Canadian Pacific Railway in presenting its case for unification of the railways. Under the C.P.R. plan 192 miles of C.N.R. line and 168 miles of C.P.R. line would be discarded in British Columbia, a total of 360 miles of railway. The unification proposal calls for the discarding of 2,216 miles of the C.N.R.'s main lines and 1,042 miles of the C.N.R's branch lines; 744 miles of the C.P.R.'s main lines and 961 miles of the C.P.R.'s branch lines throughout canada. The line abandonment program was first submitted by the C.P.R. to the Duff Commission in 1932 but was kept secret until presented to the Senate Committee at the present hearing.

Fifty Feared Dead As Result Of Terrible Train Wreck In State Of Montana On Sunday

MILES CITY, Montana, June 20.—Twenty-nine bodies had been recovered from rain-swollen waters of Custer Creek yesterday where the Olympian, crack Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Transcontinental Flyer, crashed through a washed-out bridge twenty miles east of here, and it was feared at least fifty might have perished. Records of Conductor Chris C. McGeen indicated more passengers still were missing. Railroad officials believed that passengers who were in the four forward passenger cars were trapped.

The Olympian left Chicago Friday night, bound for the Pacific Coast by way of Minniapolis. It was climbing the Yellowstone River Falls, a few miles east of her, when it ran through the washed out bridge.

Sixty-five men, women and children passengers injured in varying degrees were brought to a hospital here by ambulances.

Kitwanga Native Brotherhood Asks Better Treatment

KITWANGA, June 20:-The Kitwanga branch of the Native Brctherhood of British Columbia has decided to remind the Skeena River salmon canners of promises said to have been made by the canners in 1933 during the strike of that year that the canners would consult with the Indians in regard to any changes made, that good accomodation would be provided that the natives would have first choice in fishing equipment and that a bonus of $20 per boat each season would be paid. If the canners fail to fulfill these promises it is suggested here that the fisheries authorities be asked to close the Skeena area. The local Brotherhood is dissatisfied with the move to reduce prices this season also with the high prices charged for nets and high prices for gasboat rents and other charges.
